THE MORE TERRIFYING THE BETTER

Calculated to frighten children into eating their spinach, or bar patrons into drinking milk, are the new masquerade make-up styles now popular in Paris, France. The top model is called the "Oiseau Sorcier" or witch-bird. A milder apparition, above, is the "bird fire" design. Parisiennes find dreaming up new designs lots of fun.

Went Partially Color-Blinded
In Dream House—No Wonder!

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Department store decorator Phyl Morley said she went partially color blind planning her latest dream-house display.

She combined such colors as azure blue, avocado green, red, black, lilac and white—all in one room. The effect, striking to say the least, gave flair and verve to the whole house.

"Strong colors really face-lift old houses as well as brighten up new ones," Mrs. Morley said, "they are a tonic for houses which need a little livening up."

The house, a riot of color from the living room-dining room and kitchen through to three bedrooms and two baths, is currently on display at a downtown department store here.

In her decoration scheme Mrs. Morley wanted to illustrate two themes: What can be done inexpensively by use of do-it-yourself unpainted furniture, finished in gay colors.

A big red sofa is used as a divider between the living-dining areas. Foam white walls form a dramatic backdrop for avocado green carpeted floor, scattered tables in several shades, and upholstered chairs in blue and lilac.

The television set has a lilac cabinet with varicolored cushions heaped on the floor beside it for easy viewing.

At the other end of the room two black couches placed at 90-degree angles form a cozy corner.

Another deft touch is supplied by three small square coffee tables.

Decorator Morley arranged them side by side in front of the red couch, contrasting in white, blue and lilac.

The dining area boasts a buffet and dining set for six, painted lilac, placed beside a window which covers an entire wall. A pierced brass hanging light centred above the dining table can be either pulled down, or shifted to left or right.

Two outstanding features of the kitchen are a central pillar used as a utensil hanger and gaily painted steel cupboard units which can be bolted on any wall.

The kitchen floor is covered with gold-flecked red linoleum and the walls are foam white. The steel cupboards can be bought in any color or combination.

The main bathroom has pale jade green sliding glass doors in front of the bathtub and an ornamental Venetian type mirror, framed in metal, over the sink.

The master bedroom combines all the basic colors of the house in one room. Walls are azure blue, carpets avocado green and carpets deep blue. A bookcase extends

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU CAN DO IT IF YOU GO GO ABOUT IT THE RIGHT WAY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am a Spanish-speaking young man, and have been dating an English girl for almost four years. I am 24 years old and she is 23.

We are very much in love and want to get married. I am in the army and could support her. We have talked everything over, but we still are worried over the problem of our racial difference because, as you know, there is so much racial prejudice. So I would like to ask you these questions:

Do you think we could make a go of it? Do you think our children would be accepted? Will we be accepted?

Do you? — G.M.

Dear G.M.:

One of the most encouraging things about your problem is that you are taking a realistic and intelligent attitude toward it. No doubt your girl is equally realistic and intelligent, although it does sometimes happen that a girl in love brushes problems aside more easily than a young man may do. In other words, a woman in love sometimes thinks the heart can make a decision by itself, whereas there definitely are situations, such as yours, where the head must join the heart in making the decision.

My belief is, however, that the combination of heart and head is a pretty unbeatable one, and therefore I think that, if both of you see this combination, there is no reason why you shouldn't have a happy and successful marriage—or, as you put it, "Make a go of it."

You say nothing about whether or not you two share the same religious faith. If you do, of course the problem is not as complicated as it would be otherwise. Even if you do not, however, as I look at it, it need not set up an impassable barrier, for this type of problem is being worked out successfully every day between young people who want to marry. But here, again, success depends upon both heart and head working together to solve the inevitable problems.

As for whether or not you and your children would be "accepted," I think you could work this out too. There are places where racial prejudice is high, and other places where it barely exists at all, and you should give some very careful thought to choosing the right place to live after you were married.

To sum it all up, I do believe that you could "make a go of it" if you realized fully, in advance, what problems you would be likely to meet, and then come to a definite agreement upon how you would meet them—and if you have full confidence that each of you would live up to the agreement.

I hope you feel that what I have said will help you in making your decision, and I would like very much to hear from you again when you have arrived at one.

Good luck to you!

BEAUTY

SHOWER vs. TUB

When heat and humidity get you down is your first thought of a cooling shower?

It's not a bad idea, of course, and most women shower frequently during the summer months. But, in so doing, they often pass up the tub bath which can be much more relaxing, giving a feeling of well-being which is highly important in starving off that lethargic feeling which accompanies high temperatures.

A 10-minute quickie in the morning, especially if you use your favorite bath salts, will pep you up for hours. Don't make the morning tub too hot a one, however, for, depending on your system, it may either enervate or overstimulate you—in either case, defeating its purpose.

If you have all the time in the world, treat yourself to a truly pampering tub bath. Actually, you should at least once or twice a week for the boost to morale it gives. A bubble bath really does the job! Pour in your bubbling fragrance and then goot all set for an hour of delight. If your hair is stringy, take five minutes to pin up your tresses in cologne. It's a quick set idea that really works, and a half hour later you'll have pretty curls as well as fragrant hair.

Before jumping in the tub, cream your face, also—for the dual purpose of cleansing and lubrication. Then, into the tub of frothy bubbles that seem to soak weariness right out of your muscles. Stretch out full length and relax right down to the toes. If you're the type who can't stay still, lean against a back rest and catch up on your reading. Relax at least half an hour before starting your scrubbing. Then, after a thorough rinsing, pat yourself dry with a soft towel. Remove your facial cleansing cream with tissues and put on a cool astringent—a skin freshener. Now splash on your fragrant cologne for tipsy-to-loveliness. Finish by dusting with talcum powder and you're all set—to laugh at heat waves!

QUESTION:

... could you please tell me where one can get arrowroot, as recommended by you as the thickening agent for making glazed strawberry pie.—D. G. D.

ANSWER:

I buy arrowroot at the largest drug store in our city. If you cannot buy it in a large drug store in your city write to me again and I will look after purchasing it for you.

QUESTION:

Some time ago you had a recipe for punch for 50 for a wedding. I would you please send it to me and also how much turkey, cold potatoes for salad, cabbage for salad and jello powder for jello salad.—Mrs. G. R. McL.

ANSWER:

I have mailed you the recipe for punch which appeared here July 6. You can increase amounts 2-1-2 or 3 times to serve 50. Two 25-lb. turkeys weighed undrawn and with head and feet on will serve 60 people adequately when dressed and stuffed and roasted. These should be roasted at 325 deg. Fahr. for 4-1-2 to 5 hours. I would advise using 2 25-lb. birds even though you have only 50 guests. Eight quarts potatoes (40 cups when cooked and diced) mixed with 8 cups finely chopped celery, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 cup chopped parsley, 1 cup chopped chives and about 1-2 cups mayonnaise will serve 50. Nine quarts finely shredded cabbage will allow a little less than 1 cup servings for each of 50 people. Since 1 package jello serves 4, I think when salad additions are made to it 10 packages would be ample.

QUESTION:

Hope you had a nice time in England. I have you ever tried using evaporated milk for scalloped potatoes? Use diluted milk and half water and you will have no trouble with curdling. Undiluted evaporated milk and process Canadian cheese heated over slow burner make a wonderful cheese sauce. Everyone raves about the meringue on my pies. I use 2 tablespoons of cold water, a dash of salt and 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar to egg whites. Beat with wire whip or fork. It will be a total flip if beaten with an electric mixer or rotary beater. I don't ask me why. I gives almost double amount of meringue from 2 egg whites and will be very tender. A diet-tian friend says cause of angel food and other cakes of this type falling from the pans is because the pans have been washed in soapy water. Never use soap. Use a good detergent in hot water. Do you have a recipe for parfait pie, using ice cream? I have a wonderful recipe for a cake using the egg yolks from making angel food which I will send if you are interested, also recipes for desserts for a diet without fats of any kind. Keep up the good work you are doing. It's tops in my book.—M. B.

ANSWER:

Let's form a mutual admiration society M. B. Your kind of sharing is top in my book too. Thank you. The following recipe appeared here June 21 of this year.

PARFAIT PIE

(With variations)

Parfait. Filling.—One package lemon-flavored packaged jelly dessert (or lime if you use pineapple—see below), 1-4 cups hot water, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, 1-2 cups sliced fresh strawberries (you may use semi-frozen frozen). Dissolve gelatin as directed on package, add lemon juice, chill until thickening begins. Add ice cream and drained berries. Chill until firm, after stirring to break up the sliced ice cream. Top with whipped cream.

VARIATIONS:

Substitute fresh or frozen thawed blueberries for strawberries (above) or use lime jelly and 1-2 cups drained cubed canned pineapple instead of strawberries. Do please send along the fat-free recipes.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

QUESTIONS ABOUT WEDDING PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are to be married—rather soon, in the small chapel of my church. Although the wedding will be small, we will have a large reception in the ballroom of an exclusive club here (through the courtesy of my godmother, who belongs to the club) and all plans will be for a formal wedding dress, white tulle, floor-length, with a shoulder-length tulle veil. The groom and his attendants will wear formal day-time attire (cut-away coats, striped trousers, and so forth). Will you please answer several questions for me? I am having three attendants: maid of honor (my sister), and two bridesmaids. Should the two bridesmaids walk together in the Processional? The groom is to have his brother as best man. About the number of us there is a question. The chapel accommodates about 80 or 85 guests. How many ushers should we have? My fiancé would like to have four, (if you don't think four too many for the number of guests), as he particularly wishes to invite four of his very close friends, all fraternity brothers of his at college. (He has been usher at the wedding of each of these four.) 3. With two bridesmaids, and four ushers, what would be the order of the Reception? 4. With ushers standing in the line, should he appoint a "head usher"? 5. The clergyman of my fiancé's church is my fiancé's mother's first cousin, and I am sure she would be happy if my mother and I ask her if we may invite him to assist at the ceremony. At such a small wedding would this be correct? — R.T.

1. The two bridesmaids may walk together, usually do. But I think it is more effective and interesting to have the two bridesmaids, when there are only two, walk separately.

2. Four ushers are not too many to have to seat 80 or 85 guests. I'm delighted that your fiancé has such an excellent reason for wanting to have four ushers, for it's so much better taste to have a more-than-adequate number of ushers rather than give the impression of having too few.

3. Receptional: first, you and your bridegroom; next, the maid of honor, with the best man; next, the two bridesmaids, walking separately, as in the Processional; last, the ushers, two by two, as in the Processional.

4. Yes; good and practical plan.

ning to have a "head usher". It is his responsibility to see that all goes well, that the guests (particularly members of the families, relatives, and intimate friends) are seated where they should be seated. And it is he who is given the honor of escorting your mother (the last person to be seated before the Processional begins) to her place in the first pew on the left of the aisle. He also escorts your mother (your father following) down the aisle, after the Receptional.

5. Yes... a correct plan, most thoughtful and gracious. But your first procedure is to consult with the clergyman of your church, to ask his permission and cooperation. This courteous gesture is extremely important... before you make any plans about this.

MUST BRIDE'S FATHER BE IN RECEIVING LINE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My prospective groom's father is dead. My father prefers a not to stand in the receiving line, thinks he can be a better host, "keep things going well," as he says, if instead of standing in the line, he mingles with the guests, making introductions and so forth. Is this permissible procedure? If so, this would mean, wouldn't it, that the two mothers would stand together, my mother first, and next to her, my groom's mother? — Bride-to-be

Yes, it is completely permissible procedure for your father not to stand in the receiving line, if he prefers not to... and many fathers do prefer not to, and for the same reason your father gives. Then "the mothers" stand together, your mother first, as hostess.

PEACE AT LAST

With the "revolution" down Kingston way said to be amicably settled, it looks like the battle lines for the district senior "B" hockey group will be drawn at the special meeting being held in Kingston, Sunday.

Word out of Rodenville today was that the Goodyears "management" has settled its internal differences, labor is apparently satisfied and the Goodyears will send their championship ice hockey team into action next season in quest of their third provincial championship.

Rumors have been rife along the Limestone City hockey rillies that the Goodyears might be withdrawn due to dissension in the ranks. The Kingston story says the ruckus started at the conclusion of the 1954-55 hockey season when the troops contended they had been promised a bonus. The club brass denied this adding there was no money left for distribution.

It goes on: "Several executive meetings were held, a number of players attended. A verbal fight between players and the executive resulted during which several club officials indicated they wished to suspend operations.

"A few of the executive, including President Walton, were against the suspension issue and last night's meeting was subsequently called. The matter had to be settled by this coming Sunday when a group meeting is to be held here.

"The upshot of the whole thing is that the players did not get bonus awards but Kingston hockey fans will see their team in action next season."

Now that that is settled—and a Belleville entry assured, it would seem OHA prexy Frank Buckland, vice president Lorne Cook and the representatives of Kingston, Belleville, Whitby, Peterborough, Brockville and Cornwall can get down to serious business come Sunday.

There was some rumors following the last meeting of the group brass that Orillia might be admitted to fill the vacancy created by the withdrawal of the Clinton, New York, team. Reports from the Orillia district at the conclusion of the 1954-55 season had it that the Pontiacs were not satisfied with their "metropolitan" set-up last year and would seek entry in the eastern group. The previous fall the Pontiacs withdrew claiming transportation costs were too high. They'll be just as high next season, or higher for the Couchiching crew. They've got a long haul to Cornwall.

While the brass may look with favor on an Orillia entry, this corner doubts if Brockville or Cornwall will fall in with the idea. The announcement by the Goodyears—a surprise one at that—that the club lost money during last season's operation, means that every team in the group took it on the financial chin. With this in mind, and if stories from various parts of the circuit to the effect that the clubs will endeavor to cut high operational expenses, are true, it does not seem logical that they will agree to admit a club that is more or less off the beaten path.

TOUGH LUCK

The summer baseball jinx that struck at Don Cherry, Kingston athlete and member of the Boston Bruins of the National League two years ago, got in its nefarious work again the other night.

Cherry, member of a well-known Kingston athletic family, suffered a shoulder separation while sliding into second base on a close play. Two years ago he fractured an ankle in a similar play.

The fleet Bruin suffered the injury in the fourth inning of a city league baseball game, but continued to play. In fact he went to bat in the fifth and blasted out a home run. He gamely continued to finish the game. An X-ray examination later revealed the extent of the injury. His physician says he will be out indefinitely.

A brother Dick is another popular Kingston hockey and baseball star who has been playing brilliant ball this summer. Both Don and Dick are sons of Del Cherry, former well-known Central Ontario Baseball League star, whose name was a household name in baseball circles in the district in the days of the Heckmans, the Williams, the Daintys and other old COBL stalwarts.

Ride 10-Game Winning Streak To Challenge Dodger Record; Chisox Within Game of Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Phillies, overlooked and overworked, have popped up in fourth place in the National League, riding a 10-game winning streak that has taken shape almost overnight.

It's all come about in seven days. Last Friday, the Phils were in seventh place. Today they're just one game shy of 500, and after skipping past Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago in the standings, are only two games behind third-place New York.

Brooklyn's 11-game success story in early season tops the majors this year, but the Phils could pass that mark tonight when they meet St. Louis in a two-nighter—their fourth doubleheader in six days.

Manager Mayo Smith's club, which lost 13 straight in May, tops in the majors this season—beating three eighth-inning runs to beat Cincinnati 5-3 Thursday night after the Redlegs gained a 3-2 lead on Gus Bell's three homers.

NEGRAY PLUS RELIEF

It was Ron Negray and reliever Jack Meyer who handled the Redlegs. Negray gave up Bell's home run. But Meyer got Bell on a fly out with two men on to end the game.

Roy Smalley delivered the hitting punch with a bases-loaded single that scored two runs in the big eighth.

Chicago's Cubs dropped out of fourth place with a 4-1 defeat by Brooklyn. It was the Bruins' 10th defeat in 11 games. Milwaukee stayed 13½ games behind the Brooks by beating Pittsburgh 5-3. New York edged St. Louis 6-5.

In the American League, the Chicago Cubs' lead to one game with a 9-6 victory over the Yankees; Cleveland went 10 innings to snap Washington's five-game streak 4-3; Boston dumped Kansas City to a 10th straight defeat 4-3, and Detroit nudged Baltimore 1-0.

TW-RUN DOUBLE

The White Sox clinched the rubber game in their "crucial" series with New York as Tony Kennedy broke up a 6-5 tie with a two-run double in the eighth inning. Reliever Millard Howell scattered five Yankees hits over the last six innings after giving up the tying run in the third. Chicago downed 4-1 at the third. Chicago downed 4-1 at the third. Chicago downed 4-1 at the third.

Tom Morgan with five runs in the second, Ed Lopat was the loser. New York, losing 11 of 16, now moves to Kansas City while the White Sox stay in the fire against fourth-place Boston. The Yankees-White Sox battle resumes next week in New York.

Boston used three hits and an error for four tied-inning runs against the A's last night, then held off an eighth-inning rally. Frank Sullivan won it, with relief help from Ellis Kinder, as the Red Sox moved within four games of the Yankees.

Thirteen-pitcher Larry Doby, who has games out of first, scored three runs after two were out in the ninth on Vic Wertz' pinch double with the bases loaded to tie the Washington. Then two out singles by Al Smith and Larry Doby—with Smith scoring from first on Doby's hit—won it in the 10th.

HOUSE'S HOMER Billy Hoist won his 10th for Detroit, riding in on a Sunday evening home by Frank House. Hee Brown the ex-Red Sox pitcher just broke back from the minors, was the loser. Rookie Don Bessent won his second straight for Brooklyn on the winner. He had the Cubs shut out until Ernie Banks poked his 27th homer in the ninth. Loser Jim Davis walked home the final Dodger run in the fourth. Brooklyn got the others off with Al Jeffcoat in the eighth.

St. Louis blew a 5-1 lead as the Giants packed it away the winning run on an infield out in the eighth. Willie Mays hit his 30th homer.

He averaged 151.95 miles an hour in others, well below the world record of 174.9.

Canada Quoted Favorite Over West Indies

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada gets the nod as favorite in the second-round Davis Cup tie starting at 1:30 p.m. EDT today against the British West Indies, and Jim Skelton of Vancouver, non-playing captain of the Canadian team, says he likes the look of things.

Skelton smilingly admitted in an interview he is "optimistic" about the Canadian tennis squad's prospects.

"Everyone's in good shape, the courts are fine and it looks like a good match," he said.

However, Skelton refused, as did playing captain Ian McDonald of the West Indies team, to make any blunt predictions. Both have kept consistently silent about the series outlook except to say they believe it will be a close contest.

Chief threat to Canada's chances is McDonald, 22-year-old Cambridge University graduate, who meets Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, in the first singles match this afternoon.

Earlier this year, McDonald beat Bedard in four games in what he described as a "friendly" match since last year, bedded match has been playing every day since Feb. 4 and says he is looking forward to the rematch with McDonald.

In the second singles event today, upstart Lorne Main of Toronto will face blond, heavy-set Frank Mott-Trille. Mott-Trille, 26, has not previously played in Davis Cup competition while Main will be entering for his seventh consecutive year.

DETROIT AP—Doug Ford, who hasn't won a golf tournament since last year, booked medalist honors today in the tough PGA championship—but he wasn't celebrating. He knows today is "black Friday."

It's the day the favorites and big names play the most: A day of two 18 hole rounds of match play in which the field of 64 will be chopped to 16. The pros feel 18 holes is not a fair test of match play.

Vic Ghezzi, former PGA king who passed his qualifying test Thursday, summed it up this way: "TOO SHORT."

"Eighteen holes is too short. You play a guy say 'Joe Potatoes' and he knocks in one, two, maybe three long putts on you. You're three down. So you fight back and cut it to two down, then one down. But before you know it, the match is over and you're headed for home."

This must be foremost on Ford's mind, even though he flashed a terrific display of golf in the 36 hole qualifying, with a near record 68-135, six under par for the 6,701-yard, par 72 Meadowbrook layout.

Then, too, Ford knows that only two medalists in the history of the PGA ever went on to take the title—Walter Hagen in 1925 and Byron Nelson in 1941.

Eyesight OK Says Sawchuk BOSTON (AP)—Terry Sawchuk, National Hockey League goalie who was the major figure in an off season trade that brought him from Detroit to Boston, has squelched rumors that his eyesight is failing.

In a meeting with the press Thursday night, the goaltender who has helped the Red Wings to three Stanley Cup victories in five years said that contrary to some talk he doesn't wear glasses, doesn't need them.

Rocky Castellani Favored Over 'Sugar' Robinson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Boxing fans got another chance tonight to see whether Sugar Ray Robinson was right in trying to make a ring comeback.

Robinson takes on Rocky Castellani, No. 1 contender for the middleweight title, in the Cow Palace arena in a scheduled 10-rounder. The telecast, with San Francisco blacked out, and radio broadcast will be carried by NBC.

The last time Robinson, once champion of both the welterweight and middleweight divisions, was on television was last January when he took a sound thumping from Tiger Jones at Chicago. Since then he's knocked out second-rater Ted Olla in Milwaukee.

Castellani, riding a string of four straight triumphs since his loss to champion Carl (Bobo) Olson last August, was installed a 9-5 favorite a week ago and the odds remain firm today.

While Montreal was winning its twin bill, Syracuse made it two straight over Toronto, 4-3. Rochester made it three in a row over Columbus 12-3 and Havana and Buffalo split the opener 3-2 and the Cubs the afterpiece 8-4.

Gino Cimoli and Jim Williams helped Nelson lead a 28-hit attack on Richmond pitching. Cimoli got two doubles, a triple and a homer. Williams contributed six hits, three of them doubles.

Against these sluggers, Richmond manager Luke Appling sent the longest pair of pitchers in the league, Bob Habenicht and Mario Pione. While Montreal lefties Tom Lasorda and Ken Lehman cruised leisurely to their second and 12th victories, Habenicht and Pione were charged with defeats No. 13 and 12.

Duke Markell didn't require much assistance from his Red Sox teammates as he bedazzled the Columbus Jets with a seven-hitter and a grand slam home run in the first when the Wings scored seven runs.

Toronto, in a mild slup, saw the Syracuse Chiefs overcome a 3-2 deficit on the strength of Mel Clark's two-run homer in the Eight Young Oarsmen Borrow Money To Finance Trip to Canadian Henley

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight young oarsmen with hope in their hearts and borrowed money in their pockets set out today for the Canadian Henley rowing regatta at St. Catharines.

To save money, they are making a three-day trip in a Canadian National Railway's day coach without the luxury of sleepers.

The crew, as yet untested in a major competition, has been practising for five months and hopes to match the performance of the now-famous University of British Columbia crew which scored its first major win at the Canadian Henley last year.

The crew, members of the reserve navy, ran into a problem last week when the navy announced it could not pay for their trip.

OUT OF QUESTION

A public subscription seemed out of the question since the UBC team had just dipped in for $25,000 in donations to go to the Royal Henley in England.

So the men did the next best thing. Each took out a $300 bank loan.

Coach Lt.-Cmdr. A. C. Penley of the HMCS Discovery base here said the men are so keen "they would be willing to sling their oars over their shoulders and start to walk to St. Catharines."

Some of the money went toward shipping a shell borrowed from the Vancouver Rowing Club to St. Catharines. Another $400 was used to buy a new set of oars.

Making the trip are rowers Alex Webster, bow, Jim Taylor, No. 2, Paul Harris, No. 3, Ian Muir, No. 4, Herb Shepherd, No. 5, Ed Roach, No. 6, Val Stewart, No. 7, and Bert Holt, stroke.

Coxswain is Barry MacDonald, a 12-year-old sea cadet. Coach Penley also will travel with the crew.

Aussies, Brazil Start Davis Cup Action

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Australia's one-two tennis punch of Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad swung into action against Brazil's Jose Aguiar and Bob Falkenberg, respectively, today as the first singles matches get underway in the American zone Davis Cup semi-finals.

None of today's opponents have met before. Rosewall is the Australian champion but Hoad, one of the most powerful hitters in the game, is regarded as Australia's main hope in its drive to regain the Davis Cup it lost last December to the United States.

Falkenberg, Brazil's American-born captain, is a former U.S. boys and junior champion, and he also won Wimbledon's prize title in 1948. He married a Brazilian heiress.

Aguiar, a Tulane student, won the U.S. collegiate championship this year. Despite the presence of the talented Falkenberg, the Aussies are heavy favorites to win and move on to meet the winner of the British West Indies Canada semi-final starting today in Montreal.

Panthers' Allan Has No-Hitter; Red Sox Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Billy Allan achieved the target of all baseball hurlers Thursday night—a no hit, no run game.

It was the first no-hitter in the Senior Intercity League since the days of the Second World War, as Allan hurled Kitchener Panthers to a 3-0 shutout over London Majors.

In the other game of the night, Oshawa Merchants maintained their three game lead over second place Kitchener by humbling Brantford Sox 20-7.

The game marked a highlight in Allan's illustrious career which has seen him perform in triple A ball and star in the Intercity League.

WAS WITH COLUMBUS

Before joining Kitchener three years ago, Allan performed with Columbus in the American Association. This year Columbus was transferred to the International League.

A native of St. Catharines, the lefthander quit professional baseball to join the Intercity in order to settle down with his wife and children.

Allan's no-hitter was first seen in Intercity action since Pte. Eddie Bush performed the same feat back in the war days with Stratford Nationals. Bush threw his game at Galt Terraces in a round-robin playoff tourney.

In registering his seventh win against three losses, Allan struck out four batters and walked three, the only men to reach first base. He was never in trouble but in the eighth inning, a spanking play by third baseman Bobby Schnurr saved the no-hitter.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Beginning with this player's feet notice that his stance is slightly open and his left foot looses more toward the target than his right. Notice, too, that both toes are turned out and his heels are about shoulder width apart. This provides a firm foundation and gives balance throughout the swing. Notice that at the top of his swing our pictured player's knees are both on the same level. He hasn't let the left side dip down by lowering his left knee. By raising his left heel he has kept his knees even, again necessary for balance. His hips have turned about an eighth of a circle in their pivot while his shoulders have turned a full quarter of a circle and that's correct. I would have preferred to see his hands a little more above his right shoulder than pictured. But this is a good wind-up and with the momentary pause at the top he's ready to reverse his pivot action, pull his hands rather straight down toward his right pocket as he pivots, and sends that ball on a long-arrow flight.

Canadian Football Roundup

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Chan Caldwell of Ottawa Rough Riders has done a little philosophizing on Toronto Argonauts and if you summarized his words in a nutshell it would be something like: Phooey.

He was talking to a reporter Thursday night about the way Toronto has cleaned out its roster of the Big Four's 1954 season. He mentioned the Argonauts' interest in acquiring new faces like the famous Eloy (Crazylegs) Hirsch, the wrestler-footballer Gil Mains.

He said he hears Mains has burritos in the elbow now.

JUST COULDN'T WAIT

"They (Argonauts) couldn't wait to get started... rushed right into it, didn't care for anything, and you see what happened... injuries and troubles."

Well, he allowed, "They'll be tough. I'm not saying they won't... but everybody else in the league will be tough, too."

"Now we have a few boys who will stop on you as soon as you look at you—all legal, of course."

HE'S CHIPPER

In Hamilton, coach Carl Voyles has quarterback troubles again. For a change, he's happy about them.

In the past two seasons Voyles had a tough time finding the right man to quarterback his Tiger-Cats. Even when he made decisions he didn't appear 100 per cent satisfied.

He shouldn't be in the same fix this season.

"I have three fine boys and they all look mighty good," Voyles said Thursday night.

The only problem Carl might have is figuring out who to cut. He has Nobby Wirkowski, a seasoned veteran traded to Hamilton by Toronto Argonauts. Nobby ranks high in Voyles' books. Then there's Don Watson of Austin College. He has been showing well in training, and so has Don Bailey of Penn State.

ALL-IONS AGREE

Montreal Alouettes announced Thursday night they have reached an agreement with Detroit Lions of the National Football League over Gordon Malloy, former all-star half back for Miami University.

Nick Kerbaway, managing director of the Lions, agreed to pay Montreal's Big Four entry an undisclosed amount of cash for the right to call Malloy Detroit property, thus ending a contract dispute between the clubs.

An ironic footnote: Reports indicate Malloy will probably be drafted into the U.S. Army shortly.

Ottawa Rough Riders signed four Canadians Thursday night. They are end Bruno Bilkowski, 23-year-old native of Windsor, tackle Joe Upton, 24, a school teacher in Ottawa, and Bill Sowalski, 3, who came up last year from Brantford Redskins of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, and 26-year-old Bob Westlake of Hamilton.

Joe Shinn, a one-time end star with Tiger-Cats, tried to join Toronto Argonauts Thursday night. He didn't make it.

Shinn, an outstanding T-cat in 1952 and out of the game for the last two years because of service in the United States Army Air Force, was cut by Hamilton a few days ago. He lasted for only three workouts.

75 Survive Man-Killing Bicycle Race

ALBI, France (Reuters)—The world's toughest marathon bicycle race, the 2,770-mile Tour de France, today raced toward the man-killing Pyrenean mountains with 75 survivors out of 130 starters.

The tour, a multi-million-franc advertising orgy and three-ring circus, held all France in its relentless grip for the last two weeks. Oceans of printer's ink have been spilled across the press by hundreds of special correspondents following the race. In the cafes, on the streets, on vacation beaches, it's the big topic.

A supreme test of stamina, courage and riding skill, the tour has also a less attractive, if more gaudy, aspect: A rolling army of publicity trucks, assorted hucksters, glib shows and food-and-drink concessions which make the foreigner wonder if this is a sport or bedlam.

SHOW OF SHOWS

But for the millions who have jammed the route through the north of France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Switzerland, and the South, the race is the show-of-shows, the greatest of spectator sports.

They wait for hours to see their favorites who by, to yell encouragement or throw buckets of cooling water on the sweating athletes. Whenever the tour goes through a town, schools are let out, factories shut down and everyone watches the spectacle.

With the race two-thirds over, the 1953 and 1954 tour winners, Louis Bobet was in second place, four minutes and 53 seconds behind the leader, outsider Antonin Rolland.

And with the tough Pyrenees coming up, it looks as if Bobet—a champion in the mountains—will become the first man in Tour history ever to win the race three times running.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was talking to Puds Simkins about different subjects, such as what we would invent if we were grante inventors. Puds, saying a washing machine for ladies to put their babies in while they listened to the radio or watched television, and me saying a magic chewing gum that changed into different flavors as long as you chewed it, instead of wearing out, and Dopey Shorty Judge came up with his new little dog Junior, and I said, Have you found out what breed of a dog he is, Dopey?

Yes, he's a watch dog, Shorty said. He barks to warn us every time the bell rings, even the telephone bell, he said, and Puds said, Aw, all dogs do that, it's just a nervous habit.

Not with Junior it's not, Shorty said. And what's more, if anybody ever attacked me, Junior would come to my rescue with all his teeth, and believe me they're sharp for his age, he said, and I said, You can't prove it.

If you pretend to knock me down and attack me, you'll soon find out, only I warn you, you better not, Shorty said, and Puds said, Aw, we ain't afraid, are we, Benny?

I should say not, here we come, your money or your life, I said.

And we grabbed a hold of Shorty and he yelled, Help, Junior, help, and pretended to fall down on the sidewalk with us on top of him, and Junior jumped right in with us and started to lick our face with his tongue to get in the game, and Shorty quick said, Don't bite them, Junior, don't bite them, they're only fooling.

And we all got up again, Shorty saying, Oh boy, I saved your lives that time. Come on, Junior, you got to take a walk for your health, he said.

And he kept going and so did Junior.

Unloading an 18-hit attack, Elliott's Regents whipped Blain's Scotsmen 25-6 in a bantam softball fixture at the firehall last night.

The winners held a 9-4 lead going into the sixth when they exploded for 11 tallies and added 5 more in the final stanza. Blain's played four in the fourth and finished with a pair in the sixth.

Jim Hook went all the way for the Regents, allowing but six hits while issuing 10 free passes to first. Holloway and MacDonald shared the mound duty in defeat, Holloway taking the loss between them they gave up 18 hits and walked 11.

Doug Morrison had a terrific night at the plate for Elliott's, pounding a three-run homer, a triple, double and single for the cycle. Scrimshaw also hit well with three singles and a double. Earl McDonald smashed a triple for the losers.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A 57-year-old woman stabbed her husband in the kitchen of their drive-in restaurant Wednesday night, then calmly continued waiting on customers as he lay dying, city detectives reported. Mrs. Clinton Shoutz was arrested after an unidentified person reported the killing to police headquarters.

Booth's Radio and TV youngsters dealt the Rotary Club a 15-7 defeat in a pes we softball game at Fireman's park on Wednesday evening.

Rotary held a 3-2 lead until the third frame when Booth's notched a trio to take the lead and never relinquished it, adding four runs in each of the fourth and sixth to win going away.

Malloy tolled the route for the victors, allowing six hits and walking seven while his mates bobbled on four occasions. Turner was his receiver. Gaffney worked on the hill in defeat, surrendering only seven safe blows, while Rolland's slim margin to become the first man in Tour history ever to win the race three times running.

Donovan and Turner were best at the plate for the winners, each with a double and single. Dugan and Gaffney split four Booth hits, two singles each.

MAY DROP SLOGAN

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—State Secretary James M. Hise of Michigan says the state likely will drop the "water wonderland" slogan from auto licence plates in 1957. The question arose when a county court Wednesday overruled the conviction of a motorist who had covered the slogan on his licence plate. The court held that the motorist was not required to advertise the state.

Lady Swimmer To Try L. Erie

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (CP)—Margaret Sweeney, world-ranking New Zealand long-distance swimmer, plans to swim Lake Erie later this season, she announced Thursday.

The New Zealand girl will attempt to lower the time of 13 hours set July 5 by Greta Patterson, the American girl from Batavia, N. Y., who was first to swim the lake.

Pole Sitter Ordered 'Down'; Lost 20 Pounds

KITCHENER (CP)—Jerry Fryggle came down from his flagpole perch Thursday night. A doctor ordered the move because Fryggle had lost so much weight.

The 18-year-old pitcher with Kitchener Panthers of the Senior Intercity Baseball League, volunteered to flagpole sit in Panthers' ball park until a home game drew at least 2,000 paid customers.

Fryggle, who went aloft a week ago, was reported to have lost 20 pounds during his tenure on the six-foot square platform, 45 feet above the ground. He weighed 167 pounds before he made the ascent, Club physician, Dr. J. P. Sharkey said Fryggle needs "a complete rest."

During the two home games while Fryggle was aloft, Panthers averaged about 1,200 fans a game. Fans contributed nearly $200 as a special gift for the sitter.

Kitchener's Auditorium In Copyright Fight

KITCHENER (CP)—In a dispute over non-payment of music copyright fees, the Composers, Authors and Publishers Association of Canada notified the Kitchener auditorium its licence to play copyright music has been revoked.

The auditorium board decided Wednesday to make a payment to CAPAC and go ahead with playing its usual selection of music for roller skating.

H. M. Crosby, auditorium manager of the licensing department of the association, and refused to let him what selections were copyrighted by CAPAC.

In Toronto today Mr. Matheson said he had known Mr. Crosby how to search for "his" through the records at Ottawa,

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, July 23, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Good aspects building up all day. This does not mean you need not work, think or try. It means that opportunities are available and that progress is possible for you who take advantage of them.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Aspects indicate a somewhat restful period, but be alert and ready if conditions change. Some activities such as charity benefits and children's welfare projects could enjoy gains with your aid.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — This is neither a stimulating nor a restrictive period. It could be a good day for you farsighted, promotional-minded folks who work and act while others wait for breaks, however. Good going, good luck!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A great deal is up to you today. There are some splendid aspects and, if you try, you can come up with flying colors by the end of the day.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Warnings today: Don't rush; and don't act then with you hadn't. Very promising, inspiring influences for your interests and the type of work for which you were trained or have talent.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Encouraging aspects. Put in some extra "ticks" work with spirit and the results will be fine. Dealings in metals, tools, chemicals, shipping, trades, general handling all favored.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Many fine influences for you lovers of righteousness. Cooperation will help more than you may suspect. Heart interests favored.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Avoid high-pressure action during this somewhat uncertain period. Back your efforts with smiles, cooperation, and your way will be easier, less irritating. There will be smoother going in the 2-3-4.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Aspects indicate that you should pause to plan during the 2-3-4. Concentrate on improving the 2-3-4 and keep your mind open to ways of improving,

Sunday School Lesson:

Tortured City of Jerusalem

By ROY L. SMITH

The tragic situation which prevails at the moment in the city of Jerusalem, in which the ancient fortress sacred to three world religions is divided between two bitterly opposed nations, is but another chapter in the tortured history of the ancient capital founded by King David.

A City of Ruins

No city on the face of the earth has suffered as a result of wars as has Jerusalem. Situated as it was, adjacent to the great trade routes of ancient times, it became the prey of conquerors. There was no way that it could hold aloof from world conflicts. In spite of the fact that the prophet Isaiah preached the doctrine of neutrality.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for July 24: "The Southern Kingdom Overthrown;" 2 Kings 24:20b — 25:21; Jeremiah 38:1 — 39:14.

Again and again its walls have been breached, its people slaughtered, and its sacred site profaned. At one time or another it has fallen to Babylonian, Persian, Assyrian, Egyptian, Greek, Roman, and Turkish arms. It was one of those rare experiences when, in 1918, General Allenby, commander of the allied forces, dismounted and entered the city at foot and without firing a shot. It was the first time in history that the sacred city had been taken without bloodshed and devastation.

The present city is built atop a mass of accumulated ruins. There was a time when it was said to sit astride a group of hills, at least one of them being honored with the name Mt. Zion. But, almost all trace of the ancient hills has been lost, the intervening valleys having been filled up in the course of the centuries with rubble and debris.

The story we have in this week's Sunday school lesson is the recital of the terrible destruction that was visited upon the city on the occasion of its first wholesale demolition.

INNOCENT AND GUILTY

It continues to be the tragedy of war that the innocent suffer with the guilty. Among the ancientists it was the sins of the rulers for which the plain people had to pay. King after king sat upon the throne of David and, to use the biblical expression, "caused Israel to sin."

And yet it must be said that the people cannot escape their responsibility entirely. The German people, it must be remembered, ceded power to Adolf Hitler and some of Germany's finest citizens acclaimed him as the nation's deliverer because he improved the economic status of the nation. It was their prejudices and racial hatreds which made it possible for his atrocities to come to pass. True, the average good German knew nothing of the horrors of the gas chambers and the perverted nationalism of Germany which provided the atmosphere in which he flourished.

GOD SAVE THE STATE

In the last analysis any people get just about the kind of treatment they demand and deserve. Any public that tolerates hysteria will have a government answerable to hysteria. That public which tolerates graft and corruption will have to pay toll to the vice interests. The people who seek private advantage at public expense.

There is small use singing "God Bless America" if we are conducting the nation's affairs in such a fashion that no room is left for a divine blessing. Lloyd George, during the first World War, said England suffered a worse disgrace by the British flag flying over a London slum than by flying over a defeated regiment on the field of battle.

Every government is tested, in the last analysis, by what it does for the plain people—all of them—of the nation.

Telephone Rates
Will Increase
Here August 28

Because the Belleville area has outgrown its present telephone rate group, increases will go into effect on August 28th to bring rates into line with those charged in other centres of similar size, G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager, said this week.

The increases are relatively small. For example, the monthly charge for two-party residence service will be only 20 cents higher and individual residence service 25 cents higher.

The move into a higher rate group was authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, acting on the company's report of April 30, that the number of telephones in Belleville's calling area had increased more than five per cent beyond the maximum limits of the rate group to which it is assigned.

Telephone rates for Belleville are governed by the number of telephones in the calling area, as established by the board on the principle that the service increases in value as the number of telephones increases. The company is required to report to the board, twice yearly, the status of exchanges where total telephones have increased more than five per cent beyond the limits of their group.

The Belleville area has expanded steadily in recent years and its progress has been accompanied by a parallel growth in the number of telephones. Belleville residents now have 11,265 telephones in their local calling area.

To simplify the adjustment of customers' accounts, the new rates will soon become effective on the first normal billing date following the 30 days' notice required by the board. This will be August 28th.

The following table provides examples of the rates for typical classes of service in the present and new rate groups for the Belleville area:

	Present	Proposed
Residence Service	Group 5	Group 6
Individual line	$3.50	$4.15
2-Party line	3.10	3.30
Rural line	2.95	3.05
Business Service
Individual line	7.40	8.40
2-Party line	6.05	6.75
Rural line	4.35	4.60

Engineers Trained At Camp Borden

Fifteen men of the 27th Technical Squadron, RECMC, under the command of Lt. K. Wilcocks have completed a week's training at Camp Borden.

The local unit trained with groups from Peterborough, Toronto and Sault Ste. Marie under the command of Col. J. M. Hardy, of Toronto.

Training included two days of workshop training, the setting up and operation of an infantry workshop in the field under active service conditions. The men were complimented on their ready adaptation to training conditions and problems.

Officers attending the camp spent two days undergoing test development workshop training as well as taking part in field exercises.

The unit travelled to Camp Borden by bus and returned to Belleville by train.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police today reported a quiet night in the Belleville district.

Shortly before midnight a resident of Ann St. hurriedly called police to investigate a prowler, skulking round cars parked in the area. Nothing was seen, however, subsequent investigation revealed.

Elsewhere, routine matters and several minor accidents were responsible for keeping both police forces on the move.

Protest Pumping Creek Water
For Irrigation

SIMCOE (CP) — Residents of Fisher's Glen, 10 miles southwest of here, have signed a petition protesting pumping of water from Big Rock creek for irrigation purposes.

The petition forwarded to the Ontario government asks an investigation into the use of the creek's water. Residents claim the water has gone down seven inches this year, and say the low water level threatens to cut off the village's water supply.

Tobacco farmers pump water from the creek to irrigate tobacco crops.

The deceased was born in Easton, Pa., the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Roseberry, and was educated in Easton and at Colgate College, San Francisco. He lived at Point Anne where he was a mechanic at the Canada Cement Co. plant, prior to moving to R.R. 7, Belleville, four years ago.

He was a member of John's Anglican church, Point Anne.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Amelia Long; one son, Lewis E. (Bud) Roseberry, of Belleville; a sister, Mrs. Elmer E. (Olive) Snider, of Easton, Pa.; three brothers, Ellwood H. Roseberry, of California; Chester Roseberry, of Easton, Pa.; Julian Roseberry, of Malawan, New Jersey.

He was predeceased by a brother, Walter E. Roseberry, formerly of Columbus, Ohio.

The body is resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. WILLIAM LINNEN

Mrs. Mary Jane Linnen, widow of William Linnen, of 35 Holloway St., died Saturday, July 23rd, after an illness of six weeks' duration. She was in her 81st year.

The deceased was born in Eganville, Renfrew County, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lett, and lived in Renfrew prior to moving to Belleville eight years ago. She was educated at S.S. No. 2, Wilberforce, Ont., and at Pembroke High School. She had been a school teacher.

She was a member of Holloway Street United Church, the Women's Missionary Society and the Fellowship Club.

She is survived by a daughter,

Bambino Makes Big Hit
At Launching Here Friday

The "Bambino," newest addition to the power squadron of the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club, is a striking, functional testimonial to the skill of Belleville boat builders.

The gleaming white and polished brown mahogany cruiser slid down the way at Chappell's Boat Works Friday noon with its proud builder and its new owner aboard.

Initial trials on the bay began almost as soon as the "Bambino" cleared its launching cradle.

Gordon Wright, of Hamilton, its new owner, was at the wheel as the "Bambino" slipped easily through the light chop on the brilliant blue waters of the bay.

"Bambino" is a 25-foot mahogany cabin cruiser with an 8' 6" beam. It draws a mere 18 inches of water.

Two 25-horsepower silent Johnson outboard engines give the boat a guaranteed speed of 17 miles per hour. Positioning of the motors, which are electrically started and operated by dual controls, gives maximum passenger accommodation in the well-fitted cabin and nine-foot cockpit.

A flying bridge protects the cockpit from spray.

Accommodation is superlative. There are berths for two forward. There is a toilet, a hanging clothes locker, a dinette table which converts into a double bed, a galley with a cutlery drawer, shelves for pots, pans and dishes, an ice box and room for a stove.

July's Mean Temperature
Has Been Really Mean

Hot?

No wonder.

The mean temperature this July has been really mean.

Take Friday, for example. All right then, don't take it. But using Friday as a bad example the temperature was 76 at 8:00 a.m.; 80 at 2:00 p.m., and sometime between 4:00 and 5:00 p.m. it hit 88.9 — the high for the day.

The low for the night was a comfortable 68 and came between 5:00 and 6:00 a.m. just as you reached for the sheet at the foot of the bed.

Yesterday's mean temperature was 78.4. The mean temperature for the first 20 days of July this year has been a sweltering 74.4. In 1954 the mean for the first 20 days of July was a cool, comfortable 65.5.

So well, if it isn't the heat, it's the humidity.

Well, there has been more humidity this year too.

Rainfall in the first 20 days of July this year has been 2.81 inches. Last year, for the same period, only .27 inch of rain was recorded at the purification plant here in Trenton, Ont.

Despite the rain, which should reduce the amount of water being sprayed on lawns and gardens, the filtration plant has been processing a million gallons a day more than it did last year.

Bay water, on the bottom where the intake pipe rests, is 80 degrees.

Heat or humidity, July has had lots of each. In fact it has been downright hot.

Back to the lemonade with ice tinkling in the glass.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

HOLY, HOLY, HOLY, LORD GOD ALMIGHTY

"Holy, holy, holy: Lord God Almighty:
Early in the morning our song shall rise to Thee;
Holy, holy, holy: Merciful and
Mighty:
God in Three persons, blessed
Trinity:
"Holy, holy, holy: All the saints
adore Thee,
Casting down their golden crowns around the glassy sea;
Cherubim and Seraphim falling down before Thee,
Who wert, and art, and evermore shalt be:
"Holy, holy, holy: Though the darkness hide Thee, Though the eye of sinful man thy glory may not see,
Only thou art holy: There is none beside Thee Perfect in power, in love, and purity:
"Holy, holy, holy: Lord God Almighty:
All Thy works shall praise Thy name in earth and sky and sea;
Holy, holy, holy: Merciful and
Mighty:
God in Three Persons, blessed
Trinity."

"And they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come."

—Revelation 4:8
St. John's picture of Heaven and its inhabitants, in the fourth chapter of Revelation, gave Bishop Reginald Heber the inspiration for his great hymn to the Holy Trinity. It was written to be sung on Trinity Sunday while he was serving as rector of Hodnet parish, in Shropshire, England, in the early nineteenth century. Here, too, were written all of Bishop Heber's other hymns including his unforgettable missionary song, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains."

Heber, whose father also was a clergyman, was born at Malpas, in Cheshire, England in 1783. He studied at Oxford and, shortly after his graduation, he was ordained and began his rectorship at Hodnet. He held this post for 16 years—until 1823—when he was named Bishop of India. He sailed for the mission field in high spirits and had begun to enjoy the press of his duties in Calcutta when a fatal fever cut short his career, in 1826. A year later his hymns were published by his widow in a collection known as "Hymns Written And Adapted To The Weekly Church Services Of The Year."

The young bishop-to-be won a number of coveted prizes during his Latin and English poems during his student days at Oxford. One of his verses, entitled "Palestine," was chosen to be read at the university commencement exercises and won Heber a near ovation from his classmates. Though many lovers of hymns remember him best as the author of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," his Trinity Sunday hymn is generally regarded as the finest in the list of 57 hymns he wrote during his life-time. Alfred Tennyson, the poet once called it "the finest hymn ever written in any language."

For Parents Only Dressing Dolls Fun for Girls

By NANCY CLEAVER

Do you remember making a dress for your favorite doll when you were a little girl? What fun it was! How proud you were when you dressed your doll and showed her to your friends. No store-bought outfit can ever quite compare with the one a small girl has made herself, with just a little help from mother!

Don't wait for your daughter to receive instruction in sewing in a senior grade of public school, or in dressmaking at collegiate and vocational school, but let her make a start at home while she is in the junior public school grades. When she says eagerly "Let me make a dress!" supply material, show her how to cut out a simple pattern, and give her sufficient help to make a good job.

Are you a perfectionist? So often a grow-up dampens a youngster's enthusiasm by insisting on adult standards. She can learn a lot in making this first garment. Encourage as well as teach her. Give her just enough assistance so that she will not leave the dress unfinished.

ARE FASHIONABLE

Mother and a daughter dresses continue to be fashionable, and a little girl will be very proud of making a dress for doll of the same material that mother is making a dress for her. Pre-school boys these days play with dolls too, and a sailor doll may make his sailor suit outfit more popular with him! When he is of school age he will likely scorn sewing as "sissy," but it will be an advantage to her, and learn how to sew on his own but, not to mention mend his socks.

A sewing box is an excellent gift to stimulate a sewing hobby. These may be purchased in a wide variety of shapes and sizes in stores, but they can also be made at home.

Parents of one little girl took a six quart fruit basket. Father removed one half of it for a spoonholder. He cut a block of wood, the right size to fit inside, nailed long nails with very small heads at equal intervals around it and attached a handle. Then he painted it with red enamel.

PRESENT DELIGHTS
Mother covered the basket with gay patterned glazed chintz. At her end of the basket she sewed pockets for shears, for a case of needles, for common for safety pins. She added a pin cushion, an emery bag for sharpening needles, a thimble, a tape measure, a ruler and a piece of chalk. Daughter was delighted with her present and even more thrilled when mother took time each Saturday to help her learn to sew.

The remnant table in a dry goods department store often has wonderful inexpensive "finds" of material for a doll's dress. But don't neglect your own remnant bag! Maybe an aunt or grandmother will have a number of cloth scraps which they would be happy to contribute to a doll's wardrobe. Bits of ribbon, of lace, of elastic, scraps of elastic or ends of wool, buttons and small zippers and hooks and eyes or dome fasteners in time find a use.

Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

What was the name of Moses' father-in-law whom the Lord found in the wilderness and gave him wise advice about delegating part of his work?

Moses, when he heard he was coming, went out to meet him. They asked each other of their welfare and went into a tent. Then Moses related how the Lord had delivered the Israelites from the bondage of the Egyptians. His father-in-law answered, "Now I know that the Lord is greater than all gods." He offered burnt offerings and sacrifices to God.

The next day, the father-in-law watched Moses sitting all day long settling disputes of the people. Moses made known to each man and his neighbour, in turn, the statutes of God and his decisions.

But the father-in-law, at the end of the day, pointed out that Moses was carrying a burden too heavy for him to perform alone. He said to Moses, "Listen now to my voice: I will give you counsel, and God will be with you. You shall represent the people before God and bring their cases to Him. You shall teach them what they should do. All great matters shall be brought to you."

But choose able men such as fear God, men who are trustworthy and have a bribe, and place these men over thousands, hundreds, fifties and tens. Let them judge at all times. So it will be easier for you."

Moses heeded the voice of his father-in-law and carried out this suggestion. Then his father-in-law departed from Moses and started on the journey back to his own country.

You will find this man's name and read this story in the 18th Chapter of Exodus.

Authoritative bird books tell us that olive-sided flycatchers are among the noisiest members of birdland, and that their calls may carry a mile.

HURRIED FEEDINGS
We are prepared to believe it. The little ones sat in three different trees and yelled for food, while mother and father rushed around catching wasps, bees, and other flying insects, with an occasional nut, then hurried from one young to another.

The "quip" call is a regular scream; and the father's spring and early summer song, which has been translated as "hip-three-choers" is said to be "the most conspicuous if not the loudest of the flycatcher songs." Once the family is on the march, he does not sing very much, but frequently shouts "huck-pack, pack-huck."

Olive-sided is a comparatively easily distinguished from other flycatchers by their appearance. The present day ornithologist R. T. Peterson describes its costume thus: "Dark vest, unbuttoned down front; white tufts."

That is, the bird has dark, olive brown sides, with an extremely narrow line of white feathers continuing right down from the white throat; and fluffing out from behind the wings on the upper side are tufts of pure white feathers. If you are able to see these two distinguishing marks there is a possibility of making a mistake.

Learning one thing at a time will give a sense of achievement. If you do not know the different stitches, basting, cross and chain stitch by a book on sewing with diagrams and simple instructions.

A Lift For Living

Freedom at the Wheel

In his message to Congress on January 6, 1941, the President of the United States declared: "In the future days which we seek to make secure, we look forward to a world founded upon four essential freedoms. Then he named them: freedom of speech and expression, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

Some time later, when I announced that I would speak on the "Fifth Freedom" in my pulpit, a fellow minister called me to say that he "was interested in it. I asked him what line of thought it suggested to him. "Well," he said, "I thought at once that an automobile must have five wheels—the fifth being the steering wheel." It was an apt suggestion.

Freedom does need to be steered. Of course, dictators say it does. One of Napoleon's marshals once announced to the people of a region he had conquered: "We have come to bring you liberty and equality, but don't let that go to your heads, for the first one who makes a move without my permission will be shot." Such is the way Soviet leaders today talk to their satellite peoples.

MUST HEED COUNSEL

We want no such dictated "liberty." We pride ourselves that this is a government "of the people, by the people, for the people." But if it is to remain so, we the people must heed the counsel given in the Epistle of James: "So speak and so act as those who are to be judged under the law of liberty."

We live in a land where freedom of expression is so taken for granted that we do not appreciate it. Shortly before World War II, I sat in a hotel in Berlin talking to a fellow American who was living there as a representative of a business firm. He spoke and I thought the Nazi regime was being furtively around the room, glanced at the furniture, made sure the doors were closed and even then spoke in a whisper.

What if we lived in a world where secret microphones might be hidden under our desks, where our social circles were honeycombed with spies, where even our sons and daughters might belong to youth organizations which forced them to report the doing of their parents. How intolerable to live in a society of shadows and sealed lips!

Yes, the more we stop to think, the more we prize the world where men can say what they think, where the press is free to criticize those in power, where the schools in their search for truth are not perverted by any pressure group or political muzzle, and where the pulpit is free enough and bold enough to say with Peter, "We must obey God and not man."

And does our boasted freedom give us license to say or do whatever we please? About six years ago in American writer toured Europe for 15 months trying to find out what people there thought democracy really is. Among the many definitions given was this from a cab driver in Manchester, England: "It's a government where a man should be able to do what he wants, when he wants."

Suppose you had been riding in that driver's cab when across his path, against the light, had dashed another driver proceeding on the principle that in a free country a man should be able to do what he wants when he wants. Would your driver have approved? About the only genuine democratic freedom exercised in that situation would have been the right of free speech. And there would be a man should be able to do what he wants when he wants. The preachers enjoy free pulpits. Yet in our churches refined people do not shout interruptions or rush around noisily while others are engaged in reverent worship. In what we say and do we are "judged under the law of liberty."

We can take our choice: Steer our liberty by self-imposed controls or be driven by dictators and overloaded by social controls.

AS ON TV

METHUEN, Mass. (AP)—A 12-year-old boy who said television shows had inspired him to kill eight head of cattle and four goats with a hammer is scheduled for juvenile court action. Police said the boy struck each animal on the head as they stood in stalls of the Lowell Cattle Co. He had seen cattle killed that way on TV.

TO DISCUSS WRITING

KINGSTON (CP) — Some 50 writers, poets and publishers will gather at Queen's University July 28-31 for a frank three-day look at their work and their public. The conference, which is sponsored by the Kingston Writers' Club, is being financed by a Rockefeller Foundation grant.

Bulletins From

Birdland

THE UNBUTTONED VEST

Birdland is well populated in July, for then there is a whole new crop of babies. Before the end of the month shore birds from the far north have begun to pass through southern Canada on the way to their winter playgrounds, thus adding interest for the bird-watcher as well as numbers. Even some of the song birds are moving about a bit, many of them "in en famille," while the youngsters are acquiring all the proper equipment for travel and their parents are getting accustomed to their new suits.

Each summer an olive-sided flycatcher family spends a while in our garden around this date. They have not yet discovered the children's birthplace, although they are still young enough to require attention at mealtime — which seems to last from dawn to dusk.

We always see mother or father (the two are indistinguishable in the vicinity off and on for several days; then suddenly the entire family, which includes three children, are upon us, and the last week or ten days of July is made memorable by their continual noise.

Authoritative bird books tell us that olive-sided flycatchers are among the noisiest members of birdland, and that their calls may carry a mile.

HURRIED FEEDINGS
We are prepared to believe it. The little ones sat in three different trees and yelled for food, while mother and father rushed around catching wasps, bees, and other flying insects, with an occasional nut, then hurried from one young to another.

The "quip" call is a regular scream; and the father's spring and early summer song, which has been translated as "hip-three-choers" is said to be "the most conspicuous if not the loudest of the flycatcher songs." SIGNIFICANT POLIO STATISTICS

Federal health authorities doubt that the Leamington boy who has contracted polio after being inoculated with the Salk vaccine was infected with the disease by the vaccine. If this had been the source, they say, he would have become ill within ten days after he was inoculated.

The Leamington boy is the first person in Canada to become ill with polio after receiving the vaccine. In the United States there are 209 cases of vaccinated people suffering from polio and another 202 cases of polio among those who came in contact with vaccinated persons. These contrasting situations give Canadians good reason to feel proud of, and grateful to, public health officials in this country for the manner in which they handled the polio vaccination program.

At the same time, the situation in the U.S. is nowhere near as serious as some would have us believe. Of about 6,500,000 U.S. children were inoculated. Of these only 209 have contracted polio, or less than .003 per cent. The Salk vaccine is hardly deadly.

There must have been several unvaccinated persons who have come into contact with every vaccinated child, but only 202 of them have contracted polio. While vaccinated children and their contacts account for 411 polio cases, the unvaccinated and those who have not come into contact with vaccinated persons produce 2,642 polio cases.

Those figures ought to give the Salk vaccine program a shot in the arm!

HELICOPTER SNOOPS ON WHOOPERS

Here is a whooper for the whooping crane. The largest species of the world's cranes is staging a comeback. Budybodies disguised as naturalists report that there are now 25 such birds, an increase of four from last year. The story of how they learned of the increase constitutes one of the greatest breaches of domestic privacy in the annals of bird watching.

Years ago there were thousands of whooping cranes in North America, now the big birds' last refuge. Senseless slaughter reduced the great flocks to a mere handful of birds and in 1941 only 15 were known to be alive. The governments of Canada and the United States banned the shooting of whoopers and their wintering grounds in Arkansas National Park Texas were made a sanctuary.

Whoopers nest and rear their young in Canada. This year, in Wood Buffalo Park, a whooping crane's nest was sighted — the first such nest discovered since 1922. Four young birds, not previously counted, were seen on the nesting grounds sending naturalists and conservationists in Canada and the United States into whoops of joy.

The whooping crane is a large bird. Standing erect it can look a fool man in the eye. Its long legs fit it eminently for wading in the marshes where it makes its home. Its long neck brings the digestive tract down to earth where the whooper can gorge on vegetable matter, insects, worms, frogs, lizards, reptiles, small fish, and the spawn of aquatic animals.

Whoopers are wonderful fliers. They have difficulty getting off the ground, trailing their feet and beating their wings furiously until they become airborne. Once off the ground they begin a customary ascent in ever widening circles, soaring above the clouds. Flocks migrate in V's with the strongest member of the flock at the point. Flying from Texas' Gulf coast to the Northwest Territories is no trick for these big birds with their seven-foot wingspread.

What goes on in a whooper's life in Texas is well chronicled as one might suspect. What causes the whooper to whoop in the Northwest Territories is another matter.

This year the helicopter proved to be the whooper's undoing. Wildlife service officers watched for the birds, located their nests by air and sent in a party to watch them. Two men actually made a descent on the nesting grounds by helicopter.

Spying on whooping cranes is all very well for the curious. It would seem altogether proper, however, for naturalists, curious as they are, to keep their helicopters to themselves. After flying from Texas to the Northwest Territories a whooping crane is entitled to a little privacy and a few square yards of muskeg. Constant snooping may be responsible, to some degree, for the decline of the whooping population. Wouldn't you be disinclined to raise a family with a couple of nosy naturalists peering at you and taking notes? The onrush of naturalists with field glasses, determined looks and sharp pencils may very well have driven the whooper from nesting in the United States where the last nest was seen in 1894 in Iowa.

Until whooping cranes can bog off future interviewers we shall have to assume that naturalists, via helicopters, are never more than a holler away from two whoops.

HOW NOW HOW?

Hon. C. D. Howe on Wednesday told the House of Commons that it is not correct to say that the government guarantees to purchase all the uranium produced in Canada until 1962.

Speaking as Minister of Defence Production, no doubt. And, if the Government does decide not to purchase some of the uranium produced, will Mr. Howe, in his alter ego as Minister of Trade, diligently seek markets beyond the seas?

At this point, Mr. Howe will doubtless decline to take an Iron Curtain call.

It is said that Toronto is to have a new city hall. Seeing is believing, but since we have seen the old one we no longer believe we can trust our seeing.

PATIENT SUCCESS

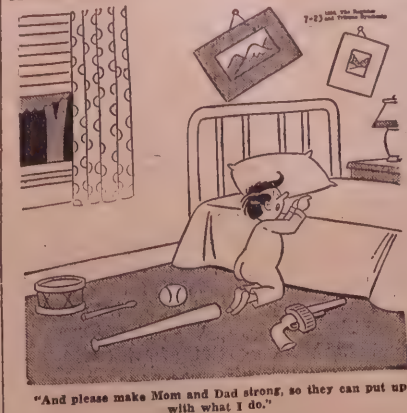

Success is patient. It will wait
For the head of the headstrong
For the near or far-off day
When one man will come Along.

Failure, disappointment, dread
May have made his struggle grim,
But if he keeps on, ahead
Victory will wait for him.

If some one the will possess
Every barrier to surmount,
Twenty failures with success,
When he gains it, will not count.

Who deserves the heights to climb,
With the odds against him great Success will always spare him
Patiently for him to wait.

This Export Is Too High

(Montreal Gazette)

It is often said that Canada is not exporting enough over the border into the United States. By comparison with what we import from the United States, what we export is not nearly enough.

But there is one export to the United States from Canada that is far too high. And we will never attain full development as a nation until that export is reduced. This is the export of Canadians.

Figures are now available for the ten years from July 1, 1945 to June 30, 1954. These figures show that a quarter of a million Canadians emigrated to the United States during that period. These figures are not merely an estimate. They come from the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

It may seem strange that in the ten years which have seen Canada's greatest prosperity and expansion more than a quarter of a million Canadians have chosen to go over the border. No doubt there were special reasons in many cases. But the main answer would seem to lie in the fact that the United States is a more highly industrialized country, in the sense of having more manufacturing.

It is manufacturing that creates the conditions to support a large population, at least by the standards of the western world. Where there is a large population, there is only too much opportunity for employment in general increase, but opportunities for specialized employment increase also.

The positions that attract many Canadians to the United States are notably in the arts and the professions, depend, directly or indirectly, upon the large population that manufacturing in the United States supports.

Canada as Canada is primarily a nation for producing raw materials and semi-processed goods, it will be unlikely to prevent a disturbingly large proportion of her people from going south.

It is population that attracts population, Canada, despite the resources of her great open spaces, has learned that lesson the hard way. She will always have difficulty in holding a population that is near to a nation of big cities.

Anyhow, who can deny that Princess Margaret is, by any standards, a honey?

Probably if these people thought twice they would agree that the politician is as important to us as the lawyer, the doctor, the engineer, or the scientist; that he is not necessarily any "cheaper" than the rest of us. Actually politicians administer for us our policies, and they are the ones who make the laws that govern us.

In Toronto the other day, the chairman of the Metropolitan Council, Mr. Fred Gardiner, quite properly presented a citizen's referendum to the council.

The chairman told him: "Politics means the science of government, and I am proud to be a politician." The dictionary adds that a politician is one who is engaged in the science of government. Surely the phrase "interested in" should give us reason to think a little more deeply. Is it not everyone's obligation to be interested in the duties of each level of government, provincial and civic? Really, then, if by definition we are not all politicians, we should be the science of government.

For we can't ignore the science of government. Whenever the word politician is used with an uncomplicated adjective, or in a complimentary sense, it is just as sad a reflection on our own careless attitude as it is on the person to whom it is applied.

There are times when the world seems to be going to the dogs. As one writer put it: "Our earth is degenerate in these latter days. There are signs that the end of the world is not far off. Children no longer obey their parents. Every man wants to be a writer. The end of the world is evidently approaching."

Many persons would agree with this, and some might say that it is just going to show that the old days were better. Well, maybe they were. If you go back far enough, you will find that the world was better, were written about 4800 years ago.

According to Sherwood Eddy's autobiography, they are a translation from an old Assyrian tablet of approximately 2800 B. C.

The time will come when the "good will speak enviously of the 'good old ways' of 1935. But they will not necessarily be worse off than people are today.

Word 'Honey' Is Versatile

(Louisville Courier-Journal)

A London columnist has raised quite a to-do in British circles by reporting that comedian Danny Kaye called Princess Margaret "honey" at a recent backstage gathering. This, trumpets the columnist, Mr. North, was an unbounded effrontery and an attempt at undue familiarity. On the contrary, we would reply, this merely shows that Mr. North doesn't know his honey.

As a term of address, "honey" is one of the vaguest, trickiest and most useful words in the English — or at least the American — language. It can mean a waitress, soothe a child, please an aunt or encourage a rival with equal efficiency, depending on how, when and in what tone of voice it is used. It is extremely useful in plugging the awkward gap that occurs when you have forgotten someone's name.

But by no stretch of the imagination is "honey" an attempt at undue familiarity. "Honey" is the sort of word that "darling" is to the north, just as "southerner" tends to say "Hey!" instead of "Hi!" No true southern female could grow to maturity without it. And if she is old enough to have engaged in a few skirmishes with other members of her own and the opposite sex she would rather be parted from her slow smile and sidelong glance than surrender her use of the word. And with good reason, for no word can look down its nose or flutter its eyelashes more efficiently than "honey."

Anyhow, who can deny that Princess Margaret is, by any standards, a honey?

Probably if these people thought twice they would agree that the politician is as important to us as the lawyer, the doctor, the engineer, or the scientist; that he is not necessarily any "cheaper" than the rest of us. Personal Health Talks

How Good Is Iodized Salt?

Iodized salt is ordinary salt to which .02 per cent of potassium iodide has been added. The average daily intake of salt in America is approximately a heaping teaspoonful per person. This includes not only the salt added in cooking and at table but also the salt naturally present in meat, fish and milk. The average person consumes two or three times as much salt as the body needs or can advantageously use.

The habit of using too much salt in or on food has these bad effects:

1. The blood and tissues retain too much water — the body is waterlogged, sometimes so much so that the ankles swell (edema) as in dropsy.

2. The individual prefers to just lie, sit or stand there.

3. Digestion is impaired by inactivation of pepsin. The effect of excessive salt consumption upon blood pressure, scientifically controlled tests of the question, is actually insignificant. So the trick specialists and "clinicians" who string along the label says the salt is iodized to take a 5 to 10 grain tablet or an equivalent amount of salt with each big drink of water until the body machinery adjusts itself.

Dr. E. Ph. D., my consultant, the chemist, told me the 1½ grains of KI in a pound of iodized salt represents, actually, I had rather not ask him about it just now, as I owe him a dollar. Anyway it is negligible, in my opinion. So negligible that, at our house, we no longer pay any attention to it. The label says the salt is iodized to take a 5 to 10 grain tablet or an equivalent amount of salt with each big drink of water until the body machinery adjusts itself.

Each of us is an entity in himself. We are unique, for there is not another in all the world exactly like us. Therefore we should be proud and happy for we can spread our development and grow to the extent of our abilities.

Be yourself and you will stand out from others. Why should we try to be someone else, any? Until we test out our own capabilities. We do not know our own capabilities. There is hidden within us! Every time we read a great book, visit a new location, or meet someone new, we are growing a little, and the more we grow the more we want to grow! That's the way it is.

We often hear the expression "I wish I had his ability," or "I wish I could be him or her." But that is not the way our Creator figured it out. He wanted every person to stand upon his merits and demonstrate himself. Whiteman, stand on your own feet!

Says Government Has Jekyll-Hyde Airways Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — An Opposition lawyer-politician who has appeared before the air transport board Friday accused the government of a Jekyll and Hyde attitude on overall air policy for Canada.

John B. Hamilton (PC, York West) said in the Commons that on the one hand the government is saying everything is rosy in the country economically and that air transportation is developing by leaps and bounds.

Yet, he added, only last autumn the government and the air transport board rejected a licence application for a competitive air service on the ground economic conditions did not make this service opportune.

Mr. Hamilton did not say so specifically, but he apparently referred to an application by Associated Airways Ltd. of Edmonton to operate a service in the Northwest Territories in competition with Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Mr. Hamilton acted as counsel for Associated Airways before the air transport board which, Transport Minister Marler said Thursday night, tentatively favored the application but later rejected it after Mr. Marler asked the board to reconsider. Mr. Marler said then that his action was motivated by the fact Canada was in a moderate recession at the time.

Mr. Hamilton said today that expansion of air services could be achieved if the government did not try to force the aviation industry along some predetermined path.

The government should provide a general background of sound regulatory and promotional policies letting the industry find its own course in competition with all other forms of transportation.

Opposition leader Drew charged the department with complacency in development of air terminals and said the country lags behind European countries in providing adequate facilities for passengers at airports.

Mr. Marler replied that Canada has between 20 and 30 major airports, far more than any single European country. Until now, Canada has emphasized development of runways, radio and navigation aids and other technical services for commercial aviation, rather than build beautiful air terminals.

He said the public prefers safe aircraft travel first to commodious terminals.

Charge Two Men Obtained $51,755 Fraudulently

TORONTO (CP) — Police charged two men Friday with obtaining $51,755 by false pretences from 1933-55. Herbert H. Herrold, 30, and his brother Virgil R. Herrold, 36, both of Toronto, have also been charged with conspiring with each other to defraud the Trades Finance Corp. Ltd.

The additional charges were laid after the pair appeared in court Thursday on fraud charges. The two were remanded on bail for one week.

Queen and Duke Applaud Marlene

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh sat up until the early hours Friday to watch glamorous Marlene Dietrich in the cabaret act at a private party in London's west end.

The Queen and her husband sat on a sofa and just in front, squatting on cushions, were Princess Margaret and Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent.

At the end of each song the royal audience clapped, and the two princesses joined in the roar of applause.

TTC Worker Killed

TORONTO (CP) — Carl Garemko, 47, a maintenance worker with the Toronto Transit Commission, was killed Friday when struck by a subway train.

Garemko, working on the tracks in a northern section of the city, stepped back to avoid a subway train but failed to see a train coming the other way.

A.V. Roe, Union Reach Accord On Contract

TORONTO (CP) — A mass meeting of aircraft workers will be held Sunday to vote on a new two-year contract offered by A.V. Roe of Canada Ltd. to its 12,000 employees at two Malton plants.

Ratification of the contract is expected to be a formality, the company Friday offered package deal in wage increases and fringe benefits amounting to nearly 10 cents an hour.

All hourly - rated employees would get an immediate three-cent-an-hour increase. This would be retroactive to April 15, expiry date of the last contract. From July 28, 1956, an extra five cents an hour will be paid.

Workers would receive hourly rates ranging from $14.80 to $23.00 for a 40-hour week. The increases would cost the company an extra $200,000 a year.

In addition, the company offers to incorporate the present one-off cost-of-living bonus into the basic wage rate from July 30, 1955. It also offers to pay all instead of half the cost of the existing group insurance plan and to introduce an improved insurance plan next year.

The agreement is between Lodge 717 of the International Association of Machinists (IAM) and A.V. Roe's two subsidiary plants at Malton, Avro Aircraft Ltd. and Orenda Engines Ltd.

Crawford Gordon Jr., president and general manager of Avro Canada, said Friday night he feels the new contract "will be good for the employees and for the companies."

When negotiations began last February the union asked for increases ranging from seven to 14 cents an hour.

A ban on overtime is expected to be lifted. This would facilitate production of the new CF-105 jet aircraft and the new Otter-100 gunline, PS-13. Avro also produces the CF-107 jet fighter.

Wage Hike For 7,800 Workers At Stelco

HAMILTON (CP) — The Steel Company of Canada and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CU) settled their contract dispute early Friday with an agreement giving an increase of 10 cents an hour to 7,800 Stelco workers here.

Judge Walter Little of Parry Sound, Ont., chairman of a three-man government conciliation board, announced at 1:20 a.m. EDT that a full settlement had been reached after 13 hours of continuous negotiations.

The union's local executive will meet Monday to settle details and arrange for the contract to be put up for ratification by the membership.

Apart from what it called a "generous wage increase," the union had sought a $100-a-month pension plan for workers reaching 65 years after 20 years' service. No other details of the settlement were disclosed.

HAD ASKED PARITY

In addition the union demanded wage parity with the United States on the matter of differential in job classifications. Present basic wages at Stelco range from $1.48 to $2.25 for laborers to $2.32 for skilled workers.

The settlement is expected to determine the pattern in negotiations this year at the Algoma Steel Company at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and next year at Dominion Steel and Coal Co. at Sydney, N.S., the other two of Canada's three big steel producers.

The company's wage offer broke the hold-the-line policy Stelco had expressed before the conciliation board when it first met five days ago.

The company opposed the union demands on the grounds that parity with the United States in steel is uneconomic and would threaten Canada's economy.

Donald J. Clawson, Stelco director of industrial relations, said during the hearings that a wage increase would have "serious effects in terms of increased costs, and consequently increase prices."

A company spokesman today declined to comment on whether the union settlement would mean a boost in steel prices.

Mau Mau Camps Infiltrated

Details of Amazing Courage Revealed in Army Disclosures

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—An angry British Army headquarters yesterday clamped a lid of secrecy over the hair-raising exploits of a handful of white British soldiers operating behind Mau Mau terrorist lines disguised as Kikuyu tribesmen.

The war office in London Tuesday night released details of the amazing courage displayed by a handful of white British soldiers operating behind Mau Mau terrorist lines disguised as Kikuyu tribesmen.

Gen. Gerald Lathbury's headquarters today was "astounded" by the war office's action. A spokesman for him said citations for the cloak-and-dagger soldiers were sent to London marked "secret."

News of the exploits of Capt. R. Ian Field of the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, a group of hand-picked men and the intricate spy system they built up in Kenya to infiltrate terrorist camps was published in the official London Gazette.

News of the exploits has been common knowledge to Nairobi reporters for months, but they have maintained secrecy.

Despite the war office disclosures, headquarters here today seemed intent to reinforce what little security remains because the operations are so important they will be carried on despite the now almost suicidal risks.

All interviews with the newly decorated men—even anonymously—have been refused.

Experts Say Passenger-Carrying Rockets Not Likely in Near Future

WINNIPEG (CP)—Three top officials of the Royal Aeronautical Society, London, are of the opinion that passenger-carrying rockets and revolutionary-type civil aircraft are not on the books of airplane manufacturers.

"A sensible development" is at hand, with the civil aircraft industry concentrating on improving existing types of planes—particularly jets—to make them both faster and safer.

The officials, in Winnipeg recently on their way home from the fifth annual American Aeronautical conference at Los Angeles, were Dr. A. M. Ballantyne, secretary of the society, D. C. Smith, head of the technical department, and John Dunlop, aerodynamics expert.

"Before we try to revolutionize civil aircraft," said Mr. Smith, "we must bring aviation to the people, to make them realize the place of the airplane in transportation. Here in Canada I was surprised at the number and type of people that use aircraft—young parents with children, and the like—who go by plane, just because it's the fastest way to travel."

Most notable changes in aircraft design and structure in the last 15 years, the group said, was in the reduced to 30 countries.

Burglar Finds Safe Combination Printed on Door

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—The burglar who broke into the Mugginsville Lumber Co. Wednesday night never had it so good. He found the combination printed in bold letters on the door of the safe.

Bryan Boward, an office employee who discovered the theft Thursday, said the burglar got away with a little over $100.

Boward explained that the safe had taken such a beating at the hands of would-be safecrackers that about a year ago company officials decided to put the combination where burglars would have no trouble finding it. They barely left any money in the safe, but Wednesday night a truck driver checked in too late to have his proceeds taken to the bank.

The gifts consisted of a trillight floor lamp with matching shades, a green baby chienne bedspread, a wrought iron magazine rack, hassock and modern garbage container.

Helen graciously thanked her neighbors and girl friends for the lovely gifts and invited them to visit her when she is settled in her new home.

The hostesses served cup cakes, tarts, ice cream and cool drinks, and all enjoyed a delightful evening.

Among the guests were Mrs. Walter Jeffry and her daughter, Helen; Mrs. J. Joblin, of Belleville.

POT-LUCK SUPPER

About 18 members and two guests of the Wellington Women's Institute enjoyed a pot-luck supper on the park on Tuesday evening. After partaking of all the good things to eat the ladies adjourned to the town hall where the regular monthly meeting was held. The meeting opened in the usual way.

The roll call was answered by presenting something to be sold at the pie and ice cream social and bazaar which was decided to be held on Saturday evening, August 6, in the town hall. Many nice things were donated and members who were not at the meeting please don't forget to hand in your articles before August 6.

A thank-you card was read from Mrs. Rufus Garrett. There was one lonely donation to the birthday box, Mrs. Ogilvy being the only one with a birthday in July.

Mrs. Wright being hostess for the month, took over and gave the following program: song by all present "The Maple Leaf Forever"; poem of the month, by Mrs. B. Blakely, "The Lonely Dog"; one of Helen B. Anderson's poem's written about a deceased neighbor's dog. Mrs. Frank Brimley, Sr., gave an excellent piano solo "The Flower Song". Mrs. Moore gave current events. Another song "Juanita" with Mrs. Charles Tripp and Mrs. Ben Bishop singing the verses as a duet. A humorous reading "Grandma's Glasses" given by Mrs. Frank Harris, was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Wright presented the oldest and the youngest grandmothers namely Mrs. C. Stoneburgh and Mrs. S. Tripp, with a little gift each. This brought the program to a close.

Policeman Detects Error After 3 Years

WEST PATERSON, N. J. (AP)—Would you notice if you had different-numbered front and rear licence plates for three years?

Policeman Carl von Stetten didn't.

He discovered recently that his front plate was his normal registration, YF25W, but the rear plate was YF27W, due to an error in wrapping the five-year New Jersey plates in 1952.

Von Stetten tracked down the man who had registration YF27W—George Mackey of Lincoln Park—who hadn't noticed his odd set either.

They exchanged plates.

Austrian Treaty Wins Approval Of French Senate

PARIS (AP)—The French Council of the Republic (senate) approved the Austrian independence treaty Thursday, 315 to 0.

The National Assembly earlier approved the pact and the governments of Austria, Britain, the United States and Russia have already completed all ratification steps.

As soon as France deposits the ratification instruments in Moscow, the treaty will become effective.

DETROIT (AP)—While temperatures bubble around 100, Eddie Wojtowicz is troubled with icicles on his chin.

Eddie, a technician at the Detroit tank arsenal, works in an icebox as big as a garage where they test tanks to be used in Arctic regions.

Eddie was reasonably comfortable Thursday. It was only 71 below zero.

Eddie has just one gripe with his job. He has to leave at the end of the day.

Canada Takes Two-Game Lead in Cup Tennis

Javis Cup tennis team, with two wins to its credit in the two games of a five-match tie against the British West Indies, looks like it has all it needs to take the second-round series.

In the third match which starts at 3:30 p.m. EDT today, the subles combination of Bob Redard, Quebec, and Don Fennell, Toronto, will do battle with 'est Indies playing captain Ian McDonald and Frank Mott-Trille. McDonald and Mott-Trille both in singles matches Friday against Bedard and Lorne Main of Toronto. Bedard beat McDonald three games to one and Main took Mott-Trille in straight sets.

WITCHED SELECTION

Main and Montreal Henri Rochon were originally slated to go to Canada in the doubles fixture, but Rochon asked non-playing captain Jim Skelton to switch his selection after Bedard and Fontana clobbered Main and Rochon in a practice session late Thursday.

Rochon now will play in a singles exhibition match against Peter Phillips, third member of the B.W.I. team, following today's doubles contest.

Neither Main nor Bedard found much difficulty Friday in disposing of their West Indies opponents. Both showed fine form in service.

McDonald put up the best opposition with a cool placing game, but Bedard's overhead smashes and back-court drives proved too much for the 22-year-old graduate of Cambridge University.

Main outclassed Mott-Trille in every department, dropping in lobs and cross-court placements to take points almost at will. A veteran of seven Davis Cup seasons, Main used a one-handed style for the first time in cup competition.

Panthers Rally, Beat Terriers

GALT (CP) — An eighth-inning five-run rally gave Kitchener Panthers an 8-6 victory Friday night over Galt Terriers and lessened Terriers' chances of getting into the Intercounty Baseball League playoffs.

There was a parade of pitchers with the visitors using a quartet and the locals a trio.

When the Panthers took the lead, no-hitter Lefty Allen was sent in as insurance in the eighth and retired the side by the strikeout route.

Dick Welker had a two-run homer in the third and in the same frame Harry Evans of the locals with two on base lifted the pellet over the right field fence. Jim Martin, Galt's starting pitcher got himself in trouble with his charities.

Dodger Fans Shower 'Pee Wee' With Presents

BROOKLYN (AP)—They threw a night for Pee Wee Reese Friday night in Ebbets Field—and a big one it turned out to be. A crowd of 33,003, largest of the season, watched the Brooks slug Milwaukee Braves, 6-4, and howled themselves hoarse as Reese hit two doubles and was involved in three of his team's runs.

It was Brooklyn's greatest baseball party. Reese is 36 today. More than 10,000 spectators contributed to the 60 gifts, which included three $1,000 savings bonds, purchased by dimes and dollars sent in by fans. Another gift was an automobile. Seven different makes were lined up on the field, and Pee Wee's 16-year-old daughter Barbara picked a key out of a box. The car in which the key fit went to the Dodgers shortstop. It was a Chevrolet.

There also was everything from a food freeze to a portable typewriter, a gift from the writers who cover the Dodgers.

There were cameras, tape recorders, golf clubs, tires, all sorts of wearing apparel and an honorary lifetime membership in the Teamsters Union.

Hot Sun Blisters New York, Pa.

NEW YORK (AP)—Much of the northeastern United States gasped for breath today under a red hot sun which sent temperatures higher by the minute.

At many points the mercury already was nearing the 100-degree mark at noon. The weather man offered little hope for relief.

Drastic water economy measures were imposed in some sections of Pennsylvania and New York state where the last rainfall was only a dim memory.

The weather bureau said Pennsylvania was suffering its driest July on record, especially in the easternmost section. For the 15th straight day the mercury was well over 90 in much of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia expected a 100-degree top today. More of the same was forecast for the next two days.

Water restrictions had to be put into effect in the area around Buffalo, N. Y., where there has been no appreciable rainfall for 52 days.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A national Negro fraternal group announced Thursday that for the first time it will award a college scholarship to a white student.

Britain's Athletic Bosses Look Askance on Track Mania

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's amateur athletic bosses are taking a grave view of track "record mania."

"It is a very regrettable trend," says secretary Jack Crump of the Amateur Athletic Association's board.

He refers to the tendency of top British runners these days to shoot for a world mark every time they step on the cinders—battering the clock rather than the opposition.

"I blame the promoters," said Crump in an interview. "They are out to make their particular meetings a success, drawing the biggest crowds."

'ABSOLUTELY ABSURD'

"The money all goes back to the sport, or to charity, and the athlete feels they are publicizing the sport, but it leads to some stupid things, absolutely absurd."

"My personal view is that the way to handle the problem, and this is one of the problems arising from the athletes boom in this country, lies with the bodies who have the last word on track records. They can always refuse to recognize those they feel have been set by unsatisfactory methods."

Gordon (Puff Puff) Pirie is one example. The lean, dedicated paint salesman has been laying steady assault against various marks, sometimes with pacers.

It is a technique that Roger Bannister used in smashing the four-minute-mile barrier, and it is considered legitimate if the pacer finishes the race. Pirie recently ran three different distances in a week, falling in all.

FEW RECORDS SET

"The thing is that so few records actually are set at such races," said Crump. "Chris Chataway and Vladimir Kuc (of Russia) were racing each other when Chataway set his short-lived world mark last year in the three miles. That's the way it should be."

Pity the poor modern runner, says Bannister, commenting in the Sunday Times on a topic which has been given a good deal of attention recently.

He's caught between the publicity-conscious promoter and a secret desire to see that record before somebody in Russia or elsewhere makes it.

In this day, the paced race is "inevitable" if a record time is aimed at and the opposition is inadequate to produce it.

But he maintains there is the second and more frequent type—"the real race, the satisfying man-to-man struggle for national or international titles."

Sports columnist Peter Wilson of The Daily Mirror has this to say: "If you take the thing to its logical conclusion, you have a man on a motorbike governed down to 15 miles an hour, doing four laps with a runner who is inside the beats the machine—knows he is inside four minutes."

There is some apprehension that track fans, attracted in the thousands by Britain's most successful post-war sport, are beginning to grow bored by the records broken rather than by the heat of the struggle itself.

Few think that can happen here, where things get out of hand, and the boom broke. It ran from 1943 to 1945 when Gunder Haegg and Arne Anderson were chasing and snapping records every few days, until they were suspended for life for taking money from promoters.

The crowds ebbed away, with no stars to take the duo's place.

Sweden is cited as an example where things got out of hand, and the boom broke. It ran from 1943 to 1945 when Gunder Haegg and Arne Anderson were chasing and snapping records every few days, until they were suspended for life for taking money from promoters.

The 25-year-old boxer, whose real name is Carmine Titello, was arrested in connection with a melee in which an attendant was injured. Giardello was tried last March and convicted of six accounts of assault and riot.

Minor Baseball

The Knights of Columbus and Vaughan's continued the winning form in the pantom scene of the Belleville minor baseball association last night, Vaughan's trouncing Point Anne 26-5 while the K.C.'s shaded the Y's Men 11-10.

Vaughan's plated 19 of their runs in the last two innings as Dave Polier picked up his second victory on the mound, allowing but two hits. J. Gannon and Lucas hurled in defeat, between them allowing 15 hits.

Belanger paced the winner's attack with a triple and two singles while Sheridan, Moreau, Clarke, Regent and Polier punched two singles each. D. Lucas and J. Gannon hit safely for the losers.

Larry Soden was the winning pitcher in the K.C.'s triumph, giving up seven hits, Harvey and Waite threw in a losing effort, touched for nine safe blows.

Moore and Soden had two hits each for the winners while Keller and Davis were best in defeat, also with two hits. Keller's two hits were triples.

In addition to Harbert and Burkeno, ex-champs Gene Sarazen and Vic Ghezzi were sent to the sidelines.

Blue Bombers Ask for Writs Against Players

CLEVELAND (AP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers asked federal court here Friday for writs to prevent contract-jumpers Bobby Freeman and Jack Locklear from playing with Cleveland Browns.

A Cleveland lawyer, Theodore C. Robinson, filed the suits for the Western Interprovincial Football Union team. The cases probably will be assigned to a judge next week.

Robinson said the Canadian club took the action because "it is not possible to determine whether the absence of these players would affect attendance or cause Winnipeg to win or lose a championship."

"We can't force them to play for the Winnipeg club if they don't want to, anyone than you can force an actor to act," Robinson said. "But under their contracts we can prevent them from playing with another club."

Giardello Goes To the Pokey

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Middleweight boxer Joey Giardello started a six-to-18-month prison sentence Friday for his part in a riot at a south Philadelphia gas station.

The 25-year-old boxer, whose real name is Carmine Titello, was arrested in connection with a melee in which an attendant was injured. Giardello was tried last March and convicted of six accounts of assault and riot.

Minor Baseball

The Knights of Columbus and Vaughan's continued the winning form in the pantom scene of the Belleville minor baseball association last night, Vaughan's trouncing Point Anne 26-5 while the K.C.'s shaded the Y's Men 11-10.

Vaughan's plated 19 of their runs in the last two innings as Dave Polier picked up his second victory on the mound, allowing but two hits. J. Gannon and Lucas hurled in defeat, between them allowing 15 hits.

Belanger paced the winner's attack with a triple and two singles while Sheridan, Moreau, Clarke, Regent and Polier punched two singles each. D. Lucas and J. Gannon hit safely for the losers.

Larry Soden was the winning pitcher in the K.C.'s triumph, giving up seven hits, Harvey and Waite threw in a losing effort, touched for nine safe blows.

Moore and Soden had two hits each for the winners while Keller and Davis were best in defeat, also with two hits. Keller's two hits were triples.

In addition to Harbert and Burkeno, ex-champs Gene Sarazen and Vic Ghezzi were sent to the sidelines.

Medalist Doug Ford, Jack Burke, Ed Furgol, Marty Furgol, Jack Fleck, Lew Wortham and Fred Hawkins all came through.

Dust-Off Pitches Protested By Dodger Brass

BROOKLYN (AP) — Burzy Baval, Brooklyn vice-president, has demanded action from National League president Warren Giles against dust-off pitches thrown at his Dodgers which have "happened too often to be accidents."

Baval said he filed his protest in the form of a letter to Giles. He said he told the league pressy "either your umpires are incompetent, or they just aren't paying attention to orders."

Baseball rules call for an umpire to warn a pitcher the first time he is suspected of throwing at a hitter, and to eject him the second time.

32 TIMES

Baval noted that his league leaders have "been hit 32 times in little more than half a season." The National League team record for being hit by pitches, is 53, set by the pennant bound New York Giants of 1917.

In Cincinnati, Giles had "no comment" on the Baval letter. Asked if the dustier average was up, he replied:

"I don't think so, but it's difficult to say because sometimes it may be thrown and the ball can't hit. No other club has filed a complaint this year."

Veteran Pat Maracle Pitches, Bats Point Anne to 14-0 Win Over Madoc

Behind the spectacular pitching and batting of Pat Maracle, the Point Anne Cementmen whipped Madoc 14-0 in Madoc last night to draw within one game of the Orfuns in the Belleville and District softball league. The leaders own a 12 and three record with one game to play while the Pointers have ten wins against three losses and have three scheduled games to play.

Maracle was given all-light support in the field and plenty of ground to work on as the Oxmen pounded 14 hits but it was the veteran hurler who stole the show. He allowed only one hit, a single through the infield in the initial frame and from then on he was unbeatable, facing only 31 batters. He fanned 18 and seemed to strengthen as he went, whiffing the side in the eighth and ninth innings. Madoc hit only one ball to the outfield, a short fly to right in the third inning. Their four runners were Schofield, who had a base hit in the first, Nickle, walking in the second and again in the eighth and Hatch also strolling in the eighth to make Nickle the only Madoc player to reach second base. Maracle retired 17 men in order at one time.

In addition to his excellent hurling, Maracle spearheaded the offence with a perfect night at the plate. He pounded a triple in the third, singles in the fourth and sixth, and when the Pointers rallied for eight runs in the eighth he walked and hammered a double in two trips.

The winners were held scoreless until the fourth when they took a 4-0 lead, adding singletons in the fifth and sixth before wrapping up the scoring with eight more in the eighth.

Wayne Shaw started on the hill for Madoc, lasting 7 1-3 frames, allowing 11 runs on the same number of hits, fanning three and passing six. Bob Schofield completed the fixture, moving in from centre field. He walked three.

Errors paved the way to the victor's initial tallies when Hagerman, Nickle and Carswell booted the ball, Goyer walking and singles by Maracle and Gilmour played four, Hull's double, Goyer's sacrifice and Whalen's double added one in the following frame while Maracle singled Bennett home after the latter had tripled in the sixth.

The eighth was a nightmare as 12 men batted, six of them walking. The base-on-balls were mixing among Horwood's single, Maracle's double and three-base blows by Goyer and Bennett. Gilmour was the only Cementman who failed to reach base and score in the frame.

All the starting players participated in the hitting spree, Phil Bennett driving a brace of triples while Gerry Goyer had one. Doubles went to Bob Hull, Bert Whalen and Roger Mallory while Jack Elliott, Pat Gilmour, John Green and "Soup" Horwood contributed singles.

LINE-UPS:

Point Anne—Elliott, Gilmour, B. Hull, Green, Lally, Goyer, Whalen, Mallory, Horwood, Bennett, Strahan, Maracle.

Madoc — Hagerman, Carswell, Schofield, H. Brown, W. Brown, Nickle, Devolin, Hatch, Aylesworth, Shaw.

Scorer—Bob Vaughan.

World Record Clocked At Saratoga Track

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.

(AP)—Diamond Hal set a world's two-hat record and broke the track mark at Saratoga raceway Friday night in taking both dashes of the $10,000 Springfield free-for-all race.

Driven by Joe O'Brien of New Glasgow, N.S., the four-year-old captured the first dash of the grand circuit event in 2:00 4-5 and then topped the second in two minutes flat, fastest mile in the track's history.

The elapsed time of the two miles, 4:00 4-5, shaded by one fifth of a second the former two-hat racing mark over half-mile track set by Tar Heel in winning the Little Brown Jug Stakes for three-year-olds at Delaware, Ohio, in 1951.

Diamond Hal's second mile broke the former raceway track record of 2:00 1-5, first set by Good Time in 1952 and equaled by Newport Chief last year.

SUSPECTS INEFFICIENCY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator John Kennedy (Dem. Mass.) said Thursday he has learned that the United States Army sought recently to sell as "surplus" a $450,000 supply of stiff-paper file folders—enough to supply the entire federal government's need for the item for 15 to 14 years.

Kennedy said the folders probably would be a 50-year supply for the army, and he will ask for some explanation of why a stock that big was bought.

Natural Gas Pipeline Plans
Still Uncertain

OTTAWA (CP)—Timing of a natural gas pipeline from Alberta to the East over an all-Canadian route remained uncertain today after new representations to the government, this time from a north-western Ontario delegation.

Delegation spokesmen said after Friday's meeting that they got generalities from Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe, though they said they were heartened by what the cabinet chiefs said to them.

WANT ALL-CANADIAN

The delegation, representing municipalities at the Lakehead and in northern Ontario, urged on the government that the proposed all-Canadian line over the top of the Great Lakes be built to develop the potentialities of the Lakehead area and the region north of the lakes.

The group arrived in Ottawa at a time when the cabinet is known to be considering a number of possibilities in connection with the double question of disposing of surplus Alberta gas and supplying eastern Canada with the utility.

The original proposal of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., was for a pipe from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec, with gas dropped into the United States Midwest south of Winnipeg. But this has bogged because of difficulties in financing.

Roebuck Protests Cancellations Of Insurance

OTTAWA (CP) — A 77-year-old Ontario senator says he isn't too old to be a good risk for sickness and accident insurance.

Senator Arthur Roebuck made the statement in the Senate Thursday in a strong protest against cancellation of sickness and accident insurance policies when an insured person reaches 70.

"It does seem to me that private insurance companies have disintegrated themselves utterly by that sort of thing for carrying on insurance," he said.

"I think the actions of the private concerns in the past have been an outrage—absolutely reprehensible. Insurance should carry on as long as the insured lives."

Senator Roebuck said he had a pailup sickness insurance policy for some 20 years. However, the policy was cancelled when he reached 70 despite his vigorous protests.

"That's what I've been trying to tell you ever since you came in. My electricity has been shut off."

"I told my brother in French to slam the brakes on when we got into Sturgeon," he said. "We neared a service station and then Homer hit the brakes hard. The man in the back flew over the front seat and I made a grab for his gun."

In the scuffle that followed one bullet was fired and went through the front seat, police said. Julian held the man while Homer called police.

Police questioned a man in connection with the case. Sgt. Simon Laficche said later the suspect will be charged with assault and intent to rob.

Specially-Designed Ships May Open Ungava's Iron Ore

By GUY BETTANY
COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — A plan to build a fleet of specially-designed ships capable of navigating the ice-strewn waters of Ungava bay in northeastern Canada to make the area's valuable deposits of iron ore more easily available to industry.

Up to now the main problem of utilizing the deposits has been that Ungava bay is ice-bound for more than six months in the year, which has practically excluded their exploitation on a commercial basis.

Now a combined project is being discussed by the Danish, Canadian and Greenland governments.

Under the scheme, the shipping firm would provide ships to carry the ore to a harbor to be constructed at Godthaab, Greenland, which has the advantage of being ice-free throughout the year.

At Godthaab, the ore would be stored and moved at intervals by 25,000-ton ships to all parts of the world.

The Lauritzen company are specialists in Arctic navigation. They built the celebrated ship Kista Dan for the Greenland service. The ship is the last word in Arctic sailing and is designed as a combined ice-breaker and cargo ship.

At the top of the forecast is an enclosed control cabin, from which the captain can directly steer the ship and manipulate the machinery without the delays due to the type of engine room telegraph. This enables him to pick his way through the ice floes.

For this reason, the Kista Dan has sometimes been described as a ship which can be driven like a

Official Has Plan to Move Eskimo Children Into White Man's World

JUNEAU, Alaska (Reuters) — A plan to move the younger generation of Alaska's population out of their Arctic villages and into the white man's world has been put forward by a U.S. official.

The scheme to "integrate" Eskimo youngsters in the schools of one of Alaska's large cities was suggested by William Olsen, director of the federal Alaska native service, which has charge of government activities for the northern territory's population of Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts.

He made the proposal after a tour of Eskimo villages along the Arctic and Bering sea coasts.

Eskimo children now are educated in grade schools in their own villages operated either by the service or the territory. The more promising students then are sent back to high schools and colleges and afterwards they return home.

Olsen offered his plan as a method to make a "one-way street" out of this traffic from the villages into the white man's world.

"There is no sense in returning an Eskimo with his new learning in the white man's way, to his village where he has no future," he said. "Quite simply, at home he has, in most instances, no chance of making a living."

Olsen painted a dismal picture of many of the Eskimo villages. He told in particular of one primitive village, where of the 40 children enrolled, more than 75 per cent were suffering from malnutrition.

Many of them owned only the ragged and torn clothing on their backs.

He said that the Eskimo children were suffering from lack of food and clothing.

Federal Cabinet Ministers to Use Dept. Planes

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal cabinet ministers will use transport department aircraft to a greater extent on public business, Transport Minister Marler told the Commons Thursday night.

He said such transportation enables ministers to complete their business faster and more efficiently. The department preferred that they use TCA and other commercial airlines but their flights did not always fit in with ministers' plans and schedules.

"I think—and I realize that perhaps this might not be a popular statement—that there is likely to be a growing use of departmental aircraft for these purposes, just as there is a growing use in industry of (private) aircraft for executive officers," Mr. Marler said.

He made the observations after Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) noted there were 128 instances in the last fiscal year where cabinet ministers used transport department aircraft.

Mr. Marler said this represents only a relatively small proportion of the number of flights by departmental aircraft, but that it likely will grow.

Among them is a 4,000-ton ore-carrying ship with ice protection now being built in Hamburg, West Germany, while another is under construction in Alborg, Jutland. The latter when completed will be the world's largest ship capable of sailing in ice-filled waters. It will embody not only the additional features of a double bottom and the stem.

LEARNS IMPORTANCE OF BEING SIR GEORGE

George Grant-Suttie, of Sussex, N.B., became Sir George Grant-Suttie when his Scottish cousin, the 7th baronet, died seven years ago, but George, age 16, didn't realize the importance of being Sir George until he visited the estate, Balgonie and Prestongrange, on Scotland's east coast for the first time recently. He found that the title he had inherited a 500-year-old mansion, five farms and 2,000 acres of land. He reacted by hurrying the fence as you see, said Sir George. "I have to go back to Canada to finish my education - but if I decide that Scotland is the place for me I shall return very soon." — Central Press Canadian.

Alleged Gambling Three Companies Kingpin Sought At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—An alleged kingpin in Montreal gambling remained at large early today despite an intensive police search that included a raid on his suburban Beaconsfield home.

Frank Pretula is wanted by police on a warrant issued Wednesday for his arrest in connection with violent outbreaks in four Montreal nightclubs during what police then described as the result of a war between rival gambling groups. Police have described him as head of one of the groups.

In their drive to find Pretula, police picked up 40-year-old Louis (Louie) Greco in a raid on the latter's Westmont home. A police source said Pretula might "come into headquarters after we have talked a little to Greco."

Along with Greco, police seized cardstock boxes which they said contained photographs and other documents that would be checked for possible tie-ups with other Montreal figures being investigated.

The search dates back to shortly after the All-American Cafe and the Montmartre Cafe were raided and wrecked Thursday morning by a gang of armed hoodlums.

The raids followed similar ones Tuesday night in which first the El Morocco and then the Downtown Clubs saw rioting groups rampant.

The raids followed similar ones Tuesday night in which first the El Morocco and then the Downtown Clubs saw rioting groups rampant.

Along with Greco, police seized cardstock boxes which they said contained photographs and other documents that would be checked for possible tie-ups with other Montreal figures being investigated.

The search dates back to shortly after the All-American Cafe and the Montmartre Cafe were raided and wrecked Thursday morning by a gang of armed hoodlums.

Government Not Financing Flying Saucers Study

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Marler suggested Thursday night that an opposition member had referred to a molehill into a mountain when he asked a series of questions in the Commons about flying saucers.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) had referred to the feasibility study of flying saucers by Dr. W. B. Smith, an official of the transport department.

Mr. Marler said the department spent no money on the study. It had permitted Dr. Smith, in his free time, to use a surplus 10-foot square building at nearby Shirley's bay and surplus equipment.

The department had received no useful information whatever from the year-long study, discontinued in 1954.

No estimate of damage was available immediately.

A fire in the tanks in the same area in February, 1948, caused loss of $500,000.

One man was reported blown from the top of the tank.

Company officials said it is believed a workman was doing some welding when a spark ignited the tank, situated near a laboratory.

Workers in nearby office buildings carried on with their jobs. The immediate area around the tank was cleared.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada Ltd., and Seiberling Rubber Co. said prices will be increased effective early next week and Dunlop of Canada indicated it will follow suit with similar increases "within a few days."

When sailor Joseph O'Connell of Jacksonville, Fla., survived the crash-landing of a navy bomber near here Wednesday it marked the third time he escaped injury in a plane mishap.

Thursday, the 36-year-old reservist asked the local navy recruiting office for transportation home by train. His request was granted.

Three young naval reservists were rescued from their overturned sailing dinghy in their overturned sailing dinghy in Hamilton Bay Friday by an unidentified motorboat operator.

The youths, William Clair of Toronto; Robert Hutton, 17, of London; and James Richardson, 18, of London, along to their overturned craft a quarter mile out from the Steel Company wharves for 20 minutes before they were picked up.

First Industrial Estate in Canada Is Opened in B.C.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—The first "industrial estate" in Canada—and potentially the largest ever launched in North America—was officially opened Friday on Annacis Island in the Fraser river delta.

The 1,200-acre site, planned to house much of the industrial expansion of British Columbia's lower mainland within the next decade, is the first venture in Canada by the powerful British organization of Grosvenor Estates.

Launched early in 1953 by the late Arthur Hugh Grosvenor, Duke of Westminster, the estate is designed to provide buildings, services and all facilities for industry on a leasehold basis.

Annacis Island, a 3½-mile long alluvial deposit in the middle of the Fraser river just outside of New Westminster boundary, now has been connected to the mainland by a 1,200-foot causeway, also officially opened Friday.

Doctors Are Not Blocking Health Insurance Scheme

OTTAWA (CP)—An Alberta physician said Thursday Canadian doctors are not a stumbling block to any plan of national health insurance.

However, Liberal Senator F. W. Gershaw of Medicine Hat told the Senate that the Canadian Medical Association is opposed to state medicine. It would be impossible to put doctors on salary with any degree of fairness.

U.S., SOVIET CHINA TO CONFER AT GENEVA

Parley Concludes, Experts Must Now Work Out Details

Prepare for Negotiations In Late Summer and Fall

Cream Used To Spike Milk Of Cow Queen

BERNAY, France (AP)—The truth has come out about Marie II, the champion Normandy cow.

Some of her milk apparently has been spiked with extra cream.

Marie has won numerous awards for her owner, Louis Fiquet. Her milk production and its butterfat content were beyond all competition.

But recently hushed talk began in dairy circles.

Last Friday five policemen hid in bushes near Marie's stall. They were waiting for Marie to be milked for a new quality check. Agriculture department officials were close by. They said they saw some of the cream added to Marie's milk.

Kurt Krammer, a German farmhand, was arrested, charged with fraud and jailed.

6,000 Firefighters Are Like Terriers Chewing Elephant

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Massive fires ate into northern Ontario's sun-baked forests today, so fiercely that the 6,000 men fighting them were likened to "terriers chewing away at an elephant."

More than 200,000 acres of timber—pine, balsam, spruce and maple—have been reduced to blackened stumps. At least 154 fires were burning, forty-eight of them out of control.

There has been only negligible relief from the hot scorching weather in the last month. Officials of the department of lands and forests say the fire menace is without parallel in the province's history.

HEAT IS STIFLING

The situation is so bad that to firefighters the rising of the sun is a grim and tragic event. The heat is stifling. Streams are dry. The intense heat causes great updrafts which create vortices that feed the fires.

One of the worst blazes was knifed unchecked through forestland 50 miles north of Blind River, back in from the rocky shore of Lake Huron. It has covered almost three townships, or an area of nearly 65,000 acres.

The firefighters have remained at the front for many days; some for weeks.

Frank Macdonald, deputy minister of lands and forests, said: "We feel something like a terrier chewing away at an elephant. You go around the edges of a fire, snapping at it here and there, trying to block it and contain it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP)—Synopsis: While southern Ontario continues to have fine weather today and Tuesday with a warming trend setting in, northern Ontario will be affected by a series of disturbances, resulting in rather unsettled weather in that section. Cooler air will sweep through the Great Lakes area this evening and tonight, but will temporarily stall before progressing much farther south.

TORONTO MAN ARRESTED FOR MARMORA HOLDUP

James Orville Ross, 32, Held for Bank Robbery

James Orville Ross, 32, of Toronto, was arrested in Toronto, Saturday night and charged with the $5,400 armed robbery of the Toronto-Dominion Bank at Marmora, last June 29th.

Ross was arrested with three other men for having a revolver and all four men were charged with having offensive weapons.

Ross was later booked on the robbery charge.

Police are continuing their investigation for the second of the two men who held up the bank's seven employees for nearly 45 minutes while they scooped up $5,492 in cash before making their getaway in a stolen car and in possession of the bank's guns.

Det. Sgt. Ernest Gill and Acting Detective Robert Coghill of Toronto police headquarters, picked up the four men.

Arrested with Ross were Donald Fairlie, 26, Edward Lauber, 22, and Dalton Lauber, 26, all of Toronto.

Ross was charged with the Marmora holdup. He was taken into custody by OPP Inspector Adair, Det. Sgt. James Morgan, and Detectives Norman Smith, Victor Pope and Alvin Sproule.

Det. Sgt. Gill and Det. Coghill had watched a rooming house on Delaware Ave., Toronto, for three days and nights before the arrest was made.

A warrant for Ross' arrest on a charge of armed robbery was taken out in Marmora more than two weeks ago. It is expected he will be arraigned on the charge in Marmora this week.

OPP Inspector J. L. McDermott of the CIB is continuing his inquiry in Marmora along with Marmora Chief of Police Charles Lockwood.

POSED AS PLUMBERS

The first bank robbery in Marmora's history was staged by two men who gained entrance to the bank before it opened for business by posing as plumbers. They were admitted by accountant Roy Moss. The bandits tied up Moss and then lined manager Carl McKay and five other employees against the wall as they came to work.

The two men were seen leaving the bank about 9:50 a.m. The getaway car which had been parked in front of the bank had been moved by Ken Sluder, local fire chief, to permit the town's water wagon to wash the street for a street dance.

When the men reached their car, Sluder moved a barricade which had been erected to halt traffic while street washing was in progress, to let the men out onto Highway No. 7.

The car, a black 1942 model, was recovered at 1:00 p.m., the same day in Peterborough. Owner of the car, Thomas Cullen, 25, of Peterborough, told police he had been kidnapped by bandits the previous night and was stuffed, trussed and gagged in the car's trunk while it was parked outside the Marmora bank.

FIND ANCIENT TUSKS

BORDEAUX, France (Reuters)—French scientists Sunday dug up two elephant tusks believed to be about 130,000 years old at a site near here. The tusks are about 47 inches long and about 11 inches across the base.

Rides Runaway Truck Through Town While Wife, Driving 85, Clears Path

WINSTED, Conn. (AP)—A terrified truck driver rode his runaway rig through Winsted at 80 miles an hour Sunday morning with no brakes.

John McFauken, 48, shot through three red lights on the main street before his horse vared with four horses and two helpers in the back, ground safely to a halt against the curb on an upgrade outside of town.

He was paced by his wife, Kathryn, 48, in a 1955 convertible. She passed him on the downgrade at 85 miles an hour going into town and waved off traffic at the first intersection.

See Freeze on Armed Forces In Europe as Possible Step

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP)—A freeze on the level of armed forces in the European area followed by an East-West agreement to cut back military power may be one of the first specific and practical accomplishments to result from the Big Four "summit" meeting.

What will be achieved along this line will depend much on future difficult negotiations. The United States, Britain and France will have to figure out among themselves what plans they can support jointly before they meet Russia again at Geneva in the foreign ministers' conference next October.

But much that was said here during the week-long summit meeting indicated a desire on both sides to reduce the arms burden and the beginning made toward mutual trust between the leaders of both sides, and a general lessening of war fears, may contribute to that end.

The Kremlin leaders made clear here that they do not intend to budge from their opposition to German unification as long as the Western powers remain a member of the Atlantic alliance. This policy may change some day, but no change is in prospect in the predictable future.

Since the Western powers are equally determined to maintain their German ties, the Geneva conference provided no hope for any early progress toward unifying Germany.

All four government chiefs agreed that global disarmament would be a fine thing. Work on this would be speeded dramatically if the Soviet government accepted President Eisenhower's proposal to exchange military information and aerial photographs of military installations, but there has been no hint that they would do so. It appears likely that they would hold out for their linking with the ban on nuclear weapons which the Russians have long demanded.

The third major issue of the meeting, the problem of European security, breaks down into two parts:

1. Various proposals for a European security treaty, including both Russia and the Western powers.

2. Suggested plans for limiting, controlling and inspecting armed forces in the European area.

The Western powers emphasized to Russia that the development of new European safeguards must proceed at the same time as negotiation of arrangements for unifying Germany.

Since the Russians evidently intend to stall German unification until they consider the circumstances more favorable to their interests, it appears that a new security pact is also a matter for the distant future.

Acting Postmaster-General Pickersgill was scheduled today to open what appears to be the last week of the session which began Jan. 7 with a detailed reply to an Opposition charge that postal investigators have shielded post office robbers.

The charge was made last Wednesday by J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC—Quebec West). He said he would prove its accuracy—if the government gave him a free hand to investigate—or give up his Commons place.

Mr. Pickersgill's reply was to be in the form of answers to questions filed by Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf) which, in effect, asked for a denial or confirmation of the charges.

In the external affairs debate, Mr. Pearson said both the West and East will need patience, strength and unity during disarmament discussions which begin in New York next month at the United Nations sub-committee on disarmament.

OCTOBER STUDY

The results of those talks would be studied by the Big Four ministers at Geneva in October when they meet to discuss German unification and European security.

Mr. Pearson said European security is not possible without German unification. It is in turn impossible without free elections.

It would be premature to assume that recent Russian moves have removed the danger of world conflict, for it could not be known whether they represented a change of Soviet tactics or a change in long-range policy.

He reiterated his view that NATO and freedom are not negotiable in the East-West talks for peace.

BY FREE ELECTIONS

Opposition leader Drew said the Western leaders should tell the Russians that their goal is to demonstrate their good faith is by free elections in their satellite countries.

Mr. Drew said Russia has violated pledges it made when it signed the UN charter in 1945 by placing millions of Europeans in slavery.

Mr. Pearson replied that Canada has never missed an opportunity in UN councils to remind the Soviet that it must permit free elections in satellite countries. Military intervention in the matter, however, would be unrealistic and might do more harm than good.

PEARSON SAYS DEVELOPMENTS ENCOURAGING

World Tension Eases But No Reason to Exult

OTTAWA (CP)—Developments of the last three months in a world struggling for peace are, in the view of External Affairs Minister Pearson, reasons for "sober encouragement."

He said Saturday, however, in a cautious Commons review of signs of easing world tension, that the situation does not permit unreasonable expectations or exultation.

While much had been done last week at Geneva's "summit" talks to clarify and set up machinery to solve the problems dividing the world, the Big Four meeting had been but the start of a long process of further negotiations.

If the West could continue in its present path toward peace, it could look at the future with more confidence than a year ago, he said as the Commons accepted external affairs estimates.

Evidence of New Friendliness Seen By Eisenhower at Geneva Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—Presidential aides here saw evidence of a new friendliness in the world.

The president, scheduled to report today to congressional leaders on the Geneva "summit" meeting, at 10:30 p.m. EDT tonight will report to the nation in an extensive 15-minute address over all major radio and television networks.

"Just what will be the result of this conference, of course, no one knows," the president said, "but the coming months will tell much."

"But in the meantime," he added, "we do know that new contacts have been established and there is evidence of a new friendliness in the world."

India And Burma Arrange Parley Of Ambassadors

Repatriation of Civilians Among Points to Be Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Red China will send ambassadors to Geneva next Monday to discuss "repatriation of civilians" who want to return to their own countries and "certain other practical matters now at issue."

The state department said U. Alexis Johnson, ambassador to Czechoslovakia, would represent the United States.

Press officer Henry Suydam of the state department reported India and Burma had arranged for the meeting in backstage discussions with Red China and the United States.

The "major purpose" of the Geneva meeting from the American view, Suydam said, will be to obtain the release of some 51 American held in Red China, including 11 American fliers.

The state department emphasized that holding the talks at the ambassadorial level does not in any way "involve diplomatic recognition" of Red China.

Arts Council Would Aid Fight Against Reds

OTTAWA (CP)—The long-mooted Canada Council is regarded on both sides of the Commons as a weapon in the ideological battle with the Communist world.

Both External Affairs Minister Pearson and George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview) said Saturday night a council of arts, recreation and culture would be set up to fight against the Reds.

Mr. Hees said Canada is known abroad mainly because of its material assets, but little was known of its cultural assets.

He recommended that the government provide a substantial sum to the external affairs department which would help finance overseas groups as ballet corps.

The Soviet world, he said, has done much to try to show that the culture is superior. Recently the United States Congress had appropriated large sums to display tours of such Canadian cultural groups as ballet corps.

40-Pound Baby Not Noticeable With a Hippo

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bronx zoo has a new arrival—a baby hippopotamus that tips the scales at 40 pounds. A hippo born in captivity is a rare event, and zoo officials were properly excited when the birth was discovered during the weekend.

Rose, the mother, had been expected to give birth in May, but nothing happened. Skeptics doubted that she was pregnant.

With hippos it's kind of hard to tell.

Pickersgill Denies Robbers Were Shielded

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Postmaster-General Pickersgill today denied in the Commons charges that postal investigators shielded post office robbers.

He said action taken by investigators in connection with Marcel Belair of Montreal, the only man named by J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC—Quebec West) in his charges last week, was with full knowledge and co-operation of Quebec Provincial Police and crown prosecutor Noel Dorion of Quebec City.

Mr. Dufresne said last Wednesday that Belair turned over to postal investigators $28,000 worth of stamps stolen in a Montreal post office but was not charged with receiving stolen goods.

He said Belair was taken to Sept-Isles, Que., by a postal investigator who found a job for Belair under an assumed name.

Mr. Pickersgill said the trip was undertaken to keep Belair available as a crown witness in connection with other postal thefts. Belair had been given an assumed name so he could make an honest livelihood and to prevent him from being subpoenaed by suspects the authorities wanted to bring to trial.

Referring to Mr. Dufresne's statement that Belair had turned over $28,000 worth of stolen stamps to postal investigators, Mr. Pickersgill said that because of the lack of sufficient evidence it would be impossible to lay a charge against Belair. It was preferable to keep him available as a witness rather than prosecute him.

The minister said that at this time, last March, Belair had given information which led to the arrest of Lucien Gagnon, Montreal lawyer who had later been found in possession of stolen stamps and had been charged with unemployment insurance fraud.

Mr. Pickersgill said that in view of the information he gave the House there is no need for further investigation of the role played by the post office inspectors in connection with Mr. Dufresne's charges.

He said he would not extend an investigation on the basis of the alleged facts given by Mr. Dufresne so far. Mr. Dufresne's statements had been a mixture of alleged facts and innuendo and all legal facts and innuendo had been shown to be incorrect after a check with Quebec's special crown prosecutor.

Two Juveniles In Custody After Four-Mile Chase

Picked up on suspicion of car theft, two Belleville juveniles are in custody of the Ontario Provincial Police following a four-mile, cross country run which ended up at the Belleville Cemetery west of the city.

The two juveniles were spotted by provincial police as they jumped out of a small English car and disappeared behind a barn on the Trent Road about four miles west of the city.

Later investigation revealed that the car had been taken from the Foyers farm on the Foxboro road late Sunday afternoon.

Hastings Gets Most Points At Junior Farmer Field Day

For the second year in a row Hastings county junior farmers were top point getters at the annual Quinte District Junior Farmer Field Day held Saturday at the Ontario School for the Deaf ground west of Belleville.

The Hastings boys and girls rolled up a total of 54 points, being heavy winners in the track and field events with the Hastings boys also coping the softball title, winning out by default in the final game against Peterborough county.

In winning the softball title, however, Hastings got an assist from the weather with a heavy shower halting proceedings after one inning with the Hastings leading 1-0. Unable to field a batter, Hastings was awarded the contest.

In the first round Hastings defeated Victoria 12-7 in extra innings while the Peterborough lads trounced Durham county 20-0.

VICTORIA SECOND

Victoria county placed second in the number of points with 38; Hastings had 37; Durham 26; Prince Edward 21 and Northumberland county three points.

Winners in the girls' track and field events were as follows: 75-yd dash—Gerta Craig, Durham;

Linda Terry, Northumberland; Joan Long, Peterborough; So-kill throw—Marjorie McFayden, Victoria; Fred Craig, Durham, and Gloria McManis, Victoria. Relay race—Durham, Victoria and Hastings; Isabelle Burns, Hastings; and Margaret McMillan, Victoria.

A new event this year for the girls was a pillow fight which proved an enjoyable affair for the spectators, if not for the contestants. Winners were Mary Wood, Peterborough; B. Craig, Durham, and K. Haman, Hastings.

Boys' track and field event winners were: 100 yd. dash—Roly Coombs, Durham; Jack Allin, Durham, and Bill Pettigill, Prince Edward; softball throw, L. Leavens, Hastings; J. Allin, Durham and K. Allin, Peterborough; relay race, Hastings, Victoria and Peterborough; tug of war, Hastings, Peterborough; high jump, N. Selby, Durham; C. Reid, Hastings; K. Wright, Prince Edward, and R. Lynch, Peterborough, tied for third.

Players on the victorious Hastings softball team were B. Bate-man, 3rd W. Harder, D. Harry, C. Deane, B. Bush, H. Roy, Nobes II, Jerry Griggs and J. Jones. Ted Aikens II and Arnold Harry 2nd Subs, Bob Burkitt and Doug Burns.

The day's event was concluded with a dance in the gymnasium at the O.S.D. where prizes and trophies were presented. Miss Barbara Reidman acted as chairman of the field day committee with Dick Hilliard, Junior Farmers Association secretary, as director of the events.

'Red Red Robin' Blacks Out In Stovepipes

This red, red robin went bob-bobbin' until he resembled a blackbird, and nearly lost his life in the transformation. He piped his way into a private household, found the heat was not on, and escaped with his skin and feathers.

Mrs. Clifford Moreton, 80 Great St. James Street, and a relative Mr. H. Harnden, were sitting in the living room of the home on Saturday. Suddenly there was a strange commotion in the stove, which was connected with the chimney by a row of pipes including "elbows".

Something black fluttered in the stove's "innards" and the Moretons removed the pipes from the stove. Reaching inside they retrieved the object which proved to be a "bird". It was coal-black and blinded from soot.

The bird which was found to be a robin, was given a bath, its eyes were washed and treated, and later it was placed in the branch of a tree outside the Moreton home. Some twenty minutes later it ruffled its feathers and flew away in its new-found freedom.

How the robin got there is something of a mystery. Conjecture has it the bird fell from the chimney, or was blown off and headed in the wrong direction. How it navigated the distance from the chimney to the stove through winding stovepipes still has the household wondering.

Dead Pickerel Not Victims Of Disease

Lands and Forests officials at Tweed today dispelled rumors to the effect that a mysterious disease is killing off pickerel in Hay Bay and other haunts.

Mr. R. G. Shepherd, Fish and Wildlife Inspector, said that departmental biologists had examined some of the dead fish and no sign of disease was apparent.

It is a condition that is apparent in the heat of every summer. Mr. Shepherd said, but this year with consistent heat waves, it has been accentuated. Big Bay and other haunts have been affected also but not to the extent of the condition in Hay Bay.

Lack of oxygen caused by heat takes its toll of fish and plant life in rivers, streams and lakes every summer.

With the arrival of cooler weather, Mr. Shepherd felt that a condition would be cleared within a short time.

Stories were spread to the effect that "hundreds" of pickerel were found dead in the waters of Hay Bay and along the shores.

Doug Green Qualifies For Golf Finals

Shooting sensational golf, Doug Green defeated Art Bridge to qualify for the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club championship on Sunday.

Doug shot a sparkling 70, two under par for the course. He fired a 34 in the first nine and chalked up a 36 in the second. Included in the score was a penalty for two strokes for having a ball out of bounds.

Green's 70 was one of the best scores recorded in some time. He has been playing consistent golf defeating some of the club's best golfers in his quest for the club title.

T. A. Carruthers and Harry Ridley will meet in the other semi-final.

KING CONDUCTS SYMPHONY

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—King Frederik of Denmark recently conducted Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 6 before a select audience which included members of the royal family. He conducted the state radio symphony orchestra. The king is a musical enthusiast and is often invited to take the baton at private performances of the state radio orchestra.

CNR Personnel Enjoys Picnic At Cobourg

A trainload of Canadian National Railways employees and their families, numbering around 500 in all, travelled to Cobourg Beach on Lake Ontario, Saturday morning for their annual picnic. The outing lasted from 11 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., with musical talent, swimming, a varied sports program and sunbathing providing an enjoyable day in the excellent July weather.

The picnic was under the auspices of the Canadian National Railways Athletic Association and the various committees are to be congratulated on their fine work.

There was not a dull moment all day as the fine facilities of Ontario Park were used to the utmost and the large crowd revelled in the brilliant sunshine and perfect weather conditions.

The train pulled out of Belleville shortly after nine with its 100 cars loaded with picnicers.

A goodly number of coaches were necessary to convey the party, baskets and children to the picnic spot, the funmaking beginning as soon as the train was loaded and never letting up until its return here late in the evening.

TWO BASEBALL GAMES

Two exciting midweek baseball games were played between the CNRAA team and Ernie Young's Stewart-Warner lads. In the morning fixture, the two teams battled to a 4-4 deadlock while Stewart-Warner edged their hosts 2-0 in the afternoon contest.

The afternoon entertainment staged in the bandshell by Dorothy Dickey's Dancing School students was a variety show that was the best yet. The stage was colorfully decorated with flags and bunting which made a pretty background for the young performers.

Included in the acts were Grace and Allen Sinclair in a rhythm tap; Carolyn Chisholm in two tap dance performances. A well-rendered cornet solo by Frank Howard Jr., vocal solos by Allan Barrow and Janis Dawson; a dance number by Barbara Ann Mattis and a tumbling act by Diana Turner.

The show was staged under the supervision of Mrs. Bob Dawson who presented the youthful artists with gifts. These included lockets with birthstone to the girls and photograph identification bracelets to the boys. Mr. Sirs piano accompaniment added much to the sprightliness of the show.

The fish pond was in charge of Mrs. Dorothy Cain, whose fine array was seen in the decorative motif, and Mrs. Ted Revel in the morning and Mrs. Dorothy Anderson and Mrs. Peggy Ronsky in the afternoon. Don Foster was a capable master of ceremonies.

AL MEAGHER CHAIRMAN

The picnic was arranged and supervised by Picnic Chairman A. G. Meagher assisted by Pete Toms, Elmer and Mrs. J. W. Meagher. The races were "Slew" Button looked after the ball games and sports. Cy Young and Mrs. Storms were in charge of the scrambles and the treats for the kids. Mr. Sirs was in charge of the train and at the grounds. Don Foster "clowned" his way into the hearts of the kiddies, doing a fine job.

Assistant superintendent W. A. Easton accompanied the big party and assisted the committees in many ways.

An American tourist attending church service yesterday morning had his car stolen from St. Michael's church parking lot. The car was later found abandoned at Cobourg.

James McLaren, Rochester, had left his car on the church parking lot and an hour later returned to find it missing.

Light fingered gentry with a ven for fishing were active at the Simpson-Sears store. Store officials reported two fishing reels missing from the store.

Police listed the drowning as accidental and no inquest will be held.

A.N.A.F. Assoc. Enjoys Picnic At Moira Lake

With a gay holiday spirit wafted on a balmy breeze, members of Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association took off for Moira's Crystal Beach on Moira Lake for their annual picnic yesterday.

It was probably the largest turnout since the picnic were inaugurated, about 1,000 people and children turning out for the event.

Those balmy breezes did more than help spread the festive spirit, however, they also helped keep the brilliant sunshine down on a pleasant ground temperature.

The picnic officially got under way at Belleville at 9:45 a.m. when the first busload of the picnicers left the city.

Four buses were needed to carry all those taking opportunity of the picnic for a romp in the fresh outdoors, after a week of torrid city temperatures.

The remainder of the outing gradually dribbled to the holiday location by automobile.

No choicer spot could have been chosen for the event. Moira's Crystal Beach is a proud spot on the map of Hastings County and the picnicers showed their appreciation of the fact. Whether it was swimming in the warm waters of the lake; strolling through the cool pathways of the woods or just plain taking it easy with the wife and kids on the sun-washed beach, the holidaymakers took advantage of all the relaxing facilities offered by the resort.

A busy, bustling atmosphere prevailed most of the afternoon, with sports and entertainment, drawing of prizes, and games to keep the picnicers lively.

Keeping the excitement on the ball was the softball game between ANAF and CNR Firemen.

ANAF, guided by two home runs from Mat Carson, reached the last base of the game showing a score of eight runs to the Firemen's watery score of two.

However, the Firemen rose like a phoenix out of the ball game shambles to strike sparks of the host members in the tug-of-war. They managed to spread enough elbow grease around for the ANAF members to slip down two hauls out of three.

TRACK RACES

For the junior members of the outing, who didn't qualify for such hefty jousting, there were the track races.

Divided into four age groups, the participants in the youngsters category, up to 7 years, were the luckiest. Regardless of prowess they each received a prize at the end of their event.

Other winners were 7-8 years, (girls), Patsy Cleary; (boys), Bob Ethier; 8-10 years, (girls), Arabelle McNaught; (boys), Fred Stafford; 11-12 years, (girls), Jamie Gill; (boys), Jack Hine.

Further enjoyment was provided the younger set by the clowning antics of Don and Bill Foster, father-and-son team of clowns. Candy and peanuts showered from the clowns as they made their merry rounds among the moppets.

Evidence of the enjoyment experienced by the youngsters might be seen in the fact that, when the carefree expedition left Belleville it was accompanied by both a coke and ice cream truck, both loaded. On the return journey, however, not a thing was left in either vehicle.

Held to keep the party in swing was the Quinte Highland Pipe Band, reeling tunes off by the score and setting a lively pace, even for the periods of relaxing.

The big affair finally began to break up with the departure of the first bus at Belleville at 5:30 p.m. Gradually the flotilla of cars, there were about 200 in all, dispersed and began to trickle back along the highway to home. The last bright lights of the party dimmed and boarded their bus shortly after 7 p.m.

Mood Changes, Problems Remain, Geneva Summary

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (CP) — British and European opinion reflects general satisfaction with the results of the Big Four conference.

And the man who conceived the idea of a meeting at the "summit" five years ago, Sir Winston Churchill, was reported "much gratified" by the news from Geneva.

Newspaper editorials welcome the four-power declaration as a promising start to a more hopeful phase in international relations. The are, however, some reservations.

One French-language Swiss paper, The Journal de Geneve, says the mood of diplomacy has changed, but the essential problems remain.

In London, The Sunday Times says one of the clear conclusions of the six-day, four-power negotiations at the Palais des Nations is that "the likelihood of a third world war has diminished to vanishing point."

REGRETS OMISSION

The Observer, another London paper, takes a generally hopeful line but in its main editorial regrets that the West apparently did not make known its essential political objectives.

It points to Russia brought on the cold war not by words but by its actions, and Allied leaders should make clear that while the West will not resort to force to redress the balance, it does not accept the subjugation of eastern Europe by Russia.

Pravda declared the "summit" conference "will go down in history as the beginning of a new stage" in East-West relations. Its work "will contribute to the strengthening of trust between the governments and peoples of these countries."

British newspapers of varied political complexions emphasize Germany still remains the "big problem"—and the West German press sees a new situation developing.

SEES FATE SHARED

The socialist-inclined Berlin Telegraph says German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer now will go to Moscow "as a man who gave away the trump card, whose policy was abolished—as a man, who represented only the past, not the future."

Syngman Rhee, and Chiang Kai-shek became irksome (to the West) when the tough course was switched to the soft one in Asia. The chancellor now shares the fate of these men.

Adenauer's Christian Democratic party said the conference had produced a "useful starting point" for efforts to settle East-West problems.

Decisive for Germans was the fact that four government chiefs acknowledged the close link between reunification of Germany and European security, the CDU said. But the party added that Geneva had shown "how long and how rocky would be the road of future negotiations."

Rome's big Il Tempo says "the human figure of Eisenhower stood out" at Geneva and declares he "seems distinguished himself over a too colorless Eden, a Bulganin of little force and a Faure in minor tone."

WARNING FROM SWEDEN

In neutral Sweden, Dagens Nyheter urges the West not to be fooled by the "atmosphere of false relaxation" of the Geneva conference and ridiculed the idea of "certain able and charming politicians that no adversary can resist their persuasion and grace."

In Canberra, Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies commented "we should be thankful at the achievements of the Geneva conference but must not mislead ourselves that the world's tensions have ended and that defence programs will soon be a thing of the past."

General Motors To Stage Oshawa Progress Parade

OSHAWA — On Wednesday, the world's most unique "big top", the Aerodome Tent will be pitched at Alexandra Park in Oshawa, when General Motors Parade of Progress prepares for its three-day Central Ontario showing.

Public performances of the big GM "circus of science" will begin on Thursday, July 28, and will continue through Saturday, July 30. The show will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. daily, and it's all free.

On Tuesday morning the 44 gleaming red and white vehicles which transport the Parade of Progress will parade through downtown Whitby and Oshawa enroute from Toronto to the show site.

Youth organizations in Central Ontario communities have been especially invited to attend the exhibition. Field trips by student groups from churches and schools as distant as 80 miles have been scheduled.

One main objective of the Parade is to interest young people in choosing careers in fields of research and engineering. In Canada to keep progressing at its present rate, colleges and universities must produce many more thousands of technically trained people than are currently being turned out.

UNIQUE TENT
The Aerodome tent was designed by GM engineers especially for the show, and is the only tent of its kind in existence. Like everything in the show it represents the latest in scientific thinking. It is built like an inside-out umbrella with its fire-proof canvas suspended from a framework of aluminum beams. There are no poles, or guy wires on the inside to obstruct the view. It seats 1250 persons. Performances of the Parade's 40-minute stage show in the tent are presented hourly.

In front of the Aerodome, midway, fashion, are 12 giant Futuriners each housing one or more animated exhibits. These operate continuously, each a complete "show" in itself. About 2 1/2 hours are required for a complete tour of the exhibition.

The Futuriner midway displays include amazing contrasts in travel from "Old Scout", a 1902 Oldsmobile which still runs, to "Power for the Air Age", a cut-away jet engine.

"CHANGING CROSSROADS"
A favorite among these is "Our Changing Crossroads," a panoramic spectacle which points out the physical changes that have come to North America through the automobile.

Narrated by famed radio personality, "Titus Moody," the exhibit has moving panels which show how the crossroads village became a town over a 50-year period. As the scenery shifts, new buildings spring up, and lanes become concrete highways crowded with moving model cars and cornfields become suburban developments.

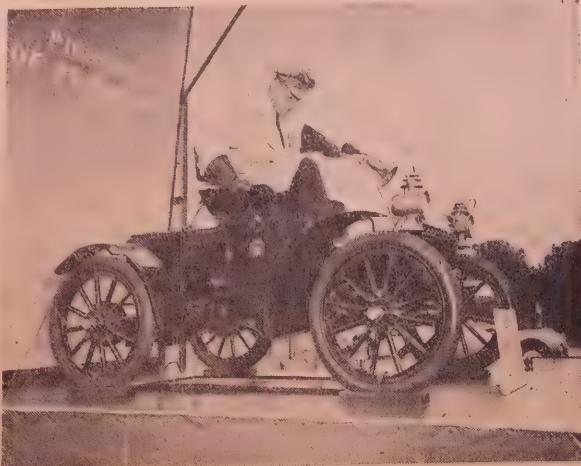

Using the same exhibit technique, GM has built a new exhibit, also shown at the Parade, called "Out of the Middle." One of the most complex bits of showmanship ever devised, it, too, tells the story of urban and rural growth, with particular emphasis on the traffic problems thus created. Step by step, it shows what the problems and how they can be eliminated.

Montreal, Ottawa, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie are the remaining stops on the current Canadian tour. Large crowds are expected due to the popular appeal of the show to all age groups. There are no General Motors products on display, nothing to sell — it's all free.

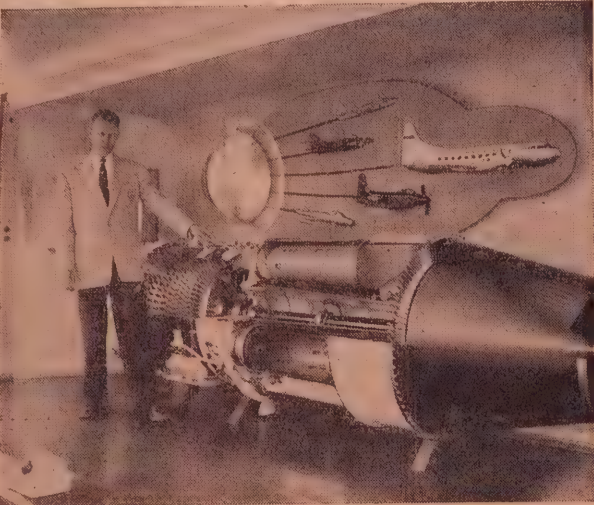

PASS FOREIGN AID
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday night passed President Eisenhower's $3,205,841,750 foreign aid bill 62 to 22, after beating back all floor efforts to chop down his requests. The Senate restored $567,100,000 in cuts made by the House of Representatives in the bill, and gave the president all but $60,800,000 of what he asked.

Exhibits at General Motors Parade of Progress

Always a crowd-pleaser is the 1902 Oldsmobile that won the first transcontinental automobile race. Although half-a-century old, "Old Scout" still runs. The lecturer starts it—usually—but it's always a struggle. There are 26 "midway" exhibits and a stage show in the Aerodome "bigtop" providing "national entertainment at GM's Parade of Progress.

For those who are interested in the latest mode of transportation, there's a cut-away, turbo-jet engine in the Futuriner exhibit called "Power for the Air Age". A lecturer demonstrates the theory of jet propulsion and explains the operation of this actual jet engine. In the 40-minute stage show a small ram jet is started with a loud blast. There's something of interest for the entire family at the GM Parade of Progress.

Truck Driver Killed In Sudbury Accident

SIDEBURY (CP)—A collision between a late-model car and a panel truck on Highway 17 near here Sunday killed the truck driver and severely injured the car's three occupants.

Dead is William Aubrey, 51, of Markstay. Severely injured were Gus Landstrom, 27, of Toronto, driver of the car, Mrs. Landstrom, 30, and Mrs. Douglas Irwin, 38, of St. Catharines.

Police said the eastbound auto driven by Landstrom was on the wrong side of the road when it collided with the truck at a curve on the highway.

Slav Gathering Is Red Front M.P. Maintains

OTTAWA (CP)—A forthcoming all-Slav conference in Toronto was described Saturday night in the Commons as a "Communist front" to play on the nationalist sympathies of Slavs in Canada.

Fred S. Zapligny (CCF—Dauphin) Canadian-born son of Ukrainian parents, said that if Communists go to the trouble and expense of organizing such "conferences it must be because they expect to gain from them.

He said the conference would include persons from outside Canada who would try to tell Canadians how they should run their affairs. Canada, he said, also should do something to influence in its favor the thinking of other peoples, particularly those in Iron Curtain countries.

RAWDON Bride, Bridegroom Honored By Community

RAWDON.—A large number of friends, neighbors and relatives gathered in Mount Pleasant Rawdon church hall on Wednesday evening, in honor of Francis Wrightman, and his bride, the former Audrey Newell.

Mr. Lindsay McKeown was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly. Mrs. Marguerite McMullen conducted the sing-song.

Mrs. Harvey Couch read a humorous selection. Miss Conal Dufour, Havelock, contributed a piano solo and Mrs. M. McMullen rendered a vocal number with Miss Betty McConnell as accompanist. This was followed by Freddie McAdam, Diarmid McAdam and Carol Sharpe who sang with Mrs. Burton Sharpe as piano accompanist.

Mr. Percy MacMullen recited "The Story of a Courtship." Misses Ina Scott and Betty McConnell contributed a piano duet, and Miss Ruth Linn sang "May Your Dreams Come True."

ADDRESS-PRESENTATION
The newlyweds were given seats of honor and Mr. Herbert Smith read an address of appreciation signed by Messrs. Allan Reid, Lindsay McKeown, Norman McConnell and Ralph Johnson.

Mr. Raymond McConnell made the presentation of a ranch style platform rocker upholstered in rust brocade with black trim, on behalf of the Mount Pleasant community, and a number of smaller gifts from relatives and friends in attendance.

Francis and Audrey each spoke briefly voicing grateful thanks for program and gifts. They invited the folks to visit them in their apartment on the third concession.

"For They are Jolly Good Fellows" and "The Queen" closed the program which had been arranged by Mrs. Raymond McConnell. Refreshments and a social half hour followed.

Wild Carrot Can Be Injurious to Stock

Wild Carrot, Bird's Nest and Queen Anne's Lace are all names given to the black sheep of the carrot family, which came originally from Europe and has now spread through Southern Ontario and is attempting to invade the northern and eastern sections of the province, according to the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Although its lacy white flower is very attractive, wild carrot has other features which are not so pleasing. It not only spreads along roadsides, through pastures and crop land robbing crop plants of nutrients and water, but it also harbors diseases which attack garden carrots. Wet wild carrot plants have been known to cause dermatitis or blisters in animals as well.

The weed is a biennial with the fertile appearance of a garden carrot above ground and has a grey, fleshy cone shaped root. Slender, strong, hairy stems support a four-inch fluted flower or which blooms from June through September. By fall the flower is replaced by seeds and the head assumes the shape of a bird's nest. This seed head breaks off during fall and winter to be blown from one location to another spreading its seeds as it travels.

Wild carrot can be controlled by mowing if the mowing is done frequently, 2, 4-D when applied at 10 to 16 ounces of acid per acre is generally successful in controlling the weed. The chemical should be applied when the plant is actively growing in late May and early June. Plants must be wetted thoroughly with the chemical to obtain good results. One spraying is not likely to kill all wild carrot plants and some seeds may remain in the soil for long periods of time before germinating. It is necessary to control each generation of plants in the actively growing stage.

Pearson Expects To Spend Week In USSR in Fall

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson expects to spend a week in Russia early in October, while on his way to Singapore for a Colombo plan meeting.

He told the Commons Saturday night that arrangements for a visit to Moscow, at the invitation of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, are being worked out in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Pearson raised the possibility that a NATO council meeting next autumn might conflict with his plans but he hopes nothing will prevent him from visiting Russia.

He disclosed his plans after opposition members urged the government to give favorable consideration to exchange visits between Parliamentarians of Canada and Russia.

HAS INVITATION
Mr. Pearson said the government has no objection to visits of Canadian parliamentarians to Russia. He said a so-called Russian invitation to Canadian parliamentarians now is in the hands of Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin.

He said the matter should be left with Mr. Beaudoin, in consultation with party whips in the Commons, and if a visit to Russia could be arranged the government would place no obstacle to it.

As for visits to Canada by Russian parliamentarians, Mr. Pearson said they should not be sponsored by private groups, but by either the government or Parliament or both.

Robeson Sings To 10,000 Folk In Border Park

WHITE ROCK, B.C. (CP)—Negro baritone Paul Robeson sang and talked for two hours Sunday to a throng of 10,000 persons assembled in Peace Arch Park spanning the international border.

Robeson, until last week banned from entering Canada by the U.S. government because of alleged Communist leanings, was sponsored by the red-tinted International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

It was the fourth such concert staged by the union at the border since Robeson was denied permission to sing in Vancouver in 1952. Robeson stayed on the U.S. side of the border throughout the concert. He said he hopes to make a tour of Canada soon "and meet old friends."

Tiny Blonde Wins Title Of Miss Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Sheila Diane Billing, a 17-year-old, five-foot beauty became the smallest girl ever to win the title of Miss Toronto when she was chosen from a group of 47 competing lovelies Saturday.

Sheila, a blonde who measures 34 1/2-23 1/2, won the title and $1,000 at the annual police games.

She hopes for a screen and stage career. Before she was 18 months old, Sheila had won baby prizes, and at the age of three she began song-and-dance routines.

She has radio and television contracts, and a screen audition in New York this September.

3 CHILDREN DIE

DETROIT (AP)—Trapped by a quick-spreading fire, three children died in their sleep early Friday in a blaze that destroyed their four-room bungalow home in suburban Plymouth. Victims were Calvert Montgomery, 5, and his two sisters, Rebecca, 4, and Constance, 8. Their father, Loren Montgomery, 31, suffered severe burns and cuts in attempts to rescue them.

High Waists Are Italian Fashion Lead

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters) — Italian fashion designers have decreed high-waists and undercut bosoms of the Empire line for fall and winter fashions.

The Antonelli collections at the big Florence fashion show featured the "intermittent line" with a long-waisted and broken hipline treatment. Other models introduced a definite Empire trend.

One of Italy's best known designers, Veneziani of Milan, launched a new "bare line," an evolution of the slender silhouette with tunic effects introduced last January.

The line features well-tailored daywear, striped of superfluity detail.

Veneziani's ensembles displayed soft tweeds and printed woollens in muted tones, with a heavier velvet-finish weight for coats and light wool crepe for dresses.

HEAT HALTS CARS

GREEN COVE SPRINGS, Fla. (AP)—A hot sun was too much for the bridge over the St. Johns river here Friday. The drawspan expanded and wouldn't close properly, blocking traffic on the 24-mile bridge more than 30 minutes. Several hundred cars were lined up by the time the bridge tender got it together again.

HOW to get a Friendly Loan at

NIAGARA FINANCE

Drop in to see your friendly Niagara Loan advisor. He'll make it easy for you to get the Friendly Loan that suits you best. Here are important facts for you about Niagara Loans.

Who can get a Niagara Friendly Loan?—Anyone with a reputation for honesty and the ability to repay. How much can be borrowed from Niagara?—Up to $1500; sometimes, more.

How quickly can I get money?—Sometimes in 20 minutes; within 24 hours for most loans.

How long can I take to repay?—In the table below, there are just a few of many plans. They will give you some idea of time periods allowed for different amounts... from 4 to 24 months. And for all people who have uneven income during the year, such as farmers and schoolteachers, special payment schedules may be arranged on loans above $500.

Are all loan charges the same?—Up to $500 generally, yes; but remember, at Niagara, you get life insurance at no extra cost.

Above $500, the larger the amount and the longer the time—the lower the rate. Compare... often you'll "buy" more money at less cost at Niagara.

Is life insurance on loans worthwhile?—Yes, here is a real family peace-of-mind feature. At no extra cost to you, loans of $1500 or less, are life-insured. Be sure you get this protection when you borrow.

Does a friend have to "back" my loan?—No, seldom do borrowers prefer an endorsed loan. And bankable security, of course is not needed.

How many ways of borrowing are there?—You can use any of these four Niagara Loan plans. 1. On cars, trucks, etc.; only owner signs. 2. Husband-and-wife, on furnishings. 3. On business equipment. 4. On farm stock and equipment.

Can I have a private interview?—Yes, your interview at Niagara will be private, courteous, and friendly.

Why do people borrow money?—A few reasons are to consolidate a group of small debts; to reduce large payments for car and truck repairs; to meet emergencies; to repair or modernize homes; to enlarge a business; for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.

Do many people borrow?—Yes, in Canada, 1 family in 4 borrow each year.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TRY A NEW PLAN WITH YOUR DRINKING HUSBAND

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I had the best husband in the world until he took up with a group of fellows who do nothing but sit around in bars after work. Now he thinks he has to stop off in a bar every night on the way home, and at least two or three nights a week he doesn't get home until eight or nine o'clock, with the children and me waiting all that time for our dinner. Sometimes, too, he will be drunk when he gets home.

I love my husband, but the last few weeks we have had some bitter quarrels about his drinking, and I am afraid of what it might lead to. Do you think I am just being a hen-pecking wife, and can you help me if anything I could do to stop his drinking? — Mrs. H.T.

Dear Mrs. H.T.:

No, I certainly don't think you are just being a hen-pecking wife. It would be a very unusual wife indeed who could take such a situation in silence.

"Hen-pecking," in my interpretation of the expression, is just another word for nagging, and nagging is a lily means constantly criticizing and picking quarrels over trifles.

But a husband's drinking is no trifles. It is a very serious and dangerous thing.

At the same time, however, there is one very important thing that must be kept in mind. This is that, natural as it is for a wife with such a problem to use every means at her command of reasoning, arguing, pleading, accusing and reproaching, in a frantic, desperate effort to make her husband see what he is doing to her, to his children and to himself, there is no doubt whatever that reason, argument, pleas, tears, reproaches and accusations accomplish nothing. For all the good they do, a wife might just as well save her breath and her energy—much better, in fact, since this type of constant quarrelling, like any other between husband and wife, only builds up bitterness between them.

What, then, can you do, if neither words nor tears will make your husband mend his ways?

What I think you have left is action, and you might begin by following a different plan when your husband fails to come home for dinner on time. Instead of you and the children waiting for him, go ahead and eat your own dinner and then clear everything away. When he comes home expecting his meal, tell him quietly that it was ready at the right time, and that since he was not there, you didn't feel the children should be kept waiting; that if he wants to eat, he will find food in the refrigerator which he can warm up for himself.

Whatever his reaction may be to this new routine, don't let yourself be drawn into a fight. That may be very hard, but it is very important. If you have the courage, and the patience, to hold calmly to such a program, and avoid quarrelling about it, in time he may come to see that you are right, and if he is wrong, I should think there would be a very good chance of this, if he has always been "the best husband in the world" up until now.

If things don't take a turn for the better, however, then I suggest that you write a letter to the organization known as Alcoholics Anonymous.

BEAUTY

HOW TO CHOOSE YOUR LIPSTICK?

Probably the most important item in your cosmetic kit is your lipstick—not only from the standpoint of make-up but because, properly selected, it can be extremely officious to the texture of the lips. If you have experienced chapped lips in winter, dry (and sometimes blistered) ones in summer, the cause may lie in your choice of lipstick. A little questionnaire may help you decide for yourself whether you've been choosing yours wisely.

(1) Do you buy your lipstick on the basis of color alone?

(2) Does an unusual color influence your choice?

(3) Do you fall for intriguing names and let them guide you?

If you answer "yes" to any of these questions you are on the wrong track.

You should experiment with lipsticks until you find one of a consistency that will keep your lips soft and smooth as well as glamorously made up. There are many on the market and, even if you have to use the trial-and-error method, it will pay you in the end. One, in particular, is really new and revolutionary because it is not only of a truly creamy consistency, but is long-lasting as well.

For years cosmeticians have been trying to develop a lipstick which would not smear or wear off yet would be creamy and comfortable. But most of the long-lasting ones were drying to the lips and the creamy ones were easily smeared.

The new lipstick features an exciting transluency of color and, after hour, keeping them soft and smooth and entirely comfortable. It is applied in the usual way but not as heavily as regular lipstick. Because it is creamier than most

Sunday School Picnics

ST. JOHN'S S.S.

Last Saturday the annual picnic of St. John's Sunday School was held at Seale's Beach, Oak Lake. With bus chartered for the occasion, and many others driving, an enjoyable afternoon was spent in fun and social gathering.

Swimming was enjoyed by many. The races were run off by Rev. L. A. Page, and assisted by Mrs. Charlie Hart, and Miss Jacky Hull. Also peanut and bubble gum scrambles, after which each child received a sucker and balloon, along with tickets to enjoy pop and ice cream.

All enjoyed the picnic supper together, and the delicious cup of tea made by Mr. and Mrs. Page. After which all departed for home, tired, but none the worse by a day well spent.

RACES

Winners of races were as follows: Mixed straight race, 3 to 5, Larry Fraser, Larry Bellwood, Bonnie Hart; boys straight race, 6 to 9, David Loft, Doug Bellwood, Bob Bellwood; girls straight race, 6 to 9, Donna Barnhart, Linda Fraser, Peggy Hull; girls 11 and older, Shoe Race, Jacky Hull; Janet Whitehead, Ester Juby; mixed 6 to 9, wheelbarrow race; Linda Fraser, Judy Hull, David Loft, Billy Juby; girls 11 and older; three legged race, Carolyn Hull, Janet Whitehead, Maxine Hull, Diana Whitehead.

Mother's Helper

TODDLERS don't require elaborate store-bought toys to make them happy. A muffin tin is wonderful fun, with small objects (spoons, walnuts, etc.) to drop into the cups. And smooth-edged jar lids make fine play dishes. These are good to remember if you visit where there are no "real" toys.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HOW TO GIVE A CHECK AS A WEDDING GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

A nephew of mine is soon to marry a wonderful girl to whom I am very much devoted. I am a semi-invalid, am not able to go shopping for a wedding present for them, and I am entirely uncertain what they would like to have for their new home. Would you approve of my sending them a check? If so, would I send it to "them" or to her? If to her (as I am inclined to think would correct), should I make it out in her maiden name or in her married name? — Aunt

I completely approve of your giving a check as your wedding present. They will, of course, understand why you have decided to do this, and doubtless will be delighted to have the privilege of choosing something they particularly want for their home-to-be. (And enclose with your check a note saying you'd like to have them choose something that will "make a dream come true.") You should send your check to the bride-to-be, as you would send any other wedding present. You should send it before the wedding, and so it should be made out in her maiden name. Katherine Hall. A check sent after the wedding, it should be made out in her married name. Katherine Hall Allen.

WHO PAYS FOR WEDDING FLOWERS?

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

1. I'm to be maid of honor in the wedding soon of my very dear girl friend. I know that I'm expected to pay for the costume the bride-to-be has chosen for me, but I'm not at all sure if I am supposed to pay also for the bouquet I am to carry. Or is the best man supposed to pay for my flowers (as I've been told by two friends)? 2. This question really doesn't concern me personally, but I would like to know just what flowers the groom pays for. — Flo S.

1. You are not expected to provide, or to pay for, the flowers you will carry at the wedding. Customarily the flowers of the bride attendants are provided and paid for by the bride's family. . . . a practical idea because the flowers are chosen as part of the color-scheme and design-scheme of the wedding. However, in a few communities these flowers are paid for by the groom. But never should the best man be expected to pay for these. . . . the best man has no such financial responsibility, and shouldn't have. 2. The groom pays for these flowers:

Bride's bouquet
Bride's going away corsage
Corsages for his bride's mother and his mother
Boutonnieres for his bride's father and his own father; for his best man and ushers.

ORDER OF EXITS FROM SEATS

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

I think that when a man and girl are leaving their seats in the movies or in a theatre or at a concert, it is sensible and really proper for the man, when he happens to be seated nearest the aisle, to go out of the row ahead of the girl. But my sister maintains that the correct thing is for the man to stand by his seat and let the girl pass in front of him so that she may go out of the row first. Who is right about this? — Sisters

I agree with you. . . . it's far more sensible for the man to go out of the row first. This is a good idea too as it means that when the man reaches the aisle (before the girl) he can stand aside to let her go first down the aisle (that is, if the aisle is so crowded that they can't walk together).

Take One Hot Dish-French Onion Soup

As Conducted by Mary Moore

In a roundabout sort of way I am led up to telling you about French Onion Soup.

For twenty years now I have made it and felt it was one of my better accomplishments, because we had a canning plant earlier in our careers and our French Onion Soup was one of our best sellers. Here at home I follow that formula as closely as it is practicable, and serve it with toast rounds and Parmesan cheese in individual baking dishes boiling hot from the oven.

When we got to Paris it was the first dish I ordered in the restaurant of the Grande Hotel du Louvre. I was disappointed. They used far too much cheese for my taste and worse still it was a sodden tough lump in the bottom of the bowl, and the soup was so boiling hot it was hard to fish for.

But in England we fared better. While we were in Truro Dr. Andrews allowed us (since he is a busy physician) to have our lunch downtown at a highly recommended French restaurant—The Rendezvous. We had delicious French Onion Soup and other specialties of the house. Much to Marianne's delight that day a group of seven nurses, roughly equivalent to our Public Health nurses—trooped in and she joined them to be briefed on nursing services in England. All very matry.

If you care to make this specialty I will tell you our version of it, which is similar to the product of The Rendezvous.

This could be your "one hot dish" for a summer meal, very filling too. It could be followed by a generous salad with some meat in it, accompanied by interesting breads.

Make Brown Soup Stock. (In our canning plant days this stock was made with Argentine Beef Extract as its base but this is difficult to buy for home consumption.) Brown Soup Stock: Two lbs. cracked shin beef, 8 cups cold water, 3 cloves, 1-4 bay leaf, 1-4 teaspoon each thyme, marjoram, whole black peppers, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-4 cup each parsley, onion, celery. Cut the meat from the bone into 2-inch pieces and brown well in a very little butter or margarine. Cover with the water and bring gradually to the boiling point. Tie seasonings in muslin bag, add bones and chopped vegetables. Cover and simmer slowly three hours. Strain five minutes. This does not need to be cleared through triple thicknesses of cheesecloth for Onion Soup.

A regular oven-proof individual baking dish will hold 1 cup of this stock, so judge accordingly. For each cup of stock to be used prepare sliced onions, preferably mild ones, being sure they stay in rings. Pour over the onions boiling hot water to blanch them and let stand five minutes. Drain well. Sauté the blanched, drained onions in 2 or 3 tablespoons butter gently for five minutes. Apportion these onions carefully into individual baking dishes. Taste the broth to see if it requires more salt. Pour broth over onions to within 3-4 inch of top. Float on top a 2 1-2 inch round of hard toast, sprinkle this with 1-4 to 1-3 cup grated Parmesan cheese and place under broiler, in hot oven with both top and bottom burners on, and heat until soup bubbles at edges and cheese is golden and melting. Serve at once from baking dishes standing on plates and pass additional grated Parmesan cheese.

Bulganan Says Geneva Talks Relaxed Tension

BERLIN (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev stopped off in East Berlin Sunday on their way home from the "summit" talks in Geneva.

Bulganan declared:

1. The Geneva conference succeeded in relaxing world tension. 2. The Russians are dedicated to a reunified Germany in the German national interest and in the interest of European security.

He reiterated that any negotiations on German unity must include the Communist eastern regime as well as the Bonn Republic as active participants. He said the East German government was just as "sovereign" as the Bonn Republic and that the sovereignty of both German regimes "is recognized."

Khrushchev Pushes Bulganin Out of His Way

GENEVA (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev, boss of Russia's Communist party, departed from Geneva Sunday the same way he came—talking incessantly, smiling and pushing people out of his way.

Khrushchev's very last gesture was to push Nikolai Bulganin aside and shoulder his way into Soviet airplane Number 001, leaving the surprised Russian premier to bring up the rear.

At the Big Four meetings Khrushchev officially played second fiddle to Premier Bulganin but unofficially his fiddle often drowned out Bulganin's. At private dinners and parties, and in the conference's Czechoslovakian buffet-bar, Khrushchev was reported to have done most of the talking.

After watching Khrushchev, Bulganin, Zhukov and Molotov in action together, the last lingering doubt vanished as to who is boss in Russia. He is Nikita Khrushchev.

Eden Is Now More Confident Of World Scene

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Eden, returning from the Geneva conference Sunday, said: "I feel more confident about the international scene than I did when I left."

"There were plenty of problems and difficulties," he told reporters at London airport, "but at least we are heading the right way, which is something we could not be sure about some while back."

Eden added that he thought the leaders of the Big Four powers were wise not to try to get down to too much detail in their six days of meetings. Eden will make a full report on the conference to the House of Commons Tuesday or Wednesday and there is expected to be a full parliamentary discussion. He also is expected to discuss the talks soon with Sir Winston Churchill who originated the plan for a "summit" conference in a speech in 1953.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

DANGER AHEAD!
Kingston Goodyears may not play senior "B" hockey next season and Whitby might withdraw from the district group.

Representatives of the Frontenac Hockey Association, at the senior "B" group meeting held in the Kingston Community Centre Sunday afternoon, came out flatly with the statement that the 15-per cent taken from the gross receipts for the group pool would have to be reduced or the Goodyears would have to fold.

Joe Cook and Jack Foreman, Kingston representatives, told the meeting the Goodyears had donated some $9,200 to the pool last year and received $2,200 as its share of the "melon". Over all, the club was paying back some 20 per cent of its net take.

Lorne Cook, OHA vice president chaired the meeting. Besides the Kingston representatives others spoke for Whitby, Belleville, Cornwall and Brockville. The Pets were not represented.

The Kingston "bombshell" touched off a sometimes fiery lengthy discussion. Whitby was represented by Wren Blair and Wally Brabin; Belleville by Don McEvin and Alderman Bruce Smith; Cornwall, by Ray Miron and Frank Mario, and Brockville by Kit Stanford and George Perrin.

Blair countered the Kingston declaration stating that Whitby could and would not operate without the pool. Don McEvin, Belleville, said he did not see exactly eye-to-eye with the 15 per cent but would go along with the other clubs.

Many suggestions were aired but none met with any approval until Cornwall came up with a motion that was seconded by McEvin. The motion amended one passed at the June meeting of the group held near Peterborough. It read to the effect that the pool contribution of 15 per cent be taken from the clubs' net share of the gate—and not from the gross. This will include travelling expenses, namely 80 cents the mile over 100 miles plus $100 to clubs making overnight stops. Travelling expenses of playoffs to be paid. The balance to be split among participating clubs.

Belleville, Cornwall and Brockville voted for the amendment. Whitby voted in favor then reversed its stand. Kingston abstained from voting pending conference with the Frontenac executive.

The Kingston delegation said it had gone into the matter thoroughly and had decided that 7 1/2 per cent of the take be given to the club pool. "Either this or we will not operate" was its early-meeting ultimatum.

"Kingston has done well by other clubs and the past years in the pool" Corky said. "And we feel it's about time the other clubs stood on their own feet. We want to be reasonable but we are through with gambling on it. We cannot afford to go in the hole."

Cornwall stated that the high cost of players put Kingston in the hole. "It did that to everybody. Last year we lost $2,800. Brockville lost $3,100. This touched off a discussion spark that resulted in all clubs agreeing to reduce to a reasonable amount players' costs next season.

Cornwall and Whitby stated that the televising of National Hockey League games had affected their attendance to some 25 or 30 per cent. Vice president Cook intimated there was machinery in motion with regard to this, but Cornwall moved that the OHA contact the CAHA with regard to the blacking out of group centres when NHL games are played on the same nights as the senior "B" clubs. This was carried after Brockville seconded the move.

Despite the uncertainty of Kingston's position, and the possible withdrawal of Whitby, the meeting went ahead with regular business. It ratified a 40-game schedule starting Friday, October 28. Asked to name preferred playing dates, Belleville said Friday, Tuesday; Whitby, Saturday, Tuesday; Peterborough (via Mr. Cook) Friday, Monday; Kingston, Friday, Wednesday; Brockville, Friday, Wednesday and Cornwall, Friday and Sunday. Sunday games to start at 2:30 p.m. and Friday games in Belleville, Cornwall and Brockville at 9 p.m.

Regarding the appointment of a group publicity man, a suggestion to the effect that one from four centres act on a monthly basis will be considered by Messrs. Miron and Blair, committee in charge.

This department was named group statistician for the third season in a row.

The meeting sanctioned an All-Star Kingston Goodyear game to be played in Kingston on October 21 or 22 with Wren Blair named as manager and Frank Mario, Cornwall, as coach of the all-star squad. The proceeds will be split among the clubs.

The next meeting of the group was set for Sunday, September 11 at 2 p.m. in the Kingston Community Centre.

DESIGNS...

Approx of the above, it was learned in Kingston Sunday that Reg. Walton, president of the Frontenac Hockey Association, Goodyear sponsors had handed in his resignation. The announcement came as a bolt from the blue to Kingston hockey people. Mr. Walton said his retirement from office was not because of the recent trouble encountered by his executive with Goodyear players.

He said he was not 100 per cent in agreement with some of the views entertained by certain members of the club executive and could not act further as president or director of the club. No successor has been named as yet.

91 IS BAPTIZED

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirteen hundred members of Jehovah's Witnesses climbed into a swimming pool near Yankee Stadium Friday to be baptized by total immersion. A team of veteran Witnesses baptizes the converts in a ceremony that is the high point of the organization's week-long assembly. After the water was poured over the heads of the new converts, they were taken to the shore and given a flower-decked altar.

PATRIARCH OFFICIATES

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—The bearded patriarch of Antioch and All the East, Maximus the Fourth Salih, Friday officiated at a pontifical mass in the Byzantine rite at one of the most impressive ceremonies of the week-long International Eucharistic Congress here. Seven Roman Catholic cardinals flanked the flower-decked altar.

Take Pair for Five in Row, Yanks Ditto for Loop Lead; Boston Four Games Off Pace;

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland's defending champion Indians, supported by baseball's best bullpen, appear to be poised for the stretch run which they hope will bring them their second successive American League pennant. Eight games off the pace three weeks ago, the stubborn Redmen were within one game of the top today following a streak that has produced 15 victories in their last 22 games, the last five of them in a row.

Cleveland won two from Baltimore Sunday 5-1 and 5-2 and once again it was the brilliant relief pitching of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi that cemented the victories.

FELLER'S 25TH

Bob Feller won his third of the season and 25th of his career in the opener but it took three scoreless relief innings by Narleski to save the victory. Early Wynn registered his 12th of the year and 196th of his career, but he needed help from Narleski and Mossi in the ninth inning Baltimore rallied, Narleski getting one batter on a pop and Mossi fanning rookie Bob Hays (who had made five hits in the doubleheader) to end the game.

Narleski, who has now been in 35 games, has a 6-0 record. In his last 18 appearances, the Indians have won 15. Mossi has only a 2-1 record in 34 games but owns a spectacular 1.71 earned run average, best on the club.

The New York Yankees regained first place with a 7-3 and 2-0 doubleheader victory over Kansas City to end an alarming downhill slide that had brought 13 defeats in the last 18 games. The twin triumphs boosted them to a full game lead over the Indians and Chicago White Sox, who were held to a split by the fourth-place Boston Red Sox.

CLOSE RACE

The White Sox, who started the season with three percentage points above the Yankees, shut out the Red Sox 4-0 in the opener behind the seven-hit pitching of Billy Pierce but Boston struck back with a 2-1 victory behind Willard Nixon to stay right in the race, only four games off the pace.

Detroit's fifth-place Tigers, who also have pennant ambitions, remained 7 1/2 games behind the top despite a split with Washington. The Bengals pounded out a 12-hit, 7-3 first game victory but were blanked 3-0 with seven hits by Washington rookie Ted Abernathy in the nightcap.

Brooklyn's runaway Dodgers still owned their comfortable 13 1/2 game over runner-up Milwaukee and their 15-game margin over the third-place New York Giants.

Although out of 29 to 12 in the twin bill, the Dodgers got away with a split against the Braves, winning by 9-7 and losing 9-2. The Braves clubbed Dodger pitching for 33 hits, including 10 home runs, in the four-game series but left Brooklyn with no more than a split.

GIANTS-CINCY SPLIT

Late inning home runs by Bobby Hofman and Willie Mays (No. 30) earned Johnny Antonelli and the Giants a 4-1 decision after Cincinnati had won the opener 6-4 to snap a seven-game losing streak. Wally Post's 25th homer with two on and Ted Kluszewski's 32nd four-bagger featured the Reds' triumph.

Philadelphia's onrushing Phillies made it 15 wins in their last 16 games, sweeping a pair from St. Louis 6-5 and 3-0. Rain ended the second game after six innings. Roy Smalley's three-run double won the opener and Del Ennis drove in all Philadelphia runs in the nightcap with his fourth homer in two days. Saul Rogovin, American League castoff, ran his shutout string to 15 straight innings in the nightcap.

Dick Hall, who broke in with Pittsburgh as an infielder and outfielder, struck out 11 in his major league pitching debut as the Pirates swept both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago's fading Cubs 12-5 and 2-1. Vernon Law, who went 18 innings in his previous start, hurled a four-hitter in the nightcap. The Bucs won that one in the 10th when Jerry Lynch singled. Dale Long walked and Frank Thomas singled Lynch home.

MANTLE-BERRA COMBINE

The Yankees combined effective pitching by Whitey Ford and rookie Johnny Kucks together with timely hitting by Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra for their victories. Mantle's two-run triple highlighted a six-run fourth that gave Ford his 11th victory. Mantle broke in the ninth and rede home on Berra's homer in the nightcap.

Pacific League May Be On Last Legs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Is the Pacific League about to die? The eight-team circuit, once a top minor league baseball power and a prime producer of major league players, definitely is suffering in its 53rd year. It's become, with a few exceptions, an "old players' home," and fans are showing their indifference by staying away.

The steady attendance drop is a source of worry from Seattle in the north to San Diego in the south. Two franchises are wobbling now and a third is far from robust.

TALK OF MOVING

Two of the league's largest cities, San Francisco and Oakland, are major sufferers. Sacramento, the smallest, is hurting badly. There's been talk of moving franchises, notably Oakland's to a Sacramento site, in an effort to achieve a "Milwaukee miracle" on a minor league scale, but nothing concrete has developed. Vancouver and Salt Lake City have been mentioned as possibilities.

"Just moving a franchise is not the answer," says Claire Goodwin, the league's new president.

"We have to merchandise the product."

Just seven years ago the PCL drew more than 4,000,000 fans. Last season it attracted only 1,773,643 with not a single club going over 300,000. This year public apathy is on more pronounced.

The answer, in some quarters, is thought to be major league baseball through expansion of the lost circuits in the East. The Los Angeles area has a population of 6,000,000. San Francisco-Oakland 2,500,000.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, Aug. 2nd, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Benefic rays in evidence. But that alone is not enough. Effort on your part is very successful. Contact with the public and friends more favored by aspects in the P. M. Keep smiling alert!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Some unexpected situation may arise which will have to be handled adroitly. Don't act without deliberation. Jumping at conclusions could lead to trouble.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Generally friendly indications for most endeavors. Give up any point-less or innate plans. Your ability should not be wasted. Time lost cannot be recaptured, so make the most of it.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — If puzzled or indecisive about your program, seek advice from both elders and the younger heads in "the know." A novel twist might be the answer.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Be determined in your objectives, and steadfast. Therein lies your way to progress today. Civic, medical, clerical and stenographic personnel may gain considerably. Good fun in free time.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Don't permit anything to dull your wits or dampen your enthusiasm. While others relax you move forward at double-quick, but don't overdo things. Honored efforts will bring rewards.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — This day calls for close attention to assigned duties. A diploma matic approach will eradicate possible tensions. Be cheery!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Be your natural, pleasant, discerning self. Kind words and thoughtful acts keep order and harmony. Contentment and satisfaction can be yours through earnest effort.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Matters pertaining to personal and family affairs, dealing with the opposite sex, regular business transactions demand conscientious treatment. Apply talents thoughtfully.

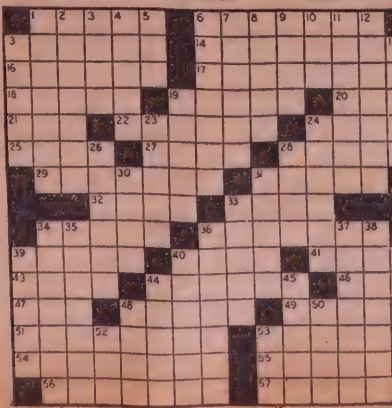

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Benefic rays. You'll feel happier when your determination and energies can be utilized in a worthy job. International and national matters in the forefront. January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Day dreams are fun but, unless they are augmented by practical follow-up, time can be misspent. Shelve any thoughts of the fantastic or get-rich-quick variety.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Check carefully on everyday expenditures. Are you getting value for each dollar spent? Curb a desire to go on a spending spree. Heart interests highly favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are idealistic, exuberant, kind-hearted; can be reached through pleasant persuasion, not through domineering. You have great talent and capability but you high-powered, often quick-tempered, people must practice self-control and respect others' qualifications if you want the co-operation and help you will need at times. You can succeed in a profession, trade, in any honest occupation when you exercise your fine characteristics. Seek God's guidance always. Birthdate: John Tyndall, British physicist.

PAST AND PRESENT "MISS UNIVERSE"

Last year's "Miss Universe" winner Miriam Stevenson, is on hand to congratulate her successor, 21-year-old Hillelvi Rombin, Miss Sweden, following judging at Long Beach, Cal. Blue-eyed and blonde, Hillelvi seen at left is a university graduate with five languages to her credit. A few points behind her in the beauty race was another blonde, Maribel Arieta, Miss El Salvador. Other runner-ups were: Miss Ceylon, Miss Germany and Miss Japan. Canada's entry, Cathy Digles, of North Bay, Ont., went into the semi-finals with 14 other contestants but was eliminated when the field was cut to the five mentioned above.—Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's
Note BookThe Forrin Intriggers, being me and Puds Simkins, were down in Puds's basement looking for clues, and I said, Look, Operator 2, secret documents.Meeting a pile of mixed up magazines in the corner and Puds said, They're not all secret, though.
We're the only ones that know which ones are secret, he said, and I said, Yeah, every 4th one is secret.That's right, Operator One, Puds said. Let's pile them up in exact piles with every 4th one sticking out about a half an inch, so we can consult the files any time we want and know just where to look for top secret information.Oh boy, hidden documents and we know exactly where to find them, I said, Every 4th one, let's get started, this is important, I said, and Puds said, Every 4th one let's go.And we each started to make a pile out of the magazines, piling 3 exactly even and then one sticking out a half an inch and then 3 more exactly even and then another secret one sticking a little ways out, till we had 2 big perfect looking piles, and we were putting still more on top when Mrs. Simkins came down, saying, Well, I'm certainly glad to see those magazines put into a little order, that's very nice work, boys.Heck, mom, we're not suppose to be working, we're just playing,
Puds said, and I said, Good night, have we been working all this time?
Oh, don't look so abused, I've got some blueberry muffins in the oven and you can each have 2 for a reward,
Mrs. Simkins said.
Making us feel partly lucky but not quite taking away the shock.

Unique Kiln

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand will have a unique kiln drying plant for timber at a big new sawmill at Kawerau, in the North Island. The kilns will use natural dry steam from an underground bore. The bore has been discharging steam at the rate of 8 1/2 tons an hour for the last year.
Further boring is under way to locate steam supplies for other operation at the mill.In Indian Wars, Riel Rebellion,
Priest Dies at 99ST. ALBERT, Alta. (CP) — Rev.
Jules Teston, who left a pastoral life in France to go among the Indians and half-breeds who were plotting to drive the white man from the western plains, died Sunday at 99.The missionary of the Roman Catholic Oblate Order, who shared the hardships of his Indian and Metis charges for 63 years, died in what he called the land of his most cherished memories after only eight years in retirement.
The years have dimmed many details of his life, but some accounts list Father Teston as a survivor of the Frog Lake massacre in Saskatchewan, the bloodiest chapter of the Riel Rebellion.

BORN IN FRANCE

Father Teston was born in Val-ence in southern France in 1856.
He came to Canada in 1875, finished his training for the priesthood at Lachine, Que., and came West in 1884.Unrest on the plains exploded the following year in the rebellion led by Louis Riel and on April 12,
1885, the plains Cree under Big Bear pillaged the settlement of Frog Lake in Saskatchewan.Most of the whites were slaughtered, including two members of the Oblate Order, the Indian agent and two other men. Women living at the settlement were held prisoner for months as the Indians dogged the pursuing military.

WAS THE OLDEST

Father Teston was the oldest priest both in age and ordination, in the Oblate Order. He was ordained in 1883.His first post was Ile a la Crosse, Sask., then an isolated trading post almost 200 miles northwest of Prince Albert.There he started learning the Cree and Chipewyan languages which he later spoke fluently. In later years he served in northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories as well as at other northern Saskatchewan posts.He covered thousands of miles on snowshoes and on horseback and by canoe and dog team. Eight years ago he retired to this village
20 miles northwest of Edmonton.
In 1949 he was presented with the Insignia of the French Legion of Honor at the St. Albert mission.

BIG FOUR LEADERS ENJOY LIGHTER MOMENTS AT GENEVA MEETING

Weighty problems of the world were set aside for a few hours by the Big Four chiefs of state as they donned their dinner jackets to meet socially for the first time since conferring in Geneva. The occasion was a state dinner given for the top-level leaders by Swiss President Max Petitpierre in the 19th century Palais Eynard, which doubles as a

Doing what all other visitors to Geneva do, President Eisenhower went shopping for toys for his three grandchildren and in so doing created a brief financial crisis in a Geneva shop. After the president had selected a glider and an Alpine horn for David Eisenhower, passing over the toy guns with the comment that "This is peace week," he went on to pick out a doll for Susan, at left, and another one for Barbara. The financial crisis developed when the U.S. leader had no Swiss currency. His aide, Col. Robert Schultz, asked if the president could arrange credit, to which the over-awed shop owner readily agreed to a charge account.—Central Press Canadian.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) They can't stay away from the Sault Homecoming Day of the Soo Locks centennial celebrations. Canadian Week demonstrated Saturday. The first four homecomers to register came from as far away as Lewiston, Montana. Each left the Sault more than 30 years ago, but each reported coming back every year since Sunday the week's observance took a thoughtful turn with a service of worship and thanksgiving for 100 years of progress held in Memorial Gardens. Archbishop W. L. Wright, Anglican Metropolitan of Ontario, delivered the sermon. All Protestant churches in the city cancelled evening services to permit their congregations to attend the special event.

Asks for Speed In Deepening Lake Channels

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative John Blatnik (D-Minn.) said he will ask Chairman Howard Smith (Dem. Va.) of the House of Representatives rules committee today to speed the $115,000,000 upper Great Lakes channel-deepening proposal to the House floor for action.

The House public works committee last week unanimously approved the project. Backed by the United States administration, it is designed to link with the St. Lawrence reaway.

Blatnik said that if the channel-deepening work is authorized by Congress early in 1956, funds probably will be appropriated to start work on it in the year starting July 1, 1956.

The proposed work would include deepening to 27 feet the channels in St. Marys river, Straits of Mackinac, St. Clair river, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit river.

British Papers 'Burn' Over Hot Marathons

LONDON (CP)—British Newspapers are burned up about another marathon race—the Amateur Athletic Association's—run Saturday in temperatures near 90 degrees.

Only 15 of 32 starters finished. Six runners went to hospital in a competition reminiscent of last year's Empire Games marathon at Vancouver in which England's Jim Peters collapsed near the finish. Sgt. Bill McMinis of the RAF finally won the 26-mile, 385-yard gruel in two hours, 39 minutes, 35 seconds. Second was Geoff Iden, then collapsed.

Peters, now retired, persuaded runner Stan Cox to call it off at the 16-mile mark. He told his Empire Games companion, who also folded up at Vancouver: "Give it up Stan, it's not worth it."

OFFERED POSTPONEMENT
Cox staggered on for 15 yards and then fell into Peters' arms. It was drenched and refreshed when the eventual finishers crossed the line.

Before the race, the referee gave the runners a chance to postpone the long run at Reading until later in the day. None requested a change, and it started.

TAMBLYN & I.D.A. STORES

"Stop this marathon racing in the sun... before death stops it," said Roy Moor of The News Chronicle in a typical comment. "It was madness to run in that heat," said Peters. "I know because I did it at Vancouver last year. All the enthusiasm of 21 years' running was destroyed by that one horrible day."

"And it all can be avoided by running these events in the autumn or if that isn't practicable, starting at 8 in the evening in the summer."

Some sample newspaper headlines: "Marathon Madness," "Run these marathons in this hot weather," "Marathon carnage," and "Stop this torture."

REDS' ATTITUDE WILL DETERMINE SCOPE OF TALKS

If Americans Released, U.S. Will Negotiate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has described today as ready to discuss a number of Far East problems directly with Communist China if the Reds agree to free some 50 American citizens imprisoned there.

U.S. officials who reported this today said Red China's attitude toward this long-standing American demand will determine the scope of the special conference which, it was announced Monday, will begin next Monday in Geneva.

If the Chinese Reds refuse to release 11 American airmen and 40 civilians, they said, there will be no point in talking about other tensions which exist between Washington and Peking. At the head of the list is a Formosa cease-fire.

MIGHT CLEAR AIR

Senator Walter George (Dem. Ga.) said the forthcoming talks might help clear the air for a future conference on such tensions with Red China, perhaps on the foreign ministers' level.

George, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, suggested such a meeting Sunday. He said he believes State Secretary Dulles and Red China's premier and foreign minister, Chou En-lai, should meet before any general conference is held.

Peiping radio proposed Monday that the fate of Nationalist-held Formosa and Red China's admission to the United Nations "be settled through consultation among the countries concerned."

George said Dulles made it clear at a closed meeting of the Senate foreign relations committee Monday that there would be at the moment no talks in Geneva on discussions "involving any third party—in this case, Nationalist China."

HAVE BEEN SILENT

On Formosa, the Nationalists have maintained an official silence. Senator William F. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said that as he interprets Dulles' statement "there is no intention of discussing questions involving the sovereignty of the republic of China," at Geneva.

Non-congressional informants who said the Geneva talks might touch on issues other than the repatriation of Americans and of any Chinese in the U.S. who want to return home declined to name any such issues specifically. They said everything depends on Red China's attitude.

Sub Guttled

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Fire started by a short circuit destroyed most of the interior installation of the Danish submarine Saalen today.

The only casualties were three seamen taken to hospital with severe burns.

The submarine was moored at a wharf in Copenhagen navy dockyard when a short circuit in the power cables set fire to inflammable material in the engine room. Several men were trapped behind a wall of flames but escaped through an emergency hatch. Others escaped through the conning tower.

Police Doing Monkey Business Thrill Small Fry

ESSEX JUNCTION, Vt. (AP) Police, firefighters and state troopers, cheered by local small fry, tried for five hours Monday to capture a 40-pound baboon.

The pursuers went from tree to tree trying to capture the animal. Then they tried a lured monkey as a lure, plus dragged bananas and a fire hose.

Finally, a police chief James Mulcahy ordered the elusive visitor shot.

No one knows where the baboon came from.

Ship Water Tap Gave Whisky Once, Only Touch of Advertised Luxury

VANCOUVER (CP) — Only once this year, U.S. and Canadian seamen's unions picked her in several ports until agreement was reached that she would be manned by a Canadian crew.

The ship, the U.S. S. Steward John Ball of Vancouver, said 110 bottles of Scotch whisky disappeared from the ship's stores. When the vessel was towed into San Pedro, U.S. customs officers after a drink of water found him self sampling Scotch.

Duncan McKinnon, a deckhand, said the food supply was intended for a voyage of two weeks. "It took a month and two days with all the breakdowns," he added.

The crew and the three passengers came down the finish line on "pancakes, crackers and jam."

Steward Ball said that "we need whisky for the ship-agent said he would provide some at Le Paz, in Mexico."

He left us 26 watermelons and two packs of Weiner's," Ball said.

Chalk River Atomic Reactor Closed Due to Damage in Test

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is without a high-power atomic energy reactor for the second time since 1947.

The famed NRX experimental pile at Chalk River, Ont., was shut down Monday after being damaged during a test with a special uranium fuel rod.

However, William J. Bennett, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., said the shutdown is in no way comparable to Dec. 12, 1952, breakdown caused by a major power surge in the reactor.

The repair job will be difficult, but the shutdown was not due to a major accident," Mr. Bennett said. The 1952 accident was so serious that NRX, code name for the reactor built at a cost of $11,000,000, had to be dismantled and rebuilt.

It went back into operation in February, 1954—14 months later. Shutdown of the reactor means a temporary end to experimental work on some phases of atomic research by Canadian, American and British scientists. NRX is used by the U.S. and the United Kingdom for many experiments because of its high power.

The only experimental reactor in operation at Chalk River is the NRX. The code name of NRX—won't be in operation until the fall of 1956. This $40,000,000 pile recently was remodelled to enable it to be used for special experiments for the U.K. and U.S.

A spokesman at the Chalk River atomic project, 125 miles northwest of Ottawa, said few persons at the plant knew about the accident until some time after it had happened. The automatic shutoff control system stopped operation of the reactor immediately things went wrong.

Mr. Bennett said the reactor, built in 1947, was damaged when radioactive materials from the special fuel rod contaminated the pile's supply of heavy water. He expected that repairs could be made within a few weeks.

The heavy water is contained in an aluminum tank known as a callandria into which uranium rods are inserted. It slows down the speed of neutrons released by the atomic fission process and is one of the materials used to control the activity of the pile.

Mr. Bennett said automatic devices shut down the box-like reactor immediately the fuel rod began contaminating the heavy water. The latter was pumped into storage tanks where its radioactivity will be removed, and the faulty rod was withdrawn without incident.

"The heavy water must be replaced before the reactor can be put back into operation," Mr. Bennett said. "The job will be carried out at Chalk River."

The main operating room housing NRX was not contaminated and only a minute amount of radioactivity got into ordinary cooling water pumped through the reactor from the Ottawa river. It was dumped into the lake where it will remain until it loses its radioactivity.

Worst Drought Since 1914 Causes Farmers Heavy Loss

OTTAWA (CP) — Hot, dry summer weather, a boon to vacationers but a bane to those who derive their living from the land, has shrivelled central Canada into a drought that has already cost farmers in Ontario and Quebec an estimated $85,000,000 in lost winter feed.

An agriculture department official said Monday the drought is the worst since 1914, when it was too early to estimate the loss to other sections of the area's agriculture industry.

Farmers, their pastures dried out in many cases were feeding cattleilage normally untouched until next winter, a development that may force them to sell some of their stock before the winter.

The feed loss was broken down into $24,000,000 in oats, $12,000,000 in hay, $5,000,000 in corn and $44,000,000 in lost revenue from pasture rent.

In addition to these feed losses affecting approximately 200,000 farms dependent wholly or partially on milk or beef cattle, 80,000 crop-farmers also are being hard hit by drought losses.

The official said he could not yet estimate losses to Canada's tobacco crop worth $88,000,000 last year. But only the 10 per cent of tobacco farmers who use irrigation would escape drought loss.

Other crops hit are tomatoes, worth $8,000,000 last year; hemic corn, $29,000,000; and sugar beets, $5,000,000.

The official said only 13.46 inches of rain has fallen in Ontario and Quebec so far this year compared with a 63-year average of 21.33.

Rough silage—mainly hay and corn—was brought in from other parts of central Canada to prevent

MINES MINISTER WON'T DISCLOSE PIPELINE PLANS

Prudham Will Not Tell What Route Preferred

OTTAWA (CP) — Mines Minister Prudham declined Monday night, despite persistent questioning, to disclose what plan the government prefers for an all-Canadian natural gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada.

He told Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) during discussion of his department's estimates that the government's policy will be announced in due course by Prime Minister St. Laurent or Trade Minister Howe.

Mr. Green said that Mr. Prudham stated in a speech last May that he believed a large-size line should run north of the Great Lakes with a spur running into the United States from the Niagara area.

NO SPECIFIC REPLY

Mr. Prudham said he has not changed his own thinking but he could not give a specific answer on government policy. However, he said thought should be given to gas needs 10 years from now. If 1,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily would be required by Ontario and Quebec 10 years from now, the line should be able to satisfy that eventual demand.

Mr. Green said Prime Minister St. Laurent told the House July 8 that three alternate plans are being considered. He asked Mr. Prudham if one Mr. St. Laurent had preferred the one the minister advocated in his May speech.

Mr. Prudham said he is not in a position to give an answer. The government still was considering the best plan and "when the prime minister is ready to give a decision he will give the final conclusion."

THREE ROUTES

Speculation is that the three routes, in order of government preference, are:

1. Construction of an all-Canadian line to Montreal via Ontario, and then on into the U.S. Midwest at Emerson, Man. This is the original plan of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., stalled by financing difficulties.

2. A swap between Trans-Canada and Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. of the U.S., whereby Tennessee would buy Alberta gas in the West from Trans-Canada and sell the Canadian company enough U.S. gas in the East to take care of the eastern market pending arrival of the Alberta gas.

Referring to construction of the line through northern Ontario, Mr. Prudham said the area consumes more than 1,000,000 tons of coal annually. If all coal and oil were displaced, northern Ontario's gas requirements would total 80,000,000 cubic feet a year.

Colombian Scoutmaster Has Cycled 5,000 Miles to Attend Jamboree

TORONTO (CP) — After eight months, Israel Alfonso Acevedo Valderama arrived here Monday by bicycle.

Senior Valderama is a scoutmaster who will attend the world jamboree of Boy Scouts at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., next month.

It was last November when Valderama packed a haversack and took the road out from the southern Colombian village where he is the local carpenter as well as scoutmaster.

Ahead his bicycle he carried everything from groceries to a mosquito net. But mosquitoes were not a hindrance.

A few miles from home he encountered a cougar. The big cat snarled and the scout found wings — he didn't stop until he was in Nicaragua, and the middle of a revolution.

Geneva Ignited Spark Of Peace Eisenhower Says

Need Patience, Sacrifice 'Some Giving on Each Side'

By ED CREAUGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told the American people Monday night that a spark of world peace was ignited at the Geneva Big Four conference, but much patience and sacrifice and "some giving on each side" would be needed to keep that spark alive.

Winning up a radio-television report on last week's talks which, he said, included no secret agreements—the president declared: "I believe that only with prayerful patience, intelligence, courage and tolerance — never forgetting vigilance and prudence—can we keep alive the spark ignited at Geneva."

"... us, individually and as a people, have possibly the most difficult assignment of our nation's history. Likewise, we have the most shining opportunity ever possessed by Americans. May these truths inspire us, never dismay us."

TEST IN OCTOBER

The "acid test" of the Geneva talks would come in October, when the Big Four foreign ministers meet to seek specific agreements on some of the broad problems taken up by their chiefs.

"They are when reconciliation and some giving on each side will be definitely necessary."

At another point, Eisenhower said:

"Now, for myself, I do not believe the obstacles lying ahead on the road to a secure and just peace. I do not blink the fact that all of us must continue to sacrifice for what we believe to be best for the safety of ourselves and for the preservation of the world in which we believe."

"But I do know the people of the world want peace."

Cars Leap Ramp Onto Front Porch

DETROIT (AP) — Claude McDonald, a retired blacksmith, and his wife Bertha, both 89, used to enjoy sitting on the front porch of the house they rent in downtown Detroit.

Then the city built an expressway with a ramp that curves past their house.

In the last five months their porch has been wrecked three times by cars that came up the ramp too fast.

After the latest crash Monday the McDonalds said they had given up the pleasure of sitting on the porch.

Policeman Tags His Wife's Car, Starts Ruckus

LONG BEACH, N. Y. (AP) — The car was parked in a no-parking zone and patrolman William Miller clearly saw his duty. He wrote out a $2 ticket.

It wasn't so clear who would pay the fine. The car happened to be the Miller family car, left there by the patrolman's wife while she and the children went to the beach.

"She's going to pay the fine herself," Miller commented.

"But I'll pay it," his wife said later, "but I'll use his money."

Son Included Among Five Boys Taking $82,000

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Police Monday charged five "teen-age" boys with grand larceny in the theft of $82,000 in small bills from the home of Dayton baker Fred Frowein. The baker's son was among the five charged with taking Frowein's savings of 17 years.

Police said $32,000 has been recovered and that probably $20,000 more will be recovered. They still hope to get back another $30,000.

Clarence Cook, 19, is being sought on a fugitive warrant charging him with receiving and concealing stolen money.

Frowein's son Frederick Carl, 16, is charged with taking $15,000. He has told police he took some of the money when he visited his father's cache, hidden among baking materials in the basement of their home.

Gift to City
To Be Stored, Await Cash

Antique furniture and valuable oil paintings given to the city by Mrs. Anne Salaman of the Isle of Wight off the south coast of England, have been created ready for shipment to Belleville and will be stored until a cash bequest is available to construct a building to accommodate the collection.

This was the information given to council Monday evening by Mayor John Both who said he had received word to that effect. The mayor said the collection would be stored until arrangements were made to get the cash bequest transferred to Canada.

Announcement of the gift of antique furniture and paintings by the former Belleville woman was made early this month, the announcement indicating the gift included cash with which to construct a building in Belleville. The amount of cash was not stated other than that it would be "sufficient" to construct the building.

Mrs. Salaman is the former Anne Docter who spent her girlhood in this city.

Enlist Labor
Member Urges
Rotary Governor

Does a labor representative qualify for membership in a Rotary club which is exclusively an assembly of business and professional men?

The idea of enlisting an executive of the local union as a Rotarian was referred to in the course of an address to the local Rotary club here yesterday by district governor Maurice Reitor.

Mr. Reitor asked the members if it had occurred to them to bring into the club the secretary or president of the local labor union. He admitted the idea sounded "rather radical" but held such an official would qualify for the club because he would be a responsible executive within his organization.

Mr. Reitor was paying the annual official visit of the district governor to the club. He spent the morning in session with the chairman of the various club service committees and concluded his visit several hours later with his address to the assembled members of the club in the Hotel Quinte.

Mr. Reitor's address mostly consisted of encouragement to his fellow Rotarians to practise the principles of the club in their community that their fellow citizens might emulate those principles.

GOOD ROTARY WORDS

"It is easy to say 'I can't' instead of those good Rotary words 'I will', Mr. Reitor said, urging members to take an active part in club activities.

"The secret of satisfaction in Rotary is participation," he added. "What we do makes Rotary what it is."

Community service is the best known and best of Rotary services, synonymous throughout the world, he held.

"I think as Rotarians, we are justifiably proud of all the activities going on in our community in the name of Rotary."

He concluded his address by reminding the Belleville club because of its large membership and its age that it served as an example to smaller and newer clubs.

He was introduced by president Bill Gault and thanked by past-president Fred Adsett.

In the course of the meeting, Stan Goodwin, being transferred as manager of the Bank of Montreal to St. John's Newfoundland branch, was given a presentation by James Bone.

Thanking the club Mr. Goodwin noted his four-year membership with the organization and said: "I have enjoyed being a member of this Rotary club for the past four years and I wish the club and its members every success in the years to come."

BATTLE OF ATLANTIC
NAVAL LEADER DIES

LONDON (Reuters) — Admiral Sir Percy Noble, Britain's leader in the Battle of the Atlantic against Hitler's submarine fleet in the critical days of the Second World War, died at his London home Monday at the age of 75.

He concluded his address by reminding the Belleville club because of its large membership and its age that it served as an example to smaller and newer clubs.

Council Accepts McFarland Tender
Despite Opposition of Mayor Both

Despite objection by Mayor John Both that the manner of calling tenders had been "highly irregular," city council at a special meeting Monday evening awarded the contract for surface treating of new roadways in the Bayview Heights district to the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Pictou.

The McFarland tender of 23¢ per square yard was the lowest of four tenders received. An amendment by Mayor Both calling for the work to be done by the Municipal Spraying and Oiling Company whose bid of 20.1¢ per square yard was the second lowest tender, was defeated by council.

"It would not be in the best interests of the city to award McFarland another contract," stated the mayor. "The street oiling job done by this company in Belleville last year was the sloppiest job I have ever seen."

The mayor said also that the action of McFarland in issuing a writ for payment almost immediately after their bill had been tendered had been "very unethical."

But Alderman Ben Safe as chairman of public works, noted there was no point in calling tenders if the lowest price was not accepted. If the contractor submitting the lowest price had the ability to complete the job according to specifications, he should get the job.

Alderman Safe said the roads to receive surface treatment were new roads in the Bayview Heights district which were built this year. To complete the job they should be surface treated.

He noted that although the city public works had built the roads, the city did not own the equipment necessary for application of the surface treatment.

Mayor Both wanted to know when tenders had been called for the surface treatment. "I did not know tenders had been called," he said.

NOT ADVERTISED

In reply Alderman Safe said actually the work had not been advertised but enquiries had been made from four construction firms who all had submitted bids.

"Invitation bids" asked the Mayor.

When the reply was in the affirmative the mayor declared this procedure was "highly irregular."

Council voted 5 to 4 to award the street resurfacing job to McFarland. Approving were Aldermen Forrester, Hyde, Keegan, Moxam and Safe, with Aldermen Argue, Humphreys, McCabe and Mayor Both casting opposition votes.

Hugh Murray of Belleville was awarded the contract for the construction of new sidewalk. There was no discussion on the contract award.

Mayor Both will issue a proclamation calling on city residents to co-operate in the observance of Playground Week to be held August 1-5. The Mayor will also issue a proclamation declaring Aug. 1st a civic holiday.

When the city was to purchase three and a half blocks on St. Lawrence street adjoining the city industrial area was referred to the Industrial Committee and Property Committee for report.

Four New Fires
Discovered In Tweed District

The danger of forest fires in the Tweed district is still high, according to the forestry branch of the Department of Lands and Forests in that village.

In addition to the fires reported last week, four new ones have been started.

A fire in the Bancroft area was discovered yesterday near Crooked Lake. It is believed to have been caused by lightning and covers less than five acres. Seventeen men were at the scene late yesterday, fighting it.

The other fires were all reported Sunday and also cover areas of less than five acres each.

Two of these are in the Mazinaw-Denbigh area, one about three miles west of Mazinaw Lake and the other is in the Myers Cave area, east of Mazinaw Lake. A second fire was reported in the Crooked Lake area.

The fires, which are all under control, are all restricted to timber areas—no cottages have been damaged.

Contractors
Blocking Walks
Annoy Council

City fathers are taking exception to construction contractors who occupy sidewalk space with scaffolding or other obstructions while construction or repair work is being carried out.

The current object of councilors' beefs is scaffolding which for several weeks has impeded pedestrian traffic on the north side of Campbell street while work is proceeding on a bank building.

One alderman said the scaffolding had been in place for at least six weeks and the way the work was progressing it would be there for at least another two months.

It was pointed out that undoubtedly the company concerned had obtained the regular sidewalk occupation permit but Alderman Ben Safe, as chairman of public works, said he would speak with the parties concerned in an effort to speed up the work.

Bell Stringing
Cable to Service
Sprague System

The Bell Telephone Company will erect an additional telephone cable on existing poles along the Bay Bridge Road to provide service for customers of the Sprague line which the Bell company is taking over.

City council at a special meeting called Monday evening for the letting of sidewalk construction contracts and other business, gave its approval to the telephone company for the erection of the additional cable.

Mr. Grant Proctor, local Bell Telephone Company manager, said the cable was necessary to service subscribers of the Sprague system. He said that 60 per cent of the present subscribers of the system would be taken into the Belleville exchange, the remaining 40 per cent being distributed between Pictou and Wellington exchanges.

Possibility of the causeway telephone line being installed underground was briefly discussed by council but members were told if this were done the city would be assessed a per centage of the additional cost which might run $5,000 to $6,000 for labor alone.

Widening of the Bay Bridge Road with provision of a sidewalk on the west side is suggested as a future improvement.

The project so far has apparently not reached the talk stage and councilors decided there was no immediate necessity of the telephone line going underground. The Ontario Hydro plans construction this summer of a new line on the east side of the Bay Bridge Road.

Niagara Falls Cities Squabble Over Tourists

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — An international squabble may be brewing over the tourist business in the two cities of Niagara Falls.
City officials here charged Monday night that tourist interests in Niagara Falls, N.Y., have intensified a campaign to discourage tourists from coming to Canada.
"This tourist business has become an international affair," city manager W. S. Orr said at a council meeting. "It's really cutting business on this side."
Mr. Orr said signs have been put up in Niagara Falls, N.Y., which depict Niagara Falls, Ont., as a city with poor accommodation and plumbing.
Don Murie, manager of the Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce, said local business men will erect signs on highways leading into Niagara Falls, N.Y., to contradict the charges. He said tourists are being told that meals are poor here and exchange rates on U.S. currency are higher than bank rates.

Ted's Restaurant Licence Revoked By City Council

Belleville city council Monday evening indicated its confidence in Dr. R. A. McCaul Metcalfe, M.O.H., when on recommendation from the city solicitor, it voted to revoke the licence of Ted's Restaurant on East Dundas Street until the management complied with directions of the medical officer of health.
Council was told that the above restaurant had been closed by the M.O.H. when it was found not to be up to sanitation standards, but that the placard had been taken down in apparent defiance of the doctor's direction.
An injunction had been secured forcing the restaurant to close, council was told.
Dr. Metcalfe said that the restaurant had been visited by him on July 14th and had been placed under the following day when conditions were found not to be good. However, the placard had been taken down and the restaurant continued in business.
B. E. Barrett, local solicitor, appeared for restaurant owner Ted Mowers and said that his client was willing to co-operate.
"Then there is no reason for council to interfere," pointed out Dr. Douglas Moxam. "Council has faith in his M.O.H. and he has a job to do."
The same attitude was taken by Ald. Art Keegan who said the matter should not be before council.
The recommendation revoking the restaurant licence pending carrying out directions of the M.O.H. followed.

$5,600 Premium Obtained in Sale Of Debentures

Indicative of the sound financial condition of the city, $505,000 worth of City of Belleville debentures were sold last week at a price of $101.025. It was stated yesterday by Alderman Gerald Hyde, finance committee chairman.
The premium on the bond issue will net the city approximately $5,600 over the face value of the bonds, the most of which will go to the public school board on Sir Winston Churchill School bonds. Interest rate to be paid by the city is three and a half per cent. Wood, Gundy and Company in conjunction with the Bank of Nova Scotia were the purchasers of the debentures.
Projects for which the debentures were issued included storm sewers $112,000; Sir Winston Churchill School, complete, $333,500; grandstand at the fairgrounds $40,000 and fire equipment $19,500.
Alderman Hyde noted that the bond issue for the Sir Winston Churchill School was for the completed building and the school board would not receive the entire amount until the building was completed. A new addition at the school is currently underway.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police last night reported a quiet watch.
Only minor incidents were brought to the attention of city headquarters while no highway accidents were reported to O.P. despite the heavy flow of seasonal traffic.
Yesterday city police were placed on the lookout for a car stolen from Elliott Motors' lot on the Foxboro Road. The car was described as a 1941 green coach model.

Seamen's Union Ready to Fight Foreign Shipping

MONTREAL (CP) — Union forces are gathering their power for a struggle against British and foreign shipping in Canada's coastal trade, it was reported here Monday.

Hal C. Banks, president of the 14,000-member Seafarers' International Union (AFL-ILC), said he will raise the matter as a delegate at a special conference of the American Federation of Labor, beginning in Chicago Aug. 11.

Mr. Banks, recently returned from an international labor conference at Helsinki, said in an interview the problem already has been discussed among some Canadian unions.

URGED RESTRICTION

Canada's three labor congresses already have urged a royal commission on coastal shipping to recommend that all vessels except Canadian and American should be restricted to Canadian waters.

The Trades and Labor Congress, in a brief submitted to the commission July 12, went so far as to recommend that all vessels except Canadian and American should be barred from inland waters, even international traffic.

Chief of the issue now is the building of the St. Lawrence seaway, with its opportunities for foreign shipping operating with wages and other costs below those of Canadian ships.

Mr. Banks, who represented Canadian and American seamen at the Helsinki conference of the International Transport Workers Federation, said his plea was generally well received.

BRITAIN ONLY EXCEPTION

Britain was the sole exception "unfortunately" to the British leaders were not at the conference," said Mr. Banks. They were unable to attend because of a dock strike in progress at the time.

Mr. Banks said Britain currently has some 30 vessels plying in the Canadian inland trade—far more than any other country.

"The Scandinavian delegates promised 100 per cent support at Helsinki," he added. "The Swedes said that if they heard of any of their ships causing trouble they would pull them out immediately. Norway said it has no intention getting into such trade."

"Germany is not a great factor as yet, but some leaks have been laid. The Austrians also are preparing."

Mr. Banks said he has "great hopes of relief" from the royal commission, which has not yet finished its work.

He told police his wife had gone off with another man taking two children and he wanted to commit suicide but had not the courage.

Question Suspect After 28 Toronto Cars Catch Fire

TORONTO (CP) — Four automobiles and a tobacco store caught fire mysteriously Monday night in the west-end district.

Police later arrested a 29-year-old man and questioned him in connection with the outbreaks and with the firing of 24 other cars in Toronto during the last four months.

Police from the city and three suburban forces took part in the hunt.

Residents in the district were awakened by noisy scurrying through alleys, backyards and side streets. Police called by a passer-by, who said he saw the first car fired, found the others burning as they swiftly searched the area.

All four cars were badly damaged but flames started among soft drink cases piled against the door of the tobacco store were extinguished before the building was severely damaged.

Police said they arrested the man in a suburban York township backyard. They said he was detained on a "holding charge" of vagrancy and will be questioned about his department in connection with officers of the Ontario fire marshal with the series of blazes.

China's Strength Perhaps Pushed U.S., USSR Closer

GENEVA (AP) — Diplomats speculated today that the United States and the Soviet Union drew closer together at the Geneva Big Four conference because of the growing strength of Communist China.

It is an open secret that the Russians have been rather surprised and even a bit dismayed by the swift and total victory of the Communist revolution in China. It presents the Russians with the spectacle of a nation of nearly 600,000,000 promising to become a powerful ally of the Soviet Union.

Russian tradition prefers weakness on the borders.
At the Geneva conference, the chiefs of government of the United States and the Soviet Union talked face to face. President Eisenhower often spoke directly to the Soviet leaders, including his wartime colleague, Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, without the presence of the British and French delegates.

Western diplomats returning from Peking have reported Soviet technical experts there impressed at the way the Chinese are catching on to the business of industrialization. What should have been a five-year tutoring job often is finished in less than a year. Furthermore, the Russians are reported to have noted that the Chinese are using new skills to turn their vast manpower into a formidable armed force which needs only nuclear weapons to make it practically invincible.

Honor Beaverbrook

OTTAWA (CP) — Award of the Canadian Forces Decoration to Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born British publisher, was announced at army headquarters today.
Lord Beaverbrook, honorary counsel of the New Brunswick Regiment (North Shore) since 1921, was awarded the decoration for his many years of service to the militia unit.

Indochina Rebels Attack Army Post Vice-Admiral's Assailant Was 'Browned-Off'

SAIGON (Reuters) — Nine explosions rocked Saigon's residential district early today when Indochina rebels attacked a Vietnamese national army post with mortars.

A government spokesman said the army post repelled with artillery fire and dispersed the rebels, but a number of members of the Binh Xuyen private army. It was the third terrorist attack here in four days.

Other terrorists Monday night blew up five telephone relay stations at a residential area of north Saigon, half a mile from where a group of electric transformers were blasted Friday.

British Refuse To Reduce Term Of Army Service

LONDON (AP) — A government spokesman said Monday night "it still too early to presume that the Cold War has come to an end" and refused to reduce the present two-year period of military conscription.

Socialists seized on Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan's assertion "there ain't gonna be any war" on his return from Geneva to demand that conscription be cut anywhere from six months to a year.

Fitzroy Maclean, parliamentary secretary to the war office, said conscripts made up 280,000 out of the 790,000 men in the army. He told the House of Commons: "It is very largely because we have kept up our conventional forces, because we have been strong and our allies strong that we have at least succeeded in achieving some reduction of tension in the world. . . ."

Reserve Force Plan Is Passed By U.S. House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives Monday passed by a vote of 317 to 78 a bill designed to provide the United States eventually with a ready-for-action military reserve of 2,900,000 men.

The measure now goes to the Senate where it is expected to get prompt approval this week. Its main feature would give special training up to six months to as many as 250,000 young men annually who agree to serve 7 1/2 years thereafter in the active reserve. They would be ready for action when called up. Youths under 18 1/2 who volunteer would be exempt from the draft, which now requires two years of active duty.

The party's national consultation, junta appealed Monday to Peron to change his decision, but high party sources said he refused to do so.

Peron declared July 15 that the Peronista revolution was ended and he was stepping down "as chief of the revolution to leave the president of all Argentines, friends and foes."

The party's national consultation, junta appealed Monday to Peron to change his decision, but high party sources said he refused to do so.

Meanwhile, the opposition Radical party said the president of its national committee, Arturo Frondizi, will make a paid radio broadcast Wednesday night on the problem of national pacification. Opposition broadcasts have been banned in Argentina for several years, and Frondizi would be the first since Peron became constitutional president in 1946.

Today was a public holiday throughout Argentina, in observance of the third anniversary of the death of Peron's wife, Eva.

Plymouth, England (CP) — James McIlven McSporran, a fairly Scottish able seaman of the Royal Navy, faces a court-martial Thursday following an incident in which a vice-admiral was "assaulted."

McSporran is alleged to have done the deed July 29 during an inspection of general drill by Vice-Admiral John William Musgrave Eaton, CB, DSO, DSC, flag officer commanding the reserve fleet.

The terse official communiqué reported, merely that McSporran, 22, had "assaulted" Eaton aboard HMS Berry Head, the headquarters vessel. Specific charges in the court-martial have not been disclosed.

But eyewitness reports give the picture: "The admiral was watching general drill. . . . A sailor suddenly rushed at the admiral, who dodged back toward the guard rails. The man pursued him and rained several blows at him."

"The admiral struggled gamely, but the sailor is a much bigger man, and before anybody could intervene the admiral received three or four blows."

"His gold-brained cap fell overboard. Officers and men alike ran forward to restrain the man. Then the man was marched below. The remainder of the inspection was cancelled."

Eaton, 52, is five feet six inches tall. McSporran, a six-footer, was examined after the incident by a psychiatrist. Shipmates reported that he was "browned off" about the inspection, having just finished a 24-hour watch.

Peron Resists Party's Plea

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Peron was reported today to be standing firm against appeals from the Peronista party that he continue to serve as its chief.

Peron declared July 15 that the Peronista revolution was ended and he was stepping down "as chief of the revolution to leave the president of all Argentines, friends and foes."

The party's national consultation, junta appealed Monday to Peron to change his decision, but high party sources said he refused to do so.

All sang "Happy Birthday". Mrs. C. Howard moved a vote of thanks to the children for providing such a delightful program. Thanks were also voiced by the president to Mrs. Chumbley and the children.

The meeting closed with the anthem and grace. Refreshments were served by the hostesses with the help of Mrs. J. Milne and Mrs. Don Mitchell.

The lightfooted look has taken fashion precedence this season. New shoes keep to the barest minimum with mere whispers of straps or mule type designs favored so sandalfoot seamless stockings are a great help in completing the bare illusion.

One of the newest colors in this type stocking is a soft bluish pink that is being featured for summer. This delectable shade is particularly flattering when worn with pastels and frosty whites.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I THINK YOU'D BE SORRY IF YOU LEFT YOUR MOTHER

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My mother and father have been divorced since I was two. I'm 15 now.

My father is married again, and I am visiting him for the summer. He says I am old enough to make up my mind whether to stay with him or go back to my mother at the end of the summer. He wants me to stay because I've lived with my mother all my life and haven't seen him very much. Also, he can give me a lot more than mother can.

At home, there are just mother and me. She has to work, and it is real hard on her to have to support me, too. She doesn't know about my father and me talking of my staying with him, and if she found out, I know it would hurt her. It would be easier on her if I stayed here, but I don't think she would be happy. I know I would miss her an awful lot.

It takes all mother makes for the bills and we don't get very much for clothes. If I stayed here, she could sell the house and get an apartment. Then she could have more money for herself, and I wouldn't have to be spending any on me. Daddy's wife says that at my age I need a lot of pretty clothes, and should go to teen-age dances and parties and get into all kinds of teen-age activities so I could meet new friends. She says I should be happy, carefree and full of fun instead of worrying about bills.

I think I would have a better life living with daddy, but having been with mother always, I hate to leave her now. Please help me and try to tell me the right thing to do.—Sandra

Dear Sandra:

It always seems to me a very tragic thing when a young girl or boy should be forced into the position of having to choose between mother and father. But since it appears that you are now obliged to do this, I will do what I can to try and help you.

Of course, I have only what you say in your letter to go on, but my feeling would be that, in the long run, you would be happier if you stayed with your mother, for a while longer anyhow.

Apparently, your father and his wife believe that the things money can buy are the most important. I differ with them. What I believe is that if you left your mother solely so that you could have pretty clothes, go to dances and parties and be "happy, carefree and full of fun," there would be many times when you would worry greatly about having left her, especially after she has worked so hard to support you all these years. Already you know that she would be hurt and unhappy if you left her, and that you yourself would miss her "an awful lot." And even though she might, as you say, have more money for herself without you, do you really think that would make up to her for your having chosen to leave her?

Of course I know nothing whatever about the situation between your parents. But it does seem rather strange to me that, if your father has the money to give you all the things his wife suggests he can, he shouldn't, all these years, have wanted to make it possible for your mother to live without having to work so hard to support herself and you. I would have thought he would also have wanted you to have the things you should without your having to give up your mother and go to him in order to get them.

Why don't you ask him if he won't do this, and let you wait at least until you are out of school before considering making such a vital change in your life?

Whatever decision you make, I hope you will write and tell me what it is. And if you would like to discuss the subject any further, before making a decision, I would be glad to have you write me again.

BRIDE TO BE

Millicent Williams, 65, arrived in Montreal aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia en route to Victoria where she plans to marry her childhood sweetheart. She will wed Oliver Bligh, 69, descendant of Capt. William Bligh of Mutiny on the Bounty fame. (CP Photo).

Mother's Helper

WHEN you go on a picnic, how about taking along a plastic bag for each child to fill with his own discoveries? He'll be delighted with such a handy container for must-be-taken-home stones, leaves, twigs, etc.—and you'll avoid having these treasures loose in the car.

CORSAGE WITH BRIDAL BOUQUET?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

We're to be married next October, and since our budget is rather tight, we're trying to cut corners wherever possible, but still doing things right. Your column has helped me with very many suggestions (I'm cherishing these, in my Flannery Book, and I thank you, and now I have another question: My florist suggests that I have my going away corsage designed as the center part of my bridal bouquet, and he says many brides-to-be have this done today. My groom-to-be, who is of course to pay for both these bouquets (bridal bouquet and corsage) says he'll follow whatever suggestions I wish, but doesn't want my flowers to look wrong. Will you please talk with us about this? Thank you.—Katherine R.

Your florist was very honest about this... it's true that today many, many brides (and their number seems to be increasing) order their going away corsage incorporated into their bridal bouquet. The going away corsage may be of small or medium-size white orchids, white carnations or other flowers which will form a very effective and artistic center of the bridal bouquet. (Combined with these usually are stephanotis and or bouvardia or lilies-of-the-valley or whatever small white flowers the bride wishes.)

This combination of the bouquets means that the groom hasn't the expense of two bouquets, and still the artistic effect is excellent. If the bride doesn't wish to carry her complete bouquet during the reception, the maid of honor may remove the center corsage (which is designed for very easy removal) and have it put into the refrigerator or on other cool place until the bride is ready to go away. Or the corsage may be removed just before the bride is ready to throw her bouquet among her attendants.

ON INVITING CHILDREN TO WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

In regard to the addressing of envelopes for wedding invitations I find there is one question which bothers me very much—and apparently it bothers many other people. It is this: When you are inviting a young son and a young daughter, as well as the parents, how do you address the outer and inner envelopes?—M.L.

When young children are to be invited to the wedding, you address the outer envelope to their parents, and then on the inside envelope write the names of the children beneath the names of their parents. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson
Anne, Helen, and Arthur
Note 1: Do not use the words "and family" . . . either on the outer or the inner envelope.

WHEN TO WRITE WORDS OF SYMPATHY

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

I have been away on a long cruise and then stopped over in London for almost two months. When I returned, recently, I was very sad to hear the death of the mother of a friend of mine who last year moved to California with her mother and father. What is the usual procedure in a situation of this kind—should you write a message of condolence so late, or wait to express your sympathy later when you see your friend, or per-

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

OUTDOOR SKIN CARE

To many women sun-dried skin is one of mid-summer's greatest beauty problems. And a frustrating one, too, if you've used lotions, ointments and other preventives at the beach or the lake—to no avail! But stop and think a moment. Perhaps your skin care has been but a week-end affair. You're careful when you spend a whole day or two in the sun, but what about between times? The trips to market, the afternoon walk, the odd moments spent putting in the garden or on the terrace? Old Sol gets his damaging licks in then just as easily as he does when your laziness at the beach. And the only way to outfit him is to make your summertime skin care a day-in, day-out job.

Start with your favorite bottle of sun tan lotion, and apply it before going outdoors, no matter how short a time you'll be gone. Don't throw caution to the winds just because you already have some tan. If you've ever seen a deep bronzed tan marred by red, sore-looking shoulders and nose you'll realize you can't be too careful about protecting such sensitive spots. Be sure to put plenty of lotion on eyelids, backs of knees and feet—three frequently overlooked spots which can become painfully burned.

Look out for sunburn when you're gardening, especially, and give your hands special care. Apply hand cream under the nails and around fingers before you dig in. It not only keeps the skin soft, but it makes the dirt easier to remove—especially if you're the type who "just can't work with gloves."

If you are the kind who prefers not to tan, use a liquid sunshade lotion around the yard or at the beach. Such preparations screen out burning and tanning rays both and you can apply make-up over them if you wish. You can also use a lotion like this on your feet to prevent strap marks when you're putting about in sandals.

If you're fearful of freckles, an untinted foundation cream is your best bet. Smooth it on your arms and face, even if you're just stepping out to buy a loaf of bread. And, in all cases, if you've just washed up before running outdoors, be sure your arms and hands are dry. Rough, red skin on these parts is very often caused by nothing more than a careless drying job.

When you write a regular letter to her?—Patricia M.

Please don't wait to write your words of sympathy and warm understanding. This human expression of friendship is always welcome, no matter how postponed it necessarily has to be. Explain in a few words that you have been away for several months, that you have just heard of the passing on your friend's mother, and then write your words of sympathy.

Dulce's Cold Buffet

By Mary Moore

Dulce is a gal of many talents.

She is a cheerful capable mother and disciplinarian of four young children, a pretty wife, a talented and thoughtful writer, an unselfish and thoughtful friend. Yesterday she telephoned to share with me some ideas she had picked up in her summer social round, on buffet tables.

The net result of our conversation was a beautiful but economical cold buffet table with three featured items. These were cold salmon mold, corned beef and cabbage salad was particularly popular with the men, which pleased her mightily, and I hope your menfolk tackle it with the gusto that hers did.

CORNEBEEF AND CABBAGE SALAD

Thoroughly chill one 12-oz. tin of corned beef. Cut it into 1-2 inch cubes. Just before serving time toss it with three times as much finely shredded crisp green cabbage and about 1-2 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise.

HEARTY STUFFED TOMATOES

This is the ideal time for this dish because to be at its best large tomatoes should be used. Cut out core and about half of the centres of 8 large tomatoes, being careful to keep walls unsplit. Dredge with salt and invert while you prepare the stuffing. Grind enough cold cooked ham to make 2 cups. Add to it 3 cups of cooked well-drained elbow macaroni, cold of course. If desired add a little chopped green pepper. Then add 1 teaspoon grated onion and enough dressing or mayonnaise diluted with a little vinegar or cream to make this filling moist. Fill prepared tomatoes with it, garnish top with sprinkling of paprika or tuff of parsley and chill well before serving.

If your platter is large enough the stuffed tomatoes could be used as a border around

Man and Girl Rescued After Drifting on Lake

TORONTO (CP)—Chilled and frightened after drifting for six hours in Lake Ontario, a man whose wife was drowned in a boat accident last month and a 15-year-old girl were rescued Monday from a stalled 12-foot boat.

A squadron of police launches, Oakville water - air rescue force searched 15 miles of shoreline after Joseph Fulton, 24, and Wilhelmina Tyndall, of suburban Long Branch did not return from an evening boating trip.

They were found half a mile offshore near Long Branch, drifting in the same boat from which Fulton's wife and the girl's companion fell and were drowned a month ago.

Fulton told rescuers he and the girl went seven miles off Lake Ontario before darkness fell. After covering two miles on the return journey, the gas supply gave out and they tried vainly to paddle, he said.

Probe Uniform Price Increase For Auto Tires

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Carson said Monday the government's anti-combine officials are carefully investigating what a CCF member describes as a surprisingly uniform increase in the price of tires and tubes by three Ontario rubber companies.

Replying in the Commons to a question asked Saturday by A.M. Nicholson, Mackenzie, he said "in accordance with the usual practice the combines branch is keeping the tire market under observation."

Mr. Nicholson suggested Saturday that the price boosts should be investigated by the restrictive trade practices commission. He referred to a Toronto report that Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. will increase its price for tires and tubes by 2½ to 7½ per cent. The report said similar increases probably would be announced by Seiberling Rubber Co. and Dunlop of Canada.

Mr. Carson said it would be impossible for anyone to form an opinion on the basis of the facts contained in the report. However, he added, "the matter is being carefully investigated."

Plants Poisonous To Livestock Outlined

A valuable addition to the farm library, particularly on farms specializing in dairy and beef production is a new Bulletin "Plants Poisonous to Livestock" just issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Frequent requests for information on the subject have resulted in the compilation of a valuable booklet on the subject under the joint authorship of F. H. Monte, Professor of Botany, Ontario Agricultural College; Dr. J. A. Henderson, Head of the Department of Medicine and Surgery, Ontario Veterinary College; and Dr. R. O. Bibbey, Professor of Botany, Ontario Agricultural College.

Profusely illustrated the bulletin will serve as a complete guide to dairy and beef operators who are sometimes confronted with illness in their herds as a result of cattle eating poisonous plants. The booklet classifies various poisonous plants and outlines measures that may be taken to avoid losses from poisoning. Various sources of poison both from contaminated water and certain plants are carefully set out in readily understood terms.

The Bulletin No. 508 may be obtained by farmers in Ontario either through their Agricultural Representative or through the Publications Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Queen's Park, Toronto.

Sign New Contract

KITCHENER (CP)—Representatives of 800 members of the United Rubber Workers (CIO-CCL), Monday signed a new contract with the Dominion Rubber Co.

Basic wage rate was not available.

HINTS LOOTING

CHICAGO (AP)—A hint that bodies of some of the 17 killed in an airplane crash here July 17 were looted marked a third inquest session into the tragedy Monday. Coroner Walter McCarron said at the hearing that Chester Wayne Sr., of Oak Park, Ill., reported that his son Chester carried "a considerable amount more" than the 10 cents included in his personal effects.

CONSERVATION Ketcha Korner

by the ROVING SECRETARY of the CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

Here's a subject on which we've written so often that it seems to have become one of our most profitable sources of material. The fact that we're back at it again should be adequate stress that it's an extremely important subject. We refer to the spoiling of game fish.

By the introduction of minnows and other live fish into waters therefore only occupied by native species which before being tampered with kept nicely in balance. Despite all warnings from this Korner and our many outdoor writing colleagues, there is constant evidence that little heed is being paid. All this to the detriment of good sport fishing.

Last week-end, away back in Haliburton County, the folly of using minnows in speckled trout water was vividly illustrated to us. The evidence was of carelessness struck us immediately—but it's awfully tough to pin down the offender. Here was a lake which only a few years ago produced some of the most remarkable speckled trout—both in quality and quantity—we've ever observed anywhere. There were no coarse species there at all—just trout and the normal proper proportion of forage minnows.

But here's what we caught. Sunfish, bags of them, and we saw hundreds more. To add to our consternation, we saw a small goldfish of all things. Now goldfish are members of the carp family, and when they get into open waters they grow tremendously and breed prolifically. They can do a terrible amount of harm, believe us. We only saw the one, so let's hope there's no mate for it. For if it should find a partner, in a few short years you could say goodbye to the speckled trout.

This sort of thing is far too common here in Ontario. True, there's a law which states that live minnows may not be released in waters other than those in which they were taken. The trouble is that this law is not and has not been observed. There are, of course, those anglers who are so hungry for fish that they'll do most anything to get them. But in addition to these, unfortunately there are thousands—yes, thousands—of fishermen who have never heard of this law. There, in a nutshell, is the problem. To counteract the problem, each and every one of us, we'll be in this business, to tell others about this law—caution people against the use of minnows which have been obtained elsewhere. And especially don't use them in trout lakes.

Now the bait sellers won't be too happy about this. But we've got to hear one ask a customer where he intends to use his minnow, and we've got to hear of one refusing a customer minnows for conservation reasons. There's no law to restrict the angler or the live bait merchant. But we'll be nobody has carried unused minnows away from a trout lake. These chaps are too humane—they just release the unused ones. Their consciences are clean. They figure the trout will gobble them up pretty quickly.

Unfortunately in most cases, the trout don't get all the released minnows, with the result that they eventually spawn and over-run the entire lake. For fish-hungry anglers, minnows are excellent bait, it's true. But so are crabs, helgramites, leeches, newts—even the lowly night crawler makes first-rate bait. In exchanging none of these animals do appreciable harm to the lake. And they're all fine bait.

If this situation persists—if anglers who know the law continue to break it, and if the trout remain ignorant of the situation, something will have to be done. The law governing the use of minnows will, in such an eventuality, need overhauling. Possibly their use will have to be prevented altogether.

19 Philadelphia City Park Guards Become Part-Time Blood Factories

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Nineteen Philadelphia city park guards have become part-time "blood factories" in an experiment scientists here hope will go a long way towards ending the world's shortage of life-giving plasma.

The guards have been donating their blood every two weeks during the experiment, about five times the frequency approved for the average donor by the American Red Cross.

In the unusual part of the experiment, the blood is broken down into plasma and red corpuscles and the red blood cells are immediately returned to the donors' system by the apparatus known as the Cohn blood fractionator.

It is the loss of these cells through a normal donation that limits the number of times and the frequency a person can give blood. It takes about a month for the body to build up red blood cells, but lost plasma can be replenished overnight.

Joseph Smolens, bacteriologist in charge of the project at the Children's Hospital here, said the park guards have shown no ill effects in the first three months of the experiment, the first of its kind.

Smolens said the new process may enable persons to give a pint of blood a week, or about 50 pints a year. That would be 10 times the amount now permitted. In case of a national emergency this could mean the saving of thousands of lives.

Smolens said the experiment with the 19 park guards will continue for another nine months. The guards, whose duties include horseback riding and directing traffic in the city's busiest arteries, are all volunteers. Some make their pint contributions before going on duty, others after their daily shifts are over or on their days off.

Woman Driver's Original Story Impresses Cop

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A woman driver in Ingersoll talked her way out of a ticket for a parking meter violation today. According to constable Donald Maitland this was her story as he made out the ticket:

"My friend and I went golfing and I put my purse in my golf bag so it wouldn't get lost and then when we finished we put the bags in the car trunk and locked it. My friend put the key in her purse and she has gone shopping and I can't get the key to unlock the trunk to get my golf bag to get my purse to put any money in the meter."

"Lady, you couldn't have made that one up," said the constable as he tore up the ticket.

High Standard of Sanitation Leaves Folk More Vulnerable To Epidemic Polio--Experts

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Polio experts say persons in countries with high standards of living and sanitation are more vulnerable to polio epidemics than populations in backward nations.

This aspect of the disease is shown in a report by 17 polio authorities from seven countries. The report was prepared by the World Health Organization before the Salk vaccine was put under extensive test in the United States and Canada.

Some points from the 400-page report:

Polio, a highly contagious disease, takes several forms, ranging from non-apparent infection to severe paralysis and death.

The disease is world-wide and "somewhat later every human being is subject to infection by one of the three known types of virus."

In areas classed as epidemic countries, such as Canada, the age of polio sufferers is rising and in some places has gone above 30 years.

Persons suffering mild or non-apparent infections may be healthy carriers of polio and "can act as a huge human reservoir for the spread of the disease."

ON THE INCREASE
Most perplexing facts about polio, says the report is that the number of paralytic cases is increasing. The big epidemics of the last 50 years have swept first through Scandinavia, then North America and Australia. These countries have the highest standards of living and best sanitation in the world. Meanwhile, under-developed countries such as Africa and China suffer fewer epidemics.

The answer, say the experts, is that infants in backward countries are infected with at least one type of polio virus—often in non-apparent form—early in life. This creates antibodies, which fight further infection and the children develop immunity.

In Canada and other advanced countries, children are not subjected to infection as early or as thoroughly. When the disease breaks out there is a large body of susceptible young people. Often the disease then results in paralysis of the legs or arms.

The first polio epidemic was recorded 119 years ago on the Atlantic island of St. Helena, 1,000 miles off the African coast. Earlier the disease was reported in England, Italy and India and was attributed to "teething," "foul bowels" or fever.

The first serious outbreak in North America occurred in the New England states in the 1890s and British Columbia and Alberta were hit in 1910. Canada suffered a severe bout in 1937, when there were more than 2,000 cases.

Beard Is Not Sound Reason To Fire Worker

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York state labor department ruled Sunday that a swimming pool attendant, fired from his job for denying an order to shave off a Van Dyke beard, is entitled to unemployment benefits.

"There is nothing inherently repulsive about a Van Dyke beard," the department ruled.

The attendant—presumably a life guard—grew the beard to make himself "more interesting" as an art class model.

A local labor department office had ruled him ineligible for jobless compensation after he was fired.

When he appealed, the matter went to a referee who ruled that the employer's order subjected the beard's owner to:

"Unwarranted infringement upon his privilege as an individual in a free community to present such an appearance as he wished so long as it did not affect his duties adversely and did not injure the employer in his business reputation."

Plane-Car Craft Passes Tests

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A combination airplane-automobile built by Dewey Bryan, 33-year-old General Motors test driver, passed highway and airway tests over the week-end.

Bryan believes his "roadplane" is the first to carry its folding wings down the highway. Other such planes, he says, leave their wings at the airport or haul them in a trailer.

The single-seater craft weighs 800 pounds and has a 40-horsepower engine that gives it a high-speed of 50 miles an hour and an air speed of 60. It lands at 25 to 30 m.p.h.

It is a pusher type, with the propeller behind the pilot's compartment. The propeller furnishes driving power aloft or aground.

BOMB CAMARET
NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A dynamite bomb exploded Sunday night in an open-air cabaret in Famagusta, but its 80 occupants, including some British families, all escaped injury. The manager of the nightclub saw the bomb, its fuse lit, fall under a table. She shouted a warning and the crowd was able to reach shelter.

Ragweed Is One Of Ontario's Worst Weeds

TORONTO — Much of the hay fever suffered annually by people in Southern Ontario is caused by ragweed. It is estimated that one out of every ten persons in Ontario is allergic to the pollen produced by this weed, a fact which is ample reason for eradicating it.

Ragweed has other harmful effects as well. Its presence in clover seed is objectionable and it is difficult to remove, especially after the outer seed hull has been removed. It absorbs moisture and plant food required by growing crops and the weed itself can produce off-flavors in milk when eaten by cattle, reports the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The ragweed plant is a many-branched annual with hairy stems, growing from one to three feet in height. The leaves are finely divided and each plant produces up to 5,000 seeds that are vigorous enough to remain in the soil for years and still germinate when brought to the surface.

In the control of ragweed it is important to prevent the seed from setting. Fields that have been sprayed with four to six ounces of 2, 4-D are found to be relatively free from the weed.

To be effective the spraying should be done when the plants are very young— from June 15 to July 15. While cutting ragweed plants before the seed sets is a good practice, it does not as a rule eliminate it entirely as some of the seed will set very close to the ground and is usually missed. A good after harvest cultivation on fields not seeded down previous to plowing is effective. Short rotations with good cultural practices, supplemented by spraying will give good control. Hand pulling in gardens and along roadsides will prevent the spread of pollen.

Ragweed is everyone's problem. The Field Crops Branch advises people to learn to recognize the weed and to assist in destroying it not only for the good of crops, but to alleviate the suffering of untold numbers of human beings.

Brothers Hit It Rich in Gold Mine

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—One hour's work in their mine earned two brothers $40,000 when five cwt of ore yielded 1,226 ounces of gold.

The brothers, Ernest and William Wright, after prospecting with varying success for 23 years "struck it rich" in the Mount Clifford area of western Australia.

Ten years ago they were prospecting in the same area but gave up when a thunderstorm flooded their workings. Early this year they returned.

Since March their mine—the Beau Don—has produced a total of about $85,000 worth of gold. Another 12 tons of ore with potentially $75,000 worth of gold has still to be crushed.

Speaking from Kalamoonie, the nearest big town, Senator V. S. Vincent said: "We are taking the news calmly here. Nothing like a gold rush has started yet, but we are all watching and waiting developments with great interest."

GENEVA IGNITED

"Moreover, every other individual who was at Geneva likewise felt this longing of mankind. . . . The president spoke, glancing occasionally at hand-written notes, from his oval office in the White House. In this first direct report to the people on the Geneva meeting, he listed four main results of his talks with the Russian, British and French chiefs of government:

1. "A sharpened realization by the world that the United States will go to any length, consistent with our concepts of decency, justice and right, to obtain peace. For this purpose we will work cooperatively with the Soviets and any other people as long as there is sincerity of purpose and a genuine desire to go ahead."

2. "A growing realization by all—including the Russians—that nuclear warfare pursued to the ultimate could be practically race suicide."

3. "A realization that negotiations can be conducted without propaganda and threats and invelver."

4. "A better understanding and a closer unity among the nations of NATO."

The president's manner was serious but rather matter-of-fact in comparison with the earnestness of the similar 15-minute talk he delivered just before leaving for the Geneva conference 10 days earlier.

Monday night's address was more hastily prepared. Occasionally the president fumbled for a word. Without visible emotion, he spoke of the diplomatic surprise he sprang at Geneva—his proposal that the U.S. and the Soviet Union exchange military blueprints and permit aerial photographing of each other's military facilities.

"The principal purpose, of course was to convince everyone of Western sincerity in seeking peace," he said, "but another idea was this: 'If we could go ahead and establish this kind of inspection as an initiation of an inspection system, we could possibly develop it into a broader one and eventually build on it an effective and durable disarmament system.'"

NO SECRET AGREEMENTS

Eisenhower repeated, too, what he said congressional leaders earlier in the day—that no secret agreements were made at Geneva, either written ones or "understood" ones. "Nothing is put before you on the record."

On the positive side, there was "the greatest possible degree of that . . . spirit of conciliation and co-operation" should be pursued—more trade, more exchange of information, more visiting back and forth by private citizens.

Eisenhower stressed that no single week of . . . even bridge the gulf between differing philosophies of East and West— . . . as wide and deep as the gulf that lies between individual liberty and regimentation."

But with the patience and vigilance as a tolerance he counselled, the "spark" lighted at Geneva could be nurtured and "we will make constantly bright the lamp of peace."

One day guide us to our goal—a just and lasting peace."

West Invades East As Battle For American League Pennant Is Joined

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

STARTING TO ROLL

After getting off to a slow start, the Belleville Hags Juniors are beginning to show the fruits of several months still practice mixed with the experience gained from two and sometimes three ball games a week.

During the past three weeks, the Juniors have picked up something like six wins, and a tie in eight outings, including both league and exhibition tilts. Last Saturday they were guests of Kingston's top junior club, the Mercers, in a return game after licking them in a decisive manner here. The teams battled it out on even terms until the top of the sixth when Belleville exploded for eight runs and a 17-9 lead. Despite the fact that rain halted activities before the inning could be completed and the score was reverted back to 9-5, it was a definite moral victory.

Kelleher's club finished third in the four-team Belleville and District baseball league, not too far behind Marmora who in turn were close on the heels of the leading Picton Lightfoots. Wellington wound up about one game back of the Juniors which should make for a tight playoff series.

Belleville clash with the league-leaders in one half of the semi-finals and might come up with a surprise. The Lightfoots went like a shot out of Hades at the first of the year but in the second half they suffered defeats at the hands of every club, the Juniors beating them once. Kelleher has the boys practicing every night in preparation for the O.B.A. playdowns with his pitching staff in good shape. Leo St. Denis, Stan "Lefly" Reid, Don Cherry and Norm Stolkner are ready for duty on the hill in an attempt to carry home a title or two.

Win or lose, coach Kelleher will have them fighting all the way and maybe young Miss Kelleher could be their good luck charm.

"TAKE YER PICK"...

The wrestling faithful has a problem on its hands this week. Heretofore the chief actors in the grunt-and-grime dramas or comedies have been a pair of white-haired boys whose lives and actions inside the ring-and-outside—have been above reproach. Facing them have been duos of the most dastardly villains that ever tore a limb out of a socket without furnishing a spare part.

This week it is different, unless one or 'other of the top-spot pairs have changed their spots something like a mountain cat or a black leopard. We cannot imagine the bearded buckos from Borchville, Russia, the Kalmikoff Brothers, or the arena-wrecking Voss, Erich and Schober wearing halos. Besides this foursome there will be Bunney "Von" Dunlop and another white-shirt, probably Joe Golobsky, that is if the boys are to split their ring politics.

Throw 'em in one at a time, stir gently at first, let simmer, then when all six ingredients are in the pot, turn on the heat and let 'em boil. Doc Gallagher and Geo Scott are back, too with Sammy Berg and Chico Perez appearing in the appetizer.

Uneasy Yankees Entertain Cocky Chicago White Sox; Boston Teepees Tribe Party

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The run for the American League pennant starts tonight as the western teams invade the East.

The Chicago White Sox, still trying to get the hang of staying in the lead, barge into Yankee Stadium to harass first-place New York. And Cleveland, just two percentage points behind second-place Chicago, tries to keep the lid on the Red Sox at Boston.

Those four are the teams to watch—although it might be smart to keep an eye on Detroit, too—as the contenders try to unsmile the tight AL race. Could be things will be straightened out by Aug. 7, when the western teams head home again.

ONLY A GAME

New York limped back from a terrible tour of the West with only a one-game lead. The White Sox, first from Friday night 'til Sunday afternoon, and Cleveland both are a length behind. Boston trails by four games. Detroit is 7½ back. Going into tonight's games, Chicago and Cleveland have the advantage, what with apparent romps ahead in Washington and Baltimore while New York and Boston have only Kansas City to provide a brother among the invaders. The White Sox and Indians play eight of their 14 eastern games against the tailenders.

Chicago has clobbered the Senators and Orioles in 20 of 25 games this season. Cleveland is 19-9 against the pair.

In the National, it's Brooklyn by 13½ games as the Dodgers still physically ailing, lead west.

Manager Walt Alton has been able to field his regular starters only twice in the last 34 games, yet the Brooks have gained ground. They don't figure to lose it on this trip.

Red Sox Win Over Braves In Exhibition

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—

Ted Williams' two-run homer in the first inning Monday helped Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 decision over Milwaukee Braves in the baseball Hall of Fame exhibition game.

Dick Brodowski pitched the full game for Boston, limiting the Braves to nine scattered hits. Brodowski has yet to start an American League game this season.

On the second pitch to Williams the bat slipped out of his hand and struck a first-base fan, Ellis Kotary of Clayville, N.Y., who suffered a split second finger on his right hand.

The Red Sox victory evened the inter-league series at seven games apiece.

'Glory Bea' Race Winner

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—

The Glory Bea of Detroit, one of the little sisters of the Port Huron-Mackinac yacht race fleet stepped in primly Monday to become over-all winner of the annual 243-mile haul up Lake Huron.

The 33-foot pilot boat skippered by Jim Parlin of the Bayview Yacht Club crossed the finish line seventh in the elapsed time of 48 hours, 28 minutes and 11 seconds. As a class D entry, however, her corrected time of 38:08:48 was eight minutes and 23 seconds faster than the corrected time of the Canadian yawl Ivanhoe, first to finish among the 42 surviving vessels. Sixty-eight started the race Saturday from Port Huron, Mich.

The Ivanhoe, island A entry of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, captured the runner-up position in over-all standings, swimming over the finish line in the elapsed time of 39:38:13. Gate-force winds which hit Lake Huron Saturday night forced 26 entries to withdraw from the race.

Hall-of-Fame Members Feted At Ceremony

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—

Baseball's immortal hall of fame increased its membership to 80 Monday when it opened its gates to six newcomers ranging from 69-year-old Frank (Home Run) Baker to 40-year-old joltin' Joe DiMaggio. The select six, which also included former major league greats Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, Arthur (Dazzy) Vance, Ted Lyons and Ray Schalk, were honored in a 45-minute ceremony presided over by baseball commissioner Ford Frick. The last of the select to be presented, DiMaggio gloved with pride as commissioner Frick recounted his diamond exploits, including his amazing 56-game hitting streak, his participation in nine world-championship New York Yankees clubs, his three most valuable player awards, his 11 all-star team nominations and his .325 batting average and 361 home runs through 13 seasons.

DiMaggio told the crowd he had tried to pattern himself after the late Lou Gehrig.

The former Yankee Clipper closed by saying, "The last thing I have been written. I can now close the book."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tony Leswick, five-foot-six, peppercorn of the National Hockey League, plans to play hockey until his legs fall off. After that, he's going to retire to Tony Leswick's Market on the road to the United States border and specialize in inch-thick steaks.

Tony was filling a basket with tomatoes recently when he heard the Detroit Red Wings had sold him to Chicago Black Hawks, in one of the biggest trades in hockey history.

NEEDS THE MONEY

"It involved eight players," he said. "How do I like the idea? Of course I like it. You have to like it—I need the money."

He slapped his stubby legs—"I'm going to play until these fall off."

After 10 years in the Major League of hockey, Tony, at 32, has laid his plans for the time when he can't keep up in the big time.

"I'll ask for a transfer to the WHL. I'll ask to come out to the coast. It's a cinch that once I'm through with the NHL, I won't be going back up."

Tony, born in Humboldt, Sask. first saw the Pacific coast when he moved out to work in the shipyards during the early war years. He turned pro with Cleveland and the AHL in 1942, served in the army in 1943-44 and joined New York Rangers on mobilization. When he went to Detroit for Gaye Stewart.

LIKES THE COAST

"I've always wanted to come back here," he said. "Every year, during the off-season Tony brought his wife, Aunty and sons, Gary, 9, and Barry, 7, back here. A daughter, Darlene, was born last year."

"Mostly, I sold cars and played baseball for the Major Men's Softball League. But it wasn't much. Anybody can sell cars."

Last May he opened his roadside market in Newton, a crossroads 13 miles north of the United States border on the road from Vancouver to Seattle.

"I always wanted to be a butcher," he said. "A guy has to do something."

Adjoining the market, with its rows of fruit and vegetable stalls, is his coffee shop with its 12 stools and a pin-ball machine. On the walls are pictures of Tony—in action, with teammates, and with the Stanley Cup which he brought to

19-Pound Trout Derby Winner

ROSSPORT, Ont. (CP)—

After six years of unsuccessful attempts in Rossport fishing derbies, the patience of a Fort William angler paid off Sunday with a 10-day free trip to Bermuda.

Robert Godin, whose 19-pound, one ounce lake trout captured first prize, was crowned champion of the 18th annual 1955 Rossport Derby.

Second was Alex Maki of Fairport, Ohio. Third prize was awarded to 10-year-old Jimmy Farrell of Red Rock, Ont.

Queen Enjoys Horse Racing But This Year It's Expensive

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth, with 22 thoroughbreds in training, is in the red on this season's racing.

So far she has had only four winners on the flat since the season opened in March and they haven't brought in enough to cover her expenses.

The Queen can bank on a few more winners but hopes of any big prizes are slim. The most valuable race left is the Doncaster St. Leger in September.

Experts estimate that it costs about $750 a season to keep a horse in training in Britain. That means the Queen's race bill this year will be $15,000.

The Queen hasn't much hope of catching up this year," trainer Sir Noel Murless said, "but we hope to enjoy it."

make it up in 1956."

British race writers estimate that by the end of the season the Queen will be something like £10,000 on the wrong side of the ledger.

That's a far different story from last season when she made horse racing pay. She was the top money winning owner on British tracks with a total of £40,933. It was estimated that about half of that was clear profit.

The colt that sent the Queen's winnings soaring last year was four-year-old Aureole, who won just over £30,000. Aureole now is at stud.

Horse racing is one of the 29-year-old monarch's greatest relaxations. When she visits a race track it's not simply a duty visit—it goes because she thoroughly enjoys it.

700 Oarsmen To Compete In Canadian Henley

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (CP)—

Back in January, oarsmen and scullers tested in international competition and fresh-faced youngsters raised callouses on their hands on indoor rowing machines. Wednesday, they meet their first big test of 1955.

That's the start of the 73rd annual Royal Canadian Henley, a four-day affair that has attracted water men from Vancouver to Wyndotte, Mich. Out of it, the winners in the 40 or more events will receive medals and whatever personal prominence is attached to the water classic.

Of the thousands in Canada and the United States who went into training six months ago, 700 or so of the best will sweep their way up and down the old Welland canal in this country's premier regatta. High school, junior and senior races are carried.

FROM VANCOUVER

Coming the longest distance are eight young oarsmen from Vancouver, members of the HMCS Discovery, a naval reserve shore station.

Some of the money went toward shipping a borrowed shell to the Henley and $400 was put aside to buy a new set of oars. The crew is entered in the junior heavy eight and it is possible it may also compete in the senior eights.

The crews and scullers come from nearly 20 cities in Canada and the U.S., including New York, Buffalo, Detroit, Washington, Philadelphia, Vancouver, Hamilton, Ottawa, Brockville, St. Catharines and Belleville, N.J.

The opening-day events are confined to the juniors and high school oarsmen with the first event, the junior 155-pound singles, scheduled to start at 11 a.m. EDT. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday starting times are mid-afternoon.

HEADED BY KELLY

The big entry list is headed by John B. Kelly, Jr., of Philadelphia who won the prized Diamond Scull at Henley-on-Thames, England, in 1947. He is entered in the championship singles Saturday afternoon the big event of the regatta.

Pat Costello of the Detroit Boat Club, winner of the singles in 1954, will be on hand to defend his title. Another name entry is Bobby Williams of Hamilton Leaders who represented Canada in the doubles in the 1952 Olympic Games at Helsinki and at the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver.

Buffalo West Sides are expected to provide top-flight competition in the four-day regatta. The West Sides have won the regatta championship the last four years.

Doug Ford, Cary Middlecoff Square Off for PGA Title

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Doug Ford and Cary Middlecoff, who square off today for the 37th PGA championship, simply don't like each other's style of play.

Even as they walked triumphantly from the 33rd green of their semi-finals victories—hours apart—they were hurling needling jibes at each other's game. They let it be known, then and there, that their 36-hole title match would be as much a battle of nerves as of shots.

"That guy plays so slow that maybe I'd better bring my trailer along and sleep between shots," said Ford. "I might even lap him."

Middlecoff had an entirely different slant on Ford's "shoot-and-run" style.

"I'll take as long as I want—and he'll have to just like it," Middlecoff said. "I'll play my little old white ball, and let him play his."

SHOOTING THE GREATEST

There is no doubt that these players differ as much as bogey and birdie, except for the fact that both register out of Klamath Lake, N.Y., and both are shooting some of the greatest golf of their lives.

It took Ford five hours and 10 minutes to dispose of Shelley May and Westbury, N.Y., 4 and 3, up lead, and Bolt—who had gained the reputation as the tournament's hatchet man by knocking out Sam Snead, Jack Fleck and Lew Worsham—never recovered.

In the American League Al Kaline of Detroit Tigers dropped three points to 365, but the brilliant outfielder's lead stands at 37 points.

Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers, with a three-point increase to 328, took over second place from Chicago's Nellie Fox, who dropped to fifth at 312.

Al Smith of the Cleveland Indians and Vic Power of Kansas City Athletics are deadlocked for third at 314.

Kaline, in line to become the first triple-crown winner since Ted Williams in 1947, took over the home run lead with 22. He also trails Jackie Jensen of Boston Red Sox by one in the run-batted-in department. Kaline has 75 to Jensen's 6.

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal aid to provincial vocational training plans will be discussed at next October's federal-provincial conference.

Health Minister Martin informed the Commons Monday.

He said, however, that he could not pre-judge the issue by giving a commitment that federal grants would be continued on a long-term basis.

Chiefs Murder Toronto Lead; Royals Nip Kings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs, leading the international League by a scant game and one-half, will be only too happy to say goodbye to the sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs after the season finale between the two teams tonight.

The second-division club whipped Toronto for the third straight time, and the sixth time in the past seven games, with a 9-4 victory Monday night. Syracuse now has an 11-10 edge over Toronto on the season.

Second-place Montreal, meanwhile, overwhelmed the Havana Sugar Kings 11-0 behind Ken Lehman's eight-hit pitching.

The Rochester Red Wings trounced the Columbus Jets 10-2 and the Richmond Virginians defeated the Buffalo Bisons 4-2.

LATE RALLIES

Supporting the seven-hit pitching of Jim Owens, the Chiefs exploded for two late inning rallies to subdue Toronto. With the score tied 1-1 going into the sixth Syracuse got to starter Frank Barnes for three tallies. In the eighth the Chiefs batted across five more off relief hurler Ray Shore, third Toronto hurler.

The Royals 18-hit attack against the Cubans was featured by home runs by Rocky Nelson and Bobby Wilson. Nelson blasted his 23rd and also contributed a double to knock in four runs. Nelson's 83 RBIs trails Toronto's Archie Wilson by five. Lehman was never in any trouble as he fanned six and walked none to bring his record to 13-7.

Vern Benson paced an 11-hit Rochester attack on four Columbus hurlers with a home run, triple, single and walk in five trips to the plate. Veteran right-hander Duke Markell stopped the Jets for the fourth time this season, and raised his record to 10-9.

The Virginians' victory helped Richmond take the season series from the Bisons 12-10. Bob Hachen went all the way for Richmond to gain his third victory against 14 setbacks.

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—All new houses more than two storeys high must have reinforced air raid shelters in the basement, under a new Netherlands government regulation. The shelters must have an emergency exit in case the normal entrance is blocked. The regulation lays down technical requirements for different types of shelters, and says the minimum size must be one square yard of floor space for each resident.

Pierce, Roberts Take ERA Leads In Major Loops

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox and Robin Roberts of Philadelphia Phillies—starting pitchers in baseball's all-star game earlier this month—have taken over major league earned-run leads as the season closes in on the two-thirds mark.

Associated Press figures revealed today that Pierce, a south-paw who has not yielded an earned run in his last 25 1-3 innings, has permitted only 22 earned runs in 113 frames to top the American League with a brilliant 1.75 ERA. Pierce has a 7-6 won-lost record but he has dropped three games by 1-0 margins.

Roberts paces the National League with a 2.80 earned-run mark on 61 earned runs in 196 innings. The workhorse right-hander has won 15 games and lost seven. He boasts a six-game winning streak.

'Beau Bunty' Takes Feature

FORT ERIE (CP)—Beau Bunty, owned and trained by B. S. Chris of Kitchener won the featured Niagara Falls purse at the Fort Erie Jockey Club Monday before 7,471 spectators.

Meanwhile, racing enthusiasts at Fort Erie were buzzing the news that four horses had arrived by plane for Saturday's running of the $10,000 Niagara Stakes. The Niagara will be the first major Canadian race ever raced over a grass course.

The four horses were headed by Marked Game, owned by the partnership of Mrs. D. J. Kennedy of Winnipeg and Timkham Veale, of Lexington, Ky. Marked Game competed in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup at Hollywood Park in California on Saturday.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Our player has started his downswing in that "all-together" movement. Using it you slowly start reversing your hip pivot, your left arm guiding your club, your weight starting to shift from right to left leg your head remaining in the fixed, eyes-on-the-ball position. At the same time your shoulders start their reverse pivot. And of course, your hands remain in the cocked position they had at the top until they are hip-high. There you start to pour them smoothly into the swing, as your weight transfers to the left leg from the right your left shoulder starts rotating upward, as pictured at the right. At impact your left arm and club shaft form a straight line to the ball as pictured. Notice that our player's weight at impact is forward. The weight provides the leverage you need to hit down and through the ball. And, as a parting thought—don't let those fingers open at the top of the backswing.

Eight Rinks Unbeaten In Bowls Tourney

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Competition panned the number of rinks still in the running for first event honors in the Western Ontario Lawn Bowling Association tournament to eight Monday.

Rink competition in the tournament started Monday morning with 87 rinks from Canada and the United States competing for honors in the 60th annual tourney.

Only the eight rinks, all from Canada, remained undefeated after day-long action. Still in the running: Charles Haskett, Gordon Curran, Neil Salkeld, Caldonia; Ken Hickey, Exeter; Tom Callahan, Windsor; A. McDonald and William Young, both of Hamilton.

FOR SECOND EVENT

Eight rinks also remained in the running for second event honors for rinks with one loss. They were: Jack Reed and E. W. McMurray, London; Jim Dougherty, Toronto; R. Burnett, Wallaceburg; Occa Bauer and Dr. Ray Sender, Buffalo; Dr. Weston Krupp, Woodstock; Dr. S. Walkey, Hamilton.

Monday also saw third event play advance to the second round and first round play completed in the consolation event.

Among rinks disqualified Monday were those of Frank Wilson of London and Jack Beacom of Toronto, winners last year.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was talking to Glasses Magee in front of his house, and he said, "Let's go over and ask Dopey to go in and get his basket ball."

Meaning Dopey Shorty Judge sitting on his front steps looking even doper than usual, and we went over and I said, "Hey Dopey, bring out your basket ball and we'll have a game of passing."

No sir, nothing doing, Shorty said, and Glasses said, "Aw why not?"

I'm too tired, Shorty said, I said, "Well then you just sit there and watch us."

I'm even tired to watch, Shorty said, and Glasses said, "What's you so darn tired about?"

I'm tired about the same thing you'd be tired about if you'd been doing what I been doing, Shorty said, and I said, "What walking?"

My grandfather was here and he made me take a walk with him, Shorty said, and Glasses said, "Well good night your grandfather is so old he can't hardly walk around the block."

That's just where we walked, Shorty said, and I said, "Well G. Roosevelt how could that make you so tired?"

I'll tell you how, Shorty said. My grandfather once only hear out of one ear, and I kept forgetting which ear he could hear with and which ear he couldn't, so I had to keep making circles around him to find his good ear, and oh boy am I tired from all that extra walking, he said.

Proving how dopey he is, and Glasses took a walk around to the firehouse without being afraid of getting tired.

Canadian Football Roundup

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An obnoxious band of gadabouts is destroying coach Frank Filchock's peace of mind, if a football coach ever has any.

The gophers have invaded Saskatchewan Roughriders' training field. Broken-field running has taken on a new meaning.

Larry Isbell, second-string quarterback with the Western Interprovincial Football Union team, stepped in a gopher hole during practice drills Sunday and injured his knee. Filchock, not a gent to mince words, was so.

"I guess it was my fault," he said Monday night. "I should have seen to it that the field was in condition. I took the club excursion to look for it that the field would be in shape."

HIT BIG FOUR

Injuries also are hitting the Big Four clubs, Toronto Argonauts, learned Monday night that half-back Set Brannan of the University of Utah will be out for the season. He suffered badly torn knee ligaments last week. They lost the services of import half Bill Kretzmeyer July 14 when he suffered a neck injury.

Ottawa Rough Riders have not escaped injuries, either. Dick Schnable received a cracked left ankle bone during Monday's practice, bringing to two the number of top import players Ottawa has lost since training started 11 days ago. He may be back within three weeks. Guard Kaye Vaughan, who also received an ankle injury, may be out for six weeks.

Coaches are getting their candidates into shape for exhibition games that begin Aug. 3, when Calgary Stampeders meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Hamilton.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, July 27, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)

Unfinished matters? Get after them before they become mountain-high and "nerves" and confusion cause needless further delay. You have a keen mind; use it!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)

We cannot make others do our bidding against their will and be successful as we would be by reasoning, appealing to their best sides. Mind details.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)

Little things count very much today — as they always do. Don't minimize, don't exaggerate. With faith you can do wonders.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)

Don't force issues or you may make others nervous, cause errors. Remember, silence is "golden."

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)

Look for hidden opportunities, for comfort in activities that bring you in touch with children, the unfortunate and the lonely. You can aid such causes more than you realize. Today asks order.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)

Don't be super-sensitive. Emphasize Virgo's natural affability. Things cannot always turn out as we wish; today may provoke you in some way.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)

If you do what you do if right, you will have no worries; if you don't — we all know the answer to that one. Planetary aspects urge tolerance, good humor (Libra's heritage).

(ADVT)

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads — dissolve them. Get two ounces of PEROXINE POWDER from any drug store and apply gently with wet, hot cloth over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe, simple method.

the kitchen. She rushed through the the rear of the kitchen.

The fire was believed to have been started in a can of grease.
Firemen estimated loss at $5,000.

the derailment.

TIGHT MATCH

Calipers are used to determine the winning shot in a doubles match of the British Columbia Lawn Bowling Association on Vancouver's Stanley Park greens. Measurement by Clive Sara gave him and teammate Harry Anderson (far right) victory over Seattle pair George Heinen and Bill Chenoweth. (CP Photo).

Will Margaret Wed Townsend? Gossips Guessing as Princess Nears Her 25th Birthday

By FERN RICH

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret on Aug. 21 will celebrate what may be the most important birthday of her life.

After that day, when she becomes 25, the princess will be able, should she so wish, to marry any man of her choice without first having to ask the consent of her sister, Queen Elizabeth.

Whether the princess will take advantage of this freedom, granted to her under the royal marriage laws, is likely to be a talking point for the gossip columnists here and royal ladies in the past. Sometimes a new line is modified for their use so much that only a conservative trace of it is left.

Margaret wears the A-line, the plunge-line, or whatever is newest in the fashion salons. Her gay little hats, designed by Mme. Mirman, a Frenchwoman living in London, are quickly adapted by big manufacturers.

MANY ATTACHMENTS

Her name has been romantically linked with Colin Tennant, Billy Wallace, Prince Nicholas of Yugoslavia, Lord Ogilvy, the Marquess of Blandford, the Earl of Derby, Lord Porchester, Mark Bonham Carter a score of others, including a childhood friend, the young clergyman, Rev. Simon Phipps.

Many on the list now are married. Margaret has attended their weddings and the christenings of their children.

For the last two years, reports have insistently linked the princess' name with 40-year-old Group Captain Peter Townsend, an equestrian to the Queen before he was posted to Brussels in July, 1933, as air attaché.

As her 25th birthday approaches, Margaret's book of public engagements is giving away no secrets about the future.

Dates are filled in with the usual prosaic royal tasks—an appearance at a horse-jumping competition, opening a new YWCA hostel, opening a new department of a hospital and, finally, a ship-launching Dec. 14.

Some time in August, the princess will join her family at Balmoral for a summer vacation. According to a palace spokesman, "the princess will probably spend her birthday as usual with her sister and brother-in-law at Balmoral."

"It is customary for the Queen to invite some of the princess' friends to make up a small party," the spokesman added.

Public Hospital Cost Has Tripled Since End of War

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost of Canada's public hospitals has tripled since the end of the Second World War and shows no sign of becoming a lighter charge on the public purse.

The bureau of statistics' latest report on hospital finances shows Canadians spent $227,036,000 on 720 public hospitals in 1933 compared with $84,503,000 on 519 in 1946. Expenses of tuberculosis sanatoria, mental institutions and hospitals owned by the federal government are not included.

And health department authorities say the upward trend still continues at a rate of about 10 per cent a year.

Public hospitals' share of Canadians' total personal spending on consumer goods and services in 1932 was 1.6 per cent, a rise from 1.1 per cent in 1946.

WERE IN THE RED

Despite mounting revenue—an eight-year rise to $218,407,000 from $83,149,000—public hospitals were in the red by almost $10,000,000.

In fact, since the bureau first collected financial statistics from hospitals in 1932, annual costs have been higher than earnings.

Average cost of a hospital bed worked out to $3,242 a year in 1933—or the price of one new car in the medium-price field.

The larger the hospital the higher was the cost per bed-year, ranging from $2,129 in hospitals of 24 beds and fewer up to $4,207 in hospitals of 500 beds or more.

Average cost of a day's care rose to $11.46 from $5.16 in 1946.

Let TCP re-power your engine over the Civic Holiday weekend

By neutralizing lead and carbon deposits, Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP* re-powers your engine in 400 miles or less.

Your engine can be delivering power you thought it had lost forever—by the time you get home from your trip.

Before you've used two tankfuls of Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP—you will have re-powered your engine.

That's how quickly "the greatest gasoline development in 31 years" goes to work. And to get these benefits you don't so much as touch a tool!

As you drive, Shell Premium with TCP automatically neutralizes the increased engine deposits formed by today's "around town" short-trip driving, which cause pre-firing—a major source of power loss.

Continued use of Shell Premium with TCP is essential to halt pre-firing and for you to obtain the full benefits of high octane gasoline. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use.

*Shell's trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

INJURIES FATAL

BRAMPTON (CP) — Mrs. Elnore Kerkapal, 53, of nearby Streetsville, injured Saturday in a two-car collision near her home, died Tuesday night in hospital.

She was one of two passengers in a car driven by her daughter, Mrs. Nora Beke, 23, of Norval, which collided with a car driven by Peter Straatman, 32, of Brampton. Straatman leaped from his vehicle just as it burst into flames.

PILOT IS SAFE

STRATFORD (CP) — French NATO pilot trainee, Sgt. P. G. Porche, who parachuted to safety after he lost his way on solo navigation exercise from Centralia RCAF base Tuesday night, was reported safe at an Owen Sound area farm today.

RCAF officials at Centralia said the sergeant was not injured. The Harvard training plane, which is believed to have run out of gas, crashed about two miles from Owen Sound.

Suggests Agency To Gather Flood Control Facts

BRANTFORD (CP) — E. F. Roberts of Brantford, executive commissioner of the Grand river conservation commission Tuesday night suggested a special agency be formed to correlate flood control data.

Mr. Roberts asked the Ontario Association of Professional Engineers to appeal to the federal or provincial government to establish such a body.

It would help engineers engaged in designing industrial and civic structures across the country, he said. Engineers now designing dams, bridges and other structures found difficulty in obtaining accurate data on which to base designs.

He cited the case of the Shand dam in the Grand river watershed, which, during its first year of operation experienced a flood of major proportions.

On the data then available it was thought chances of a flood of that type recurring were 100 to 1. In 13 years, no less than four floods of greater proportions occurred.

Recover Coins Tossed for Luck Into Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Tourists for years have been tossing coins near the brink of Niagara falls in the hope it would bring good luck. And it has—for workmen now doing construction work there.

According to custom, tourists lean over rails lining paths on Luna island, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and flip coins into the water.

Recently a coffer dam was built above Luna island to detour water away from the work site and the pieces of silver were left high and dry.

The yield was estimated to be several hundred dollars.

Group Tours Alberta

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — The Canadian Players of Stratford, Ont., will appear in Lethbridge Feb. 2, it was announced Tuesday. A motion picture theatre has been booked for the group which will present "Macbeth" and "George Bernard Shaw's 'Saint Joan'."

The company is made up of members who perform during the summer months in the Stratford Shakespeare Festival.

The company is expected to visit at least six centres in Alberta during the tour.

To Call Tenders

OTTAWA (CP) — Tenders will be called today for the construction of Cote Ste. Catherine lock and approaches in the Lachine section of the St. Lawrence seaway.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority said the work, on the south shore of the river near Montreal, will extend 10,500 feet and include the lock, a navigation channel, dikes, a turning basin, and a reservoir pool. Work is to be completed July 31, 1958.

FIRE AT GALT

GALT (CP) — Fire Tuesday night caused thousands of dollars damage to a cleaning and pressing establishment here. The plant, owned by Max Saltzman, together with cloth and clothing sent in for cleaning, were destroyed.

Extra firemen battled the blaze and confined it to the Saltzman store.

BOMB DAMAGES CENTRE
SAIGON (AP) — Central Saigon was rocked by a heavy explosion Tuesday night as a bomb tore a hole in the roof of the government's newly opened information centre.

A Vietnamese was slightly wounded. The interior of the hall was not damaged.

Have Arranged Art Exhibition At Festival

STRATFORD (CP) — A new "first" has already been assured for next season's Stratford Shakespeare Festival by Alan Jarvis, director of National Gallery of Canada, Ottawa.

Mr. Jarvis said here Tuesday that "amazingly enterprising" display facilities will be set up for the showing of a major European art collection.

It would help engineers engaged in designing industrial and civic structures across the country, he said.

He said the exhibition, as planned at present, will be shown in Stratford at the beginning of the drama season, later going on a cross-Canada tour.

Mr. Jarvis, appointed only a few months ago, arrived here with his bride in time to attend a performance of "Julius Caesar."

The couple were married in Toronto Saturday.

Member Claims Tax Inspectors Use Judas Touch

OTTAWA (CP) — Income tax inspectors were accused Tuesday night of having a Judas touch and of using methods which righten people as much as Hitler's Gestapo.

Harry O. White (PC—Middlesex East) said in the Commons that inspectors questioning farmers appear to be their friends, willing to help.

He said farmers answer all sorts of questions in the hope the information will help to reduce their tax payments and then find it is used to increase their tax.

He said farmers don't keep records closely enough to be able to fight such tactics by the revenue department.

PLAN NEW FACTORY

BRANTFORD (CP) — A new truck-equipment factory will be built in Brantford soon, W. Ashton Cockshutt, vice-president and general manager of the Brantford Coach and Body Co. Ltd., said today.

The new company, Brantford-Holton Limited, will be a joint operation of the Brantford firm and the J. H. Holan Corp., Cleveland.

TAX MEAL ALLOWANCES

LONDON (CP) — Thousands of workers in Britain will be subject to income tax on meal allowances for their employers as a result of a court decision here. The court ruled in favor of the crown in a test case dealing with a municipal worker who had sought exemption from tax on meal allowances paid him because he worked late.

HIGH TIDE FOR HIGH SMELL
WEEKAPPAUG, R. I. (AP) — This Atlantic coast community is holding its collective nose. High tides Tuesday washed ashore the carcass of a 10-foot whale and wedged it in rocks. Police were called, but decided dead whales were out of their jurisdiction. Villagers hope for a good high tide to carry the whale out to sea.

Shakespeare's Puns Provoked His Interest

TORONTO (CP) — A New York policeman once "the hatingest Shakespeare hat of them all," but who last month won a $15,000 radio prize for answering questions about the Bard's works, arrived here Tuesday on his way to the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

Patrolman Redmond O'Hanlan, 39, master of arts, father of five and onetime pouter of a Bowery beat, said he was rejected as an English teacher "because of my nasal tone."

He said he is interested in Shakespeare because of "the word play—the puns."

O'Hanlan told reporters he has compiled a 3,500-card index of Shakespeare's puns, and sometimes tries them out on precinct colleagues.

He said puns cannot represent the lowest form of wit because, to understand them, one must be able to see a hidden meaning. His interest started when he discovered these second meanings while reading the Bard's work.

"To master the study, I had to study the master," he said.

leagues. If his attractive wife, Marguerite, accompanying him to Stratford, laughs, he marks them "understandable to average person."

He said puns cannot represent the lowest form of wit because, to understand them, one must be able to see a hidden meaning. His interest started when he discovered these second meanings while reading the Bard's work.

Youth Charged With Attacking Toronto Girl

TORONTO (CP)—James Greenidge, 18, was arrested Tuesday night and charged with raping a 15-year-old girl.

Police said they arrested Greenidge in a central Toronto home.

Police described the attack as one of the most brutal and shocking cases here in years.

The girl, who required hospital treatment, told police she was walking home with a bag of groceries when she heard footsteps behind her. She said the youth put his arm around her neck and dragged her into an alley where he tore off her clothing. She crawled on her hands and knees to the street where passersby called police.

Union Requests Title to Pension After 20 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—A union request for federal recognition of an employee's so-called "vested right" in his pension equity was laid before the Commons Tuesday night.

H. W. Herridge (CP—Kootenay West) supported the claim of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, which asked that workers under non-contributory pension plans acquire full title on their pension equity after the age of 50 and after 20 years' service.

He read the Commons a letter the union sent to Finance Minister Harris asking for the right on behalf of members employed by the International Nickel Co. and Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. at Trail and Kimberley in British Columbia and a Sudbury and Port Colborne in Ontario.

Revenue Minister McCann said the letter was turned over to him. He had replied to the union that a study is being made of all revenue department rules and regulations regarding pension plans, with a view to proposing changes.

$5,000 Awarded Inventor Of Flamethrower

OTTAWA (CP)—An award of $5,000 has been made by the government to Maj. Henry Sorensen of Edmonton for the invention and development of a new flamethrower, the defence department announced today.

The tracked flamethrower, known as the Iroquois is rated by officials here as the best weapon of its type in the world. Details on it are still secret.

The $5,000 gratuity is the largest amount ever granted a member of the Canadian armed forces for an invention.

Maj. Sorensen, 45-year-old native of Denmark, has had no formal engineering training but now is considered one of Canada's outstanding experts in flame warfare. He not only developed the weapon but devised new tactics for its use.

The defence department said military authorities in Britain and the United States have expressed interest in the new weapon. Several demonstrations have been conducted by Maj. Sorensen in those countries during the last two years.

Manager Asks Critics To Delay Their Visits

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP)—William Shakespeare's "The Tempest" opened Tuesday night at the new Stratford Shakespeare Festival theatre, but there were no critics on hand to review it.

Jim Awe, manager of the theatre, had asked the critics to stay away until the production has a chance to work itself in. Scores of critics, including one from the Russian newspaper Pravda, attended the new theatre's first production, "Julius Caesar," July 12.

Awe said he asked the critics not to attend until Aug. 1.

NEED AUDIENCES

"We found out we have to have a couple of audiences under our belts to get swinging," he said.

"After a couple of nights, Julius Caesar went perfectly."

"The Tempest" stars Toronto-born Raymond Massey, Joan Chandler, Jack Palance and Roddy McDowell, all of whom played in "Julius Caesar."

The theatre is patterned after similar ones in Stratford, Ont., and Stratford-on-Avon in England.

Jim Hook and Clapp formed the winning battery, Hook allowing 10 hits, whiffing four and walking six. Hull pitched for Tip Tops, tagged for nine hits while fanning five. His downfall was the result of sixteen walks. Locke and McGuire did the catching.

Lewis led Elliot's at the plate with a home run and single while Stoneburg doubled. Sheridan had a triple and single in a losing effort while Locke doubled and singled. Moore punched a brace of singles.

No Price Fixing In Tire Industry Says Executive

TORONTO (CP)—M. L. Brown, president of Seiberling Rubber Co. of Canada Ltd., said Monday "any suggestion of combine 'price fixing' is unfounded."

Brown was referring to a question asked in the House of Commons by A. M. Nicholson (CCF—Mackenzie) who said price increases in tires by rubber companies were surprisingly uniform and should be investigated.

Three Canadian companies have announced price increases for tires ranging from 2 1/2 to 7 1/2 per cent. Monday. Justice Minister Garson said the government's anti-combine officials are investigating the situation.

Mr. Brown said in a statement that the first intimation he had that a competitive firm was going to raise prices "came to me when a newspaper informed me of the proposed increases."

"The executive of Seiberling held a meeting yesterday and it was decided that increased manufacturing costs justified higher prices than announced by the competitive firm. However, we decided to hold our increase to those of competition."

Rocket Sled Hits 1,100 MPH, Has 'Sonic Boom'

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A rocket sled hit a speed of 1,100 miles an hour in five seconds acceleration—believed the fastest land speed ever attained with such a device, Northrop Aircraft said Tuesday.

Rockets propelled the 4,300-pound sled at supersonic speed and it creates a sonic boom, just like a jet plane.

IVANHOE

Evils of Gambling Discussed by W.M.S.

IVANHOE — The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W. M. S., held at the home of M. Mrs. John Wallace Thursday afternoon, was well attended.

The president, Mrs. Harry Benson presided and extended a welcome to the visitors. The program opened with a poem, "The Psalmist," read by Mrs. John Wallace. The Scripture lesson was found in Matthew 8:5-17 and was read by Mrs. Harold Thompson.

Plans were made for a bake sale to be held at Oak Lake Friday.

An interesting study of the 8th commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Steal" was given by Mrs. J. C. Sills.

A chapter in the Study Book was conducted by Mrs. Harold Thompson assisted by Mrs. John McInroy and Miss Bessie Fleming.

A duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd" was sung by Beverly and Shirley McInroy.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Volney Richardson, was introduced by Mrs. J. C. Sills.

Mrs. Richardson, citizenship secretary of St. Paul's W. M. S., Stirling, spoke on the evils of gambling.

She said gambling is a passion confined to no nation, country or period. It is as old as humanity and is closely allied with the methods of divination by which primitive men sought to learn of the future.

Traces of gambling, have been found at the close of the Ice Age, in the recently discovered caves in France. Knuckle bones, which are the representatives of modern dice, have been found in Egypt dating back to 1600 B.C.

What is gambling? It is an appeal to chance with two ends in view: the first to give expression to the love of sport or adventure in man and second to obtain the ownership of property. From a moral standpoint gambling is a form of robbery by mutual agreement, but it is still robbery. Just as duelling by mutual agreement is still murder.

GIVES CHRISTIAN VIEWPOINT

The Christian religion denies that there is such a thing as chance. Are not five sparrows sold for a farthing and not one of them is forgotten in the sight of God. There is a path of adventure and mystery which God calls us all to follow. It is often beset with clouds and darkness. Man goes forth not knowing whether he gains, and his progress along the unknown ways, not of chance but of Providence, is an endless adventure with ever larger issues at stake. There is endless spiritual adventure in this life without artificial stimulus.

Every Protestant church has requested through its official court that no exception be made in the criminal code by granting permission for gambling for charitable purposes.

Mrs. Lindsay Sills, on behalf of W. M. S. members, thanked Mrs. Richardson for her interesting and informative address.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Steel Orders Running Above Mill Capacity

NEW YORK (AP)—Incoming orders are running as much as 20 per cent above the capacity of some of the large American steel mills, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly, and the producers "are fighting to restore some kind of order to a near-chaotic situation."

Iron Age reports the mills took a chance on deferring maintenance with the thought that demand would ease this summer and give them a chance to catch up with needed maintenance. But business boomed, and the time has come when maintenance can be delayed no longer.

Now complaints about deliveries and allotments have sales executives hanging on the ropes.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE REAL WORLD IS MORE FUN THAN DAYDREAMS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax: Is it possible to love a man you can never hope to get? For most of my 20 years I have wanted something, never knew what it was. I do now. But the man I want doesn't know I exist. You see, he is a television star.

You may think I am being childish. My friends do. They tell me to stop loving this man since I could never get him. But you can't stop wanting something just because you know you can't get it. My friends also tell me it is just an infatuation that I'll get over. But will I? My days as well as my nights are filled with thoughts of him. I know dreams don't always come true, but I can't stop dreaming, for in dreams I have what I want.

This man's world is full of glamour and excitement, and I know I could never fit into it. Yet I feel he could fit into mine. I have gone out with other men, but I find myself comparing them with him. I've stopped going out with them because I don't think it is fair to them.

If you, too, tell me this is only an infatuation, then I'll try to forget him this T.M.

If this letter of yours is intended seriously—which seems hard to believe—then all I can say is that you have lived such a tragically empty life that you have had to turn to childish dreams and fantasies for romantic satisfaction. You say you always have wanted "something," but never knew what it was until you began to spin these daydreams about a man "you can never hope to get." Well, that shows very plainly what you want—and have lacked all these years—in your life, doesn't it? You want romance, just like everybody else, and you've never had it. You tell me that you have gone out with other men, but, frankly, I doubt it. It seems to me that you're trying so hard to invent a romance just because you've never—or very rarely—had a date.

But there's a far better and wiser way of getting something of real interest into your life than by living in a dream world. So let me urge you as strongly as I can to put aside your daydreams and start really living. It's a lot more fun to grow up and have good times with real people than to remain a child and keep playing with dolls forever. And playing with dolls is just what you're doing when you occupy yourself with make-believe experiences in which the hero is a man who, so far as you are concerned, doesn't even exist.

So now listen: There's no city in the world that contains more interesting people or more interesting things to do than the one in which you live. What you should do to shake yourself awake to some of the possibilities around you is to go and have a talk with one of the men on the staff of the big WCA there. Find out about the clubs, the parties, the dances, the hobby groups; then choose one or two of them and start going to them regularly. Many of the parties given at the Y these days are for young men as well as young women, so that's a good way to meet young men.

Or, if you've made some new friends as you will if you do as I suggest, you'll find a whole new world opening up to you. You'll also find that you've lost the need to dream, because the real world is so much more fun.

REDS HEAD HOME

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The captain and 28 crew members of the Soviet tanker Tuapse left for Hong Kong by air this morning on their way home. Twenty others have been granted political asylum in Formosa. The 8,840-ton tanker still is held by the Nationalists who seized it in June, 1954.

QUESTION:

Would like very much if you could help me. We have a church reception hall we have to cater to for 50 guests. We are planning on pineapple Bavarian cream or something in that line. Have you recipe for same? How much do you think we would need? Have you any suggestions for leaved green salad—Mrs. L. S. F.

ANSWER:

As you know by now your letter arrived when I was overseas. I am very distressed because this answer is too late. But for a future time I hope my reply will be of some use. There is a booklet called "So you're serving a crowd." If you would like to write for it write to me and I will tell you the address. I think it is 50 cents.

PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN CREAM

(For 50 people.) Seven tablespoons gelatine, 3 1/2 cups cold water, 1 1/3 cups lemon juice, 4 2/3 cups sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 3 1/2 cups boiling hot pineapple juice (drained from canned crushed pineapple), 14 cups drained canned crushed pineapple, 7 cups (1 quart and 2 cups) heavy cream, whipped. Soak the gelatine in the cold water five minutes. Add with the lemon juice, sugar and salt to the boiling hot pineapple juice and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Chill until it begins to thicken, then stir in the crushed pineapple. Fold in the whipped cream and chill until set. Never use fresh pineapple as it will not jell.

To serve 25 order a 12-lb. ham to give 3-oz. servings. There is a 47 per cent shrinkage and waste to baked ham. Order 12 1/2-lb. rolled boneless beef to serve 25 people each a 2 oz. serving. There is a 40 per cent shrinkage and waste to roast beef. The only way to judge amounts for tossed green salads is by cupsful not weight. You will need approximately 32 to 35 cups (6 or 7 Imperial quarts) of tossed green salad when it is dressed with mayonnaise to serve fifty.

QUESTION:

I enjoy your column so much I am asking help. Firstly—I have been put on a very low fat diet. Are vegetable oils such as kero and mazola 'fats'. What other substitute could I use if so, for cake and cookies. Why do I have trouble with angel food cake? I follow instructions very carefully, but they don't raise light and high like they should, and are slightly tough. I use coal in a cookstove but have good thermometer on the oven—Mrs. P. Blackie.

ANSWER:

There are no substitutes for fat you can't have your fat and eat cake too, you know. Cakes and cookies are out for you. I haven't had any, except testing samples, for so long I don't miss it and you won't either soon. Take near there are thousands living very happily without along with you, and looking very sleek and feeling very fit too. I have mailed you the column dated June 4, in which there is a letter from a reader asking about angel cake too. I think my reply will solve your difficulty, unless your oven thermometer is registering wrong—possibly too low. Is there any way you could have this checked by the dealer from whom you bought the stove? Or could you borrow a portable thermometer and see if it registers the same as the one on oven door, when you have the oven heated some time? Write again if you would like a calorie chart and some good low-calorie and low-fat menus.

QUESTIONS ABOUT DANCE ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Beckman: I wouldn't want to sign my name to my two so-dumb questions, but I really would appreciate your answer. I am a wonderful dancer, Bob, and that was a wonderful dance!

I belong to a group of girls who have been very, very close friends ever since our days together in grammar school. Recently, several of them became engaged, and several of them are to be given for them in the weeks ahead. These showers will undoubtedly be held in the afternoon. But, Mrs. Beckman, I have recently landed a wonderful position and I just can't, and don't want to be, "absent" on any afternoon. However, in the case of

1. The girl is not supposed to applaud when the dance music stops. And you'd better not "obey that urge," because your partner may misinterpret your too-eager enthusiasm. You can show your enthusiasm by looking "mighty pleased!"

2. Your partner is the one who should say, "Thank you, Betty," or you say, for example, "I enjoyed that you for the dance." Then it, or "I enjoyed it so much," or

"It was delightful," or "It was a wonderful dance, Jim" . . . or when you know your partner well, go all out in your enthusiasm. "You're a wonderful dancer, Bob," and that was a wonderful dance!"

HOW TO WRITE A "REGRET" NOTE

Dear Mrs. Beckman: I know that my partner thinks me for the dance (or at least is supposed to), and should I thank him also for the dance?—A Teen-ager every one of these showers, I would want to send a very nice present. Will you please give me a suggestion of how I could write my regret to the invitation I'd rather explain in writing, rather than telephone the explanation?—Peggy F.

Your note might read: Dear Dorothy, I know that you will realize how very, very sorry I am not to be able to be at the linen shower you are planning for Kay, but in the circumstances of my new position, it is really impossible for me to be absent from my work in the afternoon. However, I do want to "join in" the shower, and I already have my gift for her, which I will mail to your house at once so that it will arrive in time for the festivity. Dearest love to you, Dorothy, and please tell Kay at the party that I'll be with her and all of you in thought! Lovingly Peggy

CORRECT TIE WITH WHITE DINNER JACKET

Dear Mrs. Beckman: I'm to be the groom at an August wedding in the chapel of our church. The wedding is to be in the evening and I am planning to wear a white summer dinner jacket with black light-weight tuxedo trousers. Should I wear a white bow tie or a black bow tie?—Bill B.

You should wear a black bow tie. (The white bow tie is appropriate only for formal evening wear . . . "tails.")

FOOD POISON AT WEDDING NAPLES (Reuters)—The bride, the groom and 180 of the 200 guests at a wedding banquet at Anversa near here were rushed to hospital Monday suffering from food poisoning. After a preliminary investigation police said they believed the cakes were responsible.

Time of Waiting on Prairies But Wheat Crop Looks Good

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—It is the time of waiting on the Prairies. Within a few weeks the world will know how bountiful its breadbasket will be this year.

The tension of expectancy is high this summer. Earlier, the weather pulled so many tricks that crop forecasters were cautious.

But as July passed its zenith the general picture was good. Some forecasters were even using such adjectives as "spectacular" and "superb" in their periodic reports to describe growth and growing conditions.

HECTIC SEASON

It has been a hectic growing season in Canada's 71,800,000-acre grain belt. Heavy snowfalls last winter left an abundance of moisture on the ground when spring arrived. But with the spring came heavy rains. Then in May the greatest storm in history struck southern Saskatchewan and western Manitoba, flooding millions of acres of rich grain fields. Where drainage was quick farmers were able to plant a late crop. But in Manitoba 500,000 acres went unseeded this year.

As June rolled by farmers in the Peace river and east-central areas of Alberta, and in western and northern Saskatchewan, began to cry for rain; near drought conditions were being experienced in those areas. The rains came just in time and the general picture became brighter.

Generally hot weather during the first two weeks of July accelerated crop growth so much that despite the late planting the growing season was a full two weeks ahead of 1954.

And, as if nature were pulling for the farmers, Manitoba and Saskatchewan grain growers have apparently been spared from an expected rust invasion. Last year rust cost the farmers 100,000,000 bushels of grain.

Officials were inclined to believe the extensive planting this spring of the new Selkirk wheat, which is resistant to Race 15B stem rust, held off the invasion.

THREAT EXISTS

However, they may be spared from one disaster, but the threat of another still hangs in the background; early frosts could do as much damage as last year's rust. One official said that if good growing weather continued, general harvesting should commence during the latter half of August.

It was still too early to estimate the acreage planted this year. Before the spring floods farmers announced their intention of planting 23,000,000 acres in wheat, a decrease of 600,000 from 1954. Officials anticipated a much larger increase in oats, barley and mixed grains.

Privy Council Removes Limit On RCN Liability

LONDON (CP) — The judicial committee of the Privy Council Monday set aside a Canadian Supreme Court ruling which limited the liability of a Royal Canadian Navy ship involved in a wartime collision.

The accident occurred in the Irish sea during the closing months of the Second World War when the Canadian frigate Oriskany collided with the steamship Blairnesia, owned by the Nibel Shipping Company of Glasgow. The freighter, loaded with iron ore from Spanish Morocco, was beached, and her owners put their claim to the Canadian government.

The Exchequer Court of Canada in 1951 found the Oriskany solely to blame for the collision and directed an inquiry as to damages, claimed by the Scottish company to be $357,600. The Canadian Supreme Court affirmed this decision but declared that the crown could limit liability to an amount not exceeding $38,92 for each ton of the lost ship's tonnage. The Blairnesia's tonnage was 4,155, 2,321 net.

Viscount Simonds, giving the Privy Council's judgment, said the Canada Shipping Act of 1954, setting out the right to limit liability, did not apply to Her Majesty's ships except where specifically provided. Their lordships restored the Exchequer Court ruling and awarded the Scottish company costs against the crown of the proceedings in the Supreme Court and before the Privy Council.

Bundestag Picks Top Generals For German Army

BONN, Germany (AP)—Former Wehrmacht generals Hans Speidel and Adolf Heusinger will become the highest ranking generals of the new German army, the security committee of the Bundestag announced Tuesday night.

Speidel, 58, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's chief of staff on the western front, now is the West German government's civilian representative at Supreme Allied headquarters in Europe.

Heusinger, 57, wartime chief of the German supreme command's operations division, now heads the military planning department of the defence ministry.

Both will have the rank of lieutenant-general—the same rank they held in the Second World War. Defence ministry officials previously have said Heusinger would be named chief of staff of all the armed forces.

WOUNDED IN BOMB PLOT

Heusinger was standing at Hitler's side in his East Prussian headquarters when a bomb intended for the Fuehrer exploded in 1944. He had known of the bomb plot, but took no active hand in its execution. Although wounded, he was arrested, but released after two months.

Speidel also was arrested in 1944 as a suspect in the bomb plot. He escaped and ended the war in hiding. He became a professor of history after the war.

The security committee also approved the appointment of three major-generals: 21 brigadier-generals, 275 colonels, 630 lieutenant-colonels, 966 majors, 970 captains and 400 lieutenants.

Labor Relations Board Declines To Act as Censor

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario labor relations board, in a decision handed down Tuesday, indicated it will not take on the job of censoring violent language sometimes used in inter-union disputes.

The board declined to upset a representation vote at the RCA Victor Prescott plant won by a Congress of Industrial Organizations union. Bargaining agent for the employees previously was the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL).

The AFL union said that because of language used in CIO leaflets the men were unable to make a proper decision. The employees favored the CIO union 208 to 139.

The leaflets charged the AFL leaders were "lining their pockets" and were running "nothing but a racket." CIO spokesmen said that if the statements were libelous, its rival had recourse to the courts. The board made no comment on the controversy but decided not to overrule the election and certified the CIO Electrical Workers to bargain for the employees.

Vandals Deface Evita's Statues

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—On the national day of mourning for Eva Peron, vandals Tuesday defaced posters and monuments erected to her memory in towns of Buenos Aires province.

The dynamic blonde wife of President Juan D. Peron died of cancer just three years ago.

The incidents occurred as Peronist legislators ended a week-long squabble and accepted President Peron's directive to change officers of the National House of Deputies. The move was a defeat for the party's labor wing.

Police said the vandalism occurred in three towns near the capital and a newspaper reported an attack in another town. In Balcarce, the hands of a clock erected by workers' contributions in her memory were twisted. The clock's hands had been stopped at 8:25 p.m., the minute of her death on July 26, 1952.

QUEEN IN DARK

CHICHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—The famous country house near here where Queen Elizabeth spent the night without electric light for several hours Monday night. A fault in a high tension underground cable cut power in the neighborhood of Goodwood House, the home of the Duke and Duchess of Richmond and Gordon. Candles were brought out until power was restored.

Workers Return $3,000 to Firms, Upholding Union

VANCOUVER (CP)—Workers in eight upholstery firms have voted to return to the companies $3,000 in a retroactive pay boost which their union claims is illegal.

Dan Radford, regional director of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said Vancouver Upholsterers' Union (CCL) has voted to return the money "to uphold union bargaining."

The union charges that four of the eight firms violated the Labor Relations Act by conducting a vote on contract terms which were approved by the workers. Radford said the upholstery workers now have turned down a five-cent hourly wage boost, previously accepted, because the ballot was not sanctioned by the union.

Though the vote on the five-cent increase was taken in only four firms, the raise was made applicable to four others, retroactive to May 1. The union has asked for a government-supervised strike vote.

TWO ELECTROCUTED

BELLEFRONTE, Pa. (AP)—Two men were put to death in Pennsylvania's electric chair Monday night in the second double execution this year at Rockview state penitentiary. Patrick A. Prosperity Cause Of Credit Curbs Butler Declares LONDON (Reuters)—R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, Tuesday denied Labor charges of economic bungling and said the real reason for new credit and spending curbs is "almost unrivalled" British prosperity.

"The economy is fundamentally sound and we have made a great surge forward," he told the Commons in a heated debate on his new economic moves, announced Monday. The debate concluded with a vote of 290 to 231 in support of the government's economic policy.

He added that the recession given the new restrictions provided evidence the government has "found about the right balance" for Britain's economic situation. Butler spoke in answer to the former Labor chancellor, Hugh Gaitskill, who charged the government with creating "an extraordinary muddle" of the nation's touchy economic situation.

5 States Ratify Great Lakes Basin Compact

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—Representatives of five states Tuesday announced ratification of the Great Lakes basin compact under a program aimed at development and conservation of water resources in the Great Lakes area.

Delegates to the Council of State Governments regional conference here said the compact already had been ratified by state legislatures in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The compact authorizes formation of a commission empowered to make recommendations to the states and federal government on such matters as public works, pollution control, water levels and shore erosion in Great Lakes states. Delegates said it was hoped New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania and the provinces of Ontario and Quebec would join in approving the compact.

IMPOSE CENSORSHIP BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Liberal party sources today said the government has clamped censorship on four of Colombia's leading newspapers. The move apparently was in retaliation for repeated editorial criticism. The papers affected are El Tiempo, El Espectador, El Relator and El Diario, shot to death by a gunman 11 days ago.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Woman Will Stand Trial for Murder After Rival's Death in Fire

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Marjorie Gertrude Somerville, 35, is to stand trial on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Caroline Mary Simmonds, 26, who perished July 1 when fire swept the home they shared with a man and his young son.

Simmonds died when fire roared through the five-room, frame home of Donald Berry, 56, a district employee of the Ontario highways department.

Testifying at the preliminary hearing Tuesday at which Miss Somerville was committed for trial, Berry said Miss Somerville, whom he found sitting in front of the flaming house, told him:

"I burned your house down."

The fire climaxed a day in which the two women had quarrelled and then joined Berry to beer in a nearby hotel.

WAS IN WOODLOT
Berry said he was in the woodlot behind his home 18 miles north of here when he noticed the house afire. Fearing his son Clifford, 10, and playmates were inside, he broke several rear windows, but was forced back by flames.

He went around to the front of the house, he said, and found Miss Somerville sitting in the laneway with a radio and two lamps from the house beside her.

It was then, Berry testified, she told him she burned his house down. He asked where the children were.

"There was nobody in the house when I burned it," he quoted her as saying. "I made sure there was nobody."

Mr. Berry said Miss Somerville came to live with him 10 years ago to look after his son who was then six weeks old. Miss Simmonds moved in almost three years ago, he said.

WENT TO BEACH
He said he and the two women, some friends and several children went to the beach earlier in the day. The two women disappeared, he said, but he later located them and Miss Simmonds was going home with him when they met Miss Somerville. He asked the latter to get in the car, he said, but she "gave me a shove and told me to get back in the car or she'd kill me."

Later they went to the hotel for beer and another witness, Nicholas Pokna, said he saw the two women fighting outside the hotel. He testified he saw "Marjorie strike Cary up against the wall."

Dr. E. S. Penland, Toronto medical-legal expert, said an autopsy showed no fractures or bullet wounds in Miss Simmonds' body. He said the inside of her windpipe indicated she was alive when the fire started.

Welcomes Pearson
MOSCOW (AP)—Tass, official soviet news agency, today welcomed External Affairs Minister Pearson's announcement that he hopes to visit the Soviet Union in early October.

The news agency also gave prominence to the invitation to the Soviet farm delegation, now in the United States, to visit Canada.

Collective Bargaining Asked In Seaway Land Expropriation
CORNWALL (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture says the only fair way of arriving at compensation for expropriated Seaway Valley lands is by collective bargaining.

In a brief prepared for the St. Lawrence board of review, arbiters in property deals, the federation says the principle is important because "few (farmers) have much experience in the real estate business."

It suggested that Ontario Hydro could set a minimum of average price for compensation which could be adjusted up or down.

Land should be valued on the basis of market value, productivity and location. Farm buildings and residences should be valued separately.

Allowance should also be made for loss from interference to business. "Failure to recognize farming as a business," the brief said, "is definitely discrimination against the basic and most important industry in the province."

New Cars Stress Safety Features, Driving Ease, More Eye-Appeal
BY DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—New model automobiles, to come out earlier than usual this year, will emphasize safety developments, enhanced eye appeal and even greater driving ease.

One development that has had practically no advance notice is the possibility of colored aluminum exterior trim. Colored grills are included in this effort.

The emphasis on safety features probably is a logical development. Use of safety seat belts, padded dashboard and steering wheel top to lessen crash impact, have been getting wide publicity in recent months.

Chrysler and Ford already have announced safety belts as optional extra-cost equipment. Some car makers are working on a collapsible steering wheel assembly.

PUSH BUTTON GEAR
A couple of the higher priced models may offer pushbutton gear shifting in with improved automatic transmissions.

Generally, there are going to be few major design changes. Wholly new body shells are coming for the 1958 Lincoln, due in September, and of course, for the revived Continental to be known as the Mark II. The latter is scheduled for October introduction.

There will be some further increase in horsepower output of the car engines and more producers will introduce four-door hardtop models.

Present planning indicates new Ford and Mercury cars will be introduced in October, both with some styling changes.

GM CHANGES
Some changes in the body shells of all General Motors autos are underlined to be in the making. Most of the GM lines are scheduled for November presentation with the possible exception of Chevrolet which may be somewhat earlier.

Chevrolet has important grille and trim changes ready for its 1956 cars.

Chrysler's makes also are scheduled for November debuts. There will be no dramatic changes on Chrysler but the basic body shells are expected to be retained.

Some Chrysler lines probably will have pushbutton shifting as will Packard when it introduces its 1956 cars in October.

United Church Buys Land For Headquarters

TORONTO (CP)—The United Church of Canada has bought 25,000 square feet of land in North Toronto for construction of a new headquarters.

The property comprises an eight-apartment block and three houses near the intersection of St. Clair avenue east and Avoca. Purchase price was not disclosed.

A. P. Johnston, committee chairman, said Tuesday it is expected the question of building will come before the church's General Council meeting in Windsor, Ont., next year.

Pole Survived Siberian Horror

LONDON, Ont. (ep)—A former member of the Polish army is a patient at Beck Memorial Sanatorium but still considers himself lucky to be alive.

Basyl Gladyszczuk, 40, spent 17 months in an isolated Siberian prison camp after he was taken prisoner by the Russian army in September, 1939.

But today, even as a sufferer from tuberculosis, he is thankful. During confinement in Siberia he watched companions die about him with no chance of escape. In the intense cold, the prisoners lived in tents and wrapped their feet in Today, Gladyszczuk still does not know where in Siberia he was. He knows only that the prison was called camp 62.

He hopes to leave the sanatorium late this summer after almost a year to go back to his job as a construction worker.

Gladyszczuk said he does not dare to go back to Poland. "I would be killed in a minute."

He came to Canada in 1946, leaving a brother and sister behind. He has had word of neither since 1948.

Tore Parking Ticket, Is Promptly Arrested
QUEBEC (CP)—Motorist Roland Tremblay ripped up a parking ticket and tossed it at deputy police chief Gerard Girard saying "That's how I take care of my parking tickets."

"And this is how I take care of people who tear up tickets in my office," said Girard as he and another officer arrested Tremblay and led him upstairs to municipal court.

Tremblay pleaded guilty to a charge of disorder and was sentenced to pay a fine of $15 or spend eight days in jail. He now is awaiting a summons to answer the traffic violation charge.

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev promised East German Reds Tuesday night that Germany will not be unified at the expense of the "political and social advances" of the German Democratic (Communist) Republic.

Canadian Group Is Largest At Commonwealth Law Parley

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Some 500 Canadian lawyers, magistrates and judges are taking a busman's holiday in London—to talk about law.

They form the biggest delegation to the eight-day first Commonwealth and Empire law conference which opened last Wednesday.

"We sort of overwhelmed them," chuckled magistrate B. W. Hopkins of Hamilton. "About 1,000 of the 1,300 delegates come from outside Britain and half of them are Canadian. More than half the Canadian delegation comes from Ontario."

There are 22 judges in the Canadian delegation, including the chief justices of Quebec, Ontario and Alberta, and Helen A. Kinnear, QC, of Cayuga, Ont., the only woman in the Commonwealth to have been made a county court judge.

Most of the conference's meetings to discuss common problems and developments have been on the committee level. Monday, however, the delegates met in plenary session to consider whether the two branches of the legal profession—barristers and solicitors—should be joined.

Joseph Sedgwick, QC, of Toronto told delegates there is fusion of the two branches throughout Canada, unlike Britain where they remain separate.

A better service might be given by the dual system, he said, but separation in Canada now is impossible since "democracies do not retreat."

Summing up the discussion, John A. MacAulay, QC, of Winnipeg, said that in general countries which have fusion of the branches seemed satisfied. Those which had separation, on the other hand, also were satisfied.

Many delegates brought their families to London for the conference and high-point of the visit for many delegates' wives was a royal garden party at Buckingham Palace.

Among those presented to the Queen by High Commissioner Norman Robertson were J. W. Pickup, chief justice of Ontario; Senator Salter A. Hayden of Toronto; D. Park Jamieson of Toronto, president of the Canadian Bar Association.

Must Keep Peace

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Gorzynski, 49, Monday was bound over in the amount of $100 to keep the peace after a neighbor, Andrew Burke, accused him of hitting him over the head with a pall filled with water.

Evidence was that Burke slept outside during the heat wave and Gorzynski objected to his snoring. (The Canadian Press reported erroneously Tuesday that Gorzynski was fined $100 or six months as well as being bound over to keep the peace.)

Summing up the discussion, John A. MacAulay, QC, of Winnipeg, said that in general countries which have fusion of the branches seemed satisfied. Those which had separation, on the other hand, also were satisfied.

Pensions for War Veterans Cost $127,000,000 Per Year, Two Billion Spent Since 1919

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian pensions commission now is re-examining some 6,000 war veterans pensioned because of deafness.

Of the 500 so far examined, about half have been awarded pension increases, says L. A. Mutch, deputy chairman of the pension commission.

Re-examination is important to pensioners' families because a widow of a pensioner who had been receiving a disability pension of 50 per cent or more is entitled to draw a pension on his death. If the pension is under 50 per cent, it does not continue to the widow.

Pensions of First World War veterans are not reduced if they have not varied for three consecutive years. Mr. Mutch said in an interview that there has not been a reduction in pension for a First World War veteran since 1946.

MAY BE INCREASED
On the other hand, pensions can be increased on re-examination. The commission has found that disabilities increase with advancing years, so that a First World War veteran can often be awarded a higher pension.

There is one exception to the no-reduction-in-pension rule for First World War veterans. This occurs where a disability is removed by surgical treatment with the consent of the veteran. There have been extremely few such cases.

War pensions cost Canadian taxpayers about $127,000,000 a year. Canada has spent $2,000,000,000 on pensions since 1919 when the Pension Act was introduced.

Some 200,000 veterans got out every month for 500,000 disabled veterans and their dependents. There are still some 60,000 veterans of the First World War and 15,000 widows drawing pensions; 98,000 of the Second World War and 18,000 widows.

AVERAGE PENSION
Average disability pension for the First World War now is $32.64 a month, for the Second World War $24.53. Average age of First World War pensioners is 65, of Second World War pensioners 41.

Of First World War pensioners, 75 per cent receive a pension of less than 50 per cent; of Second World War pensioners, 83 per cent receive a pension of less than 50 per cent.

A totally disabled—or 100-per-cent—pensioner receives $125 a month plus $45 if he is married. There is also an allowance of $20 a month for the first child, $15 for the second, $12 for the third and each subsequent child. Thus a totally disabled veteran with a wife and three children gets $217 a month.

A pensioner with 10-per-cent disability receives 10 per cent of these amounts.

A widow receives $100 a month and the rates for children are doubled. Thus a widow of a totally disabled veteran with three children receives $194 a month.

HELPLESSNESS ALLOWANCES
There are also helplessness allowances ranging from $480 to $1,400 a year for totally disabled pensioners who require attendants. A paraplegic from the waist down receives the maximum allowance of $1,400. A blind veteran receives an extra $960 a year.

Allowances for children are paid until the age of 16 in the case of a boy, 17 for a girl. If children remain in school, allowances can continue until they are 21.

TOTAL number of disability pensions awarded for the First World War reached a peak of 80,133 in 1940. Number for the Second World War is about 100,000.

Of First World War pensioners, 3,919 receive 100-per-cent disability pension. There are 10 other classes ranking down from 97-per-cent disability to five per cent. The largest number—12,208—are in the eight-to-12-per-cent disability class.

Price Increase For Steel Coming As Wages Rise

HAMILTON (CP)—The prospect of higher steel prices follows a new contract boosting the wages of Steel Company of Canada employees here.

Steelco members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) Monday night at a closed meeting ratified a company offer which had been accepted by their negotiating committee Friday.

Commenting on the new agreement, Steelco president H. G. Hilton said: "Some price increases are inevitable."

The average increase of 13 cents an hour—largest union gain in Canada this year—sent the Steelco average wage to $2.05 an hour. All 7,800 hourly-rated employees of Steelco's Hamilton works will get a seven-cent increase—the board increase, setting a new basic rate at $1.55½ cents an hour.

STEEL PACE-SETTER

Because Steelco, which produces more than 40 per cent of Canada's steel, is regarded as the pace-setter for the Canadian steel industry, the contract is expected to influence negotiations at the Algoma Steel Co. in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Dominion Steel and Coal Co. in Sydney, N.S.

Mr. Hilton said: "While the company believes there is no economic justification for a wage increase at this time, it was felt that a wage increase such as that granted was the best course in the light of all existing circumstances."

In addition to the seven-cent increase, job class differentials include increases ranging from one-half cent to 14½ cents an hour. Shift premiums are increased by one cent an hour to six and eight cents. Pay for work on eight statutory holidays is increased from double to double time and a half. The agreement is retroactive to April 1, 1955.

Inspect Estate Bought in 1911, Find It All Hill

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C. (CP)—

A Vancouver couple arrived at this Cariboo cattle town Monday to take a first look at their 20-acre farm purchased in 1911.

Cost of the land at that time was $20 an acre and taxes were kept up during the 44 years. Searching the countryside for the farm, the couple found what they had fondly termed through the years as "our estate."

At the junction of Williams creek and the Fraser river, it covers a hillside most of which is a sheer cliff.

Father Sentenced For Chaining Son

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—A father who kept his eight-year-old son chained by the neck for a week in a filthy stable was sentenced Monday to a year of hard labor.

William Robert Ferguson, 68, a district farmer, was sent to jail and his wife Eva was given a suspended sentence.

RCMP constable Bruce Sutherland told Magistrate B. C. Hendricks that the boy, Harry Ferguson, was not released until police arrived at the Ferguson farm.

He said the boy slept on three bags of hay thrown on the floor. The chain was about 20 feet long, allowing the boy to move just outside the door. The stable was locked from the outside at night.

Sutherland said Ferguson told him that he thought the chain would make his boy good because it made his dog good. The farmer admitted he chain the boy when he was five years old.

Colonel Jailed For 'Unpanting' Elderly Lawyer

LEWES, England (Reuters)—A bemuddled colonel and former secret agent was sentenced to six months in prison today for forcing an elderly lawyer to walk home without his pants in a dispute over a will.

Retired, monocled Lt.-Col. Alfred Daniel Wintle, 57, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault today after admitting he had lured 71-year-old Frederick Nye to his apartment last April and forcibly removed his pants—or "debagged" him in the local terminology. But the colonel went down with guns blazing.

"I was going to fly his trousers in triumph from my flagpole at home," said he in his confession with a fierce flash of his monocle. "But unfortunately I was arrested before dawn."

He added that he planned the escape in order to get himself arrested and "ventilate" what he thought was unfair treatment of his sister in a will drawn up by lawyer Nye.

RIDICULE BY CAMERA

Wintle—whose active military career included confinement in the Tower of London, a court martial and a secret mission to occupied France—was accused of luring Nye to his seacoast apartment in Hove by impersonating a lord over the telephone.

Then he allegedly forced the elderly lawyer to take off his trousers and took photographs of him bare-kneed and wearing a paper hat—to "make him an object of contempt and ridicule."

Nye finally left the apartment for home, wearing an overcoat—but no pants.

Truce Commission Reports Progress In Cambodia

LONDON (Reuters)—The three-power international armistice commission for Cambodia has reported satisfactory progress in maintaining the truce and preparing for elections Sept. 11 in the Indochina monarchy.

The text of the second report by the commission of Canadian, Indian and Polish representatives for the three months ending March 31 was published by the British government as a white paper Tuesday.

The commission stated that despite difficulties arising from the abdication of King Norodom Sihanouk in March, "the work of investigation and supervision went ahead and the list of specific tasks to be done was gradually reduced."

UNDERGROUND NUCLEUS

Continuing problems on which the commission is still working include the question of reintegration of former members of the resistance movement into the community, and raids on Cambodian territory from South Viet Nam.

The commission reported continued suspicion by the Cambodian government that "not all top leaders of the resistance movement had come out into the open and it felt that there was nucleus of an underground opposition" left in the country.

It stated that of 283 persons sought on charges of political and criminal offences only eight are in prison. The remaining 275 are fugitives.

The commission had established that raids from South Viet Nam were carried out by "irregular forces of the war lords in South Viet Nam."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GOOD IDEA!

Hockey fandom of the city and district has reacted in an appreciative way to the news that a private sponsor will guide the destinies of this city's senior "B" entry next season.

From all sides this department has heard remarks to the effect they will get solidly behind ex-alderman Don McNevin in his gallant gesture to preserve this type of hockey for city and district fandom.

Sports editors of the group district have commented favorably. Why shouldn't they? This has been one of the hotbeds of hockey since Mike Rodden teathed on a puck—or was it a football?

The brand of senior "B" hockey in eastern Ontario has been the best in the province since its inception three seasons ago. That is evidenced in the fact that a team from this group has walked off with the provincial championship each year.

But how long will this record maintain itself—and how long will this spotlight calibre of the great winter game be maintained?

Practically every team in the province if not Canada from junior "B" up lost money last year. They claim the reason was high operational costs. There is a definite movement afoot this year to cut player salaries, an item which appears to be the bugbear of any sponsor be it or he private or municipal.

A great number of clubs have asserted they are dispensing with high-priced imports. If sponsors presented a solid front all over the province, these alleged high-priced ice experts would come down to earth, that is if they want to play hockey. Meanwhile to offset the lack of player strength, many clubs have stated they will be using "homebrews" and in a number of cases junior players.

That is a point well put—but how about centres which have no junior material, or have not been foresighted enough to encourage junior players to provide a feed-box for senior teams of the future. That is the position Belleville finds itself in.

Don Barrett, well-known former player and a keen enthusiast of minor brackets hockey, broached the subject the other day. Through his own personal experience Don knows what a junior team means to a city. Not the imported type that cost well-meaning big-hearted sponsors their figurative shirts, but a "home-brew" club that gives youngsters the chance to develop and fit themselves for future senior company.

"I fully understand why junior "B" hockey was dropped here," but I would like to see it back on the map again to provide reinforcements for senior clubs—and to encourage sponsors like Don McNevin.

"People will say," Don said, "why bother sponsoring and training junior players if some big league scout is to come along and snatch him from under your nose?"

"That may be all right in some cases," he went on, "but tell me how many junior players have been developed here and gone on to the upper brackets. I can name two in recent years, Bobby Hull and Bob Taylor. Another has been signed to a "C" form."

Don said he has talked to several hockey men of the city and they showed more than passing interest in the revival of a city-bred junior club with no strings attached to professional or other outside interests.

"It is a crying shame what is happening to minor hockey players in Belleville," he said. "We have from four to six hundred hockey-hungry mopelets in the city, many of whom will develop into starry players. What is to become of them? They start at pee-wee, go up to juvenile, and they are met by a blank wall. There is no return. Once there they are finished until they reach the stature for senior company. They can make the Trent Valley League, but while I have nothing against that organization, I do not think it is the right kind of league for junior players."

"There is a distinct abyss between juvenile and senior "B" hockey, one that can be bridged by a junior team," Don said. "Besides the formation of a junior club here would make for senior players of the future who will be fit and ready to step into the upper brackets by or before the time they reach the junior age limit."

"Each year sees the graduation of juvenile players. Each year these boys are faced with no hockey future."

This department thoroughly agrees with Barrett's point of view. Don McNevin, senior "B" sponsor is in accord with the idea. So are several people we have talked with. Chief of Police Walter Probert personally told this corner he would donate a silver trophy for annual award to the "Most Valuable Player" in the proposed junior set-up.

Belleville probably would not produce what is known as a good junior team for two or three years. But at least it would be a start and a step in the right direction. And it would be an incentive to the youngsters, knowing that they would be sure of a puck-chasing future.

Tommy Byrnes' Four-Clouter Widens Margin to 2 Games; Beantowners Trip Tribe 5-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was the young pitchers, Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley, who were to give New York an American League pennant this year. But now that the heat's on it's Tommy Byrnes, an "old Yankee," who is winning the big ones. A week ago, Yankees needed an opening victory in their showdown series with Chicago to hold the lead. It was the 35-year-old Byrnes who answered the call and one Tuesday night the situation was the same and manager Casey Stengel again called on his southpaw surprise. Byrnes clicked again, holding Chicago to four hits and wrapping up a 1-0 decision as Yogi Berra slammed his 17th home run. That made New York's lead two games while Chicago stayed in a virtual second-place tie with Cleveland, beaten 5-1 at Boston.

BEAT OUT JAM

Byrnes, the only player ever to be dealt away by Yankees and then called back, was in a bases-loaded, two-out jam in the third, giving a single and two walks. But he came through and from then on didn't give Chicago another hit. Traded away to St. Louis in 1951 because of his wildness, Byrnes now has a 9-2 record, with six complete games and three shutouts, since returning to Yanks from Seattle this spring.

Tuesday night he walked five and hit two batters, but had the big pitch in the clutch to out-duel Dick Donovan, now 13-4. Byrnes succeeded the Chicago right-hander as the American League's best percentage pitcher (.818).

Elsewhere, fifth-place Detroit swept a two-night pair at Baltimore, 8 1/2 and 7-2. Washington split two with Kansas City, winning the first 9-3, then losing 3-1.

NEWCOMBE WINS AGAIN

In the National, ever-winning Brooklyn and Don Newcombe stayed at it, beating Cincinnati 4-2 for the big right-hander's 17th victory. Runner-up Milwaukee chilled Philadelphia 6-3, New York beat Chicago 6-5 in 12 innings, and Pittsburgh made it five straight, clipping St. Louis 2-0.

Boston rapped Herb Score, the rookie who has failed five times against the Red Sox, Panto Santiago and Don Mossie for 11 hits—including home runs by Ted Williams and Sammy White—to snap Cleveland's five-game streak.

Baltimore earned a 6-6 tie with Tigers when Al Kaline lost a two-out fly ball in the ninth. Then Ray Boone, with six RBIs for the night, doubled home the tie-breaker in the 12th with his fourth hit. Ned Garver took charge in the nightcap, winning his 10th while topping the American League with 13 complete games.

Newcombe was touched for seven hits, three by Ted Kuszewski, and was in a bit of a jam in the ninth when Carl Furillo dropped a two-out fly ball to leave runners on third and second. Newk got rookie Milt Smith on a fly ball as the Redlegs lost their 18th in the last 23.

Dee Fondy dropped Al Dark's foul pop with two out in the 12th at Chicago and Dark followed it up with a run-scoring single that beat reliever Hal Jeffcoat and the Cubs.

Washington pelted the As for 17 hits, one Silver's 16th homer, in the opener. Then Alex Kellner and Tom Gorman checked the Nats on seven hits in the nightcap. Kellner chipped in a single with Enos Slaughter's triple and a double by Vic Power in a two-run third.

"Each year sees the graduation of juvenile players. Each year these boys are faced with no hockey future."

This department thoroughly agrees with Barrett's point of view. Don McNevin, senior "B" sponsor is in accord with the idea. So are several people we have talked with. Slipping Leafs Lose to Chiefs; Bisons Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals might be in first place in the International League today but for the hitting of Buffalo's Steve Demeter.

The young Bison third-sacker drove in four runs with a pair of homers to provide the winning margin in a 6-2 nightcap victory Tuesday night after Royals had taken the opener 2-1.

The split, combined with Toronto's overtime 5-4 defeat at the hands of rampaging Syracuse, left Montreal one game out of the lead. Royals are playing .600 ball to .607 for Maple Leafs. A double victory over Buffalo would have lifted Montreal to the top with .610.

SPLIT HEADER

Columbus and Rochester split a pair, Red Wings winning the first 6-2 and dropping the second 4-3 in 11 innings. The twin-bill marked the end of their season series—also split, 11-11.

Havana and Richmond were not scheduled.

Demeter, 20, is the standout of the Buffalo attack. He leads the club in batting, home runs, runs batted in and most of the other offensive departments. His pair of two-run homers gave him 13 for the year. He drove in the only Herd marker against Joe Stanek in the first game and now has 33 RBIs.

Lefty Don Drysdale, Montreal starter and loser, served a two-run homer to Clyde Volmer to give Bisons an early lead. Rocky Nelson's 23rd home run and Bobby Williams' single after a two-bagger by Gino Cimoli knotted the count. Demeter then settled the affair, whacking Drysdale and Clem Mickens for big blows in the seventh and ninth.

SEVENTH VICTORY

Dick Marlowe went all the way for his seventh victory while Duke Maas took the defeat in the opener. Chiefs finished the season with a 12-0 edge on the champs. Chiefs have cut five games out of Toronto's lead and are themselves only five lengths out of the first division.

Ben Tompkins' single in the 10th, driving in Mel Clark, gave Kent Peterson a victory for his one inning of hurrying. Clark collected five hits in all, including a pair of triples, off route-going Ed Blake—biggest winner in the league with a 15-8 mark.

Gus Keriazakos and Spook Jacobs combined to give Columbus its ever break. Jacobs' successful squeeze bunt with the bases loaded in the 11th gave Keriazakos his second straight victory since rejoining Jets from Savannah. In the opener, a five-run fifth proved the Jets' undoing.

WILL BAN HONKING

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner predicted Monday that the city eventually will ban unnecessary car honking. But he said the question hinges on whether the police department has enough men to enforce such a regulation. The mayor said the ban would be directed at drivers who blow their horns when caught in traffic jams, and not those using them in dangerous situations.

Sugar Ray Rated No 3 Challenger, Walls Placed Seventh in Heavies

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson came back with a bang today into the monthly boxing ratings issued by Ring Magazine and is rated the No. 3 challenger to world middleweight champion Bobo Olson.

Sugar Ray wasn't even in the decision over Rocky Castellani at San Francisco moved the former champion right back into contention. Robinson takes over third place from Joey Giardello, who was left out of the rankings because of his sentence on assault charges.

rance's Charley Humez retains the No. 1 challenger role, although the International Boxing Club has selected Sugar Ray as the next opponent for Olson. Holly Mims of Washington moved from third to second place and Castellani dropped to fourth.

MOORE NO. 1

Archie Moore, the light-heavyweight champion, remains the No. 1 challenger for Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown, and Floyd Patterson moved into the No. 1 spot as the light-heavyweight contender.

Patterson changes places with Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, and Ylancie Pompey of Trinidad moves to third place from fourth. Germany's Gerhard Hecht now is fourth, and Willie Pastrano of New Orleans, who defeated Joey Maxim is No. 5.

Wallace (Buddy) Smith of Cincinnati forced a change in the lightweight ranks when he lifted the lightweight title from Jimmy Carter, who dropped to No. 1 challenger. Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, the leading contender, last month is second, with European title holder Dullio Loi of Italy, third.

Earl Walls of Toronto, the Canadian heavyweight champion, is ranked No. 1 in the division, behind Exzard Charles.

Point Anne, Frankford Triumph Over Bobcats, Madoc by Decisive Scores

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Founding two Bobcat pitchers for 14 hits, the Point Anne Cement men whipped the Belleville club 11-3 in a Belleville and District softball league game on the O-Pointers' diamond last night.

The game was played under protest by the losers when in the sixth frame Umpire Carson informed Herb Henn, Bobcat coach, that unless Vic Allan pitching for his club refrained from two motions in his windup, all pitches would be called balls. Henn promptly stated that the game was under protest and Carson relayed the message to the batters while spectators while Allan made a slight change in his windup.

Pat Maracle picked up another victory, going the distance and stopping the "Cluckers" boys on six safeties. He nipped four via the strike out method while walking three and hitting one. Only one hit went for extra bases.

At Adams started and took the loss in 3-2-3 innings pitched, tagged for five runs on eight hits, fanning one and walking three.

Vic Allan completed the hurling chore, giving up another strike out and as many hits, whiffing none while walking two and hitting two. Bob Hull got the winners off to a good start in the initial frame, lining a single to left, taking second on a walk and racing home on Bert Whalen's Texas-leaguer.

A base-on-balls to Lull, Garry Boyer's drag single and Phil Bennett's base hit to centre registered the second marker. Coach Phil Loft, playing right field for the short-handed homeesters, ignited their fourth-frame rally with a triple to left-centre, Maracle was safe on an error and Elliott's fly made it 3-0. Hull singled again and Goyer walked before Bert Whalen drove in two runs with a single to centre. Allan relieved Adams to get the third out.

A leaping catch by Goyer of Temple's line shot with two on in the fourth saved the winner's goose egg until the seventh. Temple opened the inning with a single and after Day was safe on a flied out, Skip Dracup lifted a home run over Horwood's head in left for a 5-2 score. A walk Maracle's triple and Elliott's double tally while Whalen's double and Bennett wrapped it up in the eighth.

Bob Hull and Bert Whalen were the offensive stars, Whalen hammering a double and two singles while Hull rapped a trio of singles and scored three times. Goyer and Bennett claimed a brace of singles each, Loft and Maracle hitting triples while Horwood and Elliott had one-baggers. Skip Dracup was tops in defeat with a homer and single while the others were divided among Doug Bone, Dave Lockyer, Bob Temple and Vic Allan.

If you don't hold a left toe-grip with the ground you will almost always overswing. This player has swung around so far that his left foot is in almost perpendicular position. That's wrong! Your left heel should never leave the ground more than enough to keep your knees level. That's never more than a few inches. If you release your left toe grip on the ground, you also release the power stored up by hip-and-shoulder pivot.

With an over-swing, it is nearly impossible to bring the club back to the ball at the correct mechanical instant. Pictured at the right, note the grip in the address position. The arrows inserted show you how the right and left hands work against each other—in order to help each other—at impact. As the left hand presses backward on the top of the shaft, the right hand is pressing forward. And there comes the crack-the-whip snap you want.

The power hitting of coach Carl Austin plus six Madoc errors were the main factors last night as the Frankford Merchants whipped Madoc 12-5 on the latter's home grounds in a B. and D. league softball fixture.

The two teams battled it out on even terms during the early part of the game, the Merchants breaking the double zero with two runs in the fourth. They added singletons in the next two frames before Madoc finally hit the score sheet for one in the sixth. Frankford scored greatly by several Madoc errors. Successive singles by Dafoe, Rankin and Austin while none of the homeesters allowed a defence down rattled the Merchants' ball for two bases and Leavitt's sacrifice helped. The winners were in front 8-5 when the dust cleared in the eighth.

They added to their total in the ninth as Cooke led off with a single and was sacrificed to second. Bob Schofield allowed a defence down rattled the Merchants' ball for two bases and Leavitt's sacrifice helped. The winners were in front 8-5 when the dust cleared in the eighth.

Austin was responsible for the initial Frankford tallies when, following Rankin who had walked, he homered to deep right field. Base hits by Radnor and Cooke plus an error accounted for their third tally while two more runs were made by 4-0. Murphy's triple and Cooke's sacrifice bunt gave them their seventh—frame marker.

All the loser's runs were driven in by clear base hits, Carswell notching the first when he tripled and rode home on Tufts' single. Schofield also hit and Brown walked before Radnor pulled out of trouble. A hit batter, walk and Schofield's triple plated two more in the eighth and Harry Brown followed with a circuit blast to right for the tying markers but they could not stave off the Frankford attack.

Doug Radnor hurled for the winners, allowing five hits, fanning 11 and walking six in a fine job while Ken Figen worked out trouble. He gave up 11 safe blows, whiffed five and passed only two, deserving better support.

Austin's homers and a single were tops with the wood while Cooke and Bill Rankin each had a brace of singles. Murphy claimed a triple while Dafoe, Gilmour and Radnor also hit safely. Schofield partially made up for his bobbles with a triple and single for Madoc while Brown homered, Carswell tripled and Tufts singled.

Line ups —
Frankford: Cooke, Cosgrove, Dafoe, Rankin, Austin, Gilmour, Leavitt, Murphy, Radnor.
Madoc: Carswell, Tufts, Schofield, Frances, Brown, Hagerman, Hatch, Devolin, Burnside, Figen.

Doug Ford New PGA Champ, Defeats Cary Middlecoff 4-3

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Doug Ford, the new PGA champion, is a go-go golfer.

Whether it's on the fairways or the high tees, Ford, 32, is a man in motion—perpetual motion. No sooner had he finished off Cary Middlecoff in Tuesday's PGA finals, winning a 4 and 3 thriller, than Ford was packing his pretty wife and three children into their house trailer and heading for Akron, Ohio, and another golf tournament.

He didn't even wait around for all the congratulations of a new champion. He said a nice thank-you, picked up his $3,250 check and was off.

He lay on his locker as he drove down the highway from the Meadowbrook Country Club.

But these hurry-up antics were no surprise to those who followed Ford through the seven-day PGA watching him quickly and surely, sash Meadowbrook's par each day—finishing 39 under par for 191 holes.

Ford won medal honors with a seven-under-par 135, and in match play disposed of George Fazio, Ted Kroll, Wally Ulfich, Fred Hawkins, Shelley Mayfield and finally, Middlecoff.

Each victory was clean, sure, decisive—and quick. He even made the notoriously slow-playing Middlecoff speed up his tempo. And this, possibly may have been the turning point in their 33-hole struggle for one of professional golf's biggest prizes.

Through the morning round — with the temperatures in the low 80s—Middlecoff held the upper hand all the way. He shot 67, four under par and was one-up at the lunchtime break.

But as the temperature and humidity increased during the afternoon, Middlecoff's game slowly, painfully started to fall apart. The machine-like Ford, meanwhile, kept clubbing his ball with the same incisiveness as he did in the morning.

He caught the fading Middlecoff for the fourth time on the 22nd hole and finally passed him on the 26th, where Cary started a run of errors by hitting three poor shots and conceding the hole.

Ford dropped birdie putts of 25 and 5 feet on the 28th and 30th holes, to go three-up, and Middlecoff never recovered. The match ended on the 33rd green in typical fashion, with Middlecoff taking a bogey 5.

It was the 13th straight day of golf for Ford.

Ford had played four days in the Milwaukee Open, stopped off at Chicago for a pro-amateur event, then played eight successive days at Meadowbrook, the first devoted to practice.

"Sure, it's a lot of golf, but that's how my family eats," he said. "I won $1,000 in Milwaukee, $250 in Chicago and $3,250 here."

He learned his hit-and-run style of play as a public links golfer in New York City, where, because of the crowded courses, it is necessary to hurry along.

Middlecoff ruefully remarked: "If they put Swaps and Nashua in a two-mile race, I'd bet on Ford."

St. Kitts Defeat Hamilton 14-10

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—St. Catharines Athletics defeated Hamilton Lincoln Burners 14-10 in a senior Ontario lacrosse game Tuesday night.

The second-place Athletics, by their victory, took a four-point lead over third-place Fergus Thistles. St. Catharines led 3-2 at the end of the first period and had the biggest edge in the second period when the Athletics outscored Hamilton 6-2.

Top point-scorer for Athletics was Doug Smith with two goals and seven assists. Al Frick scored four times, Ken Croft three, Don Moore two, Bill Allen, Skip Seal and Ron Roy one each.

For Hamilton it was Ross Kelly and Larry Rufe who each scored three goals. Steve Kapasky and Denny Peterson each netted twice.

Panthers Edge London 2-1

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Lefty Bill Allan, long time jinx for London Majors, hurled Kitchener Panthers to a 2-1 Intercounty Baseball League victory over Majors Tuesday night. Allan, who tossed a no-hitter at London last week, was nipped for six safeties.

The Kitchener ace had a worthy foe in London's Bill Best. The tall right-hander gave up only eight hits but one of them was the killer. It was a sixth-inning homer by Pat O'Keefe, the winning blow of the game.

Wellington Whips Marmora in First Playoff Game

JOHNNY MOWATT'S Wellington Legionnaires took a one game lead in their best-of-three Belleville and District baseball league semi-finals last night when they whitewashed Marmora 10-0 on the latter's diamond.

The winners opened the scoring in the initial frame with four tallies, added a pair in the third and completed the scoring in the 4th frame of the five inning contest.

Art Wright pitched a beautiful game for the victors, giving up but three hits. He claimed nine on third strikes while walking only one. Brown, Drummond and Mantle shared the mound duties in defeat, tagged for 15 hits, whiffing two and walking the same number.

Mowatt paced the winners' attack with three hits in as many tries while Doug Hull, Stephens and Johnson each had two singles.

The second game of the series is in Wellington on Thursday night at 6:30 p.m.

Line score
Wellington 402 40—10 15 0

Aussies Ready For Court Fray With Canadians

MONTREAL (CP)—The Australian Davis Cup crew, including an ailing Lewis Hoad, takes to Mount Royal's grass tennis courts today for its first workout in preparation for the North American zone cup final against Canada.

Word of Hoad's illness came out Tuesday night when the tall, blonde Australian failed to show up at a reception for his team.

Manager Harry Hopman told reporters Hoad was suffering from a "touch of the heat" and decided to stay in his hotel room.

IN LOUISVILLE

Hoad, described by Hopman as potentially the greatest tennis player in the world, is said to have contracted the illness in Louisville, Ky., where the Australians eliminated Brazil to gain the final. Hoad was defeated there in straight sets by young Ronald Moreira.

Hopman said he hadn't decided who he'll play when the final gets under way Friday with two singles matches. Hoad's condition would have a lot to do with his decision.

The Australians, who arrived by plane Tuesday from New York, included Ken Rosewall, Ashley Cooper, Rex Hartwig and Neal Fraser.

Meanwhile, the Canadian team has been experiencing troubles of its own.

TOE TROUBLE

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., had a bit of minor surgery performed on an infected big toe Tuesday and there was high hope the nationally-ranked No. 2 player would be OK for Friday's opening matches. He was to test the toe today in a brief workout.

The other members of the Canadian team had a sharp workout Tuesday.

Lorne Main, nationally ranked No. 1, squeezed out a close win over veteran Henri Rochon while Don Fontana handily defeated Brendan Macken, now retired from competitive tennis.

Little Benny's Notebook

I'm stuck on the 2 bewty looking twins that just moved in, down in the next block, and so is Glasses Magee, and we made it up to ask them to go to the kid show at the Little Grand next Saturday, and Glasses said, Which one do you want to take?

G, what's the difference, they're exactly the same shape and size, and they both have the same face, I said, and Glasses said, I know, but I like the name of Flora better than the name of Dora.

Hay, so do I, I said, and Glasses said, Then we'll toss up to see which one asks Flora, and the other one can ask Dora.

And we tossed a cent, and I won, and we started to walk down to the next block, and I said, Heck, only one of them is out, and if I ask her if she's Flora I won't know if she's telling the truth or just fooling. Ask her careful, Glasses said. Which I did, saying, Where's your other sister?

She's in the house, the twin said, and I said, Do you know which one I mean?
I've only got one, what's y o u talking about? the twin said, and I said, Do you like movies?
Sure, she said, and I said, Does your sister?
Sure, she said, and I said, What's her name?
What do you guess it is? she said, and I said, Aw, you wouldn't admit it even if I guessed right. Which she wouldn't, and just then the other twin came out, saying, Hey, Dora?

Proving she was Flora, and I asked her, and Glasses a s k e d Dora, Making me feel lucky I'm going to take Flora, only when Saturday comes, how will I know for sure.
The answer being I probably won't.

EXERCISE, like food and drink, should be taken in moderation. Before attempting any strenuous sport, consideration should be given to one's age and physical condition. "Overdoing it" may have serious consequences.

Crews May Outnumber Crowd
At Royal Canadian Regatta

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (CP)—Once the showcase for thousands of spectators who came by train and steamship to watch the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta celebrates its 50th year in 1966, officials here today said the regatta will be held in 1966. Officials will be elated if it draws 3,000 paying customers during its four-day run.

It is possible that contestants and officials will outnumber the spectators along the old Welland canal course that begins almost under the teeming Queen Elizabeth highway and finishes beneath the bluffs of Port Dalhousie at the foot of its canal. Entries from 19 Canadian and American cities total more than 600.

Rowing, possibly the only strictly amateur sport left in the books, has lost its crowd appeal although the Henley year after year has grown in size since it was born in Toronto 73 years ago. Officials say this is the biggest yet and activity on the 1.3-mile course the last couple of days bears them out.

PAY OWN EXPENSES

Oarsmen and scullers from British Columbia to Pennsylvania have arrived by train, automobile and ship and the big boathouses at the finish line hold nearly $200,000 in equipment ranging from the massive eight-oared shells to the single sculls. In the majority of cases the oarsmen pay their own expenses to compete.

Thirty-seven finals are down for the first leg of a four-day regatta. The heats in the junior and high school regattas are scheduled for the open-water, Sweden, Denmark and Netherlands.

Buffalo West Sides, winners on point standings the last four years, have an entry list of 80, the highest of any club. They are favored to make it No. 5 this year.

AIR CADETS ARRIVE

MONTREAL (CP)—Thirty-three air cadets from five NATO nations disembarked from an RCAF transport here Tuesday to begin the regatta. The first leg of a four-day regatta, they come across Canada. They come from the United Kingdom, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and the Netherlands.

Today's program calls for racing from 11 a.m. to 7:15 p.m. EDT with only three finals scattered amongst the numerous heats—in the high school junior 18-pound and the 155-pound singles. The heavy favorite for the high school race is 18-year-old Jon Pearce of Hamilton Westside, a youngster who has received expert coaching from his world-famous father, Bobby Pearce. Diamond Sculls winner and one-time world professional champion.

Three heats in each of the junior 125-pound and 155-pound regattas will be raced today with the final carded for late afternoon.

Sentimental favorite for the junior eight Thursday is the crew from HMCS Discovery, a naval reserve shore station in Vancouver. The crew, which trained on skis during the winter, borrowed money from the bank to make the 6,000-mile trip by train.

This marks the first open regatta for the eight who banded together last winter, put on skis for training when indoor rowing machines

Grandma Would Be at Home
On Television Quiz Panel

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The old-fashioned parlor guessing game is just as popular as in grandma's day. The only difference is that it's played on television now with a slightly changed name—the panel quiz show.

This thought is voiced by Ogden Nash, poet, successful innovator of the unbalanced rhyme, and for a couple of years now a regular panelist on "Masquerade Party" (ABC-TV, Wednesday evenings).

Nash is the fellow who wrote "candy is dandy but liquor is quicker," besides several thousand other lines of wonderful sense and nonsense. It's heartening to see TV helping subsidize a poet—any poet—and Nash is having fun.

On "Masquerade Party" he and fellow panelists like Charles, Buff Cobb and Dagmar, kept in line by moderator Peter Donald, have guessed—or failed to guess—the identities of disguised politicians, actresses, sportsmen and nearly every other category known to man.

George Jessel has said this before, and he'll probably say it again. This time, however, he said it in Munich, Germany, while wearing a beard and monocle. The advertising agencies are preparing the television shows and they do not know show business. There are no squawks against them, because there's no box of office. A guy just can't pick up a college degree one day and produce good entertainment the next day.

TV surveys, says George, are "completely inaccurate," adding, "Phoning a couple of hundred people out of 16,000,000 won't give you a true picture of what program is tops. There are many false promises, a toastmaster of some prominence, followed on television, come time back. Now he says he plans to form his own company to produce TV films.

Frost Confers With St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario and Prime Minister St. Laurent conferred here Monday but no hint of the subject of their discussions leaked out.

An official of the prime minister's office Tuesday said Mr. St. Laurent gave out no information about the talks which began Monday afternoon in the prime minister's office and continued as the two men dined privately at the prime minister's residence Monday night.

Apparently Mr. Frost came here specifically for the meeting which he arranged by telephone a few days ago.

Another south trump lead was ducked by west and the king fell on the third trump round to the dummy. A spade from dummy gave south a chance to finesse with the jack that lost to west's ace.

Thereafter, dummy was able to ruff a third spade after the king was cashed by south and east was given two club tricks. Only three trumps went to opponents and the contract was on ice.

Thus, a deal that was overbid two tricks took tricks enough to make good the excess. It took a couple of lucky finesses to do it. But you are entitled to a while break like that once in a while. If there is any moral to this story, I hope it does not persuade you that overbidding pays. It overbidding gets in your blood. It is your partner who pays and pays and pays.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

Not all the bridge deals you meet here are a cut-throat no-holds-barred war. Some are a little more subtle, a little more cunning, a little more beautiful. Today's deal is a beautiful one.

You are looking at one right here.

South became the tender at a game contract of four hearts. He got a new opening lead of club king (dummy east had bid that suit) and saw a look at dummy and saw what the chances are.

It is possible to take four tricks in the black suits and one in trumps. The third dummy diamond need not be ruffed in suit in due process.

Think one trick may be saved by some method of play. And a need to look for something difficult to execute. If something of the kind is possible, the dummy must be used to the point where it can be ruffed in suit in due process.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, July 28, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Very helpful indications for new and unusual matters but tact and thoughtfulness are urged in order to win confidence, cooperation from family, business associates. Try your best.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your Venus' aspect stresses careful planning now. And pay attention to the disposition to achieve happier results all day. Improvements, journeys for business and pleasure among top favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Though purely mental work, matters involving contracts and legal documents may not be favored. This is an auspicious period generally—especially for artistic, home and family affairs; also unusual tasks.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Very favorable influences for difficult duties; home, social affairs, manufacturing, building, dealers in food products. Step ahead, but carefully. Mind legal matters.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't rush in where angels fear to tread but do take advantage of any favorable leads and new opportunities. Stimulating, benefic rays for the alert, willing worker. Some recreation in order.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Engineers, surveyors, chemists, scientific and research endeavors, manual workers, landscaping, handling foods among day's stimulated activities.

September 24 to October 24 (Libra) — Similar tendencies to Taurus. A responsive day for efficient effort, smart management. You can do much good and achieve a great deal now if you use your ability rightly. Rest, too.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Mars, among other well aspected planets, encourages action, vigor, getting on with jobs both difficult and easy. Your innate good judgment and far-sightedness can do much good now.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Both people and conditions offer a cheerful, hopeful outlook this enlivening day. Don't miss opportunities which can lead to better security for the future, perhaps increase income.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Friendly rays for both routine and unusual activities, and perhaps in fields in which you did not know you had special talent. Seek and grant favors. Enjoy good fun.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Very stimulating and encouraging influences for old and familiar matters and for new, interesting and challenging projects.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Adopt improved methods, machinery, materials; carry on in your splendid way. Have confidence in yourself. You can add new laurels to previous accomplishments. Smile!

YOU BORN TODAY can become (if not already so) skilled craftsman in trade, a profession, business, the financial world. Literary or legal professions are strongly suited to your talents. You have talent for entertaining, dramatic art should rate high in whatever endeavor you choose if you are true to your innate qualities. You are unusually well fitted for a military career, too; can sell or promote anything worth while. You may want to control enthusiasm at times lest it run away with you. Curb egotism, a fondness for praise. Birthdate: Alexander Dumas, "The Younger" Fr. novelist and dramatist.

Alarm Rings, Fire Truck Starts Itself

COOKVILLE (CP)—In the old days the horses of Cookville's town fire brigade used to make their own way out of the fire hall as soon as the alarm sounded, drawing their hook-and-ladder wagon.

Tuesday their successor, the high-powered town fire truck tried to do the same thing.

While the firemen stood in the shade outside the fire hall, the fire phone rang. Just then the fire truck, which had been left in gear, started by itself and moved forward — without waiting for the doors to be opened.

Fire chief Jerry Sproule leaped aboard the truck as it crashed out of the doorway and stopped it before it crossed Highway 5. He said a short-circuit in the starter motor apparently was to blame.

HEADED BANDMASTERS

WATERLOO (CP)—W. S. Sheppard, 85, bandmaster and former president of the Canadian Bandmaster Association, died Tuesday. Mr. Sheppard wrote several marches and, as a cornetist, was a member of the Kitchener-Waterloo Symphony Orchestra.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both — Relieves Pain — Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have begun relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anaesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Canadian Crude Can Meet Needs Of U.S. Refineries

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—A top U.S. defence mobilization official says crude oil from western Canada would meet all requirements of refineries in the U.S. Pacific Northwest during wartime.

The statement came from director Arthur S. Flemming of the Office of Defence Mobilization in secret testimony given before the House of Representatives armed services investigating subcommittee July 8 and made public by the committee Monday night.

Flemming detailed the operation of Canada's Trans-Mountain pipeline, running from the Alberta oil fields to Vancouver with a spur line crossing the border at Ferndale, Wash., and said this line would provide an "ample" supply for the Pacific Northwest in time of war.

Flemming was opposing a proposal that the U.S. government underwrite a planned $106,000,000 oil pipeline from Texas to California.

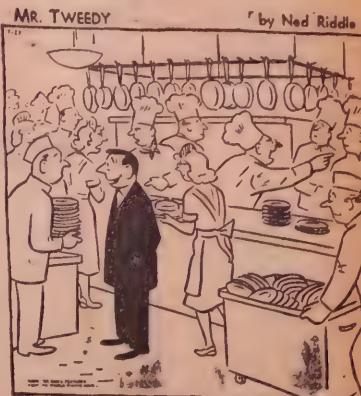

He said the Canadian pipeline currently is delivering 70,000 barrels a day at its Vancouver terminus. With western Canadian refineries requiring 47,000 barrels daily at operating capacity, delivery to U.S. refineries on the west coast could be increased to 103,000 barrels daily with current pumping facilities and to a maximum of 253,000 barrels by installing additional pumping stations.

The Canadian supply, he added, is "closer, fully as adequate and not as vulnerable as west Texas crude which would have to be transported north by tanker after reaching the west coast in the Los Angeles area."

Mr. Garson, replying to questions by Gage W. Montgomery (PC—Victoria-Carleton) said that when the present women's prison is vacated it will be used as a centre to which newly-sentenced male prisoners will be sent.

They would be kept there about a month while prison officials decided where they would be lodged, thus avoiding the placing of youthful offenders with hardened criminals.

He said two other new prisons are planned, one in Quebec or Ontario and the other in Alberta or British Columbia, to relieve overcrowding. He gave no further details.

Board Doubles Compensation Fixed by Hydro

AULTSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A boost in Ontario Hydro compensation of nearly 200 per cent to the first two Seaway Valley residents to appeal their property evaluations has been recommended by the St. Lawrence board of review.

The board is composed of six members, two each appointed by Hydro and the Ontario government, and the other two representing municipalities in the St. Lawrence river valley to be flooded by the seaway power project.

It had been hearing appeals from property owners on offers made for land required in the development.

TO HIRE EXPERT

The board has decided to hire an independent property expert in an effort to arrive at just figures before ruling on two other appeals.

An award of $3,430 for 27 acres was made to Alvin A. Crites and Son, farmers in this area west of Cornwall. The award was $100 less than that asked by the owners, but was $2,200 more than that offered by the Hydro commission.

Recommendations of the board, set up by Premier Frost last January to handle controversial Seaway Valley property cases, are not binding on either the property owners or the commission.

Nehru Opposes Police Action Against Goa

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru rejected demands in Parliament that India try to acquire Portugal's Indian colonies by a limited war or police action.

Nehru said his government will strive to attain a merger with the colonies through peaceful means.

In a three-hour debate the determination of some members of Parliament to have India win Goa and other Portuguese holdings clashed with traditional Indian ideas of satyagrah—non-violent demonstration.

Nehru ignored requests that he withdraw statements he does not favor mass demonstrations against

Strong Winds, Heavy Seas Delay Marilyn Bell's Swim

FOLKESTONE, Kent (CP) — Marilyn Bell today postponed her assault on the English channel because of strong winds and heavy seas.

The little 17-year-old Toronto swimmer was scheduled to plunge into the Channel at Cap Gris Nez, France, at 3:30 a. m. BST Friday (10:30 p. m. Thursday EDT). Stiff western offshore breezes, however, piled breakers along the French coast.

"Our pilot (John T. Burwill of Dover, Kent) has ruled that tomorrow is impossible," said a spokesman for the Bell party. "We don't know when the attempt will be made now, it's a day-to-day stand-by."

IN FINE CONDITION

He added: "The only thing that can stop her. She's used to the cold water, she's swum longer distances and she's in 100-per-cent condition. She has no nerves and she feels very confident."

Other members of the party were busy this morning laying in provisions for the swim. Marilyn will be fed corn syrup, cereal, jelly and vitamin tablets during the grueling crossing. It is expected that about seven boats, including a "headquarters launch," will accompany her launch.

Civil Servants' Work Week Cut To 37½ Hours

OTTAWA (CP) — About 100,000 civil servants will go on a 37½-hour work week today after Parliament prorogues the civil service commission announced today.

The work week is being reduced by about 30 minutes for the 100,000 civil servants working about 30,000 of them in the capital. For those on a five-day week—about 90 per cent of the civil service—the new schedule means a reduction of 10 minutes in the working day.

The commission said in its announcement that this establishes 7½ hours as the normal working day and "confirms the prevailing practice in business and industry."

At the end of March, the strength of the civil service was reported at about 181,900 including hourly-paid workers, casuals and ships' messengers.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Clear cool weather prevails throughout most of the province this morning. Early morning temperatures ranged from the mid-60s along the lower lakes, where clouds helped keep the mercury up, to near 50 in central Ontario, and to near 32 at White River in northern Ontario. Pleasant sunny weather will continue across the province today and Friday, with the slightly higher temperatures in the far north Friday.

TILBURY MAYOR READS RIOT ACT TO 200 CITIZENS

25 Summonses Issued; Sought Man's Release

TILBURY (CP) — Summonses have been issued for the arrest of 25 persons who did not go to their homes after the Riot Act was read to them Wednesday night.

Mayor William Cowley read the act to 200 citizens gathered by police to be trying to free a man from his cell in the town hall.

The mayor, backed by about 30 constables from provincial police detachments in the area, read the town's own four-man police department, invoked the act after the crowd threatened to break into the building.

A police station window was smashed and the air was let out of the tires on two police cruisers. No one was injured.

Two men, William Williams and Eugene Phaneuf, were charged with charges of creating a disturbance and were to appear in court this morning.

MOST MOVED ON
A police officer said that when the act was read about 85 per cent of the people moved off the streets to their homes.

Police looked the names of those who refused to move immediately and said they would be charged. The summonses were prepared this morning.

The streets were cleared by about 1 a. m. several hours after the disturbance broke out.

Tilbury has a population of 2,682. The Riot Act commands citizens to return to their homes under penalty of imprisonment.

Mayor Cowley said Wednesday night marked the first time the act has been read in this western Ontario town.

THE CROWD CALLED HELP
The crowd gathered following the arrest early in the evening of Harry Penfold, 32, of Tilbury.

Penfold was jailed and charged with obstructing a town constable ordered him to move on. One bystander said the constable used his billy on Penfold.

When the crowd gathered to demand his release, town police called in a detachment of about 20 provincial police detachments and sounded the town fire whistle.

Mayor Cowley heard the whistle and drove to the police station, where town constables met him with a copy of the Riot Act.

Stores and offices in Tilbury were ordered closed and the town fire department was called in to assist police.

Lightning Storms End Heat But at Cost of Three Lives

TORONTO (CP) — Severe lightning storms gave Ontario relief Wednesday from a month-long heat wave, but at the cost of three lives and heavy property damage.

The day began like most days this July, with temperatures in much of the province ranging into the 90's. One man died of the heat. Then the storms struck. Two persons were killed by lightning and another in a traffic accident caused by the heavy rain.

The weather office predicted a high of about 80 for today and probably again Friday.

Eighty-year-old Linda Beale died at St. Thomas when lightning knocked down a hydro power pole and a burning coil of high voltage wire wrapped itself around her.

Thomas Cook, a farmer near Erin, 18 miles northeast of Guelph, was killed when struck by lightning as he worked a tractor in his fields.

A Hamilton district woman, Mrs. Wallace McKibbin, was killed seconds after she and her three children accepted a lift to escape being drenched at a Winona bus-stop.

The three children are in critical condition.

Heat was blamed for the death of Howard McLaughlin, 71, of Paisley, who died at the wheel of his first heavy rain for several weeks. At Detroit, two men were killed.

Toronto escaped damage but heavy rain flooded streets in Hamilton, which sweltered in 97-degree heat before the storm broke. For Erie's entire power system was knocked out for 30 minutes and the Erie horse show were cancelled halfway through the program.

A torrential rainstorm with winds of 56 miles an hour lashed Windsor, dropping temperatures 25 degrees in less than half an hour. The thermometer had touched 100.

A small boat overturned in the Detroit river and its four occupants along with the craft until the wind blew them to the shore and safety.

In many areas communications were disrupted.

The storm also hit adjacent areas of the United States. Buffalo district got its first heavy rain for several weeks. At Detroit, two men were killed.

But opposition members, chiefly CCF, insisted their rights to criticize. They questioned at unexpected length the estimates of Finance Minister Harris, the only ones still to be approved. And when 10 p. m. came around they insisted on observance of the Commons rule for adjournment at that time.

Mr. Harris, who has the dual role of government House leader, pleaded for unanimous consent of members to sit beyond 10 p. m. CCF clean up the sessional business.

"The minister of finance has asked the House leader to appeal to the House to continue . . .," he said.

OPPOSITION DEFEATS EFFORT TO END SESSION

Prorogation Delayed By Critics, Mostly CCF

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons completed its sessional business at 12:20 p. m. EDT today and prepared for prorogation.

The House was informed that Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, deputy for Governor-General Massey, would be in the Senate chamber at 12:45 p. m. to prorogue the session which began last Jan. 7.

The 22nd Parliament's second session lasted into its 104th day—a modern record—after opposition members, by dogged insistence on their rights, upset government hopes that the session would wind up Wednesday night.

The Commons' last work was to approve a handful of items totaling $13,246,540 in the government's $4,507,990,000 spending program for the 1955-56 fiscal year. A money supply bill for the amount then was passed through all three readings within five minutes.

The same confident hopes for prorogation existed Wednesday, when last session's 139 sitting days were matched.

QUESTIONED MR. HARRIS
But opposition members, chiefly CCF, insisted their rights to criticize. They questioned at unexpected length the estimates of Finance Minister Harris, the only ones still to be approved.

Mr. Harris, who has the dual role of government House leader, pleaded for unanimous consent of members to sit beyond 10 p. m. CCF clean up the sessional business.

"The minister of finance has asked the House leader to appeal to the House to continue . . .," he said.

Mr. Regier (CCF-Burnaby-Coquitlam), who had been speaking on federal grants to universities, refused angrily.

"I'm getting $10,000 a year and I'm quite prepared to stay here until the snow flies," he said, referring to the sessional indemnity for MPs. "I didn't get any sleep last night and I intend to tonight."

Only seven hours before the House met Wednesday, it had

Flippant Phrase May Have Some Basis in Fact
By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
GENEVA (CP) — As flippant phrases go, Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan's post-Geneva comment—"There isn't gonna be any war"—may have some durability.

The remark, coming from a minister noted for careful attire and equally impeccable speech, caused some shock in Britain. The first editorial reaction came today from columnist Percy Cudlipp in The News Chronicle, who calls Macmillan's statement an "indiscretion."

Cudlipp, writing in a Liberal newspaper, says he isn't concerned about the language.

Big Wave Drowns 36 Japanese Girls In Swimming Class

45 Students Taking Tests Swept to Sea by Breaker

TSU, Japan (AP)—A giant wave swept a junior high school swimming class to sea today and 36 teenage girls died amid confusion and delay in rescue work, police said.

Forty-five girls taking their final swimming ability test were swept seaward by the great breaker. Frantic teachers, fishermen and other helpers picked up all 45 within half an hour. But because of delays in giving artificial respiration, only nine could be revived.

Police pronounced 36 girls dead and took the bodies to their tearful parents' homes.

POLICE NOT CALLED
The tragedy, Japan's worst beach disaster, occurred on the Sea of Ine, about 45 miles southwest of Nagoya on Honshu island.

"Nobody called the police," said Taro Takino, police chief at Tsu. "We saw an ambulance go by and learned of the accident from the hospital. The beach was isolated. There was too much delay in admitting first aid."

Dr. Susumu Nagai said: "We were called too late. Many picked up were laid on the beach and remained there at least 15 minutes before artificial respiration was begun."

SHOUTS OF TERROR
The girls, all Japanese students from the TSU community, had started a week-long swimming course last Thursday. They had gone about 35 feet out into the surf today for their final ability test.

A mountainous wave broke over them. Its powerful ebb swept them seaward into deep water. Shouts of fun turned to terror.

BEAVERTON (CP) — James Middlebrook, 22, of Orillia was sentenced to 12 months in jail for criminal negligence and drunk driving in connection with a highway accident June 28 which resulted in the death of two women.

Wilfred Locking of North Bay told the court he was driving with his wife, Margaret, and her mother Mrs. Mary Clarke when Middlebrook sped into their car, ignoring a stop sign on Highway 69, eight miles east of Orillia, and fatally injured the two women.

Drew Calls For T.C.A. Inquiry
OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Drew yesterday called for an immediate inquiry into a reported failure by Trans-Canada Air Lines to fly two medevacs of urgently needed insecticide to Manitoba from Buffalo, N. Y.

Works Minister Winter, acting for Trade Minister Howe, replied in the Commons that an immediate check would be made with TCA president Gordon MacGregor.

Mr. Drew referred to a Toronto newspaper report that the government-owned air service could not promise delivery in less than a week of the insecticide, needed to fight a fast-spreading infestation of flies in the grain crop. A United States air freight company at Buffalo had delivered the shipment in 52 hours.

Men Had Drugs
TORONTO (CP) — Joan Konopke, 28, of Toronto and Ben Porelli, 31, of Sudbury, were charged Wednesday with illegal possession of narcotics.

Toronto police and RCMP broke into their downtown home and seized two empty capsules that had contained white powder, an even smaller quantity of white powder and a hypodermic needle.

The arrests bring to 62 the number of persons arrested in Toronto this year on narcotic charges.

Communist China Has Picked Top Negotiator for Parley

TOKYO (AP)—Wang Ping-nan, Red China's choice as negotiator in the Geneva talks with the United States, holds high rank in Chinese Communist councils and is a close ally of Chou En-lai, premier and foreign minister.

Peking radio announced Wang's selection Wednesday soon after President Eisenhower told a press conference in Washington that the 1954 Geneva conference would be held.

The crowd gathered following the arrest early in the evening of Harry Penfold, 32, of Tilbury. Penfold was jailed and charged with obstructing a town constable ordered him to move on.

When the crowd gathered to demand his release, town police called in a detachment of about 20 provincial police detachments and sounded the town fire whistle.

Mayor Cowley heard the whistle and drove to the police station, where town constables met him with a copy of the Riot Act.

Stores and offices in Tilbury were ordered closed and the town fire department was called in to assist police.

His Mouthful In Argument Was Not Legal
NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — To-kuhuchi Namihira likes to get his teeth into a good hot political argument.

And when he makes a point, he likes to hang on.

The 48-year-old Okinawan got into a verbal hassle over relative merits of the Communist and the United States. He was with his friend, Toyoyu Matsuda. He waxed hot and hotter.

His family finally had to call officials to resolve the dispute. Police pried Namihira's mouth open and released Matsuda's arm.

Believe 4 Canadians Aboard Plane Shot Down in Bulgaria
LONDON (AP) — Bulgaria admitted today its anti-aircraft guns shot down an Israeli aircraft Wednesday, killing all 58 persons aboard. It said the plane was off course for 100 miles over Communist territory.

Bulgaria expressed "deep regret" for the tragedy and appointed a government commission of cabinet ministers to inquire into the disaster in which at least three Canadians perished.

Commercial Traveller at Bronte Routs Nude Bathers With Pebbles
BRONTE, Ont. (CP) — A commercial traveller who says "nudism is for the birds" Wednesday night dispersed a group of naked swimmers with a volley of pebbles.

John Sampson, of Windsor, said he saw 18 adults of both sexes who apparently had decided to disperse with bathing suits, slashing in Lake Ontario east of here.

Herbert Mowatt Retires After 41 Years' Service With CNR

Herbert Mowatt, Canadian National Railway car service clerk, hopped off his trusty bike yesterday afternoon, and looked longingly at his 41 years' ride in the service of the road. For Herby had just concluded 41 years of faithful and efficient service.

Mr. Mowatt who resides at 59 North James Street with his sister Miss Lydia Mowatt has been a popular figure with business and industry of the city since 1910 when he was appointed car service clerk. He and his trusty bicycle were familiar figures in many an office.

Born in Seaford, near Liverpool, England, Mr. Mowatt came to Canada with his mother in 1913. His father, a pattern-maker died previously. Mrs. Mowatt passed away in 1934.

He started his railroad career in 1914 as a night freight clerk for the magnificent salary of $45 per month. Then he heard the call of King and Country and joined the Canadian Army in mid-1916. He saw overseas service in England, France, Belgium, and Holland as a member of a field ambulance unit.

Returning to Canada in 1919, he rejoined the railway service taking over his former job. In 1931 he was appointed ticket clerk in the Belleville office, a position he held until 1940 when he was named car service clerk.

GAVE BLOOD

Mr. Mowatt never smoked, nor drank intoxicating beverages. He is associated with the Salvation Army. He has given 77 pints of blood to the Red Cross over a period of time. Of stocky build he is something of a weight-lifter. He is a member of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees.

A reception committee awaited Mr. Mowatt when he paid his last visit to the CNR freight office yesterday. Here some 45 colleagues and officials greeted him. He was presented with an electric kettle, an electric toaster, a pair of Korwood blankets and a purse of money.

OFFICIALS PRESENT

Mr. S. C. Moore, CNR agent was the master of ceremonies. Giving brief speeches of appreciation of lengthy service and regret at the severance of happy associations were Mr. A. R. Wilson, divisional superintendent; Newton Thompson, chief clerk superintendent's office; Jim Allan, CPR agent; W. Slack, chief clerk, CPR; Claude Pinneaux, president, CBRE; A. K. Taylor, freight foreman and E. R. Taylor, chief clerk freight office.

Making the presentations were Bill Belsey, Ed. Flindall, Harold Schliever and Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Mowatt, visibly affected, made a brief speech of appreciation of the hands of his life. Later when the "boys" presented him with a parcel containing a stone weighing some 60 pounds, Mr. Mowatt showed his weight-lifting ability by hurling the package in the air a half dozen times.

And his popular bicycle retires with him. He firmly refused to let the "boys" take it. In fact, he demanded it for further service with the company.

Belleville Bowlers Sweep Honors in District Play

A foursome and pair from the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club yesterday bowled over all opposition to qualify entry of this city into the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association championships.

The provincial playdowns will be held at Kitchener, August 20, culminating event of zone championship events, held throughout the province, of which yesterday's events at the Belleville club were part.

The combined drive of Belleville bowlers F.G. Harper, J. Hanna, G. L. Edwards and G. B. Hyde, rolled links from Stayner, Whitby and Ottawa Central clubs completely out of the picture, qualifying for the provincial title-trip with a total maximum score of six points.

The smooth shooting of duo D. Miller and G. B. Hyde, as the Belleville doubles entry, paced the skill of their club mates in the rink entry, when they routed combinations from Oshawa, Newmarket and Ottawa Central for a maximum six points total.

Some 30 players from four districts crossed and combined techniques at the event yesterday. Clubs from west to Stayner and east to Ottawa sent representations to the day-long event here. Final scores were not available until late into the night.

First results however, came early in the afternoon when the junior doubles team of J. Preston and G. MacMillan of Oshawa defeated on an extra end the Madoc duo of P. M. Locke Jr. and R. Moon, to assure their entry in the provincial playdowns.

In the singles events A. G. Clifton, Allendale, defeated P. M. Locke, Madoc, plus 9 to minus three to take the field which also secured B. Carter, Bowmanville and Dr. H. Cheney, Ottawa Lawn Bowling Club.

First taste of victory for the local foursome came when their bowling clicked with 33-18 score over Stayner, a succession they proceeded to down Whitby 23-19 and Ottawa Central 25-14.

The parallel victory of the doubles team was the same story. Miller and Watkin set the pace for their overall triumph with a decisive 22-10 victory over Oshawa. Followed 21-18 defeat of Ottawa Central while their bid for the provincial title was clinched when they downed Newmarket 19-15.

Zone umpire for the event was Belleville's Cliff Argue. Following is score roundup of the entire round-robin:

Singles —
D. Carter, Bowmanville, 21, Dr. H. L. Cheney 18
A. G. Clifton, Allendale 21
P. M. Locke, Madoc 17

D. Carter 16, M. Locke 21
(Locke and Clifton bid decided on plus-minus score giving Clifton win with plus 9 to minus 3 for Locke)

Atlantic Raft With Four Aboard Sighted 25 Miles Off Newfoundland

HALIFAX (CP) — An American freighter reported today she had sighted the raft "Egare" in Cabot Strait midway between Newfoundland and Nova Scotia and the four men aboard appeared in good spirits.

The first report in more than 10 days on the whereabouts of the crudely-built craft came from the 7,653-ton Kingsport Victory which signalled the U. S. Navy base at Argentia, Nfld. Argentina passed the word to Canadian navy headquarters at Ottawa and the RCN coast station here released it.

The Kingsport Victory said "Egare," which means "lost one," was about 25 miles southwest of Port aux Basques, Nfld.

The three Frenchmen and one Canadian aboard sailed from Montreal five weeks ago with the hope of reaching Europe to prove their theory that prevailing ocean currents carried unpowered craft eastward across the Atlantic before the time of Columbus.

The Kingsport Victory said it saw no signs of distress aboard the raft and exchanged salutes with the four crew members.

Prices Unchanged On Local Market

Warm, pleasant weather made for moderate trading on the local mid-week market this morning. Prices all round were unchanged. Corn continued to hold to the same price of 50 cents a dozen, while tomatoes, now in abundant supply, were 35 cents a quart, $1.25 a six-quart basket. Cucumbers, a small offering this morning, were five cents apiece for slicers, with dills bringing 75 cents a basket.

Marrows, also in small quantities, were 10-15 cents apiece. Beans were 20 cents a box, 75 cents a basket, while peppers were 10 cents apiece. Beets were 75 cents a basket and onions 25 cents a box. Carrots brought 15 cents a quart box, while potatoes continued to move between 50-80 cents a box.

A bulkier supply of apples, all Astrachans and Transparents, sold at 75 cents a basket, while Shiro plums were 25 cents a quart box and $1 per basket. Everbearing strawberries continued at 35 cents a pint, while blue raspberries, which met quick sale, were 50 cents a quart. Red currants were 25 cents a quart while Montmorency cherries held to $1.25 with stems and $1.50 without stems.

Gladioli sold from 50 cents a half-dozen up to $1.25 a dozen. Eggs were 60 cents for large grades, 55 cents for mediums and 40 cents for pullets.

Police Blotter

The boys got some peers but in their hurry to get away to escape detection by the late Foster Ward housewife, the lads had to leave a bicycle behind.

With the bicycle in her possession the housewife called police who later identified the lads as they waited for an opportunity to slip the bike away.

Two garage business establishments, Pinder Motors and Riggs Service Station, were entered during the night with small amounts of cash being stolen at both places. The burglars entered through a window at Pinder's, while a door was found insecure at the service station.

Journey to Winnipeg in 1873 Was Tough Going for Soldiers

By ARCH MACKENZIE

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian soldier on draft from Ontario to Winnipeg in 1873 had his ups and downs — mostly downs by modern military standards.

There might be succulent northern Ontario sturgeon for supper, cooked on a shovel over the campfire and purchased from an Indian for a fur cap and some chewing tobacco.

There might be only dried apples, stolen from the stores, at the end of a long day's march. There were 18 porters between Port Arthur and journey's end at old Fort Garry, surrounded by a howling, sprawling community, comprised of 12,000 French-Canadian and Scottish halfbreeds, Indians, traders, speculators and Louis Riel. A first-hand account of the trek from Collingwood, Ont., has been found here, as prepared by a George Dale of Toronto, now deceased. Dale embarked on a steamer in May, 1873 with a detachment of Royal Canadian Artillery from Kingston and a battalion of raw Maritimes infantry. The troops had been enlisted for two years as the third batch of replacements for forces sent west to quell the 1870 Red River rebellion. They landed at Prince Arthur, across the jumble of swamps, lakes and rivers to Lake of the Woods and marched the remaining 110 miles to Fort Garry.

The trip took more than a month, and the troops stayed under canvas until New Year's Day despite winter temperatures between 10 and 30 degrees below zero.

There were some lean times, wrote Dale, who prepared his account for delivery to a 1933 edition of the York Pioneer and Historical Society.

The troops followed the route taken by the first force of Col. Garnet Wolseley, charged with restoring order.

Boats of variable types were spotted at navigable bodies of water along the route via Lac des Mille Lacs, Lake Shebandowen, Port Frances and Lake of the Woods. Troops man-handled ammunition and equipment and drew food supplies from rough depots. It was spartan fare.

There was "salt pork, mess pork which was salt pork boiled or cold, sea biscuits hard tack, dried apples, flour, tea and sugar."

Dale's one sturgeon was the gastronomic highlight of the trip.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57 1/2; one small lot of non-tenderable ungraded 57 1/2 including some 40 score; western 58-58 1/2.

Long Parade Opens Reunion At Frankford

FRANKFORD. (Special) — A mile and a half long callithumpian parade incorporating several hundred people, using many different types of transportation covering a century of progress, gave the long awaited old boys' and girls' reunion a terrific boost and here yesterday. Spectators on foot and in cars lined the route from the community centre grounds to the heart of the village.

Reeve George Montgomery officially opened the celebration and took part in the parade.

Charles Morland's young team of oxen, pulling a rubber-tired buggy from the early days, was the standout entry.

The celebration is under the sponsorship of the Frankford Lions club. All profits will go toward paying off the $8,000 mortgage on the community centre.

AUTOMATION—PROBLEM OF RE-EMPLOYMENT

"Automation," pronounced "auto-may-shun" by the United Auto Workers, is the newest dirty word in labor-management relations. What it really means is the replacing of human workers by machines.

Automation, is, of course, as old as the wheel, but all tricked out in a new name looks like a stranger and strangers are to be feared.

In this machine age, when electric motors raise our automobile windows, fear of machinery is quite a paradox. Modern man has replaced the rickshaw and native bearers with as many as 260 horsepower under a steel hood. Husbands have unhitched their wives from the plow because of tractors, wrenches on water wheels have given way to pumps, drills and dynamite brought children out into the open air above coal mines and the advent of steam had much to do with the disappearance of press gangs.

The industrial revolution in England was resisted vainly by women with hand looms, cobblers with tack hammers, and miners with grimy hands and silicosis. It hampered generations for them to feel the burden of hard physical labor lifted from their shoulders—a release so prosaic that the workman, freed from crushing physical fatigue, still does not know what to do with his new-found energy and freedom.

Replacing of human effort by mechanical means is the great accomplishment of the machine age. Mass production, higher wages and a higher standard of living for the workman has been achieved through intelligent and diligent application of new sources of power to new machine tools.

The housewife has welcomed automation with open arms. Washing machines, electric irons and vacuum cleaners have achieved the status of necessities. Portable, powered hand tools, outboard motors and power lawn mowers are all examples of automation at a level easily understood and appreciated by the average man.

Farmers, traditionally conservative in their approach to everything from prognosticating good crops to politics, could put industry itself to shame with their acceptance of automation. All farm power tools, tractors, trucks, fork loaders, combines, and even milking machines reflect the farmer's sensible acceptance of automation.

Automation has even provided our entertainment via radio, television and the movies.

However, when it comes to industry, the colossus of mass production that is automation in action, there is an uneasy dread in the hearts and minds of the workers which it employs so that it may free them. They think they can see such advances in the replacement of human hands by machines that eventually they will be unemployed and therefore poor.

Fifty years ago the prospect of a 30-hour week was a chimera that men working 60 hours a week could not envision through the sweat that streamed from their foreheads.

The modern history of automation is one of steadily decreasing hours of work, steadily increasing numbers of employed, steadily rising standards of material wealth and ever-increasing distrust of the freedom and wealth which automation produces. The great problem of automation is not one of unemployment but of re-employment, in other words, of the greater sums of time and money that it will make available.

WHY SCOFF?

U Nu, the Prime Minister of Burma, was a near alcoholic when he was still an adolescent, later abandoned alcohol in favor of literature and has now turned from literature to religion.

The British weekly, "Time and Tide" says these facts were revealed by U Nu in a recently published autobiography.

"The Letter-Review" of Fort Erie refers to the "Time and Tide" article as "incidental intelligence concerning neutralist Prime Minister of Burma." U Nu's "most outstanding literary achievement, it seems, is his translation into his native Burmese of Dale Carnegie's book 'How to Win Friends and Influence People,'" says the Letter-Review. It concludes its observations with the sentence: "The Burmese Prime Minister, by his own admission, is now a very devout man."

"The Letter-Review" seems to sneer at U Nu's shifting allegiances, from alcohol, to literature, to religion. Surely the Letter-Review does not consider this a downhill path?

SENTIMENTAL?

Some may think George Shepherd sentimental. During the depression he was walking through Bayswater Square, in London, England, with only tuppence in his pocket. He found a pound note.

Today Shepherd is a wealthy lumber dealer in Sarawak, on the island of Borneo. He has made a 10,000-mile journey to London—just to drop a pound note in Bayswater Square.

The Associated Press calls this "a sentimental act of remembrance."

But who knows who that pound note may start on the road to success and happiness? Dropping it may one day be the brightest star in Shepherd's crown.

Harbor Speed Law Must be Observed. Owners of fast power boats, who plow their boats through the upper harbor at excess speed, thereby disturbing other moored craft with their turbulent back wash and waves, are in for trouble unless the practice is discontinued, stated Harbor Master Robert Goudy today: some of the owners' boats moored in the harbor have made complaints to him. The speed limit in the harbor he said is five miles per hour and I have warned some of the offenders prior to receiving complaints. The next time there will be no warning, charges will be laid. The harbor, it is pointed out, includes that area from the harbor mouth to the centre.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON CONFIDING IN ANOTHER

One of the precious things about friendship is the confidence that it inspires. When you realize that you can trust your friend, you have taken him your heart. We pay a high compliment to our friend when we give him our trust and confidence.

It is a compliment to anyone to say that he is trustworthy. You even feel good in the presence of such a one. The elder J. P. Morgan once said that he often loaned large sums, even as large as a million dollars, to a man of integrity. He said character was the security.

Also, he said he had withdrawn loans from men who had millions in material securities.

It is natural for any of us to confide that person to honor that confidence is to set a seal of trust between them. It is a wonderful thing to be able to go to someone, whom you trust, for advice and counsel.

Gifts at the Summit

(New York Times)

When President Eisenhower heard about the approaching nuptials of Marshal Zhukov's daughter, he sent his aides to shop for wedding presents. The gifts were personal, for at Geneva there was no official exchange of presents.

It was different at some of the war meetings. In his memoirs Winston Churchill tells of the time when "with the valuation of £1,200 (attached)" and the pearl necklaces that King Ibn Saud gave him and his Foreign Minister, Anthony Eden. The valuables were handed over to the British Treasury and almost paid for a motor car. Mr. Churchill had promised to send the King.

In the same area of the world ten centuries before Christ there had been a meeting between two ereins whose gifts were on a more dazzling scale. Many people wanted to hear Solomon's wisdom and went to see him, but the imposture of "King Solomon" was another reason for the Queen of Sheba's journey to Jerusalem. Solomon, as one writer has remarked, "enjoyed wealth in proportion to his wisdom." The Queen came "with a very great train, with camels that bore spices, and very much gold, and precious stones." No less generous, "King Solomon" gave unto the Queen of Sheba all her desire, whatever she asked. . . . So she turned and went to her own country, she and her servants.

When Henry VIII and Francis I met in 1520 the English King took off a golden collar he was wearing, gave it to his French brother-in-law, and received Francis' bracelet in exchange. The sovereigns had vied with each other to make the setting spectacular, and the history books call it "the field of cloth of gold."

There is no record of an exchange of present or of what the two Presidents said to each other on affairs of state. But the family Taff wrote that he had told Diaz that no previous President of the United States "had stepped beyond the borders of the United States on the North or to the South."

Snakes Fill Finance Files

(London Times Weekly)

Our Cairo correspondent reports that the Egyptian Ministry of Finance is afflicted by a plague of snakes, which have taken up their quarters in its extensive and no doubt fascinating archives. Snake charmers succeeding each other like suitors for the hands of a princess in a fairy tale, have so far failed in their attempts to brainwash the serps; and officials from the zoo, using a lizard bait, have managed to catch only five snakes, all of the smallest size.

Great Britain has never been called on to weather a crisis of this particular kind. Robins make their nests in letterboxes and starlings are no respecters of municipal architecture, but we have never had adders in the Treasury, an institution mainly associated in the public mind with subtraction.

In less enlightened times an Oriental Finance Minister who claimed that snakes were infestations of his files might well have been regarded with suspicion by his more sophisticated colleagues. Public men had a way of inventing phenomena to suit the moment. Like the Chinese admiral and the reef.

This admiral, who for some years in the last century was in charge of the Imperial dockyards at Poochoo, received orders to build a large new warship of the most modern type. He acknowledged these orders, but pointed out that this great enterprise would involve expenditure of the sums normally appropriated to his dockyards.

More money was sent to him. As the years went by he dispatched to Peking regular and encouraging progress reports appealing for further funds in view of the grandiose and unprecedented nature of the project to which he was devoting his energies. Peking granted his requests but began after a time to grow impatient. Then would the mighty vessel be ready for launching?

For years the admiral prevaricated with talk of finishing touches and technical hitches; but at last he was obligated to fix a date for the launch.

The date, the admiral telegraphed that the ceremony had been a great success and that the ship was sailing northward at a prodigious speed.

Next day Peking's naval aspirations were dashed by a further telegram. The admiral deeply regretted to report the loss of the ship with all hands; he had struck a hitherto unsuspected rock of which he gave the co-ordinates. In due course (or so they used to say in the China service) this letter found its way on to the Admiralty charts of the Yellow Sea. But beside it were printed the two letters E. D.; they stood for Existence Doubtful.

Nobody doubts the existence of the snakes in the Egyptian Ministry of Finance; but whether they are as large or as numerous as the archivist whose careers they are complicating appear to believe only time, with the help of more and better snake-charmers, can show.

Nothing stimulates a woman to the realization that there is a tremendous amount of heavy work that needs to be done around the house as much as seeing her husband oiling his fish-er.

Personal Health Talks

Too Much Surgery

Even though it is less than ten minutes from my playroom to the bowling green—my patience is limited. Oh, I'm not afraid of my life, just for my job. Dr. John Hunter, 18th century Scottish surgeon, somehow died, bowl, as most Scotsmen do, and so, as he said, his life was in the hands of any rascal who chose to annoy and tease him.

It is my job that is in the hands of, not any rascal, but the nice kind people who clip and send me the piece and the picture telling of the latest atrocity of wholesale assault on the tonsils of an entire family of defenseless children. Please don't send them any more items of that sort, folks, unless you want to get tired. Such abuses make me so mad I can't write anything printable. I have outlived Dr. John Hunter, George Cheyne, Prof. Metchnikoff, Doctor Coe and other amateurs who advanced interesting theories on longevity but didn't do their morning rolls—somersaults, as I have called 'em ever since Tony was a pup. Luther Burbank outlived 'em too—he rolled somersaults—I saw him rolling on his front lawn on his 75th birthday, in the news movies. But, after all, I can't roll around here all day, so please file news pictures of tonsil atrocities in the incinerator and help me to emulate the man who was responsible for the wounding of the column. Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes (particularly the Autocrat and Professor sketches).

Holmes stuck around for 85 years. I don't know whether he rolled any, but I wouldn't put it past him.

I'm sorry for any old stiff past the ever-ready operators who insist on "tonsillectomy" for children whose main trouble is obstruction of the breathing passages, or about the importance of "getting every bit of tonsil tissue" as though tonsil tissue were malignant. The truth is that more or less tonsil tissue remains in the throat after most such operations. So it comes to this: Tonsillectomy removes more of the normal tonsil tissue than tonsillectomy does. So what? Let the over-ready operators answer, if they can.

The large tonsils of children are usually just enlarged, not infected. In most instances they shrink to normal size in the summer if the children play outdoors as much as they should. Therefore when the ever-ready operator urges immediate removal of the child's "bad tonsils" in the winter or spring, give the child a break—wait and see what the good old summertime will do for those "bad tonsils."

TEMPTATION IN LIFE'S GROWTH

In the Lord's Prayer we ask that we be not led into temptation, yet in another part of the New Testament we are told to rejoice when we fall into temptation. We fall into temptation. Is there a conflict here? Not at all. In the Lord's Prayer we ask the Lord to go easy on us. Every temptation and no matter how small it may stand just so much temptation and no matter how small it may stand just so much temptation. We exercise our moral powers and strengthen them. Most of us, however, go out and hunt temptations that cause trouble. Temptations suited to our powers are good for us. We grow strong through resisting them. But the temptations we flit with which God never intended should be in the orbit of our experience—these temptations are the Lord's Prayer we ask God to temper the burden of temptation to our moral powers and to keep us from getting involved in temptations which, because they do all in the Lord's Prayer we ask the Lord to go easy on us. Every temptation and no matter how small it may stand just so much temptation and no matter how small it may stand just so much temptation. We exercise our moral powers and strengthen them. Men at Work With Mercury At 150 Degrees CHATHAM (CP)—Ventilating facilities at the Ontario Steel Products Co. Ltd., plant were to be inspected today following a 60-man walkout Wednesday in protest against ventilation for four men in the forging department.

The strike, the second in two weeks over ventilation facilities, involved members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL).

A union spokesman said recommendations regarding ventilation will be made to the company following the investigation.

Earlier Victor Jewiss, union committee chairman of the punch and shear department, quoted a management spokesman as saying the company did not intend to buy fans for a few individuals for "two or three hot days."

As far as we are concerned this hot spell has been going on for more than a month and the men on the heat treat turning out springs and bumpers have had to work in temperatures up to 150 degrees," Mr. Jewiss said.

Lower Interest Rate Demanded

OTTAWA (CP)—A lower interest rate on government-guaranteed farm improvement loans was demanded Wednesday night in the Commons by opposition members. John A. Charlton (PC—Brant-Haldimand) said the current five-per-cent rate is too high and the government should get the banks to lower it to four per cent.

Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) said it is "ridiculous" and "a betrayal of the public trust" of the people of Canada "to insure bank loans carrying five-per-cent interest. The rate should be 3½ to 4 per cent."

More Hotels For Moscow

MOSCOW (Reuters)—New hotels are to be built and existing hotels modernized in a program for improved accommodations announced by city authorities in Moscow, which has fewer hotels than any other big capital city in Europe. The Soviet capital now has 13 hotels, the majority with fewer than 100 bedrooms. Of the 13, two of the largest are reserved for prominent visitors, while three others are run by Intourist, the travel organization which caters primarily to foreign visitors.

Moscow is one of Europe's most crowded capitals, with thousands of Russians converging on it from all parts of the Soviet Union for vacations and visits to relatives. The resident population is estimated at between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000. Most Russians coming to Moscow try to stay with friends or relatives.

Modern Machinery Takes Drudgery Out of Farm Life in Manitoba

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba power commission recently came up with an interesting item.

Thirty per cent of the beds in Manitoba farm homes are warmed by electric heating pads.

What better illustration of the evolution of farm life in the world's bread basket?

Thanks to the inventiveness of man, rural living is now run on urban standards. And farm operation, once a back-breaking job, now is mainly a mechanical function.

BINDER INVENTED

The agricultural revolution began before the start of the century with the invention of the binder, probably the greatest step towards mechanization until steam and oil engines took over from the horse.

As early as 1883 farmers in the Qu'Appelle district in southern Saskatchewan operated a cable plowing outfit with steam-powered units for use at each end of a field.

By the First World War the tractor began pulling the plow and within 10 years it was firmly established as the farmer's work-horse.

The invention of low-pressure rubber tires heralded yet another advance. Then came the power lift and a new range of implements. More recently the switch-over from gasoline to diesel fuel.

Dr. E. J. Greaney, director of the North-West Line Elevators Association, said recently the introduction of new power machinery has not been without its problems.

NEED NEW EQUIPMENT
For instance the introduction of the self-propelled combine has raised the need for new grain driers, larger trucks, better grain-handling equipment, and more storage facilities.

"In this business of mechanization it seems we cannot stop even if we want to, for one thing leads to another," he said.

Today, Canadian farms are equipped with $2,250,000,000 worth of equipment. The wholesale value of farm machinery sold in Saskatchewan alone in 1953 was $80,333,303.

Indicative of the growth of mechanization is the fact that the number of combines in use increased from below 6,000 in 1931 to more than 40,000 in 1951.

Farin tractors increased between 1931 and 1951 from under 40,000 to more than 90,000.

Mechanization started the trend to fewer and larger farms, and a steady reduction in the farm labor force.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM
During the post-war years modern science has turned to the farm home; rural electrification has revolutionized farm living. Since 1945 more than 42,000 of the 52,380 farms in Manitoba have been serviced with electricity under one of the most ambitious rural electrification programs in the world. Since Saskatchewan's program began in 1949 some 25,000 farms have received electricity. Nearly 87,000 more await the power. In Alberta 24,811 farms out of a total of 84,315 are now serviced.

The Manitoba power commission says the modern farm kitchen now contains such items as deep freezers, electric ranges, food mixers, cream separators and kettles. The farm wife's household chores are made easier by electric irons, washing machines and vacuum cleaners.

The coal oil lamp is practically extinct; electric lamps brighten the rooms. The family enjoys the radio record player and even television.

In the yard the drudgery of daily chores is lessened by the use of milking machines, grain crushers, poultry water warmers and electrically-operated pumps.

Dr. Francis Hedley Auld, chancellor of the University of Saskatchewan, said recently:
"Our farmers are protected from natural hazards to a degree that the pioneers might have imagined but could not attain."

Sararas, Ivanhoe, became the wife of Garret F. R. Hobbs, son of Mr. W. G. Hobbs, New Toronto, and the late Mrs. Robbs. The Rev. W. H. V. Walker officiated. The home was decorated with assorted gladioli, snapdragons, and pink and white streamers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net with pearl sequins over satin, and wore a headdress of orange blossoms with a nylon fingertip veil. A cascade of red roses completed her ensemble.

Woman Plies Rare Trade

MONTREAL (CP)—Annette Arsenault of Montreal is one of the four or five women glass-blowers in the city.

She started her career 33 years ago in a neon sign plant here. Glass-blowers are jealous of their knowledge and few are willing to pass along their trade secrets.

But Mrs. Arsenault was lucky enough to encounter in the plant a European glass-blower who was planning to return to his native country. He agreed to be her teacher, and taught all he knew before he left.

Now she teaches the trade to others. Several years ago she went to Winnipeg to teach her specialty—neon tube blowing—to employees of sign companies there.

The National Research Council in Ottawa bid for her services to make laboratory glassware, but she had married by the time the offer came and she did not want to leave Montreal and her husband.

Her trade has also become her hobby. She is looking forward to having her own home so she can establish a workshop in the basement and make glass objects d'art.

Bible School

Is Success

Ninety-six pupils were enrolled in the Bible Vacation school, held in Plainfield hall, during the week July 18-22. The theme of the school was "The Bible Jesus Knew." The program each day consisted of a worship service, Bible study and recreation followed by a sing-song, then a crafts period.

The primary class of 37 pupils was supervised by Mrs. Don Chisholm, Roslin, and Miss Gala Cranston, from Bethel Zion. There were 33 children in the junior department, supervised by Mrs. Harry Ketcheson and Mrs. Roy Chambers from Bethel-Zion. Mrs. Charles Treverton and Mrs. Don Harrison, Plainfield, were in charge of the senior class of 26 pupils.

Other regular members of the staff were, Miss Beryl Platt, Mrs. Walter Colden, Mrs. Carman Bailey, Misses Marian and Joan Parks, Mrs. Grant Kerr and Mrs. Charles Dickens. Part-time assistants were Mrs. Carleton Cronkright, Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson and Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson.

On Friday, 90 certificates were awarded to those completing the course satisfactorily. The children were very proud to take home their Bible books, scrolls, crafts and certificates. The teachers also were very gratified with what the school had accomplished. From

Permit 'Risk Adoption'

Of Homeless Children

MONTREAL (CP)—Many agencies throughout Canada now are accepting the principle of "risk adoption" of homeless children, says Mrs. Muriel McCrea, executive director of the children's service centre here.

"Not so long ago adoption agencies worked on the principle that a baby had to be perfect before he could be considered adoptable," said Mrs. McCrea in an interview. "We thought it absolutely necessary to fix teeth and remove bad

"In the 27 years I've worked with the agency I only remember two Negro couples who legally adopted children," she said. "And they asked for children who were really colored. The children's service centre, a Red Feather agency, has "successfully placed many children with such defects as cross-eyes, club feet, a history of epilepsy and deafness."

Mrs. McCrea said not mental or physical handicaps but a mixed racial background is the greatest hurdle in adoption.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T BE A HUSBAND-HUNTER; BE A HUSBAND-ATTRACTER!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax: What I am going to say may shock you because it will sound so bold and blunt. But I believe in being frank so here goes:

I want to get married, and if I don't meet "the" man pretty soon, I'm going to end up a spinster for life. What I want to know is, why haven't I met and married "the" man before now? Is there something wrong with me? Why is it that every man I've ever been interested in always goes off and marries somebody else?

Let me tell you a little about myself. I'm 26 and not bad-looking. Maybe I'm not the most beautiful girl in the world, but I do know how to dress, take care of my appearance, and keep myself well groomed. I have plenty of friends, a lot of interests, such as sports, music and the theater, and I love children. Maybe you think I ought to be happy, but I'm not, because I'm worrying all the time about being single while most of my friends are married.

So what am I going to do? Can you tell me? — Jessie H.

Dear Jessie: Well, I'll do what I can to tell you!

And in the first place let me say that I'm not in the least shocked by your frankness. In fact, I admire you for it. Moreover, it's a whole lot easier to help people who are able to come right out and be honest about their troubles.

So let's get on from there. Of course you want to be married. There's nothing strange about that. Every young woman wants a husband, and worries if none seems to appear.

But what I am wondering is this: Don't you think that a girl who is concentrating so hard on the lack of men in your life that you're very preoccupied with the idea may have thrown your thinking all out of proportion? And don't you realize that men have uncanny sensitiveness—or maybe we should say "sensitivity"—that warns them when a girl they meet is husband-hunting, and that they shy away from her as though she had something catching?

Your great desire to be married has become so all-important to you that, without being in the least aware of it, you probably look at every man you meet with an appraising eye, wondering if he could possibly turn out to be what you call "the" man. And you've got to watch yourself there, for as I've just said, nothing scares a man off more quickly than to recognize the fact that he is being regarded as a matrimonial prospect.

So the first thing you've got to do is to stop thinking so much about marriage in general. This will help you to stop thinking about it in particular; that is, as it applies to yourself. Once you have done this, so that you can relax and enjoy a man's company without worrying about how he is going to react toward you, his own reaction will be much pleasanter and

By HELEN JAMIESON

HANDS WITH "PERSONALITY"
Hands can be more expressive of a woman's personality than her face. And they are judged, not only by their shape, texture and grooming, but by their movements as well—which is why it is so important that, in trying to adopt rhythm and grace of movement throughout the body, you should give special consideration to your hands. After all, they are under constant scrutiny and you don't want uncomplimentary judgment passed upon you.

You know without being told that jagged, broken fingernails, torn cuticle, hidden moles, brittle nails, chipped polish and dry rough skin usually indicate a careless person. But do you realize that certain movements of the hands indicate to the observer whether you are a neat, nervous person, or a happy, serene and confident one? Your hands express anger, frustration and anxiety even more than your mouth and eyes, since most of us have learned to control for facial expressions when necessary.

If you are not quite certain whether your hands are in the justice, start taking note of their movements now. Watch when you play cards, for instance, if you are clutching the pasteboards as though they were going to take off in a high wind and fly away from you. When you hold a cup of tea or coffee, does the little finger curl outwardly in a tense and crooked line? When you are in animated conversation, are your hands in constant motion? If any of these traits are habitual with you it's pretty certain that you are not as relaxed as you might be.

Jittery hands can be cured with patience. When you are seated at home just lounging, for instance, when seated in a bus—anywhere your hands are momentarily idle, make it a practice to let them lay quietly on your lap. Don't clasp them tightly, or fiddle with your purse, your book, or whatever may be lying on your lap. Instead of finding something for them to do, go out of your way to let them do nothing. You will find that, not only do your hands relax, but that your whole body relaxes along with them.

more enjoyable to himself. That will make him think more enjoyably of you, and he'll be wanting to see more of you.

The trick is, to be so interested in everything—your friends, your activities, what's going on in the world—that you will just naturally become interesting to everyone you meet. For the person who is obviously having a grand time in life, rather than out hunting for someone to give her a grand time, is always the person who attracts everybody, and that means men as well as women.

So instead of reminding yourself constantly that you're unhappy and lonely—an attitude which repels people instead of attracting them—go about radiating enthusiasm for the friends you have, the work you do, and the interests and hobbies you enjoy. That, more than anything else, will help you toward the goal you want to reach.

For the girl who has the kind of outgoing personality that makes her fun to be with, is the girl men want for a wife.

Mother's Helper

A CHILD who is used to only certain foods at home will probably be carefully unimpressed by a new selection when eating out. It's wise to expose her to everything you prepare for your family, making it a rule that each new dish must be given the "one-bite test."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BECKMAN

WELCOME HOME PARTY FOR BROTHER

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My sisters and I are planning to give a Welcome Home Party for our brother who has been serving his country in England for the past three years. He has married since being away, and none of us has a met his wife. So this party is also to introduce her to my brother's relatives and old friends.

As none of us has ever been to such a party we would like to know if gifts are expected? — Sister

All the charming emphasis of this wonderful party should be in welcoming home your brother and introducing his wife to her husband's relatives and old friends. There should be no mention of or expectation of gifts.

AFTER BRIDAL COUPLE HAVE DEPARTED

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My daughter is planning a small wedding for early next month. There is to be no reception. After the 11 o'clock ceremony there will be a wedding breakfast or luncheon about one or two o'clock for the wedding party and immediate families. We would like to have friends and relatives, drop in at our house later in the day or evening, say after 6:30, for a drink and a sandwich, and to see the wedding gifts. Please tell me how I can invite them to such an informal affair. Naturally, it cannot be called a wedding reception, as the bride and groom will not be there. We are sending out wedding invitations—is there some kind of card I can have printed that can be enclosed in the invitations?

—Bride's Mother

It would be in no way suitable to enclose such an informal invitation with such a formal item as a wedding invitation... please don't do this. But it will be entirely appropriate to telephone the relatives and friends inviting them to drop in for a toast to the newly-weds

Summer Fruit Cake

As Conducted by Mary Moore

First thing that started me make a summer fruit cake was a letter from a reader. Then sister Peary said that what Marianne would enjoy receiving most besides our letters was a parcel. Next day my neighbor Alda said when she and Jim moved to British Columbia when he was in the Air Force her mother sent them a homemade fruit cake and it tasted like manna from heaven. So I spent Sunday afternoon making a summer fruit cake which is only another name for white fruit cake, and today it will be mailed—one loaf-size cake each to Marianne and Herbie (who is at his summer manoeuvres camp in Wainwright).

Then a rare thing happened. A reader from near onto 400 miles away was visiting in our city. She looked up Mrs. Mary Moore in the telephone book, and when she and her husband and her sister were returning from having Sunday evening dinner at one of our good highway restaurants they passed our street—and turned onto it. They parked near our house and she got out and strolled by. I happened to be out in the garden and because she was looking so purposefully I waved —not knowing who I was waving at so much as thinking she must be someone I knew. She stopped and I went towards her wondering what kind of a mistake I'd made. Both of us were smiling sort of sheepishly when she asked "Are you Mary Moore?" She said she felt bold but that she read my column every day and didn't want to go back home without saying "hello."

We were all delighted at Mrs. Hunter's friendliness. Peary and Doris and Pete were there. We brought her husband and sister in, and by that time the little sample fruit cake I'd made to taste was cool enough to cut, so we all had some. So at least one reader has tasted and approved the cake from the following recipe. And —she's a good judge for she is a fruit cake expert, having won a first prize with hers at the Fair.

EMEM'S SUMMER FRUIT CAKE

The fruit and nuts: One-half lb. each blanched almonds and broken walnuts, 1-2 lb. citron or mixed peel, 1-2 lbs., light seedless raisins, 1-4 lb. currants, 1-1 lb. jar maraschinos (drain the cherries well and reserve juice for later).

The batter: Three-quarters lb. butter (1-2 cups) (margarine would be satisfactory if you want to economize a little), 2 cups sugar, 8 large eggs, 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 cup each milk and juice drained from cherries, 1 teaspoon each almond extract and cream of tartar.

Method—You will need 2 large bowls and 1 very large bowl—I used the dishpan for finally mixing up—this makes 5 1-2 lbs. cake. Mix all of the prepared fruits and nuts together in 1 large bowl—leaving drained cherries. Sift the flour and measure it and dredge the fruits with half of it and mix it through them with your hands. Cream the butter until it is pale and airy and gradually beat into it and sugar. Then add the egg yolks and beat very well again. Add the cream of tartar to the whites and beat them until they will stand in soft peaks. Add the milk and cherry juice and almond extract to the batter mixture alternately with the remaining flour. Now combine fruits and batter, mixing well, then fold in whites. Line 2 loaf pans (mine are 9 1-4 x 5 1-4 x 2 1-2) and 1 smaller pan (mine is 6 1-4 x 3 3-4 x 2 1-2) with double or triple thicknesses of wax paper; butter it well. Turn the batter in and press down firmly. I baked these with waterpan in oven throughout at 275 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour and 50 minutes. You may use a 10-inch tube pan when it will require three hours or a rack. Let cool thoroughly before re-wrapping and storing in airtight containers.

This is an ideal cake to have in hand for those ever-welcome but unexpected summer travellers.

U.K. Manufacturers Look To Kitimat for Aluminum

LONDON (CP) — British manufacturers, gobbling up all the aluminum they can buy, are hungrily watching developments at Kitimat, B.C.

Canada is by far Britain's largest provider of aluminum, and the British demand is expected to mount steadily. The Financial Times says it is felt here that aluminum is likely to be in short supply until 1957.

In the first six months of this year, Britain bought from Canada 22,231 tons more than in the same period of 1954. The 1955 purchases were worth almost £19,000,000, compared with nearly £14,000,000 between January and July of last year.

The Financial Times comments: "Increases in supplies are mainly dependent on developments at Kitimat . . . output from which this year is expected to reach 82,000 tons."

"The extent to which demand for aluminum products may grow is uncertain, but the rate at which it is going ahead for building, transport, electrical equipment, and for other specialized purposes suggests that it may accelerate faster than is now thought."

Kitimat, with its long-range plan for increased output, is expected to double its capacity by the end of next year. By 1959, its output should be 214,000 tons.

Britain has a contract with Alcan, the operating company at Kitimat, to provide increasing quantities of aluminum. Meanwhile, U.K. manufacturers are casting about for other sources of supply.

One source, the Volta river project on the Gold Coast, is expected to begin producing aluminum by 1961. Canadian interests are involved in the development.

risen from a 17-hour sitting, longest since before the Second World War, after a vain attempt to ensure that its work would end later in the day.

The senate met briefly three times, marking time for the Commons. During the debate on finance—timates which lasted five hours, members of all parties took part before supper. But afterwards CCF members held the floor practically all the time.

Debate on the university grants took up the last half-hour with Mr. Rogers and other CCF members—Roy Knight, Saskatoon, Claude Ellis, Regina City, and H. W. Hurdick, Kootenay West — criticizing the scale of assistance.

A "DISGRACE"
Mr. Harris said he was not prepared to increase the proposed $7,800,000 grants to provinces for universities, accepted by all provinces except Quebec.

Mr. Regier said the amount is a national disgrace. Thousands of children were attending schools manned by undertrained teachers.

The House also voted on the session last motion of non-confidence in the government, defeating 72 to 38 a CCF motion that the government formulate a national fuel policy.

At times during the day attendance in the chamber fell below 50, the quorum necessary for transaction of business. But no one called attention to it and business went right on.

Although this session's 140 sittings is a modern record, it apparently does not match the length of one or two sessions in the first decade of the century. The number of sitting days is not recorded, but a couple of the early sessions extended well beyond this year's over-all duration of nearly seven months.

Everything for the picnic!

YOU CAN WIN $2,000 THIS WEEK in the exciting DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT!

Shirley Wilson, aged 12, obeyed her mother's instructions Saturday when she answered the telephone. Mrs. Wilson told her daughter when the telephone rang, "Answer, Dominion Stores—Frostade", and this won $2,000 for the Wilson family of 682 Sinnicks Avenue, Niagara Falls, Ontario.

Mrs. Wilson won $2,000 because there was no winner the previous week. Because Mrs. Wilson did not have a cash register receipt for $5.00 or more, although she did have a label from Frostade, was unable to qualify for the $1,000 bonus prize.

Calls were also placed to London, Kitchener, Ottawa, Sudbury, Peterborough, Cochrane, Alliston, Timmins, South Porcupine, Hull, Brantford, Windsor, Kingston, plus several calls to Hamilton and Toronto.

You can win $2,000 this week in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT. First, find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on this page but not illustrated. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock Eastern Daylight Saving Time next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $3,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand." If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calling, you will win the Grand Prize of $2,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a DOMINION cash register slip dated this week and totalling $5.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand," you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Find the "PHANTOM FAMOUS BRAND!"

Below are listed a number of Canada's most famous brands of food and household products. ALL BUT ONE of these products are illustrated on this page. Copper-Rich Manitowadge Is No Place for City Dandy Not Prepared to Rough It

By JIM BASTAIRE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MANITOWADGE, Ont. (CP)—The fabulous copper area of Manitowadge is no place for the city dandy. People rough it up here. There are few conveniences of modern living in this wild bush country about 10 miles northeast of Port Arthur just above the north shore of Lake Superior. There are no telephones for the 160 pioneers, no stores and no schools.

Take Munroe Wolfe, for instance. He came here from Port Arthur earlier this year with his wife and three small children. They live in a small tent, set up between stands of birch and pine in the wilderness.

In an ordinary day Munroe works about 12 hours helping to build the Manitowadge townsite, not far from the mine shafts. He must walk 200 yards to a creek for washing and drinking water. He boils the water on a gas-burning camp stove.

TRAVEL BY FERRY

Every two weeks the Wolfe's travel 75 miles south to the pulp and paper town of Marathon for food. It costs $2 to cross the Pic river in a car ferry each time. The only other land route out is via the Canadian National Railways line, officially opened Wednesday. It runs to Hillsport 24 miles to the north. There are no scheduled train runs yet.

"There's no guarantee that the ferry will run on schedule either," Mrs. Wolfe says. "They operate the boat when they're good and ready." Entertainment is non-existent. This plus the dive-bombing tactics of big black flies and mosquitoes, is enough to make life miserable for the average guy.

The Wolfe's don't mind though.

LIVE IN TRAILERS

"It's not bad when you get used to it," Mrs. Wolfe said. "Things will get better." Although there is not the typical mode of living in the area, there are plenty of people in the same position. Some work in the mine; others live in bunkhouses.

Construction work at the townsite and the mine is on schedule. The town is part of a $15,000,000 12-square-mile improvement district set up by the Ontario department of municipal affairs.

Plans for the town call for an eventual population of at least 3,000 persons and possibly 6,000, depending on how well development of the area turns out.

Based on the numbers to be employed by Geo during the various stages of the company's development, housing needs, churches, hospitals, commercial enterprises and even the size of a cemetery were worked out for the community. A civic centre, fire hall, playgrounds and a curling rink are planned.

The mine, discovered two years ago, is to be in production early in 1957. A shaft layout has been

Urges Municipal Assistance Fund Be Re-Opened

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Wednesday was asked to re-open the municipal improvements assistance fund.

Owen L. Jones (CCF—Okanagan Boundary) said in the Commons the fund now is frozen at $30,000,000. It should be re-opened and increased to $100,000,000.

Mr. Jones said that before the Municipal Improvements Assistance Act became inoperative 14 or 15 years ago, municipalities could borrow money at two-per-cent interest for self-liquidating projects. All loans had been paid back.

Half the municipalities in British Columbia would be delighted to use the fund. Some had already borrowed heavily but still needed money for municipal improvements.

Finance Minister Harris said the subject may come before the Dominion-provincial conference in October.

Mr. Harris said the act was passed in 1939 as an unemployment assistance provision. The provinces had guaranteed the federal loans to the municipalities. The last loan had been made in 1940.

constructed to permit an initial production rate of 3,300 tons a day with provision for a possible increase to 5,000.

And the new CNR branch line will provide ready access to the markets of the world.

The $2,500,000 branch line took 10 months to build. By next fall the CFR is due to complete its branch line, stretching 30 miles in a northerly direction from Hemlo, on the CPR main line. The two branch lines eventually will be connected.

BOY, FOUR, KILLED

OSHAWA (CP)—Four-year-old Roman Nizio went for a walk Wednesday with his brother Theo, aged 8. Theo pushed another brother, two-year-old John, in a go-cart while he held Roman's hand. Suddenly, Roman jerked his hand free and dashed on to the street, where he ran into the side of a truck and was killed.

Will Study Radio As Well as TV Broadcasting

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann said Wednesday that both television and radio broadcasting policies will be studied by a commission or board of inquiry to be appointed soon by the government.

He said in an interview that the investigating body will place main emphasis on television but that sound broadcasting "will be inter-locked."

"The commission will be similar to what the Massey commission was," he said.

Dr. McCann was amplifying a statement he made early Wednesday in the Commons that the commission or board will study and revise the whole question of broadcasting in Canada.

At that time he remarked that the Massey commission on arts, letters and sciences said in its report in 1951 that the whole subject of television and radio broadcasting should be reconsidered by an independent investigating body not later than three years after the start of regular Canadian television broadcasting be reconsidered.

However, he said the present plan is to have the commission or board look into both television and sound broadcasting.

Father of Five Dies in Crash

FORT ERIE (CP)—A father of five children died in hospital Wednesday night after a head-on auto crash.

William Stott, 48, of Buffalo, was killed and his wife, Helen, 35, is in critical condition. They were passengers in a car driven by Mrs. Irene Moskucuk, 40, of North Tonawanda, N.Y., who suffered a broken arm.

Police said the three were returning to Buffalo from Crystal Beach when their auto collided with one driven by Alfred Thompson, 21, of Port Colborne. Thompson suffered only cuts.

Red Chiefs to Visit Britain, Should Be Asked to U.S. Too Suggest Leading Senators

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two leading Republican and Democratic senators suggested today that Soviet leaders be invited to the United States and that Vice-President Richard Nixon be sent on a reciprocal visit to Russia.

Senators Ralph Alken (Rep. Va.) and John Sparkman (Dem. Ala.) members of the Senate foreign relations committee, made these proposals after President Eisenhower told a press conference Wednesday that whole echelons of government had been discussed informally at the Geneva Big Four conference. Eisenhower added that no definite invitations were issued.

Noting that Prime Minister Eden had announced in London that Premier Bulganin and Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Communist party chief, will visit Britain next spring, Alken said there is no reason why Russian leaders shouldn't visit the U.S. too.

MISSION MIGHT HELP
"I don't think we should ask them for an invitation, but if they want some high American officials to visit Russia I think Vice-President Nixon could do some good on such a mission," he added.

Sparkman said in a separate interview that he would "look with favor on any decision our government might make about sending either Vice-President Nixon or State Secretary Dulles to Russia."

It was learned at the state department that officials have begun work on plans for an expanded exchange of Russian-American visitors. Numerous private organizations and individuals have sent suggestions on how to arrange such cultural exchange, and some have offered to sponsor visits by Soviet groups.

Master Cadets Enjoy Banff Camp

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Master cadets of the Royal Army Cadet Corps, representing every Canadian province, are enjoying an expensive holiday at this famous Rocky mountain resort as guests of the defence department.

The 234 cadets are spending three weeks at the army's cadet camp on the Minnewanka road, about three miles from the Banff townsite. They are boys who have demonstrated outstanding proficiency, have been awarded for three years or more and have maintained a suitable academic standing. The camp was established after the Second World War as a "yearly award" for cadets. The army says the scheme broadens the cadets' national viewpoint and creates new friendships.

Haywire Method Is Utilized To Build Cheap Wind Tunnel

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of defence research board aerodynamicists, in the manner of the mythical Prairie farmer who could fix anything with haywire, have improvised an intricate wind tunnel near Quebec City—and they've built it for less.

So successful have these aerodynamicists—specialists in the devious problems of flight—been, in fact, that the board today offers them a public pat on the back. Describing their improvisations, the board said the tunnel has provided the Canadian Armament Research and Development Establishment "with an increasingly useful and inexpensive research facility."

The wind tunnel cost an estimated $6,000—"or at least a third of a normal similar supersonic facility."

The men did it out of necessity. They found recently that other wind tunnel facilities in the country would be unavailable for several months because of previous commitments.

Dr. G. V. Bull, head of the Armament Establishment's aerodynamics section, worked out the overall design and directed the project. He was assisted by three other CARDE employees, Richard Wickens, 26, Montreal; Jacques Laframboise, 27, Montreal; and Brian Chiers, 24, Manchester, England. All three currently are taking advance study at Laval University. A complicated research tool that permits prediction of the flight performance of various things, such as missiles, shells and so on, the "haywire" tunnel can simulate speeds up to 3,000 miles an hour. Building it called for special machining of small and large component parts in CARDE's machine shop. The board said many suggestions offered by the machine shop staff were incorporated in the project as "economy was stressed throughout."

At one point, instead of using an expensive, quick-opening valve, a simple diaphragm of old photographic film lying around was put together for the purpose. Now when the aerodynamicists want to start a supersonic air flow, they just poke a hole in the film with a sharpened piece of wire.

"This combination of simple engineering techniques alone cut costs by at least $1,000," said the board.

Hubble Clan Re-union Picnic

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

RAWDON—Ninety people gathered on July 24th in Frankford Memorial hall for the sixth annual dinner reunion of the Hubble clan. This group included men, women, children and four visitors from Lakefield and Belleville.

The Hubbles are descendants of the pioneer, Nehemiah Hubble who permanently settled at Hubble Hill, (now known as Mount Pleasant) in Rawdon township in 1788. He had a wife and nine children. When he came to Canada, Hubbles were in attendance on Sunday from Toronto, Belleville, Tweed, Campbellford, Foxboro, Shannonville, Stockdale, Wooler, Glen Ross, Mount Pleasant, Alkenn, Tabernacle, Hastings, Trenton, Stirling, Springbrook, Havelock, Rodnersville and other points.

Six years ago the founder of the late Mr. Lorne Hubble of Murray township instituted the Hubble re-union and the first two picnics were held at Presque Isle. The group are anxious to have a history prepared as a permanent record which will be a tribute to our ancestors who pioneered in Rawdon township and provided homes, schools and churches.

FOUR LONG TABLES

Four long tables were set up and delicious sandwiches, various relishes, cookies in a wide variety and tarts made up the menu and the association furnished an abundance of ice cream.

The president Mr. Cecil Hubble, Foxboro, was unable to attend because of the illness of his daughter, Edna. Mr. Everett Hubble, past president was in charge and grace was sung preceding the dinner.

The afternoon program opened with a period of silence in memory of two departed members who attended the 1954 picnic and have passed on since last year's reunion. These were Mr. Stanley May, Belleville and Mrs. Wm. Theed, Toronto.

Mrs. Hermon Tucker, Tweed, read an account of last year's picnic which had been prepared by Mrs. Don Terry and gave a full financial report.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, generalist outlined the last three generations and bring the history up to date.

BOOKS DISPLAYED

She displayed several books and these included The Rosebush Family History by Waldo E. Rosebush which contains the full lineage of the William White Family and their connecting history, the James Westcott Family of Hubble Hill, his wife being the former Huldah Hubble, granddaughter of the pioneer Nathaniel Hubble. Also new book which is just off the press, Harry W. Mack, compiler and editor and his brother, Edwin P. Mack of Detroit, Michigan, who published it.

Mrs. MacMullen quoted from this new book these lines: Costly tombstones soon forgotten.

Graves are seldom seen.

Books in homes recording relatives

Keep memory ever green.

Daniel Mack was born in Connecticut and came to Rawdon township soon after 1800. He married Mary (known as Polly) Chard Hubble, widow of Nehemiah Hubble the second. This son of the pioneer Nehemiah was killed in the War of 1812. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mack are buried in Wellman's cemetery. Through this connection there are several pages devoted to Hubble, White, Westcott, Weaver and Chard history also numerous pictures.

TO PREPARE GENEALOGY

Mrs. Russell Hubel also displayed books of family history and explained the idea of publishing a book probably in 1957. On motion of Mrs. Selburne Westover and Mrs. Lorne Hubble the historical committee was given a mandate to go ahead and prepare the balance of the genealogy for the 1956 picnic and charge expense of same to the organization.

The clans are asked to send in full particulars of marriages, names and dates of births of babies and full details regarding the last three generations of the Hubbles.

FUND SET UP

Mr. Ernest Hubble resumed the chairmanship and it was decided to establish a "Ways and Means" committee to provide at least $500 by May 1957, so if it is possible the history can be published in time for the re-union that July. The committee appointed included convenor, Muriel Schwass, Ross Hubble, May Hay, Cecil Hubble and Thora Terry.

An ovation was given the four new members who were attending for the first time. They were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Westcott, of Shannonville; Mr. Harley Hubble, Toronto and Mrs. Edith White, Havelock.

The balance of the afternoon was thoroughly enjoyed. The older folks reminisced and the young try went over to the Frankford tourist park. About a dozen of the clan ate their supper in the hall at 5:30 p.m. A few who didn't come for dinner arrived in the early afternoon.

The historians, Mrs. D. Terry, Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mrs. Russell Hubble, are now awaiting for records, births, marriages, deaths, correct names and full details of the branches of the Hubble clan.

Each person in attendance wore a badge with his name and address and this made identification easy.

The 1956 reunion will be at the same place the fourth Sunday of July.

American League Race Closest In 16 Years; Yankees' Lead Cut To Game

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WELL LOOKIT THIS!

Well, here's a new departure in the realm of softball. Just when Marce Robert Temple, Chief Puss, of the Bobcats softball squad figured he had clear sailing to the OASA playdowns, along comes an unexpected roadblock.

And of all people, none other than brother Paul, who has slung together a team that has challenged Brer Robert's gang to playoff combat to decide who and what will represent Belleville in the intermediate "AA" playdowns.

Gad, men, imagine what this could mean? A severance of family ties, the ending of a beautiful fraternal friendship—and another "Me and Paul" series. As if Ole Dix wasn't had enough with his ill-timed giggles and references to "Me and Paul" away back when.

Anahoo, war has been declared in the Temple menage, from a softball point of view, that is. They tell me the Temple Freres address each other as Mr. Temple, or sometimes through a medium.

Marce Paul has dubbed his challengers the "Polecats". In other words the "Poles" will meet the "Bobs" in three-of-five combat to decide the OASA representative. The series will start, probably in the first week in August since a winner has to be ready by the 15.

"Polecat" Paul has gone as far as to recruit his "Cats". Out of retirement he has brought, to name a few, Ray Nolan, Johnny Semark, M. Pukansic, Bobby Hatfield, Porky York—and lookit who will be doing mound duty, that "Shellette" Leo Lucicola. If "Lucy" does as well on the hill as he has with that starchy gals softball squad, the "Bobs" are in for trouble.

Meanwhile "Bobcat" Bob isn't letting the grass grow under his cat's paws. It's all right for him to say he will make Brer Paul's grey-haired kittens look like old feline bags, but he's taking no chances. He's scared.

In fact he has reached the point of desperation where he has "drugs" the Ole Clucker, Herbie Henn, out of retirement. The Clucker won't be playing—he has signed a short-term contract as coach. The salary is not revealed but it is said to be in five figures. After the fourth figure Temple settled for the nickel. That's twice as much as we got when we were on the Clucker's payroll. Times are tough.

So, there you are. The Battle of the Cats is on, and all brotherly love ceases.

According to OASA executive member Don Lee, the "Cats" winners meet Kingston in the first round of the "AA" playdowns. Oshawa will tangle with Peterborough with the winners of both series meeting in what would be the provincial semi-finals.

GOLF'S BIGGIES

The winners of nearly every major tournament this season—including U.S. Open, British Open and the Masters—are among entries already filed for Canada's biggest golf event, The Labatt Open.

Jack Fleck, the young Iowa golfer who beat Hogan for the Open title a month ago, and Peter Thomson, the young Australian who has won two successive British Opens, have both advised Ken Murray, tournament manager, they will definitely play at Summerlea, Montreal, August 25-28. Other entries received from the P.G.A. tournament bureau include Cary Middlecoff, Gene Littler, Mike Souchak, Dow Finsterwald, Dick Mayer, Bo Kinniger, Tommy Bolt and two past winners Bud Holscher and Doug Ford.

Middlecoff, the golfing dentist from Memphis, Tennessee, has failed to crack the $26,800 purse in two previous bids but this season he apparently can't go wrong. With his Miller Open victory Dr. Middlecoff marked his fourth win this season and took the lead on the money list with $22,000 winnings to date. Just behind him is long-driving Mike Souchak who has won three tournaments and over $21,000 to date. Gene Littler, "the brightest young star on golf's horizon" also has three tournament wins this season. The same age as Bud Holscher and like him a Californian, Littler is often compared with the former trophy winner. Their careers have been parallel and Holscher once beat Littler for U.S. national junior honours. In the open last year eight strokes and $4,500 made the difference between the two of them.

Other recent tournament winners after the $5,000 first place money in the tournament are Dow Finsterwald who won the B.C. Open three weeks ago and the Fort Wayne Open earlier this season; Bo Kinniger who took two championships on the winter tournament circuit; Dick Mayer and Tommy Bolt. Dick Mayer tied defending champion Doug Ford in the 1954 open for 2nd place. Tommy Bolt, the veteran Texan, has tied for fourth place money in two previous events.

JUST AS WELL!

It might be just as well not to get too close to the ringside in Memorial Arena Friday night. If those "Vons" start that death-defying leap from atop the ropes, and land with buckled knees on Bunny Dunlop's midriff while lying sunny-side up, there might be a bit of an explosion.

There'll be six wrestling cards in the roped deck that night. The vicious "Vons" Erich and Schober, the Kalmikoff Kut-ups from Roosha, Bunny Dunlop and another white-shirt, possibly Bert Maxwell or Joe Gollob. If it is Bunny and Bert, they had better be careful. Both wear air-cushioned centre-pieces and if they run foul of any of the charging tactics of either or both of the Vons and the Beards they will be able to see their feet after many years.

"Doc" Gallagher who is nearly on a par in the local hate parade with the Vons is back again, matched with the popular George Scott. Sammy Berg meets Chico Perez.

Six Games Margin Five Clubs As White Sox Whip Bombers; Boston Triumphs Over Tribe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The heat was on in more ways than one today with only six games separating the first-place New York Yankees and fifth-place Detroit Tigers in the closest American League pennant scramble in 16 years.

Not since 1940, when Detroit won the flag two days before the season ended, has there been such a knock-em-down, drag-out race.

To compress the cozy situation, Chicago White Sox defeated New York Yankees 7-4 Wednesday and Boston Red Sox felled Cleveland Indians 6-2. Detroit missed a big chance to gain ground, losing the second game of a doubleheader to Baltimore 8-7 after winning the opener 8-4.

These are the same five clubs who fought it out for the 1940 pennant, when the season closed with Cleveland a game behind Detroit and New York two games back.

Boston ran fifth that year, eight games out.

Kansas City grabbed a double win over Washington Senators 4-1 and 4-1, the opener going 11 innings.

CUBS TOOK TWO

In the National League, Cincinnati Redlegs banged up on Brooklyn in the 10th inning for a 4-3 victory while Milwaukee Braves handed Robin Roberts his first defeat since June 26. Braves 2-1 victory left them in second place, 12½ games behind Brooklyn. Chicago Cubs flattened New York Giants twice, 4-2 and 9-8, while St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 6-1.

Walter Dropo was the hottest hitter for White Sox, who evened their series with the Yankees at one each. Dropo had three hits and sent in three runs as Chicago drove Eddie Lopat from the mound in the second inning. It was Lopat's seventh unsuccessful appearance in a row—three of them starts and four in relief. He last won a game on June 19 when he beat Chicago 7-1.

Ex-Yankee Harry Byrd held New York to three hits through seven innings, then was driven to the showers when Yankee got three runs on four hits. Dixie Howell came on to preserve Byrd's sixth victory.

Baton made it two straight over Cleveland when Jimmy Piersall slammed a homer and single to drive in four runs. Vic Wertz headed for Indians, who could get only six hits off right-hander Tom Brewer.

FIRST BIG WIN

Gus Zernial's three-run homer for Kansas City was the big blow in the first game but Washington's Tom Umphlett sent it into extra innings with a two-run homer in the ninth. Athletics' Bill Harrington, third of four pitchers, gained his first big league victory in the second tilt.

Detroit handed Baltimore its eighth straight loss in the opener and led 7-1 after five innings of the nightcap. Then the Yankees began to fly high, scoring three runs in both the fifth and sixth innings to knot the score. Jim Dyck's single scored Cal Abrams with the winning run in the seventh. Dyck went four for seven during the evening, running his hitting streak to 12 games.

Cincinnati loaded the bases in the 10th inning before rookie Milt Smith singled off loser Gene Ladd to bring in the winning run against Brooklyn. Don Hoak and Duke Snider homered for Brooklyn, the Duke's two-run poke being his 35th of the year. Johnny Klippstein pitched the 10th to gain credit for the victory.

BRAVES FOUGHT BACK

Roberts, seeking his 17th victory, hooked up in a hurling duel with Lew Burdette for six innings at Milwaukee. In the seventh the Phils scored on three singles, but the Braves bounced back in the bottom half with the winning tallies after two were out. Del Crandall singled.

Danny O'Connell was hit by a pitch and pinch-hitter George Crowe drove home one run with a single. Billy Branton's infield hit scored the winning tally.

Wally Moon blasted a grand-slam homer while Harvey Haddix tossed a three-hitter for St. Louis to end a five-game Pittsburgh winning streak. Moon's homer came in the eighth and clinched Cards' first win in five games.

Toronto Leafs Finally Win: Defeat Jets 4-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first-place Toronto Maple Leafs finally righted themselves in the International League after losing four in a row to the pesky Syracuse Chiefs.

The league leaders, behind the seven-hit pitching of ace Jack Crimian, defeated Columbus Jets 4-2 Wednesday night to extend their first-place margin to two games as the second-place Montreal Royals were stopped 4-1 by Buffalo Bisons.

Syracuse, still making it tough for the first-division clubs, split a doubleheader with Rochester Red Wings. Chiefs won the seven-inning opener 2-0 and dropped the nightcap 6-3. Havana Sugar Kings, behind the five-hit pitching of Connie Marrero, blanked Richmond Virginians 4-0.

Leafs finally combined some steady pitching and timely hitting to get back on the winning side. Crimian struck out five, walked one and permitted one earned run. Dick Krychok's home run, in gaining his 13th victory against four setbacks, Lou Limmer's 21st homer with one aboard in the sixth broke a scoreless tie and Berberet's two-out, two-run double in the eighth tied the game for Toronto.

ALLOWED ONLY THREE
Ben Flowers, Buffalo right-hander set Royals down with just three hits to gain his seventh victory in 11 decisions. He struck out nine and walked three. He pitched no-hit ball until Jim Williams lined a double in the sixth inning.

Buffalo scored twice in the fourth on an error, a stolen base, a walk, and a pop single. J. W. Porter made it 3-0 in the fifth with a drive over the leftfield wall. Tommy Lasorda, former Brooklyn Dodger southpaw, went the distance for Royals, giving up seven hits and fanning eight in suffering his sixth loss in eight starts.

Chiefs were held to two hits in the opener, both coming in the game-clinching second inning. Both runs were driven in by the pitcher Lynn Lovenguth. Lovenguth allowed five Red Wings safeties, three coming in a futile fourth inning.

Gary Blaylock had a no-hitter going for him and Royals were leading 6-0 in the sixth when Syracuse got two hits in the nightcap. Syracuse knocked him out in the seventh, with two runs.

The Cubans wrapped their contest up in the second inning with two singles, a hit batsman and a costly Richmond error. Mario Picone went the distance for the Virginians to go down to his 13th defeat against four victories. Marrero racked up his sixth triumph against two losses.

Ford Enters Canadian Open

championship by defeating Cary Middlecoff 4 and 3, has registered for the Canadian Open at the suburban Weston course, Aug. 17-20.

Ford's entry was received along with those of Al Bessell, who won the tournament of champions in 1953 and Dave Douglas, 1953 May's 21st and 32nd rounds, and a grand slammer by Dusty Rhodes.

Lord Calvert Challenge Trophy

Pictured above is the handsome Lord Calvert Challenge Trophy awarded annually as second prize in the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club's Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament. The Calvert Trophy, "a thing of beauty and a joy forever," is one of the most attractive prizes of its kind in Ontario sports competition. Calvert House spared no expense in its donation and in so doing again evidenced the interest it takes in the promotion and furtherance of clean sport in the country.

Corbin, Calvert Gold Awards Head Colorful Prize List In Annual Bowls Tournament

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Two hundred and sixty-four bowlers, representing the cream of lawn keepers in Ontario and parts of Quebec, will invade the city on Monday, Civic Holiday. Guests of the sponsoring Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, the bowlers will be queuing for four handsome trophy prizes, twelve other awards and a special.

The event, the thirteenth Annual Men's Rinks' Tournament, is one of the most popular of its kind in Ontario. In fact it ranks about second in provincial lawn bowling tournaments.

The top prize is the beautiful Corbin Gold Trophy, which was competed for the second time last year. It replaces the first Gold Trophy which saw service for ten years previous. Both trophies were donated by the Corbin Lock Company of this city.

Not that the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club needed any added incentive to attract bowlers here. It was felt the former trophy had outlived its usefulness, served its purpose and was ready for honorable retirement to the city on that date.

HANDSOME CALVERT CUP
Second for prize purposes but as handsome and attractive in its own right as a competitive prize is the beautiful Lord Calvert Challenge trophy donated by the Calvert Distillers, Calvert House, Toronto. It displays a "Victory Figure" on a gold pedestal flanked by two bowlers in action posture. The Calvert trophy is easily one of the most attractive baubles of its kind in sports competition, and is another evidence of the keen interest in wholesome recreation taken by the Calvert Company.

is being offered for competition for the second time. Equally handsome and indicative of the same fine sports and community efforts of its sponsor, is the fourth prize of a trophy and four lovely meat platters donated by the Brading Breweries Ltd.

General chairman of the tournament Gerald Hyde, said today that practically all arrangements for the 14th Annual Tournament are completed. It is expected that the tourney will attract some 600 people to the city on that date.

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club and its officials enjoy a well-deserved popularity among bowlers and their association as evidenced in the fact that year after year the entry list of 64 rinks necessary for the Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament is filed weeks before the closing dates, and usually a long waiting list is on hand.

The Belleville club is noted province-wide for its hospitality and organization ability in conducting tournaments and its efforts are well paid in the response of out-of-town bowling clubs as evidenced in their entries in the annual tournaments.

FROM ALL OVER
Included in the sixty-four rinks from Ontario and Quebec are representatives from Belleville, Oshawa, Cornwall, Ottawa, Kingston, Verdun, Brighton, Hamilton, Perth, Montreal, Toronto, Brockville, Campbellford, Iroquois, Deloro, Peterborough, Lindsay, Cobourg, Chesterville, Trenton, Stirling and Almonte. The host club, Belleville, has entered nine rinks.

The first draw gets under way at 9:30 Monday morning after the traditional "spidee" has been played. This novel event is part and parcel of the Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament. The "Kitty" is placed in the centre of the greens and the bowlers stand around in a large circle. At a given signal they roll their bowls at the "Kitty" and the bowler whose bowl is closest is awarded a handsome prize.

The second draw is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. and by midnight the 1955 winner of the Corbin Gold Trophy, the Calvert Challenge Trophy and other handsome awards should be announced.

The Corbin Trophy was won last year by an Oshawa rink skipped by Mr. S. McMillan. Other members of the rink were E. Carwell, vice, Gordon MacMillan, lead, and W. F. Lindsay second. This rink will be here Monday to defend its title and quest for a second straight trophy holdship.

The tournament this year will be under the supervision of general chairman Gerald B. Hyde. Official umpires will be Chairman Hyde and Cliff Argue, a household name in bowling circles in Ontario.

Oshawa Gets Worst Beating Of Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Senior Intercounty Baseball League race for the last two play-off positions has developed into a four-team battle.

With Oshawa Merchants resting in first place and Kitchener Panthers right behind them, it is up to St. Thomas Eagles, London Majors, Galt Terriers and Brantford Red Sox to settle the third and fourth places between them.

Wednesday night, last place Brantford moved to within three games of Majors, who are in fourth spot, as they defeated Majors 5-1.

St. Thomas kept five games ahead of Brantford with a 12-2 drubbing over Merchants, one of the worst beatings the league-leaders have had this season.

Shellettes Trim Hospital 9-0

Rolling merrily along the victory trail Osterhous Shellettes chalked up another win last night, defeating Belleville General Hospital 9-0 for their twelfth straight victory.

Shellettes grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first and scored six in the fourth. Linda Wagg held the hospital girls to six hits while her mates were collecting 14 off Fraser and Smith, opposing hurlers. Linda whiffed five and walked none.

Mary Anne Ray hit a triple and double for the Shellettes with Helen Reeves good for a triple and two singles. Caroline Baker had a triple and single while Shirley Fox and Eunice Summers each had two singles.

The Shellettes go to Kingston Sunday where they play an exhibition game with the "Angels" girls softball team of the penitentiary.

Scoopers use almost nothing but their right wrists. As a result such a golfer is almost certain to top the shot instead of letting the ball close to the pin for more than two putts. Now, if the player will be sure that his left arm is kept straight, and is sure to be more conscious of his left arm and left wrist action, he is on his way to a fairly sure, crisp, accurate shot. Keep the left arm stretched out—a spoke-of-a-wheel. And on these short shots, cock the wrist earlier than you would in a full swing. Then, on the downswing, sort of pull the club through the ball with the left arm, putting the hands and wrists in as the ball is hit. The club's loft will lift the ball up giving you good flight and placement. (Copyright 1955, John F. Dille Co.)

Whitby Boat Racer Has Eyes On New Record

WHITBY (CP)—William Hatch, 28-year-old Whitby motorboat racer who has won major events in Canada and the United States, said today he hopes to crash the 200-mile-an-hour water barrier next year and set a water speed record.

Hatch said he plans to use a revolutionary craft, consisting of a modified CF-100 jet fighter, fuselage with two Orenda engines mounted on spars (projections) outside the hull), to beat the record of 202.32 miles an hour set up recently in England by Donald Campbell.

He said the craft probably will cost $500,000 to build and will have to be able to withstand the great structural stress experienced in passing the 200-mile-an-hour mark. Campbell was the first man to pass through this water speed barrier and live.

Hatch plans to build the boat in Oshawa and make the attempt in July, 1956.

Italy, Sweden Meet in Tennis

MILAN (AP)—Italy and Sweden clash here this weekend in the European zone Davis Cup finals. Experts agree it's Italian tennis agility matching Sweden power for a upset to America.

Representing Italy in the singles will be Jean Paolo Gardini and plint-sized Giuseppe Merloni, two highly unorthodox players with great retrieving skill.

The Swedish team is led by Sven Davidson, a powerful player regarded by many as Europe's best, and by temperamental but sometimes brilliant Lennart Bergelin.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, July 29, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — This promises to be an exceptionally friendly day for financial matters, new and former business activities. Home, family interests should not be neglected.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A good day—and you, with your fine qualities and thoughtfulness, can make it even better. Without straining health, try to keep up with obligations; perhaps advance yourself.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Good fortune is promised to those of you who do your best and who have honest, purposeful intentions. Financial interests, ordinary tasks, healthy recreational activities honored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You are inventive, original, ambitious and very artistic, so no matter how commonplace your work or station in life may seem, know that you have these God-given gifts and develop them.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your Sun and other major planets are auspiciously aspected now so you should feel happy and ambitious for achievement in whatever reasonably, too.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Pursue plans, objectives with high hopes and faith. Good influences prevail and you should call yourself of every advantage. Ask God's guidance in what you do; be happy.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A topnotch day for your talents, ingenuity and general know-how. Be elastic in mind but still adhere to your fine principles and use the knowledge gained through experience. October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — A propitious day for big doings, attainment in extensive undertakings or in the smaller but just as important chores and activities. Be serene.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Your action, desires and purposeful objectives may be more important than you think to the success of many weighty interests, and to community affairs. Be your fine self. Good rays.

December 24 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Configurations offer much help, encouragement now. Industrial trades, manufacturing, dealing in machinery, tools, war materials and railroading among many pursuits strongly favored.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — The stars do not leave you out of this happy day's promises. Don't permit "rough" tasks or irritating happenings to dampen your hopes for really big, pleasant plans.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Opportunity here for many advantageous contacts and leads that could be a proving ground for fruitful prospects now and later. You have a high order of high intelligence; use it!

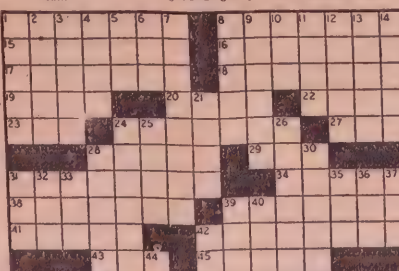

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with tremendous capability and unbounded talents; are high-spirited, ambitious; have limitless energy, and high principles. God has endowed you with many blessings for which you must be grateful. Develop and use these daily. You can succeed especially in a profession bringing you in touch with the public, or in a scientific career, or one that entertains and helps humanity to forget its troubles. One Man Flees, All Prisoners Off Fire Lines

SUBSURY (CP) — The bush fire lines are losing about 80 of the best fire fighters, because one of the 80 has disappeared.

Charles Sanderson, superintendent of Burwash Industrial farm, reported this morning that all prisoners fighting fires are being recalled, because one of them,
George White, 31, of New Toronto, disappeared during the night.

The job on the fire lines was a ward for good behavior, he said, and if one man takes advantage of the minimum supervision provided then all the men have to return to the prison farm.

Another inmate, John Keller, of Cornwall, escaped from the institution
Wednesday night.

Air Conditioning Debate Cools Off

OTTAWA (CP) — Last week, when the temperature rose in the high 90s here, a CCF member of the Commons from Saskatchewan brought up the subject of air-conditioning for government offices.

With the temperature in the cool 70s Wednesday night, the subject didn't seem quite as urgent when
A. M. Nicholson, Mackenzie, introduced the topic in the Commons again.

Mr. Nicholson's point is that because offices get so hot and civil servants are let off early that it would save the government money in the long run to install air-conditioning.

He had asked Finance Minister
Harris to obtain figures on the estimated cost of air-conditioning systems for government offices and the cost of letting civil servants go home early.

Mr. Harris said that in his own department time lost this summer has been about three or four hours.
He couldn't estimate this loss in money.

Nicholson said Mr. Harris could do better than that.
The minister replied it would require a lengthy study but he promised to try to get all the figures.

2 Die, 2 Hurt In Car Crash

SARNIA (CP) — A United States
Air Force officer and his mother were killed today when their car collided head-on with a transport truck on Highway 7 at Warwick, 25 miles east of here. His sister and another woman were injured.

Dead are Lt. James McCardle and his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Mc-Cardle. His sister, Margaret, 22, is in fair condition in hospital. She suffered face and head injuries.

Caroline Peterson, 20, was unconscious in hospital an hour after the accident. She suffered arm, face and leg injuries. All are from Ionia, Mich.

Police said the four Michigan people were riding east in their car when the truck, driven by Clifford Boasley of Aurora, lost a wheel on a rough curve just outside Warwick. The truck veered into the path of the McCardle car and crushed it. Both vehicles rolled into the ditch.

Boasley was not injured.

Woman, 80, Dies In Car Accident

ORILLIA (CP) — An 80-year-old woman was killed and her son was severely injured when the auto in which they were riding was struck by another auto at the Washago bypass on No. 11 highway near here.

Mrs. Hodgson of Newcastle died in hospital shortly after the accident. Her son, George H. Hodgson, is in hospital here in critical condition.

Two passengers in the second car were taken to hospital but their injuries were not serious. Mrs.
Herta Jundtis of St. Catharines, whose son George was driver of the car, suffered a bruised skull and Zanis Krumins of St. Catharines suffered a broken wrist.

Cadets Will Visit Picton Military Camp

OTTAWA (CP) — Thirty-seven high-school cadets from Le College Militaire Royal at St. John's, Que., are making a two-month tour of camps and corps schools across Canada with a view to choosing the corps in which they wish to serve, the army said Wednesday.

The group, conducted by Capt.
J. J. G. Oulmet of Quebec City, began the tour at Camp Valcartier, Que., and will end with a two-week stay at Banff, Alta., visiting Camp Borden, Picton and Sudbury in Ontario; Edmonton; and Rivers, Shilo and Fort Churchill in Manitoba.

Does Not Expect Sales to Be Cut By Credit Curbs

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris said Wednesday night he does not expect new British credit restrictions will adversely affect sale of Canadian goods in the United Kingdom.

He added that R. A. Butler,
British chancellor of the exchequer has given no indication that new quotas or restrictions will be placed on imports from Canada.

He was replying in the Commons to Harold E. Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) who suggested Canada accept sterling credit for goods sold to Britain.

Mr. Harris said Canadian exports to the U.K. in the first five months this year were valued at $320,000,000 compared with $234-000,000 in the corresponding period last year.

Mr. Winch said he just can't believe that the British action—33.1-per cent down payment on many goods instead of 15 per cent—won't have an impact on Canada.

Mr. Harris said that, for example, grain purchases by Britain from Canada wouldn't be affected because such purchases are for cash.

Date Not Yet Set For Inoculations

OTTAWA (CP) — Date of next fall's Salk anti-polio inoculations has yet to be set, a health department official said Wednesday. It depends on duration of this summer's polo season.

The vaccine is not given to children during the polo season, which sometimes runs as late as November, because some medical authorities say inoculations at that time pose a possibility of infection.

The official said the department has received at least two inoculations. They will be due for their third and final shots in January and February, the official said.

Train Delayed

WOODSTOCK (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railways Toronto-Detroit Dayliner was delayed about 1 1/2 hours Wednesday night when it crashed into a diesel locomotive at nearby Eastwood.

The driver, Joseph Spitzer, 52, of Bright, suffered lacerations and shock and was brought here to hospital. There was no immediate report of his condition.

No one on the train was injured.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Trading spotlight turned once again on uranium issues during first-hour transactions at the Toronto stock exchange today. They gave best support to an advancing market and were well backed up by base metals and industrials.

Uranium stocks appeared to be reacting to a Commons statement Thursday by Prime Minister St. Laurent that government policy is to purchase all Canadian-produced uranium until 1962.

Industrial stocks traded moderately and showed few features. Steels, foods and financial institutions gave the group its best support. Top gainer was Weston's, up 2 1/2. General Motors added 1 1/2. Most other gains were fractional.

Leading gains in uranium were Bieroff, Black Bay, Chimo, Consolidated Denison, F. & A. day, Lake Clinch and Rayrock. Pronto and Algonquin dropped fractions.

In an active base metals sector, Golden Manitou, United Keno Hill, Copper Corp., Normalmet and Viola, made led the upward trend.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle prices were steady to 50 cents a hundredweight higher at the Ontario public yards this week. Calves and hogs were unchanged. Lambs were steady to $1 a hundredweight lower with sheep selling steady.

The cattle recd. were 1,000 head less than last week and about 900 head less than the same week in 1954. Receipts from western Canada were 426, an increase of nearly 200 head over last week.

The western receipts were all stockers.

Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were light at three carloads, which is comparable with last week. There were no exports to the United States.

STEER MARKET

Two-way action again featured trading in the slaughter steer and heifer market this week. Broad orders for the light offering of good and choice steers, heifers and fed yearlings made the market active with steers showing gains of 50 cents a hundredweight and the latter two classes selling steady.

Buyers were carrying unfilled orders for these grades at the close. However, buyers carried only limited orders for common and low medium grades, resulting in heavy daily carryovers.

Butcher heifers were hardest hit with action almost at a standstill when values dipped below the $18 mark. Serious drought conditions were blamed for the heavy receipts of unfinished slaughter cattle coming to the market.

Hot, humid weather has resulted in a draggy dressed beef trade. It was estimated there would be 1,000 low grade killers and stockers unsold at the close.

Priced: Choice steers $20-21; with numerous loads at $21.25; good steers $19-20; with mediums $17-19; commons $12-16; good heifers $15-18.50; with a few choice to $19; mediums $16-18; commons $12-16; boner steers and heifers $8-12; choice fed yearlings $19-20; mediums $17-19; good cows generally $13; with odd sales of good light heifers cows to $13.50; canners and cutters down to $7; good heavy bologna bulls $13; with odd sales to $13.50; common and medium light bulls down to $8.

Replacement Cattle: This class continued in narrow demand with dealers offering common and medium grades only. Medium were $17-17.50; with commons ranging down to $14.

Calf receipts continued to decline with deliveries some 200 head less than last week. Good and choice grades were in good demand at $20-22. Lower grades were slow and mediums sold at $15-20 with commons at $10-15. Grass calves sold for slaughter were $10-11.

Hog receipts were about the same as last week. Grade A hogs sold steady to last week at $27 a hundredweight. There were, however, several loads shipped out at $27.50. Sows and stags were unchanged selling at $17.75 for sows dressed and stags at $14.

Sheep and lamb receipts were slightly less than last week. Despite this lambs closed $1 a hundredweight lower at $22 for good handweight ewes and wethers delivered off the truck. Bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight, heavies were discounted $2. Common and medium lambs sold at $15-20. Good light sheep were generally $8 with common and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

Files Complaint Against Owners Of Dance Hall

TORONTO (CP)—A Negro youth, Bernard Dolman, 18, has called upon the law to rebuke the owners of a dance hall who, he claims, ejected him from the hall because he danced with a white girl.

The youth filed a complaint against the management of the Palais Royale dance hall here under the Fair Accommodation Practices Act.

J. F. Nutland, labor department official, said the charge will be investigated and a report made to Labor Minister Daley, who will decide whether to prosecute.

Brownell Files Complaint Union Red-Dominated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-general Brownell Thursday filed a formal charge that the International Mine Mill and Smelter Workers Union, with headquarters at Denver, Colo., is under domination of Communists.

The complaint was brought before the subversive activities control board. It marked the first use of provisions of the 1954 Communist Control Act under which alleged Red domination of unions or business organizations may be prosecuted before that board.

A finding by the board upholding Brownell's complaint would deprive the union of the services of the National Labor Relations Board and other rights.

Napanee Driver In Car Crash Which Kills Four

LANCASTER, Ont. (CP)—A Montreal mother and father and their two daughters all died Thursday night when their car hit a transport truck a mile west of here.

Herman Bogler, 32, of Montreal died pinned behind the wheel of his car after it hit a truck driven by Ralph Denison, 38, of Napanee, Ont. His wife, Eva, and his daughters Barbara Anne, 18 months, and Judy, 8, died instantly when they were flung from the car.

It was reported the accident occurred when Bogler pulled out to pass another vehicle on No. 2 highway.

The car was wrecked, but neither it nor the transport left the road. Denison was unhurt.

The bodies were taken to Cornwall, some 15 miles west of this St. Lawrence river town.

Given 20 Years For Bank Holdup Leading to Death

TORONTO (CP)—Lloyd Simpson, 32, sentenced to 20 years for his part in a holdup bank May 19 which resulted in the death of bank clerk Alan Hannan, Thursday requested leave to appeal his sentence.

Simpson's lawyer, W. E. MacDonald, filed appeal papers which claim magistrate T.S. Elmore was "unduly severe" in his deliberations.

Nickel Company And Union Reach Wage Agreement

TORONTO (CP)—A tentative agreement on wage issues was reached Thursday night between the International Nickel Company and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

The agreement, subject to ratification, averted a threatened strike of 15,000 workers at Inco's Sudbury and Port Colborne works.

The men had voted in favor of a strike if bargaining talks failed. Local 598 of the union was demanding a 10-cent wage increase and a retirement age for pensioners of 60 instead of the present 65.

Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, chairman of a three-man conciliation board, said tentative agreement was achieved here at 11 p.m. after almost 15 hours of continuous bargaining. Terms were not announced.

He had been conducting negotiations at the Royal York Hotel since the conclusion of formal conciliation board hearings Monday. A lower pension age was the union's chief goal. It had argued before the board that miners die younger than most industrial workers.

Bomber Crashes

WITTERING, England (AP)—An RAF Vickers Valiant, four-engine bomber designed as Britain's H-bomb carrier, crashed today with a terrific explosion three minutes after taking off from Wittering airbase.

All four crew members were killed.

The Valiant, first of Britain's new class of heavy bombers, was on regular service with the RAF only six months ago.

An eight-day search for the youth ended Thursday in North Sydney, N.S. He was stopped by police while boarding a boat for Newfoundland and is being held until his father arrives. Police said the youth, who disappeared from his home July 20, was not suffering from amnesia.

Two Thumb Ride, Leave Ocean Raft Plan to Return

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP)—Reports reaching here today said the ore carrier Wabana has taken aboard two of the four adventurers attempting a trans-Atlantic crossing on the crudely built raft Egea. The pair thumbed a ride from the Wabana while she was plying across Cabot straight en route to Port au Port, Nfld. They said they wanted to buy parts for the hand-cranked radio set aboard the raft. It was not known here how they would be put back on the raft after they make the purchases at Port au Port.

ALREADY SOLD

Withdrawal of federal government support for the International Trade Fair does not mean that the government is no longer interested in international trade. Rather, its interest has shifted. More emphasis and effort will be placed on showing Canadian goods abroad.

In line with the new policy Canadian goods and fashions have recently been shown in Milan, Paris and Brussels. One of the big hits of the touring Canadian trade show has been its fur exhibit. Wives of foreign diplomats are reported to have been captivated completely by a Canadian Arctic fox evening cloak and a Royal Canadian Onyx fox boa.

Textiles, plastics and chemicals were included in the show.

It is surely not news that European diplomats' wives are enraptured by Canadian furs. This ill-concealed love affair is one of the reasons Canada occupies half of North America. The profit to be made trading beads and musk to the Indians for beaver and fox pelts was the foundation of that company of gentlemen adventurers known as the Hudson's Bay Company. The Great Northwest as the Hudson's Bay Company, another enormous commercial enterprise in the early days of Canada, was the Hudson Bay Company's chief rival in the fur trade.

Competition to supply diplomats' wives with fur cloaks and coats led La Salle down the Mississippi, Brule and Grosvenors into the Lake St. John country, Brule to Sault Ste. Marie in 1835, La Verendrye Freres to the Rockies, and Alexander MacKenzie to the Arctic on the river which bears his name and to the Pacific via the Fraser.

Beaver pelts lured merchants into becoming explorers, turned the smallest river in the hinterlands into an avenue of commerce, and opened up one of the world's great land masses at a pace that could tire a voyageur and often did.

It is understandable that the federal government is anxious to show off Canadian manufacturers fur have been in view of the fact that Canadian furs have been prized items in Europe for 300 years, it is really necessary to convince Europeans all over again that they are the best furs anywhere?

A REPREHENSIBLE PRACTICE

When one is hot, there is nothing like attacking the problem from two sides, inside and out.

It follows that a cold drink at a beach, after a swim, is one of the most enjoyable moments of an otherwise hot weekend.

Unfortunately, some people never seem to remember that others will want to repeat the recipe at a later date.

All too often one can discover broken glass, from discarded bottles, at district beaches. Sometimes those who enjoyed the drink are not guilty of shattering the bottle. Abandoned bottles are sometimes broken by thoughtless children and more thoughtful adults. Primarily, though, the responsibility rests on those who leave their bottles on the beach, instead of taking them home with glass.

Sifting sand can quickly cover but, perhaps dangerous, when lies hidden until it inflicts a painful suffer cuts from broken glass, there is sure to be an understandable demand that an effort be made to eliminate this hazard on district beaches. Police officers could use their time to better advantage than to be required to patrol beaches, where all but a very small minority are using common-sense in the enjoyment of their leisure hours.

HEAVY-FOOTED EMPLOYER

From Palma, Majorca, comes an interesting little tale about an employer who is looking forward to a long life, thanks to the ingenuity of his doctor.

This man's employees were loafing on the job. The resulting strain was too much for his weak heart.

His doctor prescribed a pair of heavy clogs.

Now the employees always hear him coming and when he sees them they are always working.

This may be easy on the heart—but isn't it a little hard on the feet?

This man is really a walking boss.

Of course, he thinks his doctor is wonderful.

But the employees insist that the doctor is a heel at heart.

THE SCIENCE OF FAITH

Mme. Adele Woyt, of Strasbourg, France, announced recently that her famous brother, Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 80, has been slowly going blind for the past two years. She said that he stopped performing operations at his hospital in Lambarene, French Equatorial Africa, two years ago because of deteriorating eyesight.

The Japanese consul in Nairobi, Kenya, announced a few days later that a Japanese faith healer had accepted Dr. Schweitzer's invitation to treat him for failing eyesight.

Dr. Schweitzer, who has performed thousands of operations on his eyes because of his advancing age.

It might seem paradoxical that a famous surgeon should refuse surgery. But it must be remembered, also, that Dr. Schweitzer is as famous a philosopher as he is a surgeon. It is reassuring to realize that while advancing age may shake a surgeon's confidence in the science of healing, it has not shaken his faith.

It is most prophetic, too, that a scientist-philosopher should turn to faith when science can no longer aid him.

ENVIRONMENT

Environment is what men make

But what they are and what they do,

A garden kept for beauty's sake

Improves for every one the view.

When pride no longer is displayed

And ever since the world began

It shows will be little fair to see.

When men run down the blossoms faded,

The area soon will shabby be;

The will to better, comes from man;

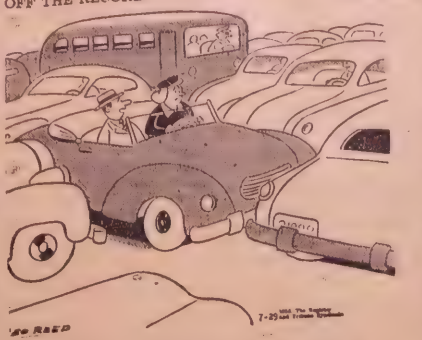

For that his time and strength are spent,

And ever since the world began

His work has shaped environment.

TIGHT SUITS

ENJOYMENT

The only really happy are those who get enjoyment out of simple things, and who glory in the fact that wealth is in the heart, impossible to place a mortgage upon that! Many a boasting Croesus would gladly part with his wealth, he might have far more than mere material wealth, in the enjoyment of friends, books, and the wealth of nature.

Tell me how many men of wealth have a quiet mind, free of all worry, envy, and ambition. Greed has nothing to contribute to enjoyment. A child is happy to play in the sand, but an adult has high aims, of which enjoyment is by no means the least of his dreams.

Richard Jefferies gave as the title of his most famous book "The Story of My Heart." It was a book that many were afraid of because it was so frank and sincere. But Jefferies had a heart so akin to nature, that he was able to write, at home in all out-of-doors, He said: "Let us be always out of doors among trees and grass, and rain and wind and sun." I have read that much of this book with a thought out and conceived as he rested upon the ground, looking up to the blue of the sky with his leathery clouds.

When all other occupations have ceased to give pleasure, Nature steps in to lead us on. Nature has enriched thinking. One great blessing the automobile brought into life was that it took people by the million into the world of nature, away from themselves, directing them to new enjoyments.

Enjoyment means most to us when we are able to share it with others. Anything creative, however, gives to us a personal enjoyment. We lose ourselves in it, forgetful of time and other interests. Like stamp collecting, for example, which teaches of history, a nation's customs, its people, poets, writers, and government.

Into Exile

Frankfurter (Algemeine)

Einstein was a German, but he had to leave Germany (in 1934) because he was a Jew. We drove one of the greatest scholars of our time into exile, and future generations will see that to have been not only gross folly, but also a lasting disgrace. So the honor of having enabled a great man of our earth to pursue his quest for knowledge belongs not to us, but to the land across the sea.

Money in Old Bridges

(Charlotte City Guardian)

An old bridge can be valuable if disposed of at the right time. The city of New York estimated that it would cost $750,000 to demolish the old Third Avenue elevated railway. It so happened, however, that the city was in a bind for money and the city was able to find a contractor willing to pay $330,000 for the privilege of removing the structure.

9 Frenchmen Write Novel

(Manchester Guardian)

Competitions among newspaper readers are an old device. The great days of prize-giving are for the moment behind us in this country; it has been left to the Paris Express to think up a new kind of puzzle.

It has got nine well-known novelists to write a novel together; each will write a chapter and each must stick up the story where the last one left off. There is no prearranged scenario. It has been done before with writers of detective stories, but this time it is as though Mr. Evelyn Waugh and Mrs. J. B. Priestley had consented to take part in a literary caper; among the puzzle-makers are M. Houaric and M. Maurois as well as lesser but still bright lights.

His must be the most notable and multiple collaboration since Elizabethan theatre managers set five or six poets to write a play together and paid them about five shillings each. No doubt the French novelists will do rather better. The first chapter, already printed, suggests that although the novel may turn out to be no masterpiece it will do its job of puzzling the reader (who is supposed to guess who wrote which chapter). It deals with a rowdy political meeting and contains almost as many characters as "War and Peace". It is novelists to be written on the assembly line the first author has at any rate plenty of material into the machine.

Just to make things harder (this is, after all, French each author is to insert into his chapter a sentence that has appeared in one of his own novels. The reader must spot the sentence as well as the author. He must not only prove his nose for style but also solve a cryptogram. Let us hope that at the end of it all no one will claim to have detected the hand of Francis Bacon.

Wool Hat Kin To Yahoo

(Christian Science Monitor)

"What is a 'wool hat'?" asks the Man from Overseas, reading American political news.

Well, that's easy to answer generally, but not so easy precisely: A wool hat is first cousin to an apple knocker on one side of the family and to a swamp angel on the other. And all three are close kin to a yahoo.

It's when you get down to the fine distinctions that the definitions get tough. A wool hat is a sort of apple knocker with a cracker accent. And an apple knocker is a pumpkin roller who lays c-y-o-u for c-o-u. A pumpkin roller is a swamp angel who rides the famous slow train through his home state. A swamp angel, on the other hand, is a yahoo who hoes cotton down in the "boot heel." And a yahoo is an upstate man whom the natives have been wont to call a yahoo. A yahoo is a pumpkin who comes from away back of the backwoods.

This is all looking in one direction, of course. Turning things around, a yahoo is a city slicker who has gone west. And a city slicker—why go on? It's all plain English.

Laughton On Reading

(Montreal Gazette)

Many of the great liberal movements of the last century shared the belief that when everyone could read and write, then social problems would disappear, for all would share the wisdom of the ages that is preserved in books. That ideal has long since faded. The ability to read does not insure that good reading—or any reading—will result.

The growth of mechanical entertainment and spectator sports have been rated as prime enemies of reading. Television is the latest innovation to be analyzed for its effects on reading habits.

Parents and educators firmly agree on the need for literary appreciation, but how is it to be achieved? For the child in a reading atmosphere and encourage him to learn to read and to love books.

In an article in This Week magazine, Charles Laughton, whose stage readings have been so successful in the last few years, offers these rewards: family reading is grand fun; it is shared experience that draws families and friends closer together; it puts your child in a reading atmosphere and encourage him to learn to read and to love books.

P.C. Filibuster, Thatcher's Bolt from CCF
Lighten Long, Dull Session of Parliament

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A successful Opposition filibuster and a CCF member's bolt from the party combined to lift the second session of Canada's 22nd Parliament out of the doldrums.

Except for those events there was little to distinguish the session which opened before television cameras—an innovation on a cold Jan. 7 and is spelling out its last days in mid-summer heat.

On the whole, Parliamentary observers consider it one of the quietest sessions in recent years.

MARATHON DEBATE

The Progressive Conservatives opened their filibuster June 7 against a government bill to extend indefinitely the extraordinary powers of Defence Production Minister Howe. The government at first refused demands for a new time limit on the powers, due to expire July 31 next year.

A month later, after 106 speeches and 10 days of debate, the government yielded most of the way and agreed to put a three-year limit on nearly all of the special, sweeping powers.

The marathon debate helped make the session at least the second longest in modern years, rivaling last session's 139 sitting days. (Thursday, July 21, is the 134th day of this session.)

The Commons' biggest jolt came April 22 when Ross Thatcher, a CCF member since 1945, announced he was leaving the party over political differences to sit as an Independent for his Moose Jaw-Lake Centre constituency. It was the first time in more than 10 years that a Commons member had openly left his party's ranks.

A series of other developments gave the House plenty to debate on top of its legislative program, which in itself involved no radical departure from past policy. When the session ends, roughly 2,700,000 words will have been written in the official Hansard record.

One big issue was the alleged role of Revenue Minister McCann in Ontario's politically touchy Dempsey affair. It boiled up repeatedly in the last months of the session.

Dr. McCann was accused of tipping Premier Frost last April about unreported election campaign contributions of $6,800 made in 1953 by the late John Drohan of Barry's Bay, Ont., to James S. Dempsey. Mr. Dempsey, a Progressive Conservative, was re-elected to the Ontario Legislature for Kennew South in the June 9 provincial election although he had lost Premier Frost's support.

Dr. McCann, federal member for Renfrew South, was a director of the Guaranty Trust Co., which handled the Drohan estate. CCF members tried unsuccessfully to get a commission inquiry into his department and then, May 16, introduced a bill—not voted on—to prohibit cabinet ministers from holding directorships.

The dispute boiled to a climax this week when Prime Minister St. Laurent disclosed—after Opposition Leader Drew called on him to ask Dr. McCann to resign his cabinet post or his directorship—that the minister had severed his trust company connection June 20.

Mr. Drew said there was a conflict between Dr. McCann's private interests as a company director and his public duties, but Mr. St. Laurent denied this, adding he found no wrongdoing in the minister's actions in the Dempsey case. As for opposition claims that Dr. McCann showed Mr. Frost photographs of receipts for Drohan campaign donations, Mr. St. Laurent said the revenue minister showed him a photograph of a receipt dealing with a transaction in provincial timber rights.

The session's main continuing concern, however, was unemployment, which reached a post-war peak in March.

Within a week after Parliament met it had passed an act broadening wartime supplementary benefits of unemployment insurance. Later it revamped the entire insurance plan, boosting maximum weekly benefits while reducing the maximum period of coverage. And at a federal-provincial meeting the government offered to pay half the cost of provincial and municipal relief aid for unemployed in excess of 45 per cent of each province's population.

Finance Minister Harris presented his first budget April 5, with a cut in personal income tax averaging 10 per cent, starting July 1, and amounting to $128,000,000. The rest of the total $148,000,000 in tax cuts went chiefly to corporation income tax and the excise tax on new autos and tires and tubes.

Mr. Harris forecast a $160,000,000 deficit for the 1955-56 fiscal year. The Commons was asked to vote $4,507,000,000 for the year in government expenditures, some $60,000,000 below the peacetime peak last year.

MR. DREW'S RETURN

One feature of the session was the return of Opposition Leader Drew in mid-February after a three-month bout with meningitis. He returned to form rapidly and during the defence production filibuster made two speeches totalling eight hours.

Postmaster-General Cote was absent most of the session following a heart attack.

And Mr. St. Laurent gave a clear indication he will lead the Liberals in the next election, probably in 1957.

In a June 29 by-election, James Alexander Smith retained for the Social Credit party the Battle River-Camrose seat held by the late Robert Fair. No by-election has been called for the Restigouche-Madawaska seat made vacant by the death in April of Liberal member J. G. Boucher.

Party standing in the 265-seat Commons: Liberal 171; Progressive Conservative 31; CCF 23; Social Credit 15; independent 4; vacant 1. Three senators, all Liberals, died during the session: J. R. Hurtubise, 72, of Sudbury, Ont.; J. Fernald Fafard, 73, of L'Islet, Que.; and James H. King, 82, of Vancouver, a former senate speaker. Their deaths left senate party standings at 72 Liberals and seven Progressive Conservatives with 23 vacancies.

OTHER DEBATES

Besides the issues raised by the Defence Production Bill, unemployment, and the Dempsey case, a series of other developments produced extended Commons debates. In January, after four days of discussion, the House ratified the Paris agreements on entry of a rearmist West Germany into NATO. The CCF party split on the ratification vote. Later, the threat of war over Formosa prompted an even longer debate.

Prairie members spoke at length on two recurring topics: Declining farm income and wheat marketing. And they sought federal aid to help meet severe spring flood damage in the West, a request still under Cabinet study. Wheat was in the spotlight most recently with the government guaranteeing a bank loan for 85 per cent of a $20,000,000 wheat sale to Communist Poland.

Opposition questions flew thick and fast for a while over the disclosure, in a ruling of the income tax appeal board, that an unnamed construction firm had entertained public officials in contract negotiations at a luxurious country home in Quebec. The government finally replied that no federal officials were involved and that no federal contract had gone to the company since 1940.

GENERAL'S RETIREMENT

Conservatives also questioned the retirement of Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds as Chief of the General Staff at the age of 52 and suggested he be used in some other post. Defence Minister Campney said the General was retiring willingly after 4½ years to make room for Army promotions.

Other matters also raised the Opposition's ire, including the importation of 2,250,000 pounds of New Zealand cheese and the plan to use the United States-owned Hilton Hotel-organization manage the CNR's New Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal.

A deeper issue, however, was the Quebec income tax dispute in which Quebec demanded that its personal income tax, roughly 15 per cent of the federal levy, be wholly deductible from federal collections. The law had allowed deductions up to five per cent of the federal tax.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the government's stand in January. The federal tax rate would be cut a straight 10 per cent in 1955 and 1956, and retroactive to 1954 on a 10-per-cent deductible basis. Conservative and CCF members said the action threatened national unity.

The Senate debated, and rejected two bills proposed by individual members. Senator William Assel-line (PC-Saskatchewan) sought to widen divorce grounds in Canada beyond the present ground of adultery. And Senator William Euler (L-Ontario) sponsored a bill which would have required filling of Senate vacancies within six months after they occurred.

NEW LEGISLATION

Legislative measures passed included:

A tightening of federal control over construction of power dams and other works in rivers flowing into the U.S.—a bill opposed by British Columbia which has a deal with the U.S. Kaiser interests to dam the Columbia river.

Broadening of federal grants to municipalities in lieu of taxes on government property.

A 20-per-cent boost in war veterans allowance payments.

An increase in the means-test ceiling of permissible income for blind allowances and a drop in their starting age to 18 from 21; Inauguration of government guarantees for loans to fishermen.

A few tariffs were changed and dumping laws were tightened, especially against price-subsidized imports. The government recommended the Tariff Board's recommendation make no increase in the tariff on British woollens as requested by the textile industry.

ECONOMIC SURVEY

A broad survey of Canada's economic potentials was begun in June with appointment of a five-man royal commission headed by Toronto management expert Walter Gordon.

The session brought the Commons probably its heaviest load yet of committee work. There were as many as 11 committee meetings in a single day.

One precedent was set with establishment of a new committee which studied estimates of four departments before they went before the House. Another committee drafted changes in House rules of procedure, unanimously adopted, and will write its report next session work starting next session. A Commons-Senate committee investigated Canada's narcotics traffic, recommending provincial treatment centres for drug addicts and corporal punishment and lotteries suffer penalties of up to possible life imprisonment for traffickers.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. Hunter Faulkner, Belleville, wishes to announce the engagement of Dorothy Jean, youngest daughter of Mrs. Hunter Faulkner and the late Mr. Faulkner, to Keith Ronald Sprackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sprackett, Gilmour. Marriage will take place on Saturday, August 27, 1955, at 2 p.m. in Calvary Temple, Belleville.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

The marriage is announced of Marion Ethel Coulter, Toronto, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smiley Coulter, Roslin, to Charles Ralph, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ralph, Toronto. Marriage took place on Thursday, June 30, 1955, at Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vix of Oregon, U.S., and Mr. and Mrs. Blake McCormick and daughter of Kelso, Washington, left for home last week after a very pleasant visit with Mrs. Vix's three sisters, Mrs. Mary Ferguson, Trenton; Mrs. J. Whitman, Eugene, and Mrs. S. Griggs, Belleville. A family reunion picnic in their honor at Cedarvale was much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chilvers, Mr. Harry Holland, C.C., and daughter of Windsor, and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. French of Clarkson, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith and Mrs. H. Holland, during July.

Misses Dorothea Atyeo, Eleanor Baragar, Ruth Brintnell, Lynda Shies and Lemoine Post are spending this week at the "Word of Life" camp, at Schroone Lake, in the Adirondacks in New York State.

AN INTRUDER

TORONTO (CP) — A suburban Swanses housewife who Tuesday night moved her mattress out onto the verandah of her home in hopes of catching a cooling breeze said she suddenly awakened by an unwelcome bedmate. The anonymous lady said she found a lonely skunk, equally exhausted by the steamy weather, had curled up beside her for a nap. She screamed and the skunk woke up suddenly and trotted off across the street.

Weddings

TERRY-LABARGE

White gladioli and 'mums decorated the altar and chancel of St. Thomas Anglican church, Saturday, July 9, at 11 a.m., when Lela Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John LaBarge, became the bride of James Terry, son of Mrs. William Steadman and the late Gladstone Terry. The Rev. William Robinson officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mr. Robert Bell played the traditional wedding music. Miss Sheila Keegan, Belleville, niece of the bride, was soloist and sang "O Perfect Love", before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length gown of white (Chantilly lace over satin with a full skirt and strapless fitted bodice). The long sleeves were pointed at the wrists. The matching jacket featured a Peter Pan collar with seed pearls and sequins. Her veil was attached to a crown headpiece decorated with colored sequins matching the jacket collar. She carried a semi-cascade of Bettertime roses.

The bride's twin sister, Mrs. Dorothy Dempsey, Carrying Place, was the matron of honor. She was gowned in aquamarine chiffon over net and wore a white feathered headpiece. Yellow Shasta 'mums formed her round bouquet. A bridesmaid, Miss June Redick, wore a coral gown of nylon net with a cape-like jacket and matching headpiece. She carried a round bouquet of yellow Shasta 'mums. Miss Jillian Blackburn, niece of the bride, wore a yellow gown of nylon net with a stole and a matching headpiece. She carried a round bouquet of mauve 'mums.

Mr. Bernard Cannon was groomsmen. The ushers were Mr. William Steadman, Jr., Toronto, and Mr. Donald Terry, Burlington.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Pink and white gladioli and matching streamers decorated the tables. The three-tiered wedding cake, which was baked and decorated by the bride's mother, was topped with bride and groomsmen miniatures. The bride's mother wore a pale green nylon crepe dress to receive the guests. Her corsage was of Pink Delight roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a dress of powder blue lace and chiffon crepe. A corsage of Bettertime roses completed the ensemble.

For travelling to Toronto and points west, the bride chose a pale mauve frosted organza dress with white accessories and a corsage of Gloria roses.

Out-of-town guests came from Toronto, Burlington, Trenton, Gormley and Carrying Place.

The couple will reside on Avondale Road.

Previous to her wedding, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Arthur Keegan and Miss Vera Keegan. About 25 persons attended. Mrs. Doris Crawford, of Avondale Road, also gave a shower at which ten of the bride's friends from Northern Electric attended.

The bridegroom's gifts to the attendant and the ushers were cuff links. He presented his bride with a pearl necklace and carrying set. The bride's gifts to her attendants were lockets. She gave her husband cuff links and a tie clasp.

HOWES-CAIRNS

A quiet wedding took place Saturday, July 23, at the home of the Rev. W. R. Merrick, when Ethel Muriel Cairns, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cairns, Cannifton, and Gordon Harold Howes, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howes, were united in marriage.

Following a wedding trip to the United States, the couple will reside in Cannifton.

Bride, Groom Honored At Shower

WHITE'S DISTRICT — A very happy time was enjoyed by all, when neighbors and relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis to meet the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearson and to extend best wishes and congratulations.

Mr. Arnold Meyers, cousin of the bride, was master of ceremonies. He called on little Miss Barbara Sandercock, who welcomed the couple with her humorous recitation. Mrs. Donald Sandercock gave a suitable reading, "Advice to the Bride", Freddie St. Hillier rendered a harmonica selection and Miss Gloria Black of York Road, gave a piano selection. Young Miss Betty Sandercock gave a recitation entitled "Goodbye".

Mr. Meyers called on Miss Shirley Meyers to read the address and the young couple were presented with many nice gifts, including two sets of China dishes, blankets, pillow cases, linen, baking dishes, electric lamps, tea-pots and bowl set.

Both responded, thanking all for their kindness and inviting everyone to visit them at their home on Sidney Street in Trenton.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and, after a social time and the singing of "For They are Jolly Good Fellows", all departed.

Flamenco Line Features Fall Fashion Trend

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters) — The flamenco line, a long, moulded body line which flares into sudden swirling fullness about knee length has been introduced for fall and winter fashions by Michael Sherard, one of the younger members of the exclusive Incorporated Society of London Fashion designers.

The new line is also featured in the collections of Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker, John Cavanagh and Worth. In addition Digby Morton and Michael have models featuring it.

Basically, it represents a descent of the long torso line of the last two seasons. But the moulded line, instead of stopping at the hips, carried on down to the knees, giving a "hobble" effect reminiscent of 1912.

Its evolution is clearly seen in one striking model in stiff black faille in Hartnell's new collection. In this, the long torso bodice descends almost to knee level in a point at the back and runs into a panel at the front. Both point and panel are outlined with a wide, pleated, outstanding trim.

Sherard uses the "flamenco" line — named after the dancers of southern Spain — to stress his new body line which flares into fullness from the hips downward. In terms of the alphabet, Sherard terms it an inverted "Y." A typical example is a dinner dress in black lace over rose satin which moulds the figure closely to a point well towards the knees and then bursts into sudden fullness.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF YOU HAVE TO ASK, YOU SHOULDN'T MARRY EITHER
YET

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Which of the two should I marry?
I am 21 years old, and am dating two boys, Peter and Chip. Peter is 25 and Chip is 23. Peter is just beginning his career as a stockbroker. Chip will graduate as a mining engineer from Georgia Tech at the end of summer school.

For one year, I went steady with Peter, then for two with Chip, whom I fell for at once. Now both these boys have proposed to me, and I believe I am in love with both of them.

I am ready to settle down in a home of my own, and so are the young men. I would like to travel with my husband for a few years, but wouldn't insist on it. Peter is very much interested in seeing the world but Chip wants to get started with his engineering.

Please help me make my decision—Lobelia.

Dear Lobelia:

You aren't the first girl in the world who has thought herself in love with two men at the same time and you certainly won't be the last.

But do you know what such a state of mind really means? It means that you aren't really in love with either of them. If you were you'd know very well which of the two you wanted to marry. You wouldn't have to ask anyone to tell you.

When a girl is so undecided, so unsure of herself, she's not ready to marry anyone. If she does, she's likely to find out later that she's made a big mistake. Of course, by some lucky turn of fate, she might be fortunate enough to have chosen correctly. But it's running too much of a risk. After all, you want marriage to be for keeps, so the only sensible thing is to wait until you're certain you know what you want. And you don't know. In fact, you know so well that you don't know that you're turning to another person to set you straight.

How did you answer these boys when they proposed to you? That ought to throw some light on the way you really feel. I can hardly believe that you accepted them both, though I've known some girls who have done just such a foolish thing because, in their indecision, they didn't know what else to do. They didn't know which chap they wanted, and they didn't want to lose either one until they had made up their minds. So they got themselves in a worse mess than ever. So let's say you weren't quite as

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I have opened up a rooming-house and have three boys who room and board, the rest of the house is rented out in sleeping rooms. The other roomers would like board as well, but I find that I can't save anything out of the $13 that I charge the three boys. I would be very thankful to you if you could send me a menu for lunch and dinner for about eight men. I am alone with my four-year-old and must work. I would rather do something like this and have him with me as I can't bear the thought of boarding him out.

ANSWER:

Remember you are in business—earning money to support yourself and son. If you can't save any money out of your work it is perfectly obvious you are not charging the boys enough. Why should they have the benefit of your hard work when they are silly as that. Well, then, did you turn them both down? Or did you tell each of them that you weren't quite sure, and wanted time to think things over? I hope it was this last course you chose, for that would have been the very wisest one, and I'm going to assume that you did choose it.

That being the case, where do you go from there?

Where you go on dates with both these boys, and with any others who ask you.

If the first two are really in love with you, they'll fall in with whatever plan you suggest, so long as there's a chance of winning you. In this way, it's like playing a game: you can't tell whether or not you're going to win, but as long there's a chance you may, you're going to hang on to it. And that's the way the boys should feel, if they're serious about wanting to marry you. Moreover, if they're the right sort of young men, they'll understand your indecision and not try to push you into anything before you're ready.

As for going out with others, it's important that you do this in order to be perfectly sure there might not be somebody else who would attract you even more than the first two. If you were buying a dress, you'd look around at a lot more than two before making your final choice, wouldn't you? So if you'd take that much care about a dress that will wear out before long, wouldn't it be smart to be just as careful—or even more so—about something you hope will wear "as long as you both shall live?"

That's all, Lobelia.

making good wages and you nothing but the suffering of having fed them well? No reason. Raise their weekly board to at least $15 per week. I know a lot about this from the board Peter's fraternity brothers are paying in Toronto. If you do decide to cook for all six men you will then have $90, a week coming in. Don't vacillate about this: just tell the boys simply your charge from now on. In Hamilton the students are paying $18 a week without any midday lunch.

ROSLIN W.I.

Mrs. H. Chisholm was hostess for the July meeting of the Women's Institute which was held Thursday afternoon with 23 present.

This was grandmother's meeting. The roll call was responded to with "How to Postpone Old Age".

During the business meeting the group made final plans for the lawn social to be held on Dr. and J. D. Empson's lawn. They also discussed cooking for Scott's sale.

Mrs. F. Meeks was leader for the day and gave a paper on the motto "In youth we learn, in age we understand."

A very timely demonstration of artificial respiration was given by Dr. J. N. Hart.

Conveners of standing committees reported.

Musical numbers were given by the grandmothers and the grandchildren.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half hour was enjoyed.

(6) Breaded Pork Chops, creamed Cabbage, boiled potatoes, applesauce, shredded Cabbage and Carrot and Celery Salad, Cold Blanc Manger Pudding with fresh-fruit-in-season topping.

Don't get me wrong Jane. I'm all in favor of instinct and practice of looking after boys, but when it comes to a widow supporting herself and son, being easy on young people comes second. Very best of luck. Let me know if you want recipes for dishes I've suggested.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

BEAUTY ON A PICNIC

Planning a picnic this weekend?

Fine. It'll be a lot of fun and you can't just picture yourself coming back, brown as the proverbial berry, a little tired, maybe, but with that "nice tired feeling" that follows a day outdoors, and looking radiantly healthy, of course?

Well, maybe. But you won't look so radiantly healthy—and certainly not beautiful—if you come limping back with sore muscles from a vigorous game of "catch", red-faced and red-eyed from too much sun and your skin covered with insect bites. And it's all too true, alas, that all these things can happen on even the pleasantest picnic. But not if you're careful.

Plan ahead and, when you're packing the picnic basket, don't concentrate on sandwiches, pickles, cookies and cold drinks alone. Think of your beauty, too. Leave enough room for a few little items that will help to thwart the picnic pests. Take your suntan lotion, of course, and a small bottle of eye-lotion. It will come in handy if your eyes become bloodshot from the sun or if dust or sand blow into them. And, above all, take along a bottle of witch hazel. You will find a dozen uses for it.

If muscles ache after strenuous physical activity, massage them with the witch hazel and you will find almost immediate relief. If you become over-heated, apply it to your forehead, nape of the neck, over arms and shoulders and you'll find it cooling and refreshing.

There's nothing better for treating the bites of mosquitoes and other insects. Use immediately, the ugly welts following such bites disappear almost instantaneously and the stinging which makes you want to scratch them also disappears. This is important because scratching bites can not only leave permanent blemishes on your skin, but may cause serious infection.

Witch hazel is also effective in treating minor burns and the small abrasions which may be incurred by children, and even adults, on even the best-run picnic. So be sure to take along a bottle. Keep one in your home, too. Cooled in the refrigerator it's as effective as your toilet water or cologne for freshening up and there'll be many times when you'll be glad to have it for treating the minor bruises, bumps and burns inevitable in a busy household.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULD MAN DISREGARD "PLEASE DON'T STAND"?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been going around quite a good deal lately with a man whose manners are really wonderful, always so courteous and considerate. However, last evening when we were dining in a restaurant with another couple, friends of mine whom he had just met last week, he did something that I thought was a bit too "finley." A few minutes after we had given our orders, a woman whom we know quite well, came to our table and greeted us. Both men rose at once, and the woman visitor, who was standing, said most graciously, "Oh, please don't stand." The other man at our table followed her suggestion and sat down, but Bill remained standing, being gracious to the visitor, but paying absolutely no attention to her suggestion. When she said good night and left, Bill sat down, but although the other man with us did not say anything, he looked as if he were wondering why Bill had remained standing. What about this, Mrs. Beeckman?

—Sallie B.

Bill didn't sit down because he knows what's right . . . and the woman visitor—at the table asked the men at the table to be seated because she doesn't quite know what's right. It's amusing to watch the smug self-satisfaction of a woman in a restaurant who, stopping to talk at a table, thinks she makes her lingering-too-long quite all right if she says to the man or men who rose when she came to the table. "Please don't stand," or "Please be seated," or "Don't rise . . . I'm going in a minute." A mannerly man (like Bill.) Would not follow this misguided suggestion . . . for he knows that he should remain standing while a woman is standing, and that this courtesy isn't negated by her inappropriate suggestion. Also, and very important, anyone who sees him seated while the woman is standing would think him either ignorant of what he should do, or willfully discourteous to the woman. Your Bill did what a gentleman should do.

Sunday School Lesson:

Taking Unpleasant Advice

By ROY L. SMITH

It is usually as difficult for a nation as for an individual to take unpleasant advice. It is so much easier to believe they are telling the truth who assure us that we are in no danger. The good news that we are right is so much more palatable than the bitter word that we are wrong. No prophet of doom has ever been able to carry an election.

THE ISSUE WAS CONFUSED

The little kingdom of Judah had come down to its last tragic end. The king had been dragged from his throne, the walls of Jerusalem were in ruins, and thousands of the best citizens had been carried off into captivity.

In that hour a crowd of those who had continued in the land approached the prophet Jeremiah asking for advice. A popular cry was being raised by some calling upon them all to flee to Egypt and seek sanctuary. What should they do?

No man's life was safe, no woman's property was secure, no nation's promises could be trusted, no hand was being raised in their defence. The situation was desperate, and in the tension of the times Jeremiah counselled them to stay quietly in the land, clean up their lives, restore justice and live peacefully. If they would do so, he assured them, they might expect the help of God.

DID NOT APPEAR GLAMOROUS

Jeremiah's program did not have any of the appearance of glamor. To sit quietly in the midst of uproar is sometimes far more difficult than to rush out and fight at the battle front. To exhort oneself in activity is so much easier than possessing one's soul in patience.

The process of building a stable foundation for peace is so very discouraging. It calls for forbearance, patience, and poise. Revenge, retaliation, bluster, and bluff are always so much easier. It is easier to run without becoming weary than it is to stand still without fainting. Hysteria has the effect of relieving nerves and tension, even if it does leave the air filled with threats from which we have to back down later.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 31: "The People Left in Judah," 2 Kings 25:10-12; Jeremiah 40-44.

In so many situations it calls for more heroism to stand still than it does to fight one's way out into another battle field. And fighting has never ended wars. There must always be a peace table about which the talking is done.

PROMISES THAT PLAQUE

Winston Churchill would have found it much easier to promise the English people an easy victory. The situation was such that anyone could see the people needed heart put back into them. It called for a rare degree of courage for "the old lion" to summon them to "blood, sweat, and tears." And they were never a finer people than when they responded to his call for the heroic.

The Hebrews had promised Jeremiah that, if they could but know the will of God, they would do it. But when they found that Divine will summoning them to heroic inaction — remaining in Judah and maintaining their honor — they were not able to measure up to any such demand. They therefore preferred to repudiate their promise than to make the effort to be heroes.

He who makes his promises with care will find it vastly easier to keep them after they are made. The threats we issue after the victory has been won are so much more reasonable, and save so much more face.

PARLIAMENT

Later, at a press conference, Prime Minister St. Laurent said he expects parliament will reconvene again in January. He added that he hopes changes made to Commons rules at the 1955 session will permit all future parliaments to be called at the first of the year. Mr. St. Laurent said he would like to see how the new rules work before making any decision to have Parliament meet before January. He said there are many "barriers" attached to the old rules. There should be a trial made of reasonable application of the new rules.

They would not mean that any member would be gagged. He believed they would avoid a lot of repetition without denying anyone full opportunity to speak.

ROYAL ASSENT

Before prorogation, Chief Justice Kerwin gave royal assent to several bills, including one measure which was debated 10 days and added much to the length of the session.

That was the contentious measure which, in its original form, would have extended indefinitely special defence procurement powers of Defence Production Minister Howe. After 106 speeches, mostly by filibustering Progressive Conservatives, the government reluctantly amended the bill to limit to three years most of the extraordinary powers.

Police said the crowd let the air out of the tires of two police cruisers and smashed a police station window before dispersing. The streets were cleared by about 1 a.m.

Thursday chief Chisholm blamed the riot on "somebody who rang the fire alarm bell" while Penfold was in custody. He said re-

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HOW IT STARTED!

The baseball addict says the most thrilling picture of all sports is that of two teams battling it out on a sun-drenched diamond, in a crowd-packed stadium. The hockey fan will tell you his idea of the picture of the year is that of the flashing blades, the colorful uniforms and lightning-like action. Enthusiasts of every branch of sport have their own version.

Have you ever seen a lawn-bowling tournament? There is no roar of the crowd. No packed stands. No "lightning-like action." No argumentative lapses from the game. There is no raucous "wit" from the spectators.

As for a picture. Perhaps the only sport to equal lawn-bowling in this respect, is Britain's cricket. England's Lords and the "Oval" are perhaps the most picturesque scenes in all sport when "The Ashes" are at stake or a commonwealth club is playing the "Old Country."

For sheer beauty of background hereabouts there are few sights that can equal the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club greens on August Civic Holiday when the famous Gold Trophy Tournament is played.

It is an eye-pleasing panorama of slow-motion color and charm. The lovely scene of lush close-cropped greens. The white-flannelled bowlers. The lovely summery greens of the ladies watching the play from the sidelines under beach umbrellas. The low hum of conversation. The occasional "Ah" when a bowler makes a difficult shot. There is no hurry. No bustle. It is low-gear action, yet there is no time lost.

Yet time was, when this relaxing summer sport was regarded as a "vicious form of gambling." Back in the sixteenth century when King Henry the Eighth was decapitating his spouses with monotonous regularity, the fowl-groined monarch issued an edict in which he declared "the game of bowles is an evil because the alleys are operated in conjunction with saloons, or dissolute places and has ceased to be a sport and rather a form of vicious gambling."

Jolly old Harry whose wives never asked him "How are you fixed for blades?" banned the game. The spouses never bothered their heads about it. Why should they? They were on today—and off tomorrow.

But Good King Hal, as he was known to the cutlery trade, failed to put the cutlery on probably the oldest lawn bowling club in the world. The Southampton Town Bowling Club was formed in the year 1299. This pioneer club still is in very active existence and matches are regularly played on the original green laid out over 600 years ago.

However Head-Chopping Harry's successors did not bother much with the ban although it remained in force until 1845. Succeeding monarchs proved to be ardent bowlers and royal estates were equipped with greens.

Records have it that lawn bowling is one of the oldest games in the world. There exist sculptured vases, plaques, etc., that indicate that lawn bowls were played at least 3,500 or 4,000 years ago.

The Romans had it. Nero fiddled around the greens until Rome got burned up about it. The Caesars (Not Sid) were great bowling enthusiasts. They called the game "Boche". It is known by that name in Italy to this date.

Roman gladiators took the game with them on their forays into Northern Europe and other places that were not Roman in the gloamin'. "This said that one of the gladiators traded his 'Boche' equipment for a flagon of foreign zieglerwater hence a schnapps concoction that resembles a name like 'Bowls'."

Reformers and "longhairs" took a dim view of the game in 1579. One launched a bitter tirade against bowls declaring that it was "moths that eat up the credit of idle citizens."

King Charles I, a right gay cavalier, and a sporting buck at that, thought otherwise. Charlie had a head under his long-flowing ringlets. (They were the days. Who cared if haircut prices went up to a buck?). He was a good bowler, with a right royal opinion of his prowess.

Good King Chuck used to slip away to play bowls with a friend Richard Shute, a merchant whose green was one of the finest in England. Taxes were coming in pretty well in those times so the merry monarch was not averse to losing a thousand or so quid in the turn of a bowl.

The Scots adopted the game in the 16th century and it became so popular it became the national sport. Actually to the Scots go the credit for many of the rules that are being used today. Lawn bowling was introduced in the United States about 1890. Lawn bowling and pin bowling are not related games.

Along with general chairman Gerald Hyde and Cliff Arque, lawn bowling figure of the city and province, this department extends a cordial welcome to the visiting legions who will be here some 264 strong for the Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament on Monday.

St. Kitts Whip Hamilton 18-11

HAMILTON (CP)—St. Catharines Athletics trounced Hamilton 18-11 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association, senior game Thursday night. The tallest home team still had player problems, borrowing from intermediate teams in the area to fill out the lineup.

Ted Lowe led the St. Catharines scores with five goals. Les Howard scored three; Ron Roy, L. Frick, and Bill Allen had two each; Doug Lath, Ken MacMahon, Skip Teal and Ken Croft one apiece. The straight carrier this month.

Gives Up Swim Attempt

VICTORIA (CP)—Cramps forced Vancouver laborer John Giese to give up his fourth attempt to swim the 18-mile strait of Juan de Fuca Thursday night after he had covered 2 1/2 miles in one hour and 46 minutes.

Giese said he would make no further attempt to swim the strait until after the Port Angeles, Wash. Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., was the first to conquer the strait earlier this month.

Take Vital Series Hard Way As Tribe Rolls Back Boston; Tigers Whip Baltimore 7-5

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Marty Marion's scrapping Chicago White Sox have knocked the New York Yankees out of first place in the American Baseball League. By only two slim percentage points, to be sure, but the Sox showed no signs of folding as they did in 1951. They whipped the Yankees Thursday 3-2 and took the vital series two games to one.

In fact, Chicago reached first place the hard way with an uphill battle. When league play resumed July 14 after the all-star recess, the White Sox were in third place, six games back of New York, and a game behind second-place Cleveland. Since then Chicago's won 12 of 17 games and has been rolling at a 70% pace.

It's a long way to the end of the season, however, and the top five clubs in the American loop could be covered with a large blanket today.

Cleveland defeated Boston Red Sox 6-4 to pull within a game of the lead Thursday, while Detroit overcame Baltimore 7-5 to trail the leaders by only 5 1/2 games—in fifth place. Washington and Kansas City were idle.

DODGERS HOLD LEAD

Rookie pitcher Roger Craig and Brooklyn home runs produced a 10-2 victory over Cincinnati as the Dodgers maintained their 12 1/2-game National League spread over the second place Milwaukee Braves who defeated Philadelphia 4-2.

The New York Giants downed Chicago Cubs 4-1 and St. Louis Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh 5-1, both by the same 4-1 score.

Walt Drope continued his batting spree, his two-run homer in the third inning off Bob Turley proving the White Sox, margin over New York. Connie Johnson and the Yankees shut out until Mickey Mantle hit his 22nd homer in the ninth with one aboard. Reliever Billy Pierce struck out pinchhitter Jerry Coleman with the bases full to end the battle.

Cleveland snapped back at Boston after losing the first two games of the series, with Al Rosen the star for the Tribe. He batted in three runs, two with his 16th homer in the third inning. Boston rallied in the eighth, routing Early Wynn with a walk, single and double. But with one run in, Don Mossie threw a called third strike past Ted Williams.

FOUR OF FIVE.

At Baltimore, the Tigers made it four of five over the Orioles, setting a faster pace than Chicago since the all-star tussle. Detroit has moved at a 76% clip since July 14, winning 13 of 17. Reno Bertoia's double drove in three runs in the first inning to start the Tigers on the victory road.

Ray Campanella hammered a pair of Brooklyn homers, while Craig fanned 11 Redlegs to run his pitching string to 3-0 since joining the club two weeks ago. The Dodgers made three errors, the good for nine runs thanks to three errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball. Ted Kuszewski hit his 33rd homer for Cincinnati. Campy now leads the league in batting with a .332 average.

Bob Buhl pitched his eighth victory, a six-hitter, as Milwaukee swept its three-game set with Philadelphia. Eddie Mathews slapped his 25th homer for the Braves.

Willard Schmidt tossed three-hit ball for eight innings, but lost his shutout when Pittsburgh got a run on two hits in the ninth. The Cards got 10 hits off three Buc hurlers.

Seek Canadian Amateur Title

CALGARY (CP)—A field of 122 golfers, including some of the top players in North America, will step up to the firing line Monday at the Calgary Golf and Country Club in quest of the Canadian amateur title.

A new champion is certain, for the 1954 titlist, Harvie Ward Jr. of the United States, is not back to defend his crown.

The draw, released Thursday, sends players off at six-minute intervals starting at 9 a.m. MST (noon EDT).

Three of Ward's countrymen rank as favorites to take the trophy. They are Don Bishpoff of Orlando, Fla., Robert Manley of Savannah, Ga., and Ted Lenzyk of Newton, Conn. Canadians considered to have the best chance of bringing the title home after a three-year absence include Moe Norman of Kitchener.

'Adios Harry' Wins Top Prize

WESTBURY, N.Y. (CP)—Adios Harry, who apparently is making a career of rewriting the harness racing record book, now has the world mark for 1 1/4 miles to go with his sensational mile times.

The four-year-old pacing son of Adios from the barn of J. Howard Lyons of Greenwood, Del., stepped the 1 1/4 miles at Roosevelt raceway Thursday night in 3:04.2-5 to win the $35,000 Nassau Pace. The time clipped two-fifths of a second off the record established by Hillsota in winning the event last year.

Earlier this month at Vernon Downs, N.Y., Adios Harry paced a mile in 1:55, the fastest closing ever in a race. Before that he reeled off two consecutive miles over the six-furlong Vernon track in 1:55.2 and 1:56.1 for a world two-hat mark of 3:51.3.

The golfer who dips his left knee in the backswing instead of keeping his left knee level with the right, by lifting his left heel, cannot lever against his straight left side since his left leg won't be straight when club meets ball. Left knee dips twist around to the right as far as they can go. Then, when they straighten up in beginning the downswing, the left side is pushed away from the shot instead of rather forward into it. Instead of the clubhead coming down into the ball inside out, it comes down outside-in and across the ball. And the player gets a heavy slice. If as you swing down, with the "everthing-mot-ing-together" swing with the left shoulder rising in the shoulder pivot, your left heel goes down. Then your whole left side is almost a perpendicular line from heel to shoulder. This provides a fulcrum to lever against.

Yankees Getting Desperate As Other Teams Close In

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees, battling for their sixth American League pennant in seven years, trail the pace-setting Chicago White Sox by only two percentage points today but they are getting desperate.

And well they might be for they have frittered away a five-game lead since the all-star game July 12, in addition to trailing the White Sox, hold only a one-game budge over the rambunctious Boston Red Sox and five and one-half over the resurging Detroit Tigers.

The hitters are not hitting and the pitchers are not pitching. At least they are not pitching winning ball. Manager Casey Stengel has received just five complete games from his hurlers since starting their latest disastrous western trip on July 14. And only four of them were victories.

HOPE FOR BEST

Stengel has admitted he can do nothing about his hitters except perhaps put the eight best in the lineup, regardless of the positions they play, and hope for the best. That would mean Bill Skowron, 340, 301, Bob Cerv, 292, Gil McDougald, 277, Hoy Berra, 278, Jerry Coleman, 258 and Andy Carey, 256.

As for the pitching, steps taken Thursday to correct that. Don Larsen, a righthander, was recalled from Denver of the American Association where he has a 9-1 record, and has hit seven home runs. Larsen, who came to the Yankees in the deal that brought Bob Turley from Baltimore last winter, couldn't make the grade at the start of the season but Stengel is hopeful he has learned something in the minors.

To make room for Larsen, the Yanks are expected to option righthander Tom Sturdivant to Denver. Sturdivant has a 1-3 record with

Ft. Anne Whips Merchants 9-6; Ties for First

FRANKFORD — (Special-)

The Point Anne Cementmen pulled into a first place tie with the Belleville Orfords in the Belleville and District softball league last night by handing the Frankford Merchants a 9-6 defeat.

The Cementmen fought an uphill battle most of the way, trailing 4-2 in the first frame and 6-4 going into the fifth. They played a single tally in the fifth and sent home their four deciding markers in the sixth. They share first place with the Orfords, each team having won 12 and lost three games with one left to play. This was the tenth straight win for the Pointers after getting off to a poor start.

Pat Maracle continued his terrific hurling pace, picking up his tenth victory against one setback. He allowed the Merchants seven hits, only one in the last six frames, while whiffing nine. He issued the same number of free passes, the most he has walked in a game this season.

Doug Radnor went all the way for the home team, giving up seven hits and throwing hitless ball for five of the nine innings pitched. He pitched four on three strikes while walking eight.

Point Anne got to Radnor for a pair in the first, Gilmour walking and Bob Hull slugging a single for one tally. Hull was out at second on a fielder's choice but Goyer trotted home on Ackerman's double error. The Merchants rushed back for four in their half of the inning as ten men came up to the plate. Gilmour started it with a walk followed by an error, and a hit batter. Carl Austin followed with a grand slam homer, his third circuit blast in two games and the only four-run homer of the schedule. Wickson and Ackerman also hit safely but were stranded on base.

The winners knotted the score in the second, Mulholland walking, and coming home on singles by Horwood and Hull, the latter driving Horwood in. Frankford grabbed the lead again in the third with three walks. Leavitt's single and a triple by Mike Cosgrove doing the damage.

The Cementmen came to life in the fifth. When singling and circling the base paths on a passed ball, fielder's choice and wild pitch, Jack Elliott was the big gun in the sixth when Horwood led off with a single and Elliott hammered a homer to put his club ahead 7-6. Goyer's walk, Whalen's triple and a passed ball accounted for their remaining runs.

Royal Canadian Regatta

By JACK SULLIVAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—The big, tough hardcores of rowing-men who have established a right to be called seniors—make their first appearance today in the 73rd annual Royal Canadian Henley. They'll add the necessary class and experience to the country's premier regatta.

The juniors and high school rowers and scullers have shared the spotlight the last two days, and they've done a good job, but the smooth-working senior blade-diggers are the tops in North America. And most of them are here.

The final junior and high school events will compete for interest on today's program, scheduled to start at 4 p.m. EDT, and near the top of the list are the junior doubles and eights. Much of the enthusiasm in this is based on sentiment.

IN SLOW TIME
A Vancouver eight, cheered by a flock of good-luck telegrams from home, entered the final of the eight Thursday because the third boat in another heat, had a rough time fighting the choppy water and posted a slow time.

Only two heats were raced in the event with the first two of each and the fastest third going into the final. The men from HMCS Discovery, a naval reserve shore station in Vancouver, took third place in their heat in 8:02.5 and a crew from Wyandotte, Mich., was third in its heat but was timed in 8:19.0.

The navy men's big gamble had paid off. Each member of the crew had borrowed $500 to make the trip east and none had ever raced in an open regatta before this week.

They are sentimental favorites today but they'll get plenty of opposition from Philadelphia Vespera, Hamilton Leanders, St. Catharines Rowing Club and New York Athletic Club.

The five - scull doubles final shaper up as a thriller with two Canadian shells co-favorites. They are the combination of Les Hempall and Ken Taylor from the Vancouver Rowing Club and Jim Roche and Jackie Pearce from Hamilton Leanders.

WAS CLOSEST RACE
In a heat Thursday, the Ontario scullers nipped the west coast pair by a foot in the closest race of the day. Hempall and Taylor led until about 30 yards from home but they couldn't hold out against a last-ditch spurt by the Ontario youngsters who beat them in what appeared to many spectators as a dead heat.

Aussies Rated Tennis Favorites

By HENDERSON WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The battle of the giants shapes up in the North American zone Davis Cup final here today, but the giants will all be on the Australian side of the tennis court.

Ken Rosewall, Australia's first-ranked player, will line up against Bob Bedard, Sherbrooke, Que., in the opening singles match of the tie at 2 p.m. EDT and there is little doubt as to the outcome of the event.

Rosewall, now 20, was national champion of both Australia and France at 18. Coach Harry Hopman said he thinks Rosewall has the best backhand stroke in the tennis world today.

In addition, Bedard is still wearing a small bandage on his toe as a result of an operation Wednesday for an infection. The wound didn't appear to bother Bedard in practice Thursday, but it may aggravate him in heated match play.

MAIN VS HARTWIG
Australia's third-ranked player, 25-year-old Rex Hartwig, is slated to meet Lorne Main, Toronto and Vancouver, in the second singles fixture today. Main, rated No. 1 in Canadian tennis circles, will be entering his first major tournament test as strictly a right-handed player.

Main said after the draw Thursday he is "very happy" to be facing Hartwig in his first match in the tie instead of Rosewall, considered a stronger opponent.

In the only doubles match of the tie, slated for Saturday, Hartwig and Lew Head are to go against Bedard and Toronto's Don Fontana.

Four players divided the Cementmen hits, Bert Whalen pounding a triple and single, Bob Hull and "Soup" Horwood contributed two singles each while Jack Elliott had his game-winning homer. Leavitt punched a brace of singles in defeat while Austin homered and Cosgrove tripled. Ackerman, Wickson and Bill Rankin also hit safely.

Line ups —
Point Anne: Elliott, P. Gilmour, Hull, Goyer, Whalen, Bennett, Mulholland, Maracle, Horwood.

Frankford: G. Gilmour, Cosgrove, Dafeo, B. Rankin, Austin, Wickson, Leavitt, Ackerman, Appleby, H. Rankin, Radnor.

Line score
Point Anne 220 014 000—9 7 4
Frankford 402 000 000—6 7 5

Royals Close Gap on Leafs Beaten by Jets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two veteran Montreal Royals have been supplying most of the batting punch that has kept the Royals within striking distance of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League.

Jim Williams, 28-year-old left-fielder for the Royals, has taken over the runner-up position in batting with a .345 average. In the past 11 games Williams has been going at a .476 clip with 20 hits in 42 times at bat. He moved from eighth place to second in one week and trails teammate Rocky Nelson by 15 points.

Williams contributed a double and single in four times at bat Thursday night as the Royals closed the gap on the Leafs to one game by defeating the Buffalo Bisons 6-4. The Leafs, meanwhile, went down to their fifth defeat in the last six starts, as the Columbus Jets came up with seven runs in the eighth inning for a 9-3 victory.

In other games the Havana Sugar Kings made it two in a row over the Richmond Virginians 2-0, and the Syracuse Chiefs swept a doubleheader from the Rochester Red Wings 4-2 and 4-1.

HIT 25TH HOMER

Nelson, 31-year-old first baseman for the Royals, not only took over the batting lead, but supplied his 25th home run in Montreal's victory to take over the lead in the home-run race. Pete Wojew went the distance for the Royals to gain his seventh victory against two defeats. He allowed six hits—five coming in the Bisons' fourth inning when they scored all their runs.

The Jets smacked out seven of the 10 hits in the big eighth inning as they sent 11 men to the plate. Frank Verdi started the eighth with a single and contributed another safety to knock in the final three runs before Ray Shore, third Toronto hurler could retire the side. Jim Miller, third of four Jet hurlers, got credit for the victory. Lou Limmer smacked his 22nd homer for the Leafs.

Jose Bracho limited the Virginians to six hits as the Cubans moved to within five games of first place. The Cubans scored the clincher in the seventh when Bracho drove home Angel Scull with a double.

The double victory over Rochester sent the Chiefs into a fifth place tie with Columbus and left them only three games away from the fourth-place Red Wings.

Minor Baseball

In one of the best bantam baseball games played here this year, the league-leading Vaughan's club shaded the K.C.'s 4-2 at Pine Street School grounds on Wednesday evening. This was the eighth straight victory for Vaughan's without a defeat, giving them the right to represent Belleville in the O.B.A. bantam play-downs.

Gordie Vaughan for the winners and Larry Soden hooked up in a real pitcher's duel. Vaughan, in picking up his sixth personal victory, allowed but two hits, both singles while whiffing 12 and walking three. The last eight outs were strikeouts. Soden also hurled beautiful ball, touched for five hits, he fanned 12 and passed three.

The winners scored single runs in the first, second, fourth and sixth while the K.C.'s plated one in each of the fourth and seventh frames.

Gord Vaughan also sparked his team at the plate with a triple and single while one-baggers went to Belanger, Lynch and Polier. Soden and Polier hit safely in defeat. Belanger caught for the victors while Scrimshaw was the K.C.'s receiver.

Coroner's Jury Investigates Fatal Accident

CAMPBELLFORD. — A five-man coroner's jury deliberated for about a half hour here on Thursday, when Dr. David Burgess presided at an inquest into the death of June Rita Levesque, 14, of Trent River, who died in an automobile accident on Highway 10, a mile south of her home on May 28th.

Miss Levesque was a front seat passenger in a car that went out of control on the highway and crashed into a tree. She was thrown forward against the dashboard and windshield and instantly killed.

After hearing from half a dozen witnesses and consulting photographs taken at the scene, the jury decided that the girl's death was caused as a direct result of the accident, and added that they believed the car involved was driven in a careless manner and at an excessive speed.

DRIVER TESTIFIES

Driver of the car, Joseph Rowe, 17, of Campbellford, testified that he could recall nothing of the actual accident, but said he was travelling "only about 40 to 45 miles per hour" just prior to the accident. Steward Campbell of Campbellford, a passenger in the car at the time who received slight injuries, also said he did not believe the car was travelling at more than 45 miles per hour. He could give no reason for the accident.

Dr. David Burgess read a report of a post mortem performed by Dr. J. H. Whiteside of Peterborough, on Miss Levesque, giving the cause of death as a severe fracture of the skull.

After Dr. Burgess explained the jury, the jury decided that it was caused when Miss Levesque was thrown forward violently by the impact, striking a solid object.

The accident occurred on Highway 10, about a mile south of Trent River, shortly after 10 p.m. on the evening of May 28. The car, driven by Rowe, was travelling north. It left the highway on the east side and travelled about 50 feet before striking a maple tree.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

All former teachers, pupils and residents are invited to the school on August 1 to see the improvements that have been made. CLAUD ANDERSON FAIRMAN (formerly of Derry)

Funeral services were conducted here on Thursday, July 28th, from Bennett's funeral home, for Claud Anderson Fairman, who died on Monday, in Belleville General Hospital, following an illness of one month. He was 49.

A baker by trade, Mr. Fairman was well known throughout the district having operated his own baking business in the town for 32 years. He retired a few months ago, partly due to ill health.

The Rev. Owen Barrow of Christ Anglican church officiated at the funeral services. Services were under the auspices of the Masonic Order and Masonic Brothers of Mr. Fairman acted as pallbearers, and flower bearers.

The body is resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Police Blotter

Except for apparently unending streams of highway traffic which poured through the city commencing late Friday afternoon, both city and provincial police reported a quiet 24 hours. City police reported two minor accidents resulting only in small fender damage while the provincial police had a clean slate.

Two ushers at the Capitol Theatre are considering themselves lucky after having their street trousers disappear from a dressing room while they were on duty. In one pair of trousers was $25 and personal papers.

After the disappearance of the clothing was reported to police the two pairs of trousers were recovered in the bushes in the theatre backyard. The $25 was still intact.

A Brassy street man had the misfortune to have three barrels containing the contents of a cess-pool upset from a trailer as he was turning into the city dump.

A 14-year-old St. Paul Street boy was reported missing from his home. The lad was described as wearing a green jersey, checkered trousers and was riding a green bicycle.

Finally prowlers were reported by two Queen Street residents that a check of the area by police failed to turn up any suspicious characters.

Farmers Forced To Supplement Pasture Feed

Drying pastures with a resultant sharp decrease in the flow of milk has caused many farmers in the Bay of Quinte area to commence supplementary feeding of their milking herds.

The weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture says that in Northumberland county more rain would be helpful for pastures. Many farmers are feeding silage.

Hay is finished and the harvesting of fall wheat is general. Tomatoes are reported to be sowing well and look very promising, while early apples are maturing with splendid prospects for a good crop.

Resurfacing Nearly Finished

Resurfacing of No. 2 highway from a point about a mile east of the Point Anne turn to Marysville, has been almost completed by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company. The resurfacing job is the familiar black top asphalt treatment. White traffic lines have still to be painted on the completed sections.

Police Searching For Nudist Colony

BRONTE (CP) — Trafalgar township police said Friday they fear an illegal nudist colony is either operating or being organized in the township.

Residents were aroused over a report that 16 unclad adults were swimming in Lake Ontario near here Wednesday, police said.

Police chief Barney Lowe said he is patrolling village swimming spots for anyone improperly dressed for swimming. Bikini-type swim-suits are outlawed in the village and township.

Chief Lowe said he would use his force to patrol swimming beaches and may even request aid from Trafalgar-Oakville water-air rescue force of which he is president.

Bronte Reeve Thomas Millward said he is certain the nude swimming took place outside the village boundaries.

"We've got to get to the bottom of this thing before it ruins Bronte's good name," he said.

Playground Week Will Be Staged For Parents

"Playground Week" city children's week-long mid-summer program for parents, will be held August 2-5 inclusive on all 11 local playgrounds.

Three feature events have been scheduled for "Playground Week", a "Neighborhood Night" on Tuesday, August 2; a "Mother and Daughter Tea" on Wednesday afternoon and a giant "Penny Carnival" on Friday evening.

The Belleville Recreation Commission, which directs the playground program, has extended an invitation to all parents to take part in the program next week.

A "Miss Playground" contest on each playground will be the attraction. "Neighborhood Night" on Tuesday evening will be a social affair. Contestants under six will display their charms before a panel of judges with local winners competing for the "Miss Penny Carnival" crown on Friday night at the Penny Carnival.

Other features of "Neighborhood Night" will be a display of paper crafts—papier mache work, pinettes, cutouts, colorings—plasticine modelling, a father and son softball game, a skit, singing games and a craft class at work.

Wednesday's "Mother and Daughter Tea" will give all girls using the playgrounds during the summer a chance to entertain their mothers. Cookies, cakes and "tea" will feature the luncheon. A craft display, singing games and a playlet will be on the agenda.

Thursday will be spent preparing for the "Penny Carnival" on Friday.

The carnival, scheduled to run from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m., will give the penny some meaning. All playgrounds will combine talent on the East Hill playground for this program which is to be operated entirely by children.

Games include bingo, a fish pond, the cans, a ring toss and horseshoes. There will also be a fortune teller, an age guesser, a weight guesser, a fat lady, a doll show and four lucky cake draws.

There will be a refreshment booth with candy, popcorn and drinks. A square dance will also be held.

Scavenger hats and posters produced by children from each playground will add color and variety to the decorations.

The "Miss Penny Carnival" contest will be held with the most engaging six-year-olds from the city's playgrounds vying for the title.

Remembered by his wife and sons Herb and Bud.

KELLER. — In loving memory of my dear father, Arthur Keller, who passed away July 30th, 1952. Three years have passed, dear father. Since you were called away; How well do I remember That sad and weary day. You suffered much, you murmured not. We watched you day by day; We could not pray that your dear life Would not be taken away.

Ever remembered, daughter Helen, son-in-law Max and grandchildren.

WOODWARD. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, J. Ross Woodward, who passed away July 31st, 1954. Beautiful memories are all we have left. Memories are treasures no one can steal.

Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal. Only God knows how we miss you dear. As slowly ends this one sad year. Always remembered by wife, daughter and son.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

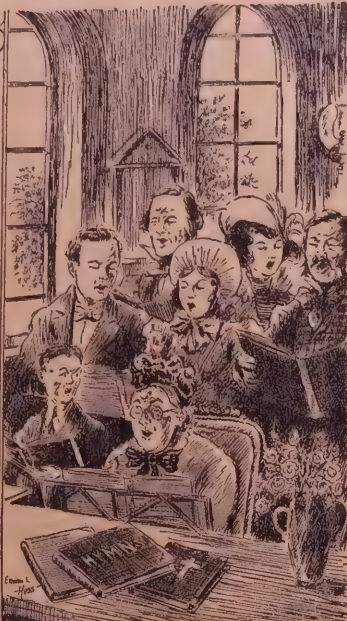

COME YE THANKFUL PEOPLE, COME

Come, ye thankful people, come,
Raise the song of harvest home:
All is safely gathered in,
Ere the winter storms begin;
God, our Maker, doth provide
For our want he will supply:
Come to God's own temple, come,
Raise the song of harvest home.

All the world is God's own field,
Fruit unto His praise to yield;
Wheat and tares together sown,
Unto joy or sorrow grown:
First the blade, and then the ear,
Then the full corn shall appear:
Lord of harvest, grant that we Wholesome grain and pure may be.

For the Lord our God shall come,
And shall take His harvest home;
From His field shall in that day
All offenses purge away:
Give His angels charge at last
In the fire the tares to cast;
But the fruitful ears to store
In His garner evermore.

Even so, Lord, quickly come
To Thy final harvest home:
Gather Thou Thy people in,
Free from sorrow, free from sin;
There, forever purified,
In Thy presence to abide:
Come, with all Thine angels, come,
Raise the glorious harvest home.

For Parents Only

Dealing With An Only Child

By NANCY CLEAVER

The one child family is fairly common in Canada and usually parents are anxious that their only child should not be spoiled. They have heard the old saying, "Only child—lonely child"—and they are eager to compensate for the lack of brothers and sisters.

Contrary to the ideas of many people, scientific research has shown that only children are likely to become self-confident, aggressive grown-ups. Their security is not threatened by others in the family and this preferred position often produces youngsters who are individuals. But usually they adapt themselves to the demands of others, and are capable of assuming responsibility for leadership in games or enterprises.

A modern mother and father as a rule acknowledge that adult companionship can never fill the child's need for friends his own age. No matter how understanding a mother may be, or how devoted is a father's love, still parents are only parents. They, belonging to the world of grown-ups, are not "Little People".

TOO MUCH ATTENTION
The only child rarely, if ever, suffers from neglect, but rather from too much attention. Since birth, he has held the stage. Because there was only one baby in the family, he seemed extra precious. Mother was tempted to be too protective in her attitude to him.

Thus it happens that unless parents guard against the dangers in the only child's environment, they may develop either a little "show-off" or a "mother's baby" neither of these roles are popular with playmates. Nor do they make for happiness.

At a certain amount of rough and tumble play for school age children, especially boys, is inevitable. The mother of an only child must prevent him from climbing trees or riding a bicycle, or doing any of the numerous things a small boy delights in. If his chums suspect a child is "tied to his mother's apron strings", they will taunt him. His mother's fears for his personal safety may, therefore, be as just as anxious for his emotional development as his personal safety. If she is too careful and too strict about everything he does, this is bound to produce a feeling of isolation. This may encourage a sense of inferiority or self-pity which is far from healthy!

ADOPT COMPANION?
Parents of an only child sometimes question: Would it be wise to have another child in our family, if necessary by adoption? Many families in recent years have discussed how happily their own child and an adopted brother or sister have gotten along. This may be impossible, but there are still practical ways to prevent the only child from being stranded on an island of loneliness.

He should have many chances to play with the other children. His friends should be made welcome in his house. Vacations may provide a camp holiday or the opportunity for a cousin or friend to visit with him. When he is older, likely Cubs or Explorers will enrich his life. A pet and hobbies are very important to the happiness of an only child. A love of music and reading are two resources for the only child. So is an enthusiasm for the out-of-doors. These are a partial compensation to the child without brothers or sisters. All his spare time should not be spent on TV or listening to the radio or reading the comics!

A Lift For Living

Best Advice—Be Yourself

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

William James once said that a man has "as many different selves as there are distinct groups of persons about whose opinions he cares." Thus a man is a somewhat different self in his business from what he is in his home, in his club from what he is in his church. And it may happen that in keeping up these external social fronts, there develops a basic division between his inner self and his outer selves.

When we see a fellow putting on a pretentious front without having the real goods, we call him a "stuffed shirt." When a man advertises himself or his product in too-glowing terms, we dub him a phony. When a person tries to appear more religious than he really is, we term him a hypocrite.

Jesus turned His hottest fire on hypocrisy. He told a parable about a Pharisee who made a show of praying, thanking God that he was not as bad as the people around him because he was not an extortioner or adulterer and gave his tithes regularly. Jesus said that the Pharisee stood condemned before God, while God justified the sincere publican who prayed humbly, "God be merciful to me a sinner."

Not only does insincerity arouse the contempt of others, it also weakens the self. A person striving to keep up a false front is wasting energy which should be given to his real work. When we try to conceal a weak character behind a good reputation, we live always in fear of being found out.

OUTER APPEARANCE
How is life to be made strong and genuine when it has thus become divided between its inner self and its outer social selves? Jesus would have us be concerned about the front we show to other people. Just as we should not erect a house which is a public eyesore, so should we not present a personality which is ugly and unpleasant.

A wife should care how she looks to her husband—even at the breakfast table. Each of us owes the public duty of making our outer selves as attractive as possible, for thereby we add to the general welfare.

But, said Jesus, the place to start self-improvement is with the inner self. Let goodness grow from the inside, do not try to run it in from the outside. I had a teacher once who tried to rub goodness into me. The result resembled somewhat the smudge a schoolboy makes when he tries to erase a mistake on his examination paper.

No, do not try to run goodness in externally. Get it your heart right. Be sound at the center of your life. And how is that to be done? At once we think of Shakespeare's counsel: "To thine own self be true, and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

But do we always know what it is to be true to ourselves? No, because there are times when we are not ourselves. Sometimes in anger or grief or anxiety we are "beside ourselves."

GOODNESS WITHIN

Man needs not only to be told to be true to himself, but also to be shown what his true self is. The Master does both. He bids us judge ourselves not by what we have, or even by what we are, but by what we can become. He looks at the least of us and the worst of us, and He says that however we may be accursed with sin and the rust of the world, nevertheless there is something of the true steel of manhood in us which will respond to the magnetism of His love.

One day Jesus was entering Jericho. A little tax-collector named Zaccheus climbed a tree to get a glimpse of the renowned Teacher. Zaccheus was not only small of stature, but he felt small in his own view of himself. He knew that his countrymen looked down on him because he was working for the oppressive occupying government. And he had lost respect for himself.

Jesus seeing Zaccheus and reading his thoughts, called to him, "Come down, thou son of Abraham, I will dine with thee at thy house." Such a greeting reminded the self-deprecating Zaccheus of his noble racial ancestry and restored his self-respect.

Be yourself. That means stop pretending that you are better than you are. And it also means stop defeating yourself by discounting your possibilities.

Who Was This?
By A. A. M.

What was the name of the tax collector who was sitting at his office when Jesus passed by one day and said to him, "Follow me?" He occasion among his guests were left everything, arose and followed the Master.

This new disciple made a large feast in his home to mark this great occasion. Among his guests were many men who had also collected taxes and other acquaintances.

The Pharisees and Scribes were always on the look out for something to criticise and they murmured against Jesus. The Guest of Honour. They asked him, "Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?"

To this question Jesus replied, "Those who are well have no need of a doctor, but those who are sick do need one. I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

But his critics continued by observing, "The disciples of John fast often and offer prayers. So do the pupils of the Pharisees. But your followers eat and drink."

Then Jesus answered them with a question, "Can you make wedding guests fast while the bridegroom is with them? The days will come, when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast." Jesus also commented on patching a garment and putting wine into wine skins.

He reminded them that no one patches an old garment with a new piece of material. This would not look well. Neither do men pour new wine into old bottles. If they did this the bottles would be likely to burst. But new wine must be put in new bottles then they both are preserved.

Find this man's name and read this story in Luke Chapter 5, verses 27 to 38.

Bulletins From Birdland

LIFE ON SHORE

A large majority of the shore birds we see are only migrants; in spring, on their way to nest in the far north, in autumn, on the return trip. Most come up the Mississippi flyway, but some use the Atlantic. Many pass through southern Canada, and those of us who live where the terrain is suitable for birds of this type may identify as many as 20 or so species in a season. But beaches must be open, with water not too high.

When we consider how long it takes our song birds to build, hatch eggs, and bring up a family to the stage when they can be trusted to look after themselves, we wonder how shore birds manage with such a short nesting period. Many stay in the Arctic little more than a month; then they are again on the move.

There really is a good reason. Nearly all song birds are what is called altricial: that is, they are born naked, with eyes shut, and extremely dependent on their parents. Young shore birds are precocial: born covered with down, and capable of running about as soon as this dries out. The adults need not wait many days after their babies break the shell; consequently they start south near the end of July, leaving the juveniles to fend for themselves and migrate when they are ready.

FEMALES FIRST
As a matter of fact, it seems to be the female shore birds that arrive here first, suggesting a habit to do the incubating—as is certainly the case with phalaropes. However, as the sexes of the others are nearly always look alike, this point is difficult to prove.

A FRIENDLY INVASION

Belleville will be the focal point of a friendly invasion over Clive Holiday week-end and part of next week. The "invasion" has an international flavor. It is estimated that nearly 1,000 people will be in the city from Canada and the United States.

Lawn bowlers here for the Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament will represent approximately half of the "invading forces", while power-craft owners and their parties who will be here for four days to take part in the United States and Canadian Power Squadrons' activities, will make up the balance.

Bowling and powerboat authorities here have made extensive preparations for the comfort and well-being of their respective quotas of guests, many of whom are visiting the city for the first time. The hospitality and friendliness of this city are well known to many of the visitors. In business parlance they are "satisfied customers." Their return is indication enough that they have enjoyed previous visits besides being a feather in the cap of hostess Belleville.

We extend a cordial welcome to the holiday and other guests. Golfing and fishing facilities have been made available for those who enjoy these phases of recreation. We know the direct hosts have left nothing undone to make their stay an enjoyable one.

Belleville as a whole welcomes one of the largest sports gatherings seen here in many years. The city hopes they will return to their homes with many pleasant memories of a holiday well spent and trusts their reception here will mark an unforgettable milestone along the vacation trail. Ladies and Gentlemen, a warm welcome.

THE SWALLOWS' WATER FROLICS

The sun and the wind dropped together. The little waves, tired by their day-long dance up the broad Moira, marched quietly off to an early bed in the bosom of the river.

But the heat-dragged gnats roused themselves and welcomed the advancing shadows of evening by gathering in little knots and playing ring-around-the-rosie a foot above the tree-tops mirrored in the ironed-out waters.

Soon the shining silver of the reflected sky was riven by curving ripples spreading out fan-wise from the prow-like heads of bugs skimming across the surface.

The boat plodded along, its outboard chugging softly until it rounded a bend which laid a sheet of golden mail from the boat's bow toward the sun, drifting between trees a quarter of a mile away.

For the artistic, the setting was perfect, but the two men in the boat dreamed of trying other fish — and their stringer was as light as the day it was bought.

Eyes strained into the golden distance and suddenly, leaping up from the placid surface, there shone the gleaming figure of hope.

Just a few crystal drops of water thrown into the air, but no Moira insect made a splash that big.

Then here, and there, and there and yonder, other ripples appeared.

The motor roared, the boat leaped forward, the trees shaded the sun and the water lost its dazzle.

No-leaping fish met the eye. Instead there were swallows, slashing down at the skimming bugs and ever and again raising spray as they swallowed their prey.

It was a sight strange to both onlookers. Of course, it was not new. Centuries past, it must have been seen by eagle eyes in bronzed faces; perhaps it greeted Champlain as he pushed into the unknown of a new continent. But it was new to the occupants of the boat and therefore cause for wonder. Learning later that the swallows hold their water frolic every year at a certain season, probably at a time when a particular type of insect is abroad, failed to diminish the impact of the memory.

Memory was all that went home with the boat. The sun died. The swallows departed. The river darkened. The motor roared to life again. The boat's bow swung towards home, then lifted its head and cut the water cleanly, leaving a curling white scar. The stern squatted down. The motor built up two billowing columns behind it, sending them rolling back into the gathering gloom. A crane wheeled overhead, swerved with startled suddenness at the creature walking the waters and building its own waves around it. Ere the sun's light had completely faded, the moon popped up to silver the waters.

And then, of course, the fish came to life and tossed big bolts beside the boat as it sped along.

YOU CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING

Toronto Township Council has been told that the once-rough-and-potholed Streetsville road now is so well repaired it has become a speed track for young daredevils. A timely reminder that you can't have everything.

Here in Belleville we have been justly proud of our low accident rate.

The patching jobs carried out by our works department recently are not likely to endanger this record. Indeed, this work may be properly considered as another move in the interests of safety. The streets are no speed-tracks, but they can now be navigated without excessive danger of pothole-induced apoplexy.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1955, Edgar A. Guest)

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

DRIVING MANNERS

You meet him at a party he will be gracious to you. You meet him in his office an obliging man is he. But a change of disposition, for no reason, he'll reveal. If you meet him on the highway in his car behind the wheel,

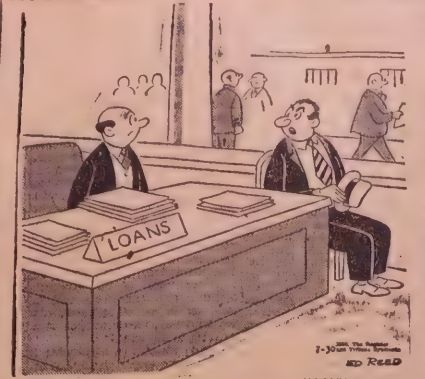

If you meet him in a ballroom, he will look on him with pride. He is thoughtful of the children, for the old folk they're kind. He won't jostle friend or neighbor first with food his plate to load, but he's quite a different person if you meet him on the road.

When he hears the call for dinner he'll be glad to stand in line. He'll be patient and contented to be seated last to dine. At his church on Sunday morning he'll be the one who's always right. But when his car's driving he forgets to be polite.

I've often seen it happen, and I've always thought it strange. The nicest sort of people when they're driving seem to change. Wherever else you meet them, always courteous they are, but they're demons on the car, way and ill-natured in a car.

Horn-Blowing Ban Success

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Paris, France, long noted as the city with the noisiest drivers in the world, has now completed one year during which by police order all car horns in the city were banned. Interestingly enough a rough survey through March 31 showed that up to that date accidents had decreased by about one-quarter following the ban on horn blowing. This fact would seem to indicate that the car horn, widely considered as a safety aid in driving, is actually when misused a causative factor in accidents. The car horn has its place, but it should be used judiciously if the Paris test has any significance.

Regulating Beer Drinkers

(Milwaukee Journal)

Down in Washington, the alcohol tax division is holding a hearing. The question is: In what sizes of cans and bottles shall consumers be allowed to buy beer? The division is considering banning 8, 10, 12 and 40 ounce beer containers. Why? A beer drinker is pretty hard to fool on many things. He knows what he wants. And the government shouldn't be telling him what he can get when it comes to quantity. First thing you know some federal agency will be telling us at what temperature we have to drink our beer and which hand to use in knocking off the foam.

Why Not Put Bite on Dog?

(The Times of London)

Motor-owners employed by the Yorkshire Electricity Board are to have lessons from an inspector of the RSPCA in how to avoid being bitten by dogs. There is, one suspects, no short, easy solution to their problem, like the formula for how to avoid seasickness, which (as everyone knows) is to sit under a tree.

The lady who is chairman of the Doncaster branch of the RSPCA gave some general guidance in the matter when she said: "If you don't want to get bitten by a dog, approach it as you would a human being? Human beings, like dogs, vary. There is a difference, and not a very subtle one at that, between the manner in which we accost the old friend with whom we are lunching, and the policeman whom we find standing, notebook in hand, beside our parked car after luncheon. The manner in which, after making a successful investment on the turf, we approach the bookmaker concerned bears little resemblance to that in which we enter the office of our local inspector of taxes. We greet our niece in one way, our aunt in another."

It is moreover questionable whether dogs are any keener of being treated as if they were human beings than human beings are on being treated as if they were dogs. Is there really much future in asking an angry dog how it has read any good books lately? Are French dogs less likely to bite one if one takes one's hat to them? Though in theory the idea of comporting ourselves as though dogs were human beings has a lot to be said for it, one cannot help feeling that it might not work in practice. Sheer lack of experience prevents us from knowing how to behave towards human beings who insist on sniffing at our ankles, making a low rumbling noise the while. No doubt this minatory procedure corresponds closely to some form of human behavior, but it is not very easy to think of a riposte which would make the right impression on the dog.

Anything that lessens the occupational hazards of a motor-reader's career is a step towards the full flowering of the welfare state and the progress of the experiment in Yorkshire will be followed with interest. On the whole it seems doubtful whether complete success will be achieved by the adoption of the formula suggested; the real point is, surely, not the meter-readers to modify their attitude to the dogs but for the dogs to modify their attitude to the meter-readers.

Waxed Floors Triple Threat

(Edmonton Journal)

Floor wax seems to be on the defensive these days.

It has long been known that highly polished floors are the cause of most falls than perhaps any other thing. They are also, firemen point out, a fire hazard; nothing works woodwork into tinder like a good soaking in wax.

Now a new hazard has disclosed itself. Calgary hospital authorities, worried by the invasion of a dangerous new germ, which has forced them to close down operating rooms and postpone all but emergency surgery, have found the fatal microbe flourishing and multiplying in the floor wax. As a result, they have ordered their floors treated by other methods.

If human affairs were governed by reason, the multiple threat should bring the practice of waxing to an abrupt end. However, we doubt if it will have much effect on the average housewife. She will not even shed a shingle for matter how many broken legs, fires and pestilences may result.

Japan's Women Show Strength

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

Enjoying the same legal rights as their spouses, the 20 million married women in Japan are exerting a marked influence on vital social and political problems. Women's strength was shown recently when organizations of housewives successfully campaigned to check price rises of certain consumer goods and public utilities such as gas and electricity. Today there are approximately 30,000 women's organizations in the country with a total membership of about 10 million.

Women outnumber men in Japan by almost 1,500,000. As at October 1 last year the female population was 47,736,000 and that of males 43,302,000. An interesting aspect of these figures is that the greatest disparity between men and women home workers is in the 30-40 year old bracket. The ratio in this group is 123 women for every 100 men. This indicates clearly the disastrous consequences of the war on the male population.

Ten per cent of the total household in the country — or, 1,700,000 — are supported by women. The widows account for about 330,000 of this total. Measures are in hand to ease this condition, since a majority of the widows are over 30 years of age, with small children to support and without adequate means of earning a proper livelihood. An obstacle to the solution of the problem is the fact that in rural areas the trend against remarriage continues strong.

This year the government contemplates establishing a training centre for industrial home work and home-making centre for widows. The women will be trained to become household helpers and skilled workers in order to prepare them for better job opportunities at present the widows have their national organization, with a membership of nearly 800,000.

Poor Method To Spot Reds

(Ottawa Journal)

The United States First Army has issued a pamphlet on "How to Spot Communists" for the guidance of intelligence officers. Watch the suspect's language, it says, and if he begins spouting about chauvinism, book-burning, colonialism, democracy, racialism, and so on, he is a Communist. If he is sure you are on the right track.

This is silly. The assumption that all Communists are ragged men shouting on street corners and inviting the police to club them was destroyed in Canada anyway, by the espionage trials. The modern Communist, it is clear, can wear a business suit, enjoy a cigar, crack a joke and lead the merits of the monarchial system.

We would think, indeed, that the men who rant about the evils of capitalism and the delights of extreme socialism are more apt to be an ex-Communist than a Communist, and we would be quick to remember that nothing is so much hated by a Communist as an ex-Communist. And the truth is, there are many of them, young men who rode the rods in the '30s and picked up the jargon of the Reds but then went overseas with the First Division and fought for King and Country.

They are older now, these former Communists and they have homes and families and a pride in their community. But in the best of arguments they still speak like Communists under the U.S. Army definition. We would hesitate, however, to call one a Communist to his face. Our pleasure in fighting a limited, has practically disappeared.

TODAY'S TALK

EDUCATION

There is no greater duty thrust upon us all, and especially upon parents and public servants, than to make education the most important of all duties and privileges. There cannot be too many schools and colleges, or enough good teachers. The fate of nations rests upon those who train and help become the youth of a land to become citizens.

Education is behind all the greater enterprises. Only the well-trained climb high. The untrained, all too often, fall by the wayside. Education is not without its purpose. Never has the demand been so great for trained men and women. Engineering has grown by leaps and bounds, and the best engineers are always in demand. Training always tells, whether in a dog or man. In education both the mind and body have an important task to perform. The more any of us knows, the more efficient we become, and the more of us are needed. A good, well-trained man or woman should never be without a job. There are not enough well-educated men and women to fill the jobs hunting for occupants.

Read the "Help Wanted" ads in a great newspaper and learn how few of the highly educated respond. They already have jobs! The years spent in the lower schools and in our colleges and universities are years in which characters are shaped and learning is gained. If a student leaves college with the knowledge as to how to think, he has done well. If all much money had been spent all over the world for education as has been spent for war, there would be a different story to be told. When people become truly educated, they will no longer see either sense or profit to be gained by illegitimate wars. Nations will be gained by killing and wanton destruction. No one can be said to win a war today. All parties lose.

Teenage Smoker is on the Skids

There is little scientific evidence that moderate or temperate smoking does a full-grown person any harm.

Excessive smoking, like crapulous drinking (swallowing, gluttony, careless or gross), comes easier to the cigarette smoker — such as the one who smokes before a meal; or one who hangs a cigarette on his lip on any and all occasions; or one who lights a cigarette without caring or asking whether smoking may be offensive to non-smokers nearby; or the one who smokes pretending to be at work. Most disgusting is the character who brings her nightclub manners into the house, screws ashes and stubs in her wake, burns the furniture and napsery and tries to conceal the damage until she can make her getaway. This one makes a production of lighting a cigarette, as they do in the movies, to conceal from the other morons the fact that she is one.

What I have already said about full-grown persons smoking moderately or temperately applies to women as well as to men. Moderately or temperately means with self-control and self-control implies character. In other words the moderate or temperate smoker has a habit. If character is weak, self-control in tobacco use is undeveloped. The habit is the smoker. After all, excessive indulgence in anything usually indicates mental deficiency or lack of character, doesn't it?

In my opinion the ill effects of smoking are due mainly to the carbon monoxide in tobacco smoke. I believe none of the bad effects is due to nicotine — for the simple reason that the nicotine in tobacco is destroyed by combustion.

Travelers in different parts of our country have sometimes been overwhelmed — and I think that the impulse has suddenly come upon us. The act is the outgrowth of what we have thought and desired for a long time. As a great philosopher once remarked, "Nothing ever happens to a man that is not of the nature of himself." Flood waters begin far upstream. So do acts of violence. The sins that trouble our hearts, we conduct or perhaps ruin our reputations.

Sudden! There was nothing sudden about them. The floods had been in the making for a long while, and far upstream. If we can get this truth into our hearts, we can better evaluate the purposes and moods which dominate our every-day living.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Petunias are the most deserving and the most slighted of flowers. For some reason dating back into the last century, petunias have a comic association in our minds. In minstrel shows, the funniest and the blackest of the front row band men in the black and white row have a sweetheart called Petunia. Comic songs have been written with petunias for the theme. A friend of mine has a decorated pet skunk which he calls Petunia. It is fixed in our minds that petunias are somehow funny.

Now flower in the whole vast range of garden plants is more eager to serve us. Petunias will grow in dark corners, in neglected borders, in window boxes on second-hand ledgers, or sunken in hanging baskets away up in the air. They will thrive not merely in up-town garden suburbs, but down in the beaten slums. Not merely do they grow and thrive. They flourish, they multiply, they spread, they fairly burst with glee to cover for us.

Their flowers offer the most fantastic variety and diversity to be found in any plant anywhere on earth. From plain pink, fire red, pastel salmon, they run to incredible velvet blues, purples and carnival stripes upon white, and snow white itself. From plain, they vary to doubles, flounced, pleated, ruffled and curled.

And they are north-American. They come from southern and central America originally, and belong to a famous plant family that has done all sorts of useful service to mankind. That family, the Solanum or nightshade family, has given us tobacco, belladonna and the tomato, among other mighty contributions. The name petunia comes from the American Indian word, petun, meaning tobacco.

My summer home is in a rock-built moon-cratered area of the pre-Cambrian shield. Nothing grows there save dwarf juniper, lead pine, moss and embossed blueberries. But I called upon petunias. And they have filled every crack and crevice with valiant glory.

Their flowers offer the most

One-Pound Trout in One Year
Bring Cheers from Anglers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—New Brunswick anglers are reaping a bountiful harvest from an experiment that may someday make Canada's lakes and streams a fishing paradise.

Hundreds of the province's lakes and streams have already been stocked with fast-growing trout, developed through 25 years of research by K. G. Shillington, superintendent of the Saint John, N.B., hatchery.

The trout, which reach a weight of one pound within a year of being spawned, are bred from selected strains. Most of the province's waterways have been filled with the new species whose rate of growth is seven times that of wild fish.

SUCCESSFUL PLANTINGS

James Catt, regional supervisor of the fisheries department's fish culture division, says:

"Many barren lakes were planted with the quick-growing strains some years ago and continue to afford fine sport for anglers."

Principal advantage of the strains is their ability to combat predatory water insects which devour wild trout during spawning stages.

Although the value of fast-growing trout has been proved through tests and actual integration of fishing grounds, similar experiments with salmon are still in the embryonic stage.

Mr. Catt says it will be at least

"a year or two" before the fisheries department can consider distribution of salmon strains throughout the Atlantic fisheries where catches have reached an all-time low. Meanwhile, experiments will continue here.

The supervisor says the six-year decline, which amounts almost to a depression, is attributable chiefly to carnivorous insects such as dragonflies, aquatic beetles, bugs and water shrews.

FOOD FOR ADULT FISH

An attempt to eliminate the insects would only do more harm to the fisheries because, as their growth progresses, the fish turn to the insects as food.

Mr. Shillington, onetime head of the federal hatcheries at Tracadie, N.S., began his research into the fast-growing strains in 1930 after officials watched a dragon-fly devour six young salmon within 20 minutes.

It took four generations of breeding before concrete results began to appear. In 1937, after news of his work had spread throughout the world, Britain's Avon biological research station announced that similar tests on the English brown trout had been successful.

Mr. Shillington turned his research to salmon in 1941. Despite the early acceleration of growth, the carefully-nurtured trout slow down as they become large enough to protect themselves at the end of four years, their size equals that of wild fish.

Fuel Pump Leaks
May Exude
Gas or Oil

By EUGENE MILMOE

If you should notice leakage at the fuel pump breather hole, find out first whether it's gas or oil before you begin trouble-shooting. A gasoline leak usually means that the fuel line with a worn or otherwise defective diaphragm. If it's oil, however, then a damaged oil seal at the diaphragm pump rod is probably the cause.

It's good insurance and an easy chore to remove the fuel pump sediment bowl and filter for cleaning. Most experts recommend this be done a few times each year—preferably during season changeovers. Regular cleaning prevents dirt and water collected by the bowl and filter from accumulating to the point where gasoline flow is restricted. Usually, it's a good idea to replace gaskets when reassembling.

E.N. asks: My new car runs well, but seems to be using too much gas. In addition, whenever I stop for a light or intersection, it keeps moving forward all the time unless I brake the car or shift to neutral. Is there something wrong with the automatic transmission?

(A) I doubt it. Apparently, it is merely a matter of the engine idling speed being too high.

TIRE WORE OUT

From L.E.: I have an up-and-down motion on my left rear wheel which wore out the tire very quickly. I've tried everything—new tires, balancing, etc. What can I do to prevent another tire wearing out?

(A) A faulty shock absorber is probably causing all this trouble.

with a fanfare from the klaxons of every car parked on the road and asked to sell it, he recalled, but refused. He doesn't plan on selling it for a while yet—not until he's had another paint job carried out on the car (and more important) until I have had some fun with it.

A paint job is about all the jalopy needs, since despite all its 32 years it is in a remarkable state of preservation.

In fact it is a model Model-T.

Phlox Provides Color All Summer

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Most of the flowers in the perennial border have had their day by the end of June. From then on, through the late summer, the border is drab unless you have planned carefully.

One of the best insurance policies against late summer doldrums in the garden is perennial phlox. You can have great splashes of pink, white, red, purple, blue and violet. And, by clipping off fading flower heads, you can make the color parade last until frost.

Perennial phlox are quite hardy. They will last for three to four years without dividing. Fall divisions seem to take better and make the healthiest clumps of bloom for the following summer. They require a sunny position, but will tolerate some shade. Since phlox are heavy drinkers, soak the soil around them thoroughly at least once a week.

A thick mulch of leaves, grass clippings, or shredded moss will conserve moisture and save cultivation. Work the spent mulch material into the soil around the plant in the spring. A fall dressing of bone meal, added to the top of the mulch late in the season, will insure lusty growth in the spring and sturdy flower stocks for summer bloom. Melting snow and spring rains will carry the food down to make it available when needed by the roots.

Remember the roots of plants are never quite dormant. They grow and store nutrients while the top of the plant rests.

GROW INTO SEED

The flowers should not be allowed to go to seed. The bloom will cease to form if the first flowers are permitted to mature into seed. Then too, with cross pollination the seeds which drop seldom come through the seedlings are apt to become that unwanted magenta purple shade. Shake off, pick off, or cut off fading blooms. The method will vary with the type of bloom.

With the large pointed flower head the center part will bloom first. This can be pinched out, allowing the outer buds to open fully later. In the flat types, the florets develop more or less at the same time. Cut off the flower head when it is nearly finished and new laterals will soon develop.

Unless the blooms are wanted for cut flowers the long stems should not be cut. By taking off only the flower heads the plant will continue to grow and flower for two months. After the first blooms have formed give liquid fertilizer, and plenty of water to insure successive flowers.

Water will do more than carry nutrients to your phlox roots—it

Along Canadian Trails
Exciting Canadian Heroes

By LEONARD L. KNOTT

Throughout all history people of almost every country have used and told exciting stories about their heroes. Long before the white men came to Canada, the Indians used to sit around their campfires reciting the legends of their great braves and chiefs. In that way, the Indian boys and girls learned the story of their people and became proud of their race.

In Europe, too, the people of many nations learned their history through songs and stories. In the early days, troubadours used to wander about the countryside, singing kings and their courts, and the common people, too, with songs, many of which they made up as they went along.

Canada has a history in song, too, though very few people know about it. In the Maritime Provinces and in Newfoundland, the fishing folk have always had their ballads, song-stories that tell of old-time shipwrecks and adventure. In the early days in Ontario, great events and names used to be remembered in verse. Quebec has a few songs about individuals, but it had many songs, and still sings them today, that tell about the voyageurs and the raftsmen.

IMPORTED LEGENDS

Canadian boys and girls today, however, have imported their legends. They go about singing about Davy Crockett, a man from Tennessee, and never realize that brave and bold as he was, Crockett was not nearly as daring or adventurous as some of our own Canadian heroes. Perhaps we need a Canadian song writer to start people humming about Henry Kelsey who when he was only 14, lived with the Indians and learned their ways, took part in buffalo hunts and battled grizzly bears. The Indians called Henry "Little Giant". They told many stories about him around their campfires. His adventures would make a song with hundreds of verses.

Alexander Mackenzie travelled from Montreal by canoe, as hundreds of other fur traders and voyageurs did, but going far beyond them he paddled up to the Arctic on an unknown river which now bears his name and finally crossed the Rockies to reach the Pacific. A song about Alex Mackenzie from Montreal could keep Canadians singing and so could songs about those other adventurers such as David Thompson and Simon Fraser.

Canadians wore picturesque costumes in those days, too. There were hats in Canada just as colorful as the Davy Crockett coonskins and there were Hudson Bay hats, colorful Bechames and a n d Habitant tuques. Many great adventurers roamed along Canadian trails, fighting their way through snow and ice, across inland oceans and down rapids and falls. There are stories here for hundreds of ballads. All that is needed is the man or woman who will put them to music and start Canadians singing.

Numbered Hobby Suits Driver To Model-T

848-576.

Might be the official non-duplicate of a convict or the Employment Commission registration number of an out-of-work bricklayer.

In actual fact, however, it is the number of a hobby.

848-576 is the registration of a 1923 Model-T Ford owned and operated by Jack Donovan which has sparked a great deal of comment around the town and countryside lately.

Jack, 20-year-old teller at the Victoria and Grey Trust Company limits at 151 Pinnacle St. and while he normally drives a more up-to-date model, first came across the Model-T while driving through Northport last year. He saw the jalopy outside a farmhouse but found its owner didn't want to sell.

However, Jack, who always had a penchant for old cars, (a few years ago he unearthed a 1931 Model-A Ford and sold it some time ago) called again this spring and found the owner in a better frame of mind. Jack made the purchase.

"It would run," he said, "but the rad was shot and would not hold water. There were no brakes and the low gear was gone."

However some running repairs by Jack (and his uncle) a new (or should it be old) radiator unearthed in Nanapan, a sanding and paint job and the old bus was ready for the road.

MODEL SERENADE

However, whether the road was quite ready for the Model-T is a matter of conjecture. Comments from pedestrians and fellow drivers fly thick and fast around the Model-T. On one occasion entering a canteen, Jack was received

Weddings

STONE-FOSTER

White bows decorated the pews while gladioli and candles adorned the altar of Bridge Street United Church, Saturday, July 16, at three o'clock, when Barbara Lee Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster, and the late Mr. Foster, became the bride of Douglas Harold Stone, Niagara Falls, Ontario, son of Mr. T. Flanagan. The Rev. H. M. Davis, officiating. Mr. Alex Gordon rendered the organ music and Miss Helen Cook was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Douglas Redder, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white tulle with a pleated nylon skirt and matching bolero encrusted with beaded pearls. Her fingertip veil was caught to a stand-up headpiece trimmed with seed pearls. Pink ribbons adorned her hair.

The maid of honor, Miss Iris Foster, wore a yellow nylon gown having a wide skirt and a picture neckline with matching bolero. In her hair she wore a wreath of yellow flowers. The bridesmaid, Miss Dolores Foster, was attired in a mauve gown and a headpiece similar to that worn by the maid of honor.

Mr. Earl Stone, Toronto, was the groomsmen. The ushers were Mr. Douglas Soule, Belleville, and Mr. Reg Lowe, Stratford.

For the reception at Golden Acres, the bride's mother wore a navy blue dress and a white picture hat with a navy trim. Her corsage was of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother, wearing a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses, assisted her at the reception. White streamers, a white bell and mixed flowers decorated the room.

The bride chose a blue embroidered nylon dress and white accessories for the wedding trip to Lake Placid. A corsage of cornflowers and baby's breath completed her ensemble.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Out-of-town guests were from Pleton, Stratford, Woodstock, London, Toronto, Pontiac, Michigan, and Chicago, Illinois.

BAIRD-SARLES

White gladioli and chrysanthemums, interspersed with fern, formed the background for a wedding in Wellington United church, Saturday, July 23, at three o'clock when Fern Elaine Sarles, Wellington, daughter of Mrs. Roy M. Sarles and the late Dr. Sarles, was united in marriage to Dr. Ronald James Baird, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitney Baird. The Rev. J. U. Robbins officiated.

In marriage by her brother, Mr. Jon D. Sarles, the bride was attired in a portrait gown of white imported Maltese lace over white gingham with an underskirt of pale blue cotton satin. Her chapel of white and gingham petals held a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white Shasta daisies and stephanotis.

The bride's sister, Dr. Sally Ann Sarles, was maid of honor. Mrs. Richard Ball, Media, Pennsylvania, was bridesmaid. Both were gowned in cocktail length dresses of Wedgewood blue cotton satin with applied white lace.

DOWNY-BURRIS

Trinity United Church, Madoc, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, July 23, when the Rev. Alfred Poulter, assisted in marriage Erma Fay Burris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Burris, to Raymond Robert Downey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downey, Crookston.

The church was decorated with candelabra and two tall standards of pink and white gladioli.

Mr. Stanley Hawthorne presided at the organ while Mrs. Harold Simpson sang "Because." The Lord's Prayer and "Through the Years."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Swiss embroidered lace fashioned with bolero jacket and Queen Anne collar. The skirt fell softly in five tiers of Swiss lace from a point waistline. Her veil was of white illusion tulle. Her fingertip length, caught to a small halo, outlined with white veiling and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Joan Burris, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, trocked in a white length gown of turquoise nylon chiffon. Mrs. Ray Burris, sister-in-law of bride, and Miss Betty Widdis were bridesmaids. They also wore turquoise nylon chiffon gowns. The dresses were fashioned with a shirred bodice to pointed dropped waistline.

A reception was held at the bride's home on the lawn, where the groomsmen received, wearing a gown of tulle and tulle over tulle. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother also received, in a gown of navy sheer with lace inserts and pink accessories, wearing a corsage of pink and white roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Tweed, Norwood, Lakefield, Lindsay, Kingston, Carleton Place, Toronto, Brantford and Peterborough.

The couple left for a trip to the Laurentians. The bride chose a pale blue crystalite dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

On their return they will reside in Belleville.

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE W.I.

The July meeting of Uniondale West Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Maurice Mallory, 4th concession of Sidney, with 23 members, two visitors and several junior girls present. The meeting opened with the Institute Ode.

"A goodly thing it is to meet in friendship's bright light, Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet, Nor dims the radiant light, No unkind word our lips shall press, No envy sour the mind; But each shall seek the common weal, The good of all mankind."

The roll call was answered by a social custom of long ago. This was very interesting as corn husking, apple peeling and feather stripping, bees were all brought to light. The old custom of visiting neighbors was also mentioned.

Thank-you letters were read from various people and organizations.

A report on the District Annual was given by Mrs. Milton Grills. The District Annual delegates' expenses were paid as well as expenses of the drivers, who had taken members and visitors.

The Women's Institute will have a tent at the plowing match at Coe Hill in Bernard Hollinger's camp from August 4-7. This group hopes to send a representative.

Two songs from the new books under the leadership of Mrs. Milton Grills and pianist, Mrs. Avery Martyn, were sung. "Whistle Mary, Whistle" and "In Little Rally Song."

ORIGIN OF A PIN

Currents Events were given by Mrs. Ross Dufos. She presented a paper on the "Origin of a Pin." The old saying "Pin money," comes from long ago when the funds from selling pins were put aside for expenses. This origin of the pin, dates back when pins were made by hand from twisted wire. Mrs. Dufos had a collection of old hat pins, safety pins, straight pins, and old brooches, which were interesting to look at and also showed advances along that line. Mrs. Maurice Dufos read a paper on the "Safety Pin."

Mrs. Mallory was thanked for opening her home and refreshments were served by July hostesses.

The August meeting will be held

Vacation Not Always A Rest

By SHIRLEY AND BOB LOANE

(Q) "My doctor recommends I take a completely restful vacation. What would you suggest?" — F.J. M., Charlotte, N.C.

(A) Now, there's a question you could write a book about, let alone a column.

Far be it from us to tell anyone, least of all a physician, how to run his business. And for all we know you may, indeed, be so ill that it's best for you to do nothing but lie inert for at least weeks or a month.

Many people are told by their doctors to rest. But too many mistakenly interpret that as meaning total idleness, inactivity, except for eating and sleeping. Rare is the individual who is capable of turning off his mind and body like an electric switch. A n d still rarer would be the doctor who means for him to do just that.

As a matter of fact, some medical men today consider some sort of challenging, non-strenuous activity to be the healthiest form of therapy available. It represents a diversion from the day to day battle of life.

WHAT IS REST

What do we call a rest? Well, obviously it's a vacation not of the sort you might take if you were in robust health—sailing the Atlantic on a raft, entering the Pan-American road race, or skin diving for man-eating sharks.

But if you are in good health, what your doctor usually means when he urges you to unwind for a while is to do things that occupy your mind and body with pleasant amusements. He doesn't mean to take off from living for a while; he only wants to temporarily remove you from the exhausting cares of the world.

He could mean a spell of fishing, swimming or golf or skiing. These and similar sports are distractions which require some effort, but occupy your thoughts and muscles with the pursuit of a rewarding end. They offer none of the frustrations which are often encountered in the routine of living.

It could be a spell at a resort hotel—one of the really few ideal vacation spots with good food, good companions, and a sufficient variety of activities—from fencing to horseback riding, to satisfy a Middle East potentate.

Or it could be that long-postponed but much dreamed of trip to a far off place where everything is so different from home that the haunting ghosts of home problem.

MARSH HILL MISSION BAND

Marsh Hill Mission Band met in the Marsh Hill school with eight children, three mothers and their leader, Mrs. E. B. Finkle present.

Mrs. Finkle used as her theme, "Lo I am with you always even unto the ends of the world." After the singing of two children's hymns and prayer, the leader told the story, "This is a Picture of You."

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield then presided over the program. Scripture lesson was read by Marilyn Finkle.

Elsie Lindenfield read a story "I'm Out Yourself." Carol Lindenfield sang "When He Cometh."

Gwendolyn Detlor and Harold Finkle read a piece "He Cares For You."

The chapter from the study book, "The Harvest Festival," was given by Elsie Lindenfield.

Raymond Finkle then read "Summer."

Mrs. Lindenfield closed the meeting with prayer.

at Mrs. G. Bird's, 4th Concession of Sidney. Roll call will be "name a wonder drug." The convener, Mrs. Avery Martyn will give a paper on "Wonder Drugs—Can They Harm You?"

But whatever it is, it should have lots of sunshine, lots of sleep, and lots of interesting things to do. But if it's sheer inactivity your doctor wanted you to have, he'd probably make reservations for you in a sanitarium.

BEST TIME IN FLORIDA

(Q) "What's the best time to visit Miami and southern Florida outside of the expensive mid-winter seasons?" — M.M. Providence, R.I.

(A) We're not convinced, for one thing, that mid-winter is best, even though it is most expensive.

True, the contrast between northern weather and Florida weather is greatest that time of year but that doesn't mean it's always as warm as everyone would like it.

Our experience has been that perhaps only half the days during the winter are warm enough for swimming and sunning, and then for only a few hours (about 11 to 4) each day. Even when it's warm off the beach, a breeze puts a chill on the oceanfront.

May and June are generally delightful in southern Florida, steadily warm with just enough cooling breeze and cool nights. Mid-summer, though still cool at night, is quite warm off the beaches but no warmer than many a northern resort. September and October are almost as pleasant as May and June, but more inclined to be rainy as is November.

Yet the rates are at their lowest in Fall and Spring. While the public has been pretty well educated to the winter summer holiday, the other months still beggins.

(Q) "Are the twin-engine planes used by the airlines as safe as the four-engine ones?" A.O., Oklahoma City, Okla.

(A) That's a pretty academic question. Theoretically, probably so, but in practice there is probably far less trouble with the sturdy, dependable engines in the DC-3s, Convairs, and Martins than in the four-engine planes which, while equally dependable, have somewhat more heavy and demanding use made of them.

And, while the safety factor in numbers is greater in the four-engine plane, the twin-engine ones are used mostly on shorter, lower-altitude hops, which means they are always within minutes of an airport under any circumstances.

If two-engine planes were used on long over-water jumps like the big jobs, that might be a different basis for comparison and argument.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BE YOUR OWN MARRIAGE BROKER!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am wondering if it would be a wise move to seek the services of a marriage broker.

My age is 57, and I have never been married; have never, in fact, had any experience in courtship. I had a grade school education, seem to be fairly attractive to the opposite sex, but when the girls find that I haven't a ready "line," they hold back and act indifferent, and I am not one bit good at coaxing and persuading. I have an emotional block that is partly inheritance and partly a silly caution, and I have been trying for 21 years to find a remedy.

My reason for wanting to solicit the services of a marriage broker is that they might perhaps know of a worthy widow who would overlook my shyness and timidity if the broker, as a third party, explained my situation in the right light.

I can talk to a lady fairly well on most subjects, except anything that even borders on romance. Then I just collapse inside. — Mr. K.

Dear Mr. K.: I would advise against consulting a marriage broker.

There must be, I am sure, some such people who sincerely try to do an honest and helpful job of bringing together lonely men and women who might make happy marriages. On the other hand, you could easily fall into the hands of someone who simply introduces them through the mails bit or miss, and this might result in a disaster for you. Since I believe there are far better ways for men and women to meet new friends, and consequently have no dealings whatever with marriage brokers, I would not be in a position to refer you to a reliable one.

But there's no doubt in my mind that you can act successfully as your own marriage broker if you turn to the right sources. I think you are a little timid, and the first step toward winning this is to stop underrating yourself, as I can see you have been in the habit of doing. Your letter shows you to be a very intelligent man. It gives me the further impression that you are a kind one. Since intelligence, kindness, make a pretty unattractive combination, you have a real deal in your favor already. I will keep assuring yourself of this, instead of constantly telling yourself you are a poor figure. You will soon begin to have more confidence in yourself, which will be a big step in the right direction.

Second, I suspect that perhaps the reason you "collapse inside" when a conversation borders on romance is because the idea has come up too soon in a friendship with a woman. You need to know a long time—sufficiently long so that you are at ease with her—before you're ready and able to talk of romance in connection with her. O don't let yourself be rushed. Moreover, the right woman won't try to rush you.

And the I suggest that you start going places where you will likely meet this right sort of woman. You belong to a church, don't you? There are clubs and other kinds of social meetings where both men and women share interesting and wholesome activities. If you don't belong to any church, look around you one which does have such good opportunities and go there.

Agos go to the YMCA in your city have a talk with one of the men on the staff. Tell him your problem frankly, and ask him to suggest some activities that the Y offers which would bring you in touch with people of your own age group.

Yomight, also, ally yourself with the group in the community which works with young people—the Scouts, for example. If you're to become a leader of one of these groups, you'll be always greatly needed—you will naturally get to know many of the boys and girls who know! One of the boys might have a sweet mother!

You give these suggestions a try? Then let me know how you make out? I'm sure you'll find them helpful. If you give them a fair trial—and I'm sure you will eventually find the kind of happiness you want if you give yourself a chance, too.

Mother's Helper

WHEN your child must take medicine which has an unpleasant taste, give him a piece of ice to rub on his tongue before the dose is down. And if you keep the medicine in the refrigerator, there'll be less taste and odor, too.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

SUNSHINE—BOON OR BLIGHT?

Are you one of those women who scoffs at the fact that sunshine is the greatest tonic in the world?

You are inclined to doubt the efficacy of the "tonic" just because you personally suffer from sunburned skin and hair—but especially the latter? If so, the fault may be largely your own. For sunshine is a tonic. Taken in moderate doses, it revitalizes the body, provides the vitamin D so necessary to good health and, besides, gives the spirits a terrific boost.

Over exposure to sunshine, however, can be just as harmful as exposure to sunlight may cause the hair itself to become brittle and dry and the ends to split. It may also cause streaks in the hair coloring.

If you keep your scalp and hair in healthy condition, however, and are careful to avoid overexposure, there is no reason in the world why hair should not be as lovely in the summertime as it is in winter. As a matter of fact, you can use the "great outdoors" as a real beauty parlor if you go about it the right way.

After a swim at the beach, or even in your own backyard or on your terrace, you can take the steps that will insure lovely, lustrous hair all year round. Start with your shampoo, of course. If you've been swimming in salt water, don't run a quick shower over your head and think that you've gotten all the drying salt out of it. Bring your shampoo agent to the beach with you and, after your shower, give yourself a real shampoo. It won't take long and you'll be sure your hair is thoroughly clean.

After the shampoo, towel your locks briskly. Then go out into the sunshine again and give it a thorough brushing in the open air. The best brush to use for drying purposes is a spiral bristle comb made of durable nylon. Such a brush, with its crimped bristles, does an especially good job of removing every single drop of water.

When the hair is almost dry finish up by stroking brilliantine on the ends and then set in pin curls and complete the drying outdoors. It will dry quickly and safely. During exposure to sunlight at any time, in fact, it's a good idea to use brilliantine on the hair, for it guards the ends against drying out and splitting and prevents your wave from becoming unruly.

When you give yourself an "outdoor shampoo" at home—in the backyard, for instance—you can also give your combs and brushes a treat. Of course you wash them when you wash your hair, so give them their place in the sun, too.

When you give these suggestions a try? Then let me know how you make out? I'm sure you'll find them helpful. If you give them a fair trial—and I'm sure you will eventually find the kind of happiness you want if you give yourself a chance, too.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

We, your readers, hope that by this time you will have been returned from your trip and that you will have memories of a lovely time—can you enlarge your scope for a moment to help me with the following problem, which I know is not of your line, but not out of your ability to answer, seasoned traveller that you are. I expect to attend a convention in Toronto. . . will be billeted at a hotel two blocks from Maple Leaf Gardens, where I expect to be rooming with another delegate, so far a stranger. My problem is that I have never stayed in a hotel (this will be for six days) and wondered if I should tip as an individual or as a group. . . please give me all necessary information, as I am "green". . . I do not expect I will be having meals there, except possibly breakfast, as the convention program includes several luncheons and banquets. — Polly J.

ANSWER:

It sounds as if you are going to have a grand time. Polly. The tipping is quite simple. Pay 10 to 15 per cent for services involving a charge (taxi, meals, etc.). The same when you are checking out. If your roommate checks out with you and the boy can manage your luggage in one trip, pool your tip but make it larger than for one person.

QUESTION:

I would be grateful if you could give a recipe for cherry preserves and jam from sour cherries without pectin.—Mrs. Lilly R.

ANSWER:

CHERRY PRESERVES
Weigh 3 lbs. sour red cherries after they are stemmed. Wash and stone them. Gently bring to boiling point, stirring frequently. Slowly add 3 lbs. sugar, stirring. Stand off heat for 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Return to heat and boil vigorously five minutes. Pour into sterile jars and seal.

Lilly you can't make cherry jam without pectin. At one time I used to make it adding my own home made pectin from green apples but this is an involved process. I think you would prefer this recipe.

CHERRY JAM

Pectin is necessary to make cherry jam "gel" for this fruit has precious little natural pectin in it. Wash, stem and pit sour cherries. You should have 2 1/2 lbs. Crush with potato masher. Add 1-2 cup water and bring slowly to boil, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add 7 1/2 measuring cups sugar and 1-4 teaspoon almond extract. Bring to hard boil for three minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add 1 bottle commercial pectin and stir for 5 minutes with the same sterile spoon. Pour into sterile jars or jelly glasses, covering at once with new hot paraffin, adding second coating when cold.

QUESTION:

Thank you for your answer to my letter regarding the sour taste in rye bread. Mine is now nice and sour but it is too light in color. Could you send me your recipe for European Rye Bread? My husband grabs the financial page when the paper comes and I snatch your section! —"Prissie".

ANSWER:

Golly I hope the day never dawns when my stuff's on the back of the financial page! Just use dark molasses instead of sugar in your sour rye bread recipe to make the loaf dark and you will have what is known as Bohemian Rye.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ON EATING STRAWBERRIES WITH STEMS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last Sunday I was invited to luncheon by a charming couple. I met while I was on a cruise last April. It was a very "stylish" occasion, and I wanted to be on my best behaviour. But I was almost thrown by the way strawberries (the largest I've ever seen) were served—whole, with their stems on, and in the center of each plate with the strawberries, a little mound of powdered sugar. So I'll be sure on my next encounter with this service, please tell me the correct way to eat strawberries.

The hostess, however, by the stem . . . dip it in the powdered sugar on the plate . . . then, holding the stem in your fingers, eat the strawberry in one or two bites perhaps two or three bites for the super-size strawberries! When you have eaten a strawberry, put the stem toward the edge of the plate, and "proceed as above" with the next strawberry.

IMPORTANT DECISION ON WEDDING GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: A serious problem has come up in our family and I do hope you can correct it, and will tell us which of us is wrong. My daughter is to be an attendant for my husband's sister, who is to be married quite soon. The question is should I, the bride-to-be, have invited my family (my parents and my brothers) to the wedding. Since she has invited the in-laws of her sisters and another brother, their sisters-in-law, brothers-in-law, mother and grandmother, I felt that my family should be invited also. Since she is to leave for the church from my home, and since they expect me to help in every way possible with the serving and so forth, do you think it was proper for them to invite two sides and disregard our side? I don't think it was fair, and I told her so. I also told her that I felt that since my family wasn't good enough to be invited to attend the wedding, that I wouldn't attend either. So she told me it was up to me. Please tell me if I was right or wrong. — Reader

At this late date with the wedding so soon, it is not so much a question whether you were right or wrong, but whether you were wise or unwise to express your criticism about the invitations. It won't do you very much good to convince yourself that you were right and to be told that you were right, if this means that every contact you have or might have with the wedding will go wrong. In the first place, whether we agree or disagree with the plans of the bride and her family as to the sending of the wedding invitations, we are expected to accept the fact that it is their privilege to invite only those whom they wish to invite. Since you would not accept this fact, and since your sister-in-law would not adjust her invitation-plan according to your expressed wish, had you squarably "up to you" whether or not you attend the wedding, obviously you are the one who must make the next decision, and do it quickly.

If you continue to refuse to have anything to do with the wedding, you must face the present complications as far as your husband and his family are concerned, and the unhappiness you will be causing your daughter in her experience as attendant, a particularly happy one. And there will be, of course, family complications in the future. It's "up to you" to lift these shadows. So I urge you, very seriously, to get busy at once and ask your sister-in-law to forgive and forget your hasty criticism, ask her if she will please allow you to help the serving and other procedures, and go along as much as possible as before. If you can get things back on an even keel, of course you'll make your husband happier about his family's plans, your daughter happier as the bride's attendant . . . and you'll make yourself happier when you clear away the clouds now and for the future. God bless you and guide you.

Canada, US Power Squadrons Week-Long Golf Rendezvous Here in Biggest Meet in Nautical History

The Bay of Quinte off the yacht club that bears its name, will be the show-window for the largest assembly of powered craft ever seen here from August 2 to August 5 inclusive.

It is estimated that upwards of 100 craft representative of yacht clubs from the length of Lake Ontario and other points will anchor here on the first of August.

The American boats represent District No. 6 of the USSS which takes in the entire south shore of Lake Ontario.

Clubs represented here will include the RCYC, National, and Queen City of Toronto; Wilson, N. York, and Port Credit, Hamilton, Detroit, Rochester, Syracuse, Clayton, N.Y., Alexandria Bay, N.Y., Montreal, Ottawa, Port Dalhousie, Watertown and Belleville.

The cruise and rendezvous is said by officials of both power squadrons to be the greatest in their history. Nothing like it has ever taken place before.

But there is more to it, than cruising, the rendezvous and the attendant social events. Some 75 craft will participate in a predicted log race, and piloting contests. Numerous trophies will be presented to the winners.

ONE OF TWO

The rendezvous is one of two slated for the respective power squadrons during the week-end in August. The Belleville rendezvous has been organized and will be run by the Canadian Power Squadron and Chief Commander W. E. Thompson, J. N. (Junior) navigator will take command of the fleet.

The second rendezvous slated for August 7 at Macdonald Island will be organized and run by District 6 United States Power Squadron. District Commander Mark Russell will be in command. Civic and political figures from each side of the border are assisting to make the cruise here a success and doubtless will be in attendance.

Five main water events will take up the five-day sail here. A curtain-raiser on August 2, will be a long-distance predicted log race for the National Yacht Club.

Besides Canadian and United States powerboat squadrons this will be open to members of the Lake Yacht Racing Association. The same evening will qualify for the Gold Cup regatta to be held on August 4.

August 4 will see the main event of the entire regatta when powerboats from the United States District 6 and Canadian squadrons will compete for the VanValkenburg trophy.

Those not qualifying for the VanValkenburg piloting contest will have a chance to show their prowess the next day in a regatta. A piloting contest will have the water all to themselves the last day of the big event when they will match skills in contesting the Claydon trophy.

Among these races, as already will have seemed apparent by the titles dubbed on them, are no business of skippers pitted against an attempt to beat the clock. Where they differ from the usual run-of-the-mill water courses is that they are more tests of navigational skill than an all-out battle against the time element.

Aussie Davis Cup Team Game Away From North American Zone Final

By HENDERSON WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The team from Down Under is on top today with a two-match lead over Canada's Davis Cup squad and a chance to sew up the North American zone final in a doubles fixture starting at 2:30 p.m. EDT.

The Australian doubles combination of Lew Hoad and Rex Hartwig is scheduled to face Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto. Davis Cup Rules permit that doubles entries may be switched until two hours before match time, but no changes are likely.

The Aussies chalked up their two-match lead Friday when Hartwig beat Lorne MacIntyre in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2, while Hoad defeated Bedard 6-0, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.

CHANCE TO WIN

The Australians are considered a 5-1 sweep the rest of the day and will play three matches in the series, which finishes Sunday with two for each event.

Fontana and Bedard met Hartwig and Hoad in a doubles match at Queen's Club, London, England, earlier this year. The Australians won 6-3, 6-4.

"We never even broke their nerve," said Fontana in an interview, "but we will this time if Union."

This follows the principles of all chartered power squadrons, both here and in the United States. Idea of the power squadron is to increase navigational knowledge of boat boating enthusiasts and by so doing increasing the measure of safety upon the water. Through the winter, when boating enthusiasts can only look on from the shore, members of the power squadron fraternities are assiduously studying navigational techniques, polishing their skill in their craft and seeking to their store of knowledge on anything from engine maintenance to piloting.

As chief commander Bill Thompson himself, once put it over the banquet table at a recent CPS meeting here: "Sailors sit about all winter and talk about boating. Why shouldn't they learn more about it instead?"

Over the next week, Belleville and other residents along the Bay of Quinte will have an opportunity to study at first hand the results of long winter cramming.

But there is more to the fruit of months of organizational activity by a select committee of locals drawn from the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron. Responsible for guiding the organization of the regatta is the local committee, headed by the regatta committee, which has been the harbor commission and city officials.

Elwood Wickerson, commodore of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, Jan Morch, past commander of the squadron; Freeman Burrows and Robert Boyce, junior pilots and Mrs. Kay Smith, of the squadron. Smooth co-operation between the various bodies indirectly concerned with the regatta has been the savior for the headaches in setting up this event. Among others highly spoken of by the organizing committee have been the harbor commission and city officials.

LADIES HELP

A timely assist from the distaff side of the squadron, known as the Ladies' Auxiliary, is helping to make the edge of the regatta the most important point in the whole setup—provisioning of food to the anchored families. They will handle all orders for food, see to its purchase and its delivery to the right parties.

Two fuel pumps at the Goyer and Wills-Marina harbor stations will keep the boats gassed while a tanker will stand by to ensure the flow is kept up.

Water at last this week, has been laid in the yacht club quarters, thus providing the fleets and visitors with a handy, metering supply of fuel that will be available to all the boats.

The social functions include a cocktail party, smorgasbord and the usual plethora of convivial lunches and dinners. Probably most outstanding of all these will be the cruise dinner at the yacht club August 6th.

Withal, then, it looks like an exciting sail ahead for the district's boating men, in particular for the local power squadron, who despite all its emphasis on keeping incidents off the water, seems intent on one big splash in the Bay of Quinte this year.

Among the top men attending will have seemed apparent by the titles dubbed on them, are no business of skippers pitted against an attempt to beat the clock. Where they differ from the usual run-of-the-mill water courses is that they are more tests of navigational skill than an all-out battle against the time element.

NOT THEIR BEST

Harry Hopman, captain of the Australian squad, said after the matches that neither Hartwig nor Roswell played their best tennis.

Today's match will be followed by an exhibition doubles contest, Main and Henri Rochon, fourth member of the Canadian team, will go against Australians Neale Fraser and Ashley Cooper.

Main is slated to meet Roswell and Bedard to face Hartwig in the final. The Canadian entries may be changed if the Aussies win the tie today.

Rochon, who has played only in exhibitions so far, would probably replace either Main or Bedard.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (CP)—Vince Mizra, former line man with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four, has been named as coach of the Port Colborne Lakers in the intermediate Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Week-Long Golf Show Starts In Calgary

By PETER MURRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) — A seven-day golfing show which will see three titles decided gets under way at the Calgary Country Club today with the Canadian inter-provincial and junior championships.

Monday the 32 players competing in the Willingdon Cup match and the eight juniors will also start play in the week-long Canadian Amateur, a gruelling match-play event. A total of 122 players, including 14 from the U.S., have entered the Amateur.

Ontario and British Columbia were expected to be battling down to the wire today in the inter-provincial team competition. The eight four-man teams play 18 holes in the afternoon with total score deciding the winner.

PREDICTS LOW SCORES

Nick Westlock, dapper Windsor, Ont., star playing on his ninth Ontario Willingdon Cup squad, toured the rolling 6,300-yard course in a round of 66, says he expects Friday and predicted scores will be low.

"The team record of 578 should be broken and there's a good chance the individual mark will go too," Westlock said. "The low individual mark of 108, the low individual mark of 138 with Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, and Jimmy Robertson. The low team mark was set by B.C. in 1948 at Hamilton.

Playing with Westlock on the Ontario team are Joe Norman, Kitchener, and Gerry Magee, Toronto, and Dave Morland, North Bay.

Leafs Thump Columbus Jets; Kings Take Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Kazanski, 21-year-old shortstop, may not have been able to hit when he played for the Philadelphia Phillies, but he was the toast of Syracuse today.

Cot Deal of the Rochester Red Wings was giving Kazanski an intentional walk in the 11th inning Friday night when Ted reached out on the third wide pitch and slammed a single to left to score Bob Bowman from third base. The slick trick gave the surging Chiefs a 6-3 victory and cut fourth-place Rochester's margin over Syracuse to 2½ games in the International League.

Deal, pitching in relief, threw wild attempting to pick Bowman off first base, and the Chief outfielder raced to third. Jim Westlake was trying to get Kazanski on the mat when the native of Hamtramck, Mich., had other ideas.

LEAFS THUMP JETS

Toronto thumped the Columbus Jets 16-6 with a 17-hit assault and remained in first place a game and a half ahead of the idle Montreal Royals. Havana remained as hot as ever on the home grounds, taking a doubleheader from Richmond, 3-1 and 3-2.

The Maple Leafs had one big inning when 14 batters trooped to the plate and 10 runs scored off three Columbus hurlers. Lew Morlock batted in three runs with a homer and triple and Loren Babe and Lou Limmer each got four hits for Toronto.

Three Richmond errors in the first inning gave Havana two runs in the opener, and started the Cubans off to a big night. In the second game Corky Valentini pitched a five-hitter and Nino Escalera hit an inside the park homer in the third inning for the deciding run.

Arrange New Tournament For Harness Racing

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Roosevelt raceway, trying to find a pacer who can provide some competition for the outstanding Adios Harry and Adios Boy, both paces in the 1955 season, announced a $90,000 tournament described as the first of its kind in harness racing.

A field of 30 pacers will compete on three nights, with the best eight eliminations facing Adios Harry and Adios Boy. Both pacers have been under two minutes for a mile this year. The $25,000 tournament finale will be Aug. 13. Because of their 1955 records, both Adios Harry and Adios Boy are given byes into the final round.

The other pacers, the best three-year-olds and older horses available from all over the U.S., will start out Aug. 5 with three heats of 10 horses each competing for $22,500 in purses. The first six finishers in each heat will advance to the $20,000 semi-finals Aug. 9, which will consist of two heats of nine horses each.

Kelly's Sixth Singles Win Will Make Regatta History

By JACK SULLIVAN
PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (CP)

Three, that will be the number of times that John Kelly, a good-looking young sculler from Philadelphia, will set history on the old Welland canal today.

John, the most famous member of the family until his sister Grace entered the movies, is practically a clinch to win his third championship singles in the Royal Canadian Henley regatta. He enters the race a five-time winner, equalling the record set by Joe Laing of the Montreal Grand Trunk Rowing Club in the 1890s and matched 25 years ago by Toronto's Bob Dibble.

Kelly, who has taken most of the world championships in his colorful career, including the world-famous Diamond Sculls, is scheduled to meet happy-go-lucky Bobby Williams of Hamilton Leanders and defending champion Pat Costello of Detroit Boat Club and probably place the Association Singles Friday.

The Philadelphia has shown his superiority over these two scullers previously in Canada and the United States. Williams has been his most persistent opponent, finishing in the runner-up spot in three meetings—in 1950-51-52.

Kelly first won the championship sculls in 1945. He added titles in 1946-47, 1950 and 1953 and probably would have hit No. 6 long ago but duty in the U.S. armed forces interrupted his sculling career.

The championship singles is the co-feature of the final day's racing with the senior eights for the Ned Hanlan Memorial Trophy.

But the main interest, from a Canadian standpoint, centres on the regatta highlight at stake in the afternoon's 15 finals. Unless the experts are all wrong in their calculations, the Vons whopped the Dons and the Buns in a furious fiesta in Memorial Arena last night.

The Bavarian bulldozers are a pair of unappreciative cusses, to say the least. Last week, being strangers in a strange land, they won the sympathies of a soft-hearted Bunny Dunlop, who helped them no end to attain their first victory here.

Last night "Wiss Hoppen" the varieties deliberated about the fact that fed 'em in a moment of misplaced sympathy.

Von Schober and Von Erich wasted no time. Bunny with side-kick Joe over Von Erich, scarcely touched foot on the mat than a hamlike Heinle hand pushed in the Dunlopian puss.

Bunny hit the hemp like a pole-dunked fist. The Vons used him like a football. The Vons used him like a football. The Vons used him like a football.

Now this did not sit very well with the loyal opposition, the Kalkmoff brothers who up to last week topped the hate parade here. Outweighed, the whiskered Dons looked small against the bulky Vons, but they didn't lack any thing else. At one time Karol scooped brother Ivan when his windmill swing whizzed past one of the sauerkraut fans.

They tore into the big fomen and a little over four minutes had gone before there was a flurry of legs and arms in ring centre. Down went the refs and up popped the Dons with the first win of the night.

But these Vons were not licked yet. They brought out the full fury of their power in the second fly and tossed Don Buns and Joe around the ring, willy-nilly. Von Erich, still larked at Bunny charged the round official not a few times but Bunny had not forgotten his old wrestling tricks. He merely stepped aside and on two occasions heaved the onrushing Heinle neatly over his back. The crowd howled.

But the Vons were out for "blood" and they soon got it. They tipped into the bearded bucker-oo with gay abandon, and hurled them out of the ring. Note his Schober and Von Erich started a Russian stockpile along the western ropes. He flattened Karol or it was Ivan neatly on the canvas. Von Erich approved his two of the ropes and crash-landed with both knees on the back of the prone Ruskys. That was it, kiddies.

They practically repeated the process in the third stanza getting in several licks at the referees. Karol was in approved position now ready to start his downsings. His hands are fully cocked and he won't uncock them and pour them into the swing until they are hip high. Note his knees are horizontal. Your hands should not reach a fully cocked position until you are at the top of your backswing. If you cock your arms before that point it is almost impossible to resist the temptation to uncock them as you start down. If you do that you are wasting the power they add in the Valses and not the ball where it contributes to distance, timing and accuracy.

Pt. Anne Rallies To Defeat Madoc 12-10

By GARRY ALEXANDER
The Point Anne Cementmen staged a terrific comeback after trailing 10-1 last night to shade Madoc 12-10 and take over first place in the Belleville and District Softball League. This was their final league game, leaving them with a 13-2 record, one half game in front of the Orfuns who have one remaining game.

Last night's battle was one of home runs as Harry Brown and Fred Nickle of Madoc pounded the batters, Brown's a base-loaded effort while Bob Hull, Pat Maracle and Pat Gilmore homered for the winners, Hull's also with the sacks filled.

Madoc got to Buck Burshaw of the Madoc-Hamilton Cementmen for four markers in the first and added three more off Hull before the inning ended for a 7-0 margin. They picked up three more in the third for a 10-1 lead but the power-packed Orfuns got to Schofield for two points in the fourth, four in the fifth and went ahead 11-0 with three in the sixth.

Madoc's comeback was a surprise. They added an insurance tally in the seventh when visitors were forty-five minutes late arriving and only 7½ innings were completed before darkness halted activities.

Tommy Pedder To Swim In Field of 29

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP)—Twenty-nine swimmers, including seven from Canada, are scheduled to compete in a 26-mile swim around this island resort Monday.

Prizes for the event total $11,900, with the winner receiving $5,000.

Heading the entry list of 21 men and eight women is 31-year-old Tom Park, formerly of Hamilton, Ont., winner of the first annual round-the-island swim here last year. Park, who now lives in Lakeview Calif., covered the distance last year in nine hours, 22 minutes.

Doreen George, 15-year-old miss from Humber Summit, Ont., is the youngest entrant.

Other Canadians who plan to compete are Cliff Lumsden, Harry Bryant and John Jarrold of Toronto, John La Carriere and Lies Poir of Montreal and Tommy Pedder of Belleville, Ont.

Notice in the picture that as you start your backswing the left knee bends and the left foot rises to keep both knees in the same horizontal plane. No dipping of the left knee! That will cause a left side sag. Then, as you swing, the right knee should not reach a fully cocked position until you are at the top of your backswing. If you cock your arms before that point it is almost impossible to resist the temptation to uncock them as you start down. If you do that you are wasting the power they add in the Valses and not the ball where it contributes to distance, timing and accuracy.

BRANTFORD (CP)—St. Thomas Elgins strengthened their grip on third place here Friday night when they outslugged Brantford Red Sox for a 14-9 win in an Intercounty senior baseball league game.

The Elkins, who enjoyed a 13-0 lead in the fourth inning, outslug the Red Sox 14-9 while the Red Sox had a two-run homer for St. Thomas, Harold Bishop homered with the bases empty and Stan Bread hit a round-tripper with two mates aboard for a 14-9 win in an Intercounty senior baseball league game.

Minor Baseball

The bantam playoffs got under way on two fronts last night, the Vics edging the Y's 6-5 while the Knights of Columbus trounced Point Anne 21-9. Both are best-of-three semi-finals for the city title.

The Vics won their game in dramatic fashion. Tied 3-3 at the end of the seventh frame, they were forced to play an extra inning and the Y's Men played two tallies in the top of the eighth to take a 5-3 lead before Vic Morris' crew rallied for three and the victory in the bottom of the inning. Pat Asseltine tolled on the hill.

AT THE CAPITOL — Van Heflin is a relentless manhunter in Universal-International's Technicolor adventure "Tanganyika," in which he is co-starred with Ruth Roman and Howard Duff, opening Sunday midnight after 12:05 at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program in Technicolor "So This Is Paris," starring Tony Curtis, Gene Nelson and Gloria De Haven. Special matinee Monday at 2:00 p.m.

for the winners, allowing six hits while W. Walte went the route for the losers, giving up five hits. The winners were outlived and made five errors while Y's Men bobbled only once.

Bowman sparked the victor's attack with two triples while Locke hit a brace of singles. Keller was the only loser with two hits, one a double while Davis hammered a triple.

The K. C.'s scored nine runs in the third frame to overcome a 7-3 deficit and went on from there to win going away.

Duffy Folwell hurled for the winners, stopping Point Anne on three safe blows, fanning five but walking 13 to account for most of the loser's tallies. Jim Cannon went the distance in defeat, touched for nine safeties, whiffing eight. He was also wild, issuing 16 free passes.

Larry Soden of the K. C.'s smashed a grand-slam homer in the big third stanza. Pointer claimed two hits, one a double while Moore tripled and doubles went to Casey, Soden and Cook. Garry Hull, Art Whitehead and Jim Cannon each hit a single in a losing cause.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)

Five major planets, favorably aspected now, stimulate good intentions and good deeds. Creditable performance and high ambitions bring lasting achievement.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)

This day's aspects principally favor coordinated effort with family, friends. Group and civic matters, relaxation, if not too strenuous, in order. Follow honest ambitions.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)

Don't proceed without some point or goal. Misdirected effort wastes time and energy. Gains possible through relations, friends. Immediate duties should be tackled first. Move calmly.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)

Irritating tendencies must not catch you off guard. You have a fine head on your shoulders, use it to prime advantage. Keep unruly emotions under control and you can accomplish much. Courage!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)

Be ready to seize opportunity when it is presented. Your innate ability, properly directed, can do much to help you to well planned objectives. Heart interests uncertain. Avoid extremes.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)

Try to promote your personal needs, important interests, social activities. Well diversified activities will go far in producing a day of accomplishment in both business and home affairs.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)

Take careful advantage of not-too-invigorating rays. Tend to items you have put off. Say to yourself you will finish the week with a bang, then get a fresh outlook for the next.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)

Don't start off wrong by being too forceful. Note which way the "wind is blowing," then trim your sails and head directly toward your goal. Experience plus diplomacy big aids.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)

Benefic aspects in general but do not be foolhardy about money matters. Look before you leap at that enticing proposition. Analyze, evaluate objectively for best results.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)

If possible plan for a day with family and friends. Do something different. Indulge a change from normal routine. One caution: don't overdo physically. Heart interests prominent this p.m.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)

Friendly vibrations most of the day. Opportunity for fine gains through thoughtfully channelled effort, purposeful projects. Be a live wire without being an "overheated" one. Good going!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)

Be confident in what you do, decisive in action. Wholesome activities, social and civic affairs, recreational matters are in the forefront. You are smart; BE smart.

YOU BORN TODAY:

Few people embody more vigor and enthusiasm for life than you. Born under Leo, you are lion-hearted, will fight fiercely for rights, friends, and as fiercely against one who opposes you at the "wrong moment." Be careful of temper, and don't overindulge in the foods or liquids you enjoy. Let your great energy be spent on worthy causes. Reason out your difficulties, especially with loved ones, associates. Have only high-principled companions and enjoy the company of children — a tonic for all. Pray daily. Your progressive idealism is strong. Don't fall into any indolent moods. Birthdate of Henry Ford, Amer. manufacturer of motor cars.

Cuthbert said Munro, who since he has announced he has resigned from the Toronto tabloid, effective Aug. 7, told the detective "these papers have got you right. He reminded Cuthbert of the '1949 affairs."

"Let you're stuck. You're in trouble. You've got one of three choices. You can blow your bloody brains out, or you can go to jail, or you can see the right party now."

"I asked him who he meant," Cuthbert said.

SHOULD SEE LAWYER

Munro suggested, Cuthbert said, that he should see the reporter's lawyer, "and make out an affidavit if you wish."

"He said the lawyer, Neil Fleishman, was working with him for the attorney-general. It had to be done within an hour."

Mr. Fleishman is counsel for Flash, Munro and his recent bodyguard, former detective Jack Whelan, brother of Supt. Whelan. Cuthbert said Munro also told him "that he was working for Flash, a Vancouver newspaper - The Province I think - and for the attorney-general."

Munro resigned from The Province last March before going to Flash.

Cuthbert said Munro planned to fly the papers to Victoria the night of the interview. "Nobody else is going to get them. Nothing will interfere with all my work," he quoted Munro as saying.

Before leaving, Cuthbert said the

WHO CAN DO IT?

Scientists who joined Hagerty at the press conference said the sphere's travels above the atmosphere might provide information useful in improving weather forecasting and radio transmission, among other things.

They expressed hope the project would yield also a wealth of highly technical data on cosmic rays, the sun's heat, distance measuring and other subjects.

The two science groups said in a joint statement that it could indicate the difficulties and conditions to be met "if the day comes when man goes beyond the earth's atmosphere in his travels."

But that is for the future. First must come the initial jump into space by a satellite which will carry no human and may have not even any scientific equipment in it.

Two Veteran Meteorologists Have Great Confidence In Future Success of Rain Making

By JOE MACSWEEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The scholarly-looking man with the horn-rimmed spectacles, receiving his questioner with an earnest gaze and explained:

"Actually, we're not rain-makers. Rain or snow, Bernard A. Power, meteorologist, is convinced that what he makes has a great future. Rain-making, one of the world's newest professions, currently is rumpaging forest fires."

Mr. Power, 38, native of Montreal, N.B., is vice-president of Weather Engineering Corporation of Canada, of which Toronto-born Paul J. Denison, 33, is president.

"Everybody talks about the weather, but we're among the few who try to do something about it," said Mr. Denison with a smile.

Denison and Power, heading Canada's first and only firm of weather consultants, were interviewed at headquarters here, while they conducted long-range operations against a forest fire near Baie Comeau, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river.

They arranged, meanwhile, a gas-filled snow machine in a deep freeze to show how the operation works. Silver Oxide, ignited in a "breathcloud," caused a tiny snowfall.

U.S. WILL BUILD

Scientists who joined Hagerty at the press conference said the sphere's travels above the atmosphere might provide information useful in improving weather forecasting and radio transmission, among other things.

They expressed hope the project would yield also a wealth of highly technical data on cosmic rays, the sun's heat, distance measuring and other subjects.

The two science groups said in a joint statement that it could indicate the difficulties and conditions to be met "if the day comes when man goes beyond the earth's atmosphere in his travels."

But that is for the future. First must come the initial jump into space by a satellite which will carry no human and may have not even any scientific equipment in it.

MULTI-STAGE ROCKET

The first step will be design development, then the assignment of contracts to firms to fabricate the components of the multi-stage rocket to propel the satellite to its track in the sky.

Meanwhile, the scientists and industry will team up to produce a satellite ball that will produce the terrific heat produced by friction of the atmosphere while en route to empty space.

Dr. Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation said two things: "We regard it as feasible" and "we can put a time schedule on it—1957-58."

The cost? Some guessed $10,000,000, others up to $20,000,000. A whole series of new problems is looming to confront the satellite keepers.

How will scientists keep track of so small an object so far away? Vastly improved radar will be relied on heavily. But the scientists also expect to watch the satellite visually with the unaided eye under good conditions, by telescope at other times.

The satellite presumably will be covered with a surface highly reflective for both radar impulse and light. At altitudes of 200 or 300 miles the bright metal surface is expected to have a light-reflecting factor twice that of the moon.

The Soviet Union said last April that her scientists were working on a space laboratory which would revolve around the earth as a satellite.

A Moscow radio broadcast heard April 16 said the Soviet Union had established a commission to "coordinate work on problems of mastering cosmic space."

Two Veteran Meteorologists Have Great Confidence In Future Success of Rain Making

MONTREAL (CP) — The scholarly-looking man with the horn-rimmed spectacles, receiving his questioner with an earnest gaze and explained:

They arranged, meanwhile, a gas-filled snow machine in a deep freeze to show how the operation works. Silver Oxide, ignited in a "breathcloud," caused a tiny snowfall.

VETERAN METEOROLOGISTS

Denison and Power, both veteran meteorologists, more than 10 years' service with the meteorological service of Canada, are men of serious and scientific outlook, working with masses of weather information from Europe to Siberia.

Power, with service in Summerside, P.E.I., Moncton, Greenwood, N.S., Goose Bay, Labrador, Ottawa, Vancouver, and nearby Dorval, now is meteorological adviser to the radar weather research group.

Mr. Denison, who holds a master's degree in meteorology, served at Gander, Goose Bay, Dorval, Quebec City and Montreal, Que.

"The term rain-making can be misleading," said Mr. Denison. "It's not so much that we can produce rainfall, but mostly we aim to accentuate an existing rainfall."

"Take the Baie Comeau operation. There we had a number of outbreaks of rain, some 500 acres of spruce and pine."

"We placed 22 generators in the district, strategically situated to take advantage of air currents. We studied weather data for the last 30 years to form an opinion of what storm hit, then expected in the region."

CLOUDS TREATED

"As storm clouds moved into the area, coke soaked in silver oxide was fed into forge-like furnaces at the generators, resulting in what could be called a colorless dust plume rising into the storm cloud."

"This dust—many millions of particles—provided nuclei on which snow crystals formed, turning to rain as they fell."

"Any kind of dust particles has the same effect to some extent. In countless experiments have shown silver oxide to be the most efficient operating at 20 degrees higher temperatures than other types."

"During one rainfall near Baie Comeau, the first 2 1/2 months there was a fall of 1.3 inches in the target district, compared with 25 in the neighboring areas. There's no doubt in our minds that the seeding accounted for most of this extra rain—probably all of it."

"But we couldn't have made rain fall if the storm hadn't come. We can't make clouds in the sky the way we made the breath cloud in the deep freeze."

90-DAY FORECAST

Employed in the fire-fighting by the Laurentian Forest Protective Association Limited, Denison and Power started the job in May, providing a 90-day weather forecast.

"Sharpening up" the long-range forecast as time went on, the firm eventually was providing daily and even hourly reports, enabling the fire-fighters to deploy efficiently.

"If a village is threatened—as was actually the case—it may be a matter of life and death, for instance, if an east wind rises," said Denison.

"We provide such specialized information. We don't believe in clients with data that doesn't need."

Weather engineering—which has numerous other tasks as well as "weather modification"—subscribes to the government meteorological service, receiving detailed information from around the globe. Weather information is normally exchanged freely among governments, even through the Iron curtain.

Denison said his firm, affiliated with Dr. Irving P. Rieck, Meteorological Consultant, Inc., Denver, Colo., and Water Resources Development Corp., Denver, is the only one of its kind in Canada although there are some 30 in the U.S.

WRDC had a "field headquarters" at Brandon, Man., in connection with experiments over the Prairies.

DISCOVERED IN 1947
Power said the theory of cloud seeding was discovered in 1947 by Vincent J. Schaefer of Schenectady, N.Y., a scientist conducting aircraft-experiments for the U.S. government. Cloud seeding first was done with aircraft, an inefficient system since planes had difficulty operating in suitable weather and also were limited in scope.

Clients of weather engineering vary widely in their needs, including a soft drink firm which wants to be forewarned of a heat spell, and an oil company equally interested in cold weather. Both must arrange for sudden distribution problems. A can manufacturer wants to know if crops will be good for the hand, a lawyer, suing the City of Montreal, called on the firm for evidence that a certain section of street was shaded—and icy—when his client fell and was injured.

Great strides had been made in the United States, where President Eisenhower appointed an advisory committee on weather modification 1 1/2 years ago. Hydro-electric facilities in dry regions—including Spain—had been assisted. Experiments in controlling hail and lightning storms had been started in the Pacific northeast—experiments of much interest in Canada's wheat provinces.

"Weather modification is the biggest research field in the world today—even bigger than power from atomic energy," said Denison. "You can't make crops grow with atomic power MARSH HILL Plastic Molding Topic Of Pine Grove W.I.

MARSH HILL.—The July meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Finkle and Mrs. Frank Finkle with 12 members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. Grace Bartindale, opened the meeting with the singing of the Institute Ode and all repeating the Mary Stewart collect in union.

The roll call was answered with "a recipe using a dairy product."

Members' attention was drawn to the Achievement Day of the Garden Clubs, August 12 in the Stirling Community hall.

A letter was read regarding the ACWV essay competition. Entry must be in not later than November 30.

Current Events were given by Mrs. Harry Coulter.

Mrs. Frank Finkle gave highlights from the Home and Country.

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield, Canadian Industries convener, presided over the program, which she opened with the singing of the Institute Rally song.

Mrs. Lindenfield gave a very interesting paper on the history of the Cobourg Plastic Molding Company of the Canadian General Electric.

All the company's plastic molding operations were carried on in Peterborough. In August, 1946, plans were made to build a new factory. A steady water supply and sewage disposal facilities were must. All these were found in Cobourg, which is located on the main line of the railway and on the lakeshore highway.

The molding of plastics is a relatively new industry. The various types of plastics fall into one of two types—these are thermoplastics and thermosetting plastics.

THERMOPLASTICS

Thermoplastics are those which, when subjected to heat, become viscous, and when cooled harden into the shape of the mold. If reheated they will once again melt and could be remolded into another shape. This process may be repeated time after time.

Thermosetting plastics are those which are brought to their plastic state under the influence of heat. But the heat also cures them so they will not become plastic again when heat is applied. The effect is similar to baking a cake—you can bake it, but you can't unbake it.

Some of the parts molded at Cobourg are: radio cabinets, telephone desk bases and hand sets, meter cases, wall plates, cigar boxes, typewriter knobs, lacing for summer shoes and handbags and vacuum cleaner tubes.

In some cases the mold from which the part is made is the property of the customer, and he lends it to the company for his order. In other cases the company must build the mold for the job.

MOLD MAKING IS EXACTING
Mold making is a very exacting job. Several kinds of steel are used and many precision machines shape them into the intricate machines required. Although the machines can cut steel to within one half of an inch, considerable handwork follows.

Mrs. Charles Ross and Mrs. Harold DeLor, each read an article on the Delora Smelting and Refining Company, which is building a new plant in Thurlow township.

Mrs. Lindenfield gave a humorous reading "Company on Sundays."

Mrs. Bartindale read "A New Cow", after which Mrs. Lindenfield conducted a contest "What City is It?"

After the singing of the National Anthem and the Institute grace, refreshments were served by the hostesses and the lunch committee. A social half hour was spent.

Stirling

study book which has been compiled by Miss Constance E. Wagner, a missionary to Trinidad.

Mrs. Don Donohoe read an article on prayer.

Miss Grace Heasman sang with Miss Gladys Bly as accompanist. Mrs. Alex Bush read an article on Trinidad. Miss Bly rendered several piano selections. Refreshments were served and a contest enjoyed.
